Reds In Viet Nam Ambush Convoy, Slay U.S. Captain

23 Others Killed In Furious Battle With Guerrillas

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Nearly 500 Communist guerriallas ambushed a government convoy 40 miles north of Saigon Saturday and killed a U.S. Army captain and 23 Vietnamese soldiers in a fierce battle that was over in minutes.

The captain was the seventh American serviceman killed in combat since December, when the United States began a massive support and training program here to save South Viet Nam from gradual Communist conquest. Sixteen other Americans have been killed in accidents.

The captain, whose name was not announced pending notification to his family, was traveling with a 19-vehicle convoy when it was attacked.

HIDDEN IN BUSHES

The Viet Cong guerrillas were hidden in dense bushes for more than a mile along the smooth, fairly straight road which runs 80 miles north from Saigon to the Cambodian border.

They disabled the leading vehicles with mines and riddled the rest of the convoy with heavy and light machine gun, recoilless rifle and mortar fire.

The 280-man convoy lost 20 wounded and four more missing, besides its 23 dead. A jeep was destroyed and two heavy trucks badly shot up.

Within an hour, an infantry group of 120 men arrived and two companies of paratroopers dropped on the scene but found only bloodstains and other signs of casulaties where the guerrillas had been. The attackers had carried off their dead and wounded.

Fanatic's Bomb Hits St. Peter's; Statue Damaged

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A "crazy fanatic" Saturday night exploded a plastic time bomb in St. Peter's Basilica after the huge church was closed to worshippers, causing slight damage but no injuries.

Pope John XXIII was informed of the blast and was expected to examine the damage Sunday. Vatican sources said the Pope was not alarmed over the incident. It was the fifth or sixth such bombing in the past 50 years.

Vatican officials said the explosion slightly damaged the base of a 17th century statue of Pope Clement X, who died in 1676. A group on the base on the statue, showing scenes from the year 1675, escaped harm.

ORGAN DAMAGED

Also slightly damaged was the modern frame of an organ put in the church in 1952 under the reign of Pope John's predecessor, Pope Pius XII. Experts will examine the organ to see if it was harmed.

Vatican officials said the bomber must have eluded the normal check of parcels made on all Basilica visitors. They said the chances of finding him were extremely small.

Residents of the Vatican city reported hearing a loud explosion from the Basilica, the largest Christian church in the world and the place where Pope John XXIII hold services.

The Basilica is famous for its many richly carved altars, statues, and other decorations, many of them centuries old.

The bomb, which exploded at 8:25 p.m. (3:25 p.m. EDT), damaged only the base of the tomb, one of the many of pontiffs in the Basilica.

The bomb went off one hour and 25 minutes after the Basilica was closed to the public.

A high Vatican source said the bomb blast "was obviously the work of some crazy fanatic."

He said the fact that it apparently was timed to go off after the Basilica was closed showed that it was not a serious attempt on church officials or worshippers.

$90,000 Fire Razes Plant Outside City

Finished Veneer Worth $18,000 Is Also Destroyed

Approximately $90,000 worth of plant and equipment were destroyed when an early morning blaze swept through the Louisiana Veneer Mill just outside West Monroe Saturday.

A fire was reported in the veneer mill, located on Valley Road along the banks of the Ouachita River, at 5:18 a.m. Trucks three and seven from the Monroe Fire Department rushed to the scene but were unable to get the fire under control before heavy damages were inflicted.

ESTIMATES LOSSES

O. E. Leehy, 923 Montgomery St., plant superintendent, said Saturday night that the plant was valued at around $100,000 and that approximately $90,000 was lost in plant and equipment. Leehy said that besides loss in the plant, around $18,000 worth of finished veneer was also destroyed.

He explained that the company had a large amount of veneer on hand because they had been unable to ship it out to companies who had employees on vacation.

Firemen battled the blazing inferno, shuttling trucks back and forth when one ran out of water. They had no water supply with which to work except that on the trucks themselves. The fire was brought under control and the trucks able to leave the scene around 8 a.m., but were recalled at 9 a.m.

A second fire had started blazing in a loaded boxcar near the plant. Firemen believed the second blaze was a result of internal combustion, caused by the intense heat from the first fire.

They shuttled the two boxcars down to the Illinois Central railroad crossing at Coleman Street

India Gets Small Win On Border

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India reported Saturday a 185-yard victory in her little cold war with Red China in the snow-crusted border Valley of Galwan.

The Defense Ministry announced that a force of about 400 Red Chinese soldiers which had faced an Indian post from east, west and south since Tuesday without firing a shot pulled back 200 yards.

The besiegers, since Tuesday, had crept at places to within 15 yards of the isolated outpost, reported manned by only about 40 Indian soldiers.

The creeping offensive resulted Friday in a sharp note to Peiping warning that the "menacing proximity to existing Indian posts in Ladakh may create a clash at any moment if not restrained."

The note was reported reinforced by a personal word from Prime Minister Nehru to Peiping's ambassador that the Indian garrison had orders to shoot if the Chinese came any closer.

"We hope the Communist Chinese will withdraw from Galwan Valley entirely and not just draw back 200 yards," said an official.

The Galwan Valley, three miles high in the poorly mapped Aghil-Karakoram offshoot of the Himalayas in the Ladakh area, is near the junction of the Kashmir, Tibet and Chinese Sinkiang borders.

India charges that Red China already has occupied 14,000 square miles of India's Ladakh, a huge promontory jutting between Sinkiang and Tibet, and that the latest incursion was even 10 miles west of a "claim line" in 1956 Red Chinese maps.

"Taking advantage of Indian friendship and the desolate nature of this region, the Chinese government since 1957 has secretly occupied Indian territory and surreptitiously cleared a road across it," an Indian note said Friday.

Latin Beauty Named Miss Universe '62

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Miss Norma Beatriz Nolan, of Argentina, a Latin beauty with Irish in her eyes, was chosen Saturday night as Miss Universe of 1962.

The jet black-haired model was picked from among a field of 15 international beauties by a panel of international judges and she hadn't expected the honor.

SPOILED HER PLANS

"I don't think I'll win," she said before stepping on stage. "All of the girls are prettier than I."

Her choice as Miss Universe undoubtedly spoiled her plans for Sunday. She had planned to spend it in bed.

She said it is not good to be thin like the traditional French mannequin.

"The woman who is a woman must be like Gina Lollobrigida," she said.

For herself, she is 5 feet 6, weighs 120 pounds, and curves from 35 to 25 and back to 36. The 24-year-old beauty is a granddaughter of an Irish farmer who migrated to Argentina.

Being chosen as Miss Universe means that Miss Nolan will spend the next year traveling thousands of miles throughout the world as an ambassador of good will. It also means thousands of dollars in income and scholarships.

The judges panel selected as her first runner-up Miss Anna Geirsdottir, a lightly freckled daughter of Iceland, who said now she wants "to sleep, sleep, sleep."

The second runner-up was Miss Anja Aulikki Jarvinen of Finland who carried a bicycle valve with her as she paraded her beauty Saturday night.

FIRST SIX MONTHS

City Crime Rate Shows Decrease

By SARAH LITTLE
World Staff Writer

Crime in Monroe for the first six months of the year registered an 18 per cent decrease over the same period last year, according to Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly.

In a report submitted by his department Saturday, Kelly pointed proudly to the record after noting that the FBI reports a three per cent increase nationwide in serious crimes for the first six months this year.

Kelly said that besides the decrease in crime rate, Monroe officers have also recovered a substantial amount more stolen property than was recovered from burglaries and thefts during the first half of last year.

Wth total value of stolen property set at $30,161, the department has recovered $22,609.96 of that, giving them a recovery percentage of 74.9 per cent.

COMPARISON

Last year, the department records showed value of stolen property to be $41,152.15 with $14,237.54 of that recovered and a percentage figure of recovery of 34.5 per cent.

The police chief also remarked that the penal farm seems to have helped cut down on the number of arrests for public drunkenness. In the first six months of 1961, 592 arrests were made on this charge. This year, only 378 arrests have been made for public drunkenness, making a 214-arrest drop.

The six months report made available included a city court fines assessed figure of $142,228 with a total of $92,213.50 of that collected. Those persons assessed fine, but unable to pay them, have to serve the time out in jail.

A breakdown of the crime report includes 196 felony crimes reported with 109 of the cases closed and 105 arrests made. Six murders and two manslaughter cases were committeed, with all of the cases closed and an arrest made in each instance.

The department showed two robberies committed and one of them closed with an arrest; 71 burglaries reported and 33 burglaries closed. Three burglaries

7 Cubans Describe Home Life

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Seven Cuban fishermen who spent eight days on a fishing boat in fleeing from Cuba said Saturday they left a land of hunger and idleness.

A Coast Guard vessel met their boat, which was low on fuel, at the mouth of the Mississippi River Friday night, and escorted the Cubans up the river to Venice. Border Patrol officials brought them to New Orleans.

The Cubans, from the fishing village of Batabano, about 50 miles south of Havana, left their families but did not hesitate in discussing conditions in Cuba and their reasons for leaving.

Jose Cortez, 29, who acted as spokesman, said the group left July 6 because "we don't like Fidel Castro, we didn't have anything to eat, we weren't able to work for ourselves and the Castro regime was doing nothing whatsoever for our families."

He said the seven hoped to go to Miami, Fla., to find fishing employment and, eventually, bring their families to live with them.

"We won't go back to Cuba until Castro leaves," Cortez said.

"Communism in Cuba has brought us nothing but hunger and idleness," Cortez said. "They take everything and give us nothing."

He said each family receives a monthly ration of food but that most of it is not fit to eat.

Second Atom Atmospheric Test Set Off

NEVADA TEST SITE, Nev. (UPI)—The second in a series of atmospheric nuclear explosions was detonated a few feet above the ground at this desert test site Saturday, sending a huge mushroom cloud spiraling at least 15,000 feet into the sky.

The low-yield nuclear weapon originally had been scheduled for firing a week ago by the Atomic Energy Commission and Department of Defense, but unpredictable desert winds forced a day-to-day postponement until Saturday.

MUSHROOM CLOUD

At exactly 2:30 p.m. an eerie yellow-gold flash several times brighter than daylight filled the sky for a 20-mile radius in the Frenchman Flat area of the test site as the device was detonated.

Several seconds later, a yellow-brown mushroom cloud billowed skyward. As it passed the 10,000-foot mark, it turned light pink and formed itself into the shape of a cotton candy cone. Then the bottom part of the cloud began turning brown with sand and debris as its cap soared higher and turned snow white, changing into the shape of a huge pinwheel about 10 miles across.

The big cloud was clearly visible in Las Vegas 65 miles away and, although frayed at the sides, was in evidence an hour after the detonation.

AFTER MASSIVE SEARCH

Chubby Toddler, 2, Denies Being Lost

MORRIS, Ill. (AP) — Chubby Lesa Shackelford, not yet 3, learned a new word Saturday—lost.

But the blue-eyed toddler who wandered more than 40 hours through Illinois' badlands shook her blonde head emphatically in denial that it applied to her.

Lesa left her farm home sometime Thursday afternoon. She turned up again Saturday in the small mining community of Coal City, about five miles away. In the interim, a full-fledged search, employing planes, bloodhounds, and as many as 500 hikers, failed to find her.

Esparva Vicenti, a worker for the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad, checking tracks of a little-used loop line through the mining area, found her late in the morning, rain-soaked and asleep beside a signal battery box at the edge of Coal City.

Lesa took off like a rabbit, and was gathered in by Mrs. Cecil Robinson who, with her husband, saw the incident from their home near the tracks.

"She was soaked to the skin," said Mrs. Robinson, "and pretty muddy."

Robinson ran for the town's rescue squad, and the little explorer was brought to the office of Dr. Roman P. Smyk who ordered her into Morris Community Hospital for examination.

The physician found her "in amazingly good condition." She showed the effects of mild exposure, numerous insect bites, a badly sunburned face and scratches on her arms and legs. Dr. Smyk ordered her held for observation a few days after noting a subnormal temperature, but said, "I foresee no complications."

Lesa, her mother, Inez, and her father, John, 43-year-old parents of seven other youngsters, were reunited in the hospital where the girl had just finished some vanilla cookies and chocolate milk.

No Relief Seen From Hot Spell

Residents of the Twin Cities and surrounding areas will continue to swelter today, with no relief from a prolonged hot spell sighted by the weatherman.

The forecast calls for clear to partly cloudy skies, with highs of 94 to 98 degrees in Monroe and vicinity.

A high of 95 was recorded at the FAA weather station at Selman Field Saturday after an overnight low of 75.

Hottest temperature reported Saturday was 105 at San Angelo, Tex., while San Francisco was the coolest with a high of 64.

STRANGE 380-FOOT CRAFT

Monkeys, Beetles Ride Balloon Aloft

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP)—Two monkeys, four hamsters, and a nosegay of flower beetles, riding in a strange balloon, 380 feet tall traveled slowly westward Saturday night over Canada's remote northern wilderness, proceeding toward a scientific team.

The flight at 128,000 feet exposed the monkeys and their friends to about 50 per cent of the primary cosmic ray radiation encountered in deep space. The object is to determine its effect on animals.

The balloon, followed by a tracking plane, approached James Bay early in the night. That is the southern arm of Hudson Bay, 650 miles west of Goose Bay, Labrador, where the craft was launched at 12:30 a.m. Friday.

It was flying north of the 53rd parallel and was to be met at times variously calculated from 45 to 54 hours of launching by a recovery plane at Edmonton, Alta., 2,000 miles west of its starting point.

The prevailing east-to-west wind was holding steady but it was decided to postpone until next week the launching of a second plastic balloon.

Observers at Ames Research Center here, headquarters for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration project, said communications are extremely difficult and that reports have been running about three hours late from the tracking plane.

A NASA spokesman said the balloon's speed had slowed in adverse air currents and that 54 hours to Edmonton was more likely.

Dr. Webb Haymaker head of the life sciences program at the Ames Research Center, and John Webster, NASA pilot, waiting at Edmonton for the balloon's appearance, will fly to recover the instruments and other payload from the balloon.

Cleveland's Mayor Gets Cabinet Post

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy ended his search Saturday for a top-flight administrator to head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare by handing the job to Cleveland's veteran mayor, Anthony J. Celebrezze, 51.

"It came as a great surprise to me," Celebrezze said in Cleveland.

It came also as a surprise to just about everyone else. Even Kennedy didn't know for sure until Saturday morning that Celebrezze was his man to succeed Araham A. Ribicoff, the first person named to his Cabinet and the first to resign.

GOOD ADMINISTRATION

Ribicoff, former governor of Connecticut, sent in his formal resignation Thursday to campaign for the Democratic Senate nomination in that state.

Associates of the President said a key factor in his choice of Celebrezze was the mayor's reputation as a good administrator.

Kennedy made up his mind to offer the job to Celebrezze only Friday. He reached the mayor, who was on a fishing trip to Canada, by telephone and told him he wanted him for the Cabinet vacancy.

Like many other husbands facing a problem, Celebrezze had to beg for time. He hurried back to Cleveland to talk it over with his wife. Before 9 a.m. Saturday the mayor phoned the President, who is spending the weekend on Cape Cod, to say he'd accept.

Celebrezze, now serving an unprecedented fifth term as Cleveland's mayor, is coming to Washington Tuesday for a conference with Kennedy.

Seaplane Kills Youth On Boat

FRANKLIN, La. (AP) — A seaplane landing on Bayou Teche Saturday struck an outboard motorboat and killed 16-year-old Jimmy Hall of Franklin, one of the two occupants.

The plane, property of the St. Mary Parish sheriff's department, was piloted by Clarence Blakesley, 43-year-old deputy. Blakesley and 14-year-old Milton B. Kidd III of Franklin, the other occupant of the boat, received minor injuries.

The pilot said he tried to take off again when he saw the boat but it was too late.

2 Killings Are Result Of Dispute

ST. FRANCIS, Kan. (AP) — A dispute over a property line erupted into a double killing Saturday on a farm 12 miles south of Bird City, Kan.

The gunshot victims were Fritz Kehlbeck, about 45, and his son Larry, 16.

Authorities arrested a bachelor farmer, Tolly D. Bolyard. They said his digging of a ditch between his place and the adjoining Kehlbeck farm was the immediate cause of the slayings in this extreme northwest corner of Kansas.

Dr. E. R. Cram, Cheyenne County coroner, said Bolyard, about 68, for three months had been digging a 300-yard-long ditch between the farms as a result of the long-standing dispute.

Saturday, Kehlbeck and his son started to fill the ditch with a scraper.

Bolyard appeared and the shootings followed. Kehlbeck was found dead at the scene, shot once in the stomach and twice in the head.

The coroner said the Kehlbeck boy tried to run away and that Bolyard drove after him with a truck, apparently knocked him down with the vehicle and then shot him in the head.

The boy's body was found about a quarter of a mile from where his father's body lay.

Bolyard was lodged in the county jail in St. Francis, about 15 miles west of Bird City.

Authorities had not yet filed any charges.

Robinson ran for the town's rescue squad, and the little explorer was brought to the office of Dr. Roman P. Smyk who ordered her into Morris Community Hospital for examination.

The physician found her "in amazingly good condition." She showed the effects of mild exposure, numerous insect bites, a badly sunburned face and scratches on her arms and legs. Dr. Smyk ordered her held for observation a few days after noting a subnormal temperature, but said, "I foresee no complications."

Lesa, her mother, Inez, and her father, John, 43-year-old parents of seven other youngsters, were reunited in the hospital where the girl had just finished some vanilla cookies and chocolate milk.

FIRST SIX MONTHS

City Crime Rate Shows Decrease

By SARAH LITTLE
World Staff Writer

Crime in Monroe for the first six months of the year registered an 18 per cent decrease over the same period last year, according to Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly.

In a report submitted by his department Saturday, Kelly pointed proudly to the record after noting that the FBI reports a three per cent increase nationwide in serious crimes for the first six months this year.

Kelly said that besides the decrease in crime rate, Monroe officers have also recovered a substantial amount more stolen property than was recovered from burglaries and thefts during the first half of last year.

Wth total value of stolen property set at $30,161, the department has recovered $22,609.96 of that, giving them a recovery percentage of 74.9 per cent.

COMPARISON

Last year, the department records showed value of stolen property to be $41,152.15 with $14,237.54 of that recovered and a percentage figure of recovery of 34.5 per cent.

The police chief also remarked that the penal farm seems to have helped cut down on the number of arrests for public drunkenness. In the first six months of 1961, 592 arrests were made on this charge. This year, only 378 arrests have been made for public drunkenness, making a 214-arrest drop.

The six months report made available included a city court fines assessed figure of $142,228 with a total of $92,213.50 of that collected. Those persons assessed fine, but unable to pay them, have to serve the time out in jail.

A breakdown of the crime report includes 196 felony crimes reported with 109 of the cases closed and 105 arrests made. Six murders and two manslaughter cases were committeed, with all of the cases closed and an arrest made in each instance.

The department showed two robberies committed and one of them closed with an arrest; 71 burglaries reported and 33 burglaries closed. Three burglaries

7 Cubans Describe Home Life

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Seven Cuban fishermen who spent eight days on a fishing boat in fleeing from Cuba said Saturday they left a land of hunger and idleness.

A Coast Guard vessel met their boat, which was low on fuel, at the mouth of the Mississippi River Friday night, and escorted the Cubans up the river to Venice. Border Patrol officials brought them to New Orleans.

The Cubans, from the fishing village of Batabano, about 50 miles south of Havana, left their families but did not hesitate in discussing conditions in Cuba and their reasons for leaving.

Jose Cortez, 29, who acted as spokesman, said the group left July 6 because "we don't like Fidel Castro, we didn't have anything to eat, we weren't able to work for ourselves and the Castro regime was doing nothing whatsoever for our families."

He said the seven hoped to go to Miami, Fla., to find fishing employment and, eventually, bring their families to live with them.

"We won't go back to Cuba until Castro leaves," Cortez said.

"Communism in Cuba has brought us nothing but hunger and idleness," Cortez said. "They take everything and give us nothing."

He said each family receives a monthly ration of food but that most of it is not fit to eat.

No Relief Seen From Hot Spell

Residents of the Twin Cities and surrounding areas will continue to swelter today, with no relief from a prolonged hot spell sighted by the weatherman.

The forecast calls for clear to partly cloudy skies, with highs of 94 to 98 degrees in Monroe and vicinity.

A high of 95 was recorded at the FAA weather station at Selman Field Saturday after an overnight low of 75.

Hottest temperature reported Saturday was 105 at San Angelo, Tex., while San Francisco was the coolest with a high of 64.

Second Atom Atmospheric Test Set Off

NEVADA TEST SITE, Nev. (UPI)—The second in a series of atmospheric nuclear explosions was detonated a few feet above the ground at this desert test site Saturday, sending a huge mushroom cloud spiraling at least 15,000 feet into the sky.

The low-yield nuclear weapon originally had been scheduled for firing a week ago by the Atomic Energy Commission and Department of Defense, but unpredictable desert winds forced a day-to-day postponement until Saturday.

MUSHROOM CLOUD

At exactly 2:30 p.m. an eerie yellow-gold flash several times brighter than daylight filled the sky for a 20-mile radius in the Frenchman Flat area of the test site as the device was detonated.

Several seconds later, a yellow-brown mushroom cloud billowed skyward. As it passed the 10,000-foot mark, it turned light pink and formed itself into the shape of a cotton candy cone. Then the bottom part of the cloud began turning brown with sand and debris as its cap soared higher and turned snow white, changing into the shape of a huge pinwheel about 10 miles across.

The big cloud was clearly visible in Las Vegas 65 miles away and, although frayed at the sides, was in evidence an hour after the detonation.

STRANGE 380-FOOT CRAFT

Monkeys, Beetles Ride Balloon Aloft

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP)—Two monkeys, four hamsters, and a nosegay of flower beetles, riding in a strange balloon, 380 feet tall traveled slowly westward Saturday night over Canada's remote northern wilderness, proceeding toward a scientific team.

The flight at 128,000 feet exposed the monkeys and their friends to about 50 per cent of the primary cosmic ray radiation encountered in deep space. The object is to determine its effect on animals.

The balloon, followed by a tracking plane, approached James Bay early in the night. That is the southern arm of Hudson Bay, 650 miles west of Goose Bay, Labrador, where the craft was launched at 12:30 a.m. Friday.

It was flying north of the 53rd parallel and was to be met at times variously calculated from 45 to 54 hours of launching by a recovery plane at Edmonton, Alta., 2,000 miles west of its starting point.

The prevailing east-to-west wind was holding steady but it was decided to postpone until next week the launching of a second plastic balloon.

Observers at Ames Research Center here, headquarters for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration project, said communications are extremely difficult and that reports have been running about three hours late from the tracking plane.

A NASA spokesman said the balloon's speed had slowed in adverse air currents and that 54 hours to Edmonton was more likely.

Dr. Webb Haymaker head of the life sciences program at the Ames Research Center, and John Webster, NASA pilot, waiting at Edmonton for the balloon's appearance, will fly to recover the instruments and other payload from the balloon.

Cleveland's Mayor Gets Cabinet Post

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy ended his search Saturday for a top-flight administrator to head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare by handing the job to Cleveland's veteran mayor, Anthony J. Celebrezze, 51.

"It came as a great surprise to me," Celebrezze said in Cleveland.

It came also as a surprise to just about everyone else. Even Kennedy didn't know for sure until Saturday morning that Celebrezze was his man to succeed Araham A. Ribicoff, the first person named to his Cabinet and the first to resign.

GOOD ADMINISTRATION

Ribicoff, former governor of Connecticut, sent in his formal resignation Thursday to campaign for the Democratic Senate nomination in that state.

Associates of the President said a key factor in his choice of Celebrezze was the mayor's reputation as a good administrator.

Kennedy made up his mind to offer the job to Celebrezze only Friday. He reached the mayor, who was on a fishing trip to Canada, by telephone and told him he wanted him for the Cabinet vacancy.

Like many other husbands facing a problem, Celebrezze had to beg for time. He hurried back to Cleveland to talk it over with his wife. Before 9 a.m. Saturday the mayor phoned the President, who is spending the weekend on Cape Cod, to say he'd accept.

Celebrezze, now serving an unprecedented fifth term as Cleveland's mayor, is coming to Washington Tuesday for a conference with Kennedy.

Seaplane Kills Youth On Boat

FRANKLIN, La. (AP) — A seaplane landing on Bayou Teche Saturday struck an outboard motorboat and killed 16-year-old Jimmy Hall of Franklin, one of the two occupants.

The plane, property of the St. Mary Parish sheriff's department, was piloted by Clarence Blakesley, 43-year-old deputy. Blakesley and 14-year-old Milton B. Kidd III of Franklin, the other occupant of the boat, received minor injuries.

The pilot said he tried to take off again when he saw the boat but it was too late.

2 Killings Are Result Of Dispute

ST. FRANCIS, Kan. (AP) — A dispute over a property line erupted into a double killing Saturday on a farm 12 miles south of Bird City, Kan.

The gunshot victims were Fritz Kehlbeck, about 45, and his son Larry, 16.

Authorities arrested a bachelor farmer, Tolly D. Bolyard. They said his digging of a ditch between his place and the adjoining Kehlbeck farm was the immediate cause of the slayings in this extreme northwest corner of Kansas.

Dr. E. R. Cram, Cheyenne County coroner, said Bolyard, about 68, for three months had been digging a 300-yard-long ditch between the farms as a result of the long-standing dispute.

Saturday, Kehlbeck and his son started to fill the ditch with a scraper.

Bolyard appeared and the shootings followed. Kehlbeck was found dead at the scene, shot once in the stomach and twice in the head.

The coroner said the Kehlbeck boy tried to run away and that Bolyard drove after him with a truck, apparently knocked him down with the vehicle and then shot him in the head.

The boy's body was found about a quarter of a mile from where his father's body lay.

Bolyard was lodged in the county jail in St. Francis, about 15 miles west of Bird City.

Authorities had not yet filed any charges.

Puzzling South Viet Nam War Presents No Front, No Rear

American Military Numbered At 8,000

EDITOR'S NOTE — The United States has committed several thousand men, along with millions of dollars, toward keeping South Viet Nam out of Communist hands. Recently the kind of war that is being fought there has come under sharp discussion, along with worry about the future. In the following analysis, William L. Ryan sketches the background and brings together many of the factors involved in this area of crisis.

They call it a war.

To an American soldier, trained for modern warfare, it can be more like a nightmare.

It has no front, no rear. The enemy is hard to find, difficult to identify. He hits and hides, raids and ambushes, infiltrates and terrorizes. He fights in jungles, mountains, marshes, villages.

It is a war all mixed up with politics and economics, with the prize a country slightly larger than Illinois. Officially Viet Nam Cong Hoa, it is known as South Viet Nam. Its fate can decide the future of Communist designs in all Southeast Asia, and perhaps much more.

How is it going? How long can it go on? Can it be won?

Such questions are the center of debate in the United States, which already has committed $2 billion to the proposition that communism's claws can and must be clipped in Southeast Asia.

This kind of war is not new to Southeast Asia. In Malaya it took the British 12 years to stamp out Communist guerrillas. The French fought a 9-year hit-and-run war against Ho Chih Minh's Communists, and lost North Viet Nam at Dien Bien Phu in 1954. The United States was involved then, too, trying to help the French out of a hopeless situation.

In 1954, Viet Nam was divided into Ho's Communist North and the non-Communist South. A referendum in the South deposed Emperor Bao Dai and made Ngo Dinh Diem chief of state. He proclaimed a republic with himself president. Again the United States was involved, this time trying to hold back Communist attempts to engulf the whole country through a patient, relentless guerrilla war.

President Kennedy inherited the vast problem. On his decision, U.S. troops were sent to South Viet Nam as advisers in what Kennedy called the "subterranean war." Today, U.S. military personnel number about 8,000.

The Communists' offensive ties up about 170,000 regular South Vietnamese troops and possibly 130,000 irregulars. How many troops the Communist Viet Cong may have is anybody's guess. Numbers do not really count with them in this type of war. It takes dozens of regular troops to flush out one guerrilla.

U.S. experts say hardcore Viet Cong troops number anywhere up to 20,000. The number may be much greater. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says it's possible that 10,000 Communist North Vietnamese who advised Red forces in Laos deflected to the Viet Cong. The Viet Cong recruits as it goes along, by terror and other methods.

The U.S. State Department says that this year the Viet Cong has lost 7,200 dead in fighting, the anti-Communist troops 1,800. The tabulation of enemy dead is subject to question in this kind of war.

But casualties do not stop the Viet Cong. It has a growing arsenal of weapons, some captured at bloody cost to the guerrillas convoys. Some of its arsenal is believed to have come from Red China.

U.S. pilots fly Vietnamese troops into combat operations. U.S. helicopters have been under fire. Americans sweat in stinking jungles, accompanying Vietnamese troops on drives deep into guerrilla territory.

A big question: How effective is their aid and what are the prospects?

Associated Press correspondent Ben Price recently interviewed a number of officers, from captain to major general, who have returned from South Viet Nam.

Several painted a picture of a general foulup. They reflected worry and anger at how U.S. special forces—men trained for guerrilla war—have been used. Some described the intelligence system, upon which counter-guerrilla operations depend, as near collapse. Some reported the Vietnamese government's command structure split and confused by the whims of dictatorial President Diem.

It can now be reported that Maj. Gen. William B. Rosson, chief of the U.S. special forces, told reporter Price that the way his men were used made for a "waste of manpower." Rosson, after an inspection trip to Viet Nam, expressed annoyance that his men, trained as guerrilla experts, were employed to give basic infantry training to Vietnamese recruits instead of working with native personnel in company and battalion groups.

"They should give them the same training they have, and then they should go into the 22 Viet Cong areas nobody has been into for 15 years," Rosson said. He expressed the opinion that training of Vietnamese recruits should be left to qualified officers of the U.S. military advisory group.

Later, Gen. George H. Decker, U.S. Army chief of staff, quoted Rosson as saying he was not angered over misuse of special forces "although ideally these highly trained troops should be used exclusively in special forces activities." It had been necessary to use some "temporarily on basic training missions," said Decker's account of Rosson's views.

Essential points in the Price story were not denied.

Washington and the Pentagon reflect a high degree of sensitiveness to criticism about Viet Nam, where, officially, U.S. forces are only advisers.

U.S. personnel include the special forces who are guerrilla specialists, Army and Marine crews for 80 helicopters sent from the United States, Marine Corps amphibious teams and a naval landing supply unit.

There is an atmosphere of confusion complicated by local politics in a land under perpetual state of emergency, with democratic processes pushed aside.

The military is only one aspect of the war. Both sides are also engaged in a struggle to win the people's support.

On the political side, some Americans say privately the Diem government is less than might be desired, but the only available answer.

Some criticize the Vietnamese military as lacking spirit or initiative, while others prase them for ther abilities as anti-guerrilla fighters.

On the other hand, the Diem government snipes at the United States. It is annoyed at the Laos settlement, feeling that weakened the anti-Communist front in Southest Asia.

Americans and Vietnamese are trying to live together. It's not easy. There are lots of tensions and bruised feelings. Yet the Diem regime obviously feels it would be overwhelmed quickly without U.S. aid.

Some Americans on the scene are realizing that in Southeast Asia, war isn't according to military academy textbooks.

Associated Press correspondents have gone on missions with Vietnamese forces, have probed into the conflicts and frustrations of the Vietnamese war. Their dispatches reflect a picture like this:

U.S. officers are finding they often know less about jungle fighting than the men they are trying to teach guerrilla tactics. Few Americans can go into the jungle and live off the land for long periods.

Weapons like howitzers are of limited use because of lack of roads. Tactical air support results are hard to check. The M113 armored amphibious personnel carrier has been found, at times, unable to navigate jungle rivers.

The vaunted M1 rifle is ineffective where visibility often is limited to a few yards. The new AR15 rifle, disdained by some officers as a "varmint" bun because of its low caliber, is favored by the Vietnamese. He is a small man. Arming him with an 11½-pound rifle doesn't work. He has to place it under his arm to fire it.

Guerrillas fire on helicopters with captured U.S. weapons, and that fire can be murderous at close range.

New U.S. programs are aimed at increasing and improving transport and communications in remote areas. New projects include the strategic hamlets plan, aimed at getting villagers to protect themselves. These aren't new. The French, during their war, called them "protected villages." They didn't work.

The idea is to get loyal Vietnamese concentrated in fortified centers, so the Viet Cong can be isolated and attacked elsewhere. Now the Communists themselves are building fortified hamlets.

Malcolm W. Browne is the chief Associated Press correspondent in Viet Nam. He cabled these views Friday after watching the situation develop for several months:

"I get the feeling some special forces types could do with some basic training themselves. They often are saved from disaster by Vietnamese troops with them.

"I also feel the special forces are far from overcoming the language barrier. This is an obvious prerequisite to improving intelligence from the American side.

"While it is theoritcally a good idea to send special forces into the jungle with guerrilla units, the presence of caucasians is immediately known for miles around, and capture of foreign prisoners is a prime object of the Viet Cong.

"Finally, I feel that while Vietnamese military operations are frequently fouled up, some of them go like clockwork. The coin has two sides."

How long will all this go on?

A week ago McNamara said he was optimistic, but added that victory would take a long time. The defense secretary asserted that U.S. aid to government forces had increased in recent months. He said the ratio of Communist casualties has become more favorable.

In Saigon, U.S. officials are saying headway is being made in stepping up Vietnamese military efficiency. Most talk in terms of years—perhaps many years.

Much can depend upon winning the allegiance of the people. In turn, that can depend upon social and economic progress for peasant and villager to counter the Communists' rosy promises.

But most American officials in Saigon don't speak of "reform." It's a word that disturbs President Diem.

Mate Of Fire Victim Critical

PATTERSON, La. (AP) — The 53-year-old husband of a woman killed in a motel fire was termed in critical condition Saturday.

Mrs. Emily Dubois of Natchitoches, La., died Friday night when fire raced through her motel room. Her husband, who was to have started work on a construction job Saturday, suffered severe burns and cuts.

JFK Views Jacqueline's Water Skill

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) —President Kennedy watched from a speedboat Saturday while his wife waterskiied skillfully through a tricky obstacle course she has had set up near their summer home here.

The first lady took a spill the first time around and was pulled out of the water by a secret service agent. Then she made two perfect passes along the zigzaggy course, marked on the water by large beach balls.

Jacqueline Kennedy took to the water skis after members of the family had cruised and swum for about two hours in Lewis Bay, this resort's main harbor. The party aboard their 52-foot yacht, Marlin, included the president's convalescing 83-year-old father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

Kennedy's relaxation came after he sent newsmen scurrying at the summer white house press room, in the Yachtsman Hotel at Hyannis, with word that he had chosen Cleveland's Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

The President also:

—Issued a statement urging Russia to "respond constructively" to U. S. proposals at the 18-nation disarmament conference which resumes at Geneva Monday.

—Called on Congress to approve a recent proposal for nonfederal conversion into electrical power steam from nuclear reactor under construction at Hanford, Wash.

—Named John H. Ferguson, an international lawyer, as U. S. Ambassador to Morocco, and accepted the resignation of Walter N. Walmsley as envoy to Tunisia.

The President's boating party also included four-year-old daughter Caroline, and three or four other members of the family. The President swam from the Marlin to Egg Island, a narrow stretch of beach, where the little girl romped while Kennedy took a short walk alone.

CONNECTICUT DEMOCRAT

Ribicoff Becomes Senator Nominee

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Abraham A. Ribicoff as nominated for U.S. senator Saturday by the Connecticut Democratic convention.

Shortly after the midway point of the polling of 953 delegates, Ribicoff had won easily. It appeared that Congressman-at-Large Frank Kowalski, Ribicoff's only rival, might not get enough votes to force a primary.

Earlier, Kowalski had suffered a crushing defeat in a first-round convention battle to get a no-switch voting rule for the convention.

Kowalski needed the no-switch rule if he hoped to get the 20 per cent of the convention vote needed to qualify for a statewide primary.

The two-term congressman lost a roll-call ballot on the issue by a vote of 762-176.

By its vote, the convention retained its customary rules, which permit delegates to switch votes before the result of a ballot is officially announced.

Ribicoff, a former governor, resigned this week as secretary of health, education and welfare to seek the Senate nomination. Kowalski admittedly was seeking only enough votes to carry his fight to the party's rank and file at a primary.

Kowalski, 54, a retired Army colonel, has said he would not accept renomination for his present seat. But there were reports that the nomination was still open to him.

The bitter and noisy floor fight on the rules delayed the nominations for the state ticket for more than two hours.

Gov. John M. Dempsey, 57, jubilant and smiling, was nominated by acclamation for a full-four year term.

The Irish-born governor succeeded Ribicoff as governor in January 1961, after Ribicoff resigned in the middle of his second term to join President Kennedy's Cabinet.

The former lieutenant-governor promptly accepted the nomination.

Kowalski supporters staged a demonstration on opening night that threatened to get out of hand and that saw the state and national chairman, John M. Bailey, publicly booed and hooted as he has never been before in the 16 years that he has headed the state party.

Some Americans on the scene are realizing that in Southeast Asia, war isn't according to military academy textbooks.

Associated Press correspondents have gone on missions with Vietnamese forces, have probed into the conflicts and frustrations of the Vietnamese war. Their dispatches reflect a picture like this:

U.S. officers are finding they often know less about jungle fighting than the men they are trying to teach guerrilla tactics. Few Americans can go into the jungle and live off the land for long periods.

Weapons like howitzers are of limited use because of lack of roads. Tactical air support results are hard to check. The M113 armored amphibious personnel carrier has been found, at times, unable to navigate jungle rivers.

The vaunted M1 rifle is ineffective where visibility often is limited to a few yards. The new AR15 rifle, disdained by some officers as a "varmint" bun because of its low caliber, is favored by the Vietnamese. He is a small man. Arming him with an 11½-pound rifle doesn't work. He has to place it under his arm to fire it.

Guerrillas fire on helicopters with captured U.S. weapons, and that fire can be murderous at close range.

New U.S. programs are aimed at increasing and improving transport and communications in remote areas. New projects include the strategic hamlets plan, aimed at getting villagers to protect themselves. These aren't new. The French, during their war, called them "protected villages." They didn't work.

The idea is to get loyal Vietnamese concentrated in fortified centers, so the Viet Cong can be isolated and attacked elsewhere. Now the Communists themselves are building fortified hamlets.

Malcolm W. Browne is the chief Associated Press correspondent in Viet Nam. He cabled these views Friday after watching the situation develop for several months:

"I get the feeling some special forces types could do with some basic training themselves. They often are saved from disaster by Vietnamese troops with them.

"I also feel the special forces are far from overcoming the language barrier. This is an obvious prerequisite to improving intelligence from the American side.

"While it is theoritcally a good idea to send special forces into the jungle with guerrilla units, the presence of caucasians is immediately known for miles around, and capture of foreign prisoners is a prime object of the Viet Cong.

"Finally, I feel that while Vietnamese military operations are frequently fouled up, some of them go like clockwork. The coin has two sides."

How long will all this go on?

A week ago McNamara said he was optimistic, but added that victory would take a long time. The defense secretary asserted that U.S. aid to government forces had increased in recent months. He said the ratio of Communist casualties has become more favorable.

In Saigon, U.S. officials are saying headway is being made in stepping up Vietnamese military efficiency. Most talk in terms of years—perhaps many years.

Much can depend upon winning the allegiance of the people. In turn, that can depend upon social and economic progress for peasant and villager to counter the Communists' rosy promises.

But most American officials in Saigon don't speak of "reform." It's a word that disturbs President Diem.

Mate Of Fire Victim Critical

PATTERSON, La. (AP) — The 53-year-old husband of a woman killed in a motel fire was termed in critical condition Saturday.

Mrs. Emily Dubois of Natchitoches, La., died Friday night when fire raced through her motel room. Her husband, who was to have started work on a construction job Saturday, suffered severe burns and cuts.

JFK Views Jacqueline's Water Skill

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) —President Kennedy watched from a speedboat Saturday while his wife waterskiied skillfully through a tricky obstacle course she has had set up near their summer home here.

The first lady took a spill the first time around and was pulled out of the water by a secret service agent. Then she made two perfect passes along the zigzaggy course, marked on the water by large beach balls.

Jacqueline Kennedy took to the water skis after members of the family had cruised and swum for about two hours in Lewis Bay, this resort's main harbor. The party aboard their 52-foot yacht, Marlin, included the president's convalescing 83-year-old father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

Kennedy's relaxation came after he sent newsmen scurrying at the summer white house press room, in the Yachtsman Hotel at Hyannis, with word that he had chosen Cleveland's Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

The President also:

—Issued a statement urging Russia to "respond constructively" to U. S. proposals at the 18-nation disarmament conference which resumes at Geneva Monday.

—Called on Congress to approve a recent proposal for non-federal conversion into electrical power steam from nuclear reactor under construction at Hanford, Wash.

—Named John H. Ferguson, an international lawyer, as U. S. Ambassador to Morocco, and accepted the resignation of Walter N. Walmsley as envoy to Tunisia.

The President's boating party also included four-year-old daughter Caroline, and three or four other members of the family. The President swam from the Marlin to Egg Island, a narrow stretch of beach, where the little girl romped while Kennedy took a short walk alone.

CONNECTICUT DEMOCRAT

Ribicoff Becomes Senator Nominee

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Abraham A. Ribicoff as nominated for U.S. senator Saturday by the Connecticut Democratic convention.

Shortly after the midway point of the polling of 953 delegates, Ribicoff had won easily. It appeared that Congressman-at-Large Frank Kowalski, Ribicoff's only rival, might not get enough votes to force a primary.

Earlier, Kowalski had suffered a crushing defeat in a first-round convention battle to get a no-switch voting rule for the convention.

Kowalski needed the no-switch rule if he hoped to get the 20 per cent of the convention vote needed to qualify for a statewide primary.

The two-term congressman lost a roll-call ballot on the issue by a vote of 762-176.

By its vote, the convention retained its customary rules, which permit delegates to switch votes before the result of a ballot is officially announced.

Ribicoff, a former governor, resigned this week as secretary of health, education and welfare to seek the Senate nomination. Kowalski admittedly was seeking only enough votes to carry his fight to the party's rank and file at a primary.

Kowalski, 54, a retired Army colonel, has said he would not accept renomination for his present seat. But there were reports that the nomination was still open to him.

The bitter and noisy floor fight on the rules delayed the nominations for the state ticket for more than two hours.

Gov. John M. Dempsey, 57, jubilant and smiling, was nominated by acclamation for a full-four year term.

The Irish-born governor succeeded Ribicoff as governor in January 1961, after Ribicoff resigned in the middle of his second term to join President Kennedy's Cabinet.

The former lieutenant-governor promptly accepted the nomination.

Kowalski supporters staged a demonstration on opening night that threatened to get out of hand and that saw the state and national chairman, John M. Bailey, publicly booed and hooted as he has never been before in the 16 years that he has headed the state party.

WATERLINE SEVERED

Boom Of Dynamite Rocks Strike Area

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — This tense strikebound basin was jolted Saturday by a dynamite blast that tore up a section of the main 14-inch waterline leading to one of six struck potash plants.

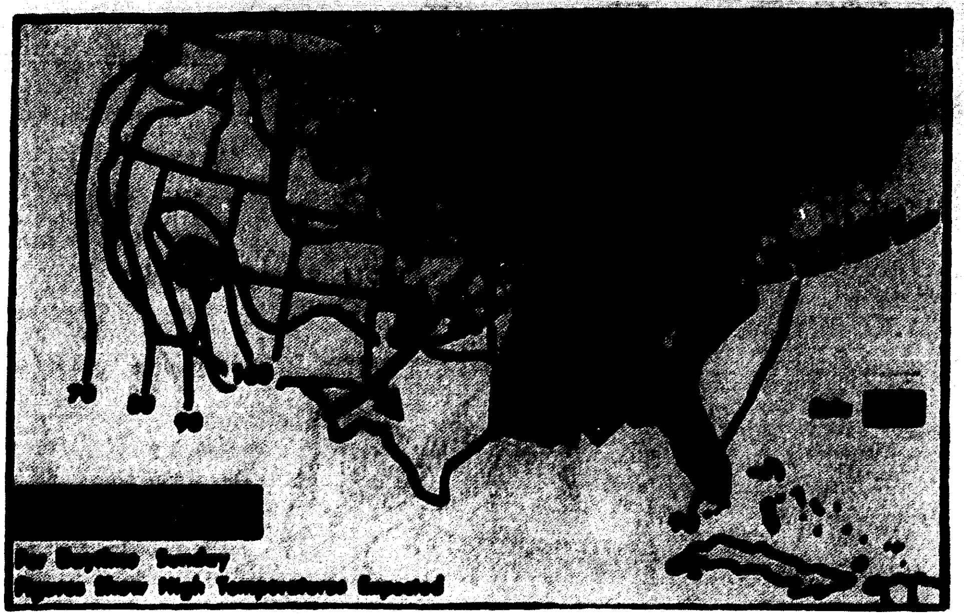
The explosion at 2 a.m. halted production at the International Minerals & Chemical Corp. refinery and mine and added fuel to a situation already loaded with violence and fear.

State police said evidence indicated six sticks of dynamite were set under the pipeline, five miles east of Carlsbad, and set off with electric caps and a timing device.

Work crews spent a good part of the day repairing the damaged section. Several hundred tons of potash material in the refinery was dumped. International Minerals began hiring new employes June 8 and has replaced about half of its normal 700-man working force.

Some 2,800 union members have been idled by the strike that started June 1.

Most of the new International Minerals employes commute from homes in other eastern New Mexico and western Texas cities to avoid the physical violence and property damage that has plagued the firm's working employes who reside in Carlsbad.



WIDELY SCATTERED showers and thundershowers are forecast Sunday over the northern Plains, the Great Lakes region, the Mississippi, Ohio and Tennessee valleys, the Gulf coast states, the mid and southern Atlantic Coast states. The rest of the nation will be mostly fair. It will be warmer along the western half of the country and also in the southern tier of states. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Cuban Leader Denies Attempt Made On Life

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban Communist leader, Blas Roca, denied in an interview published Saturday that an attempt was made on his life Friday when his plane stopped in Bogota, Colombia.

Two Cubans who oppose Prime Minister Fidel Castro boarded the plane with a knife and iron pipe and were arrested by Colombian police Friday. They said they wanted to "punish the murderer of thousands of Cubans."

Roca returned here Friday night from a Communist party meeting in Uruguay.

The Communist newspaper Hoy quoted Roca as saying the incident was organized for publicity purposes. The newspaper printed a picture of Roca holding up a newspaper with the story and laughing.

Girl Scouts Set For Trip

Tonight a patrol of eight Senior Girl Scouts from the Silver Waters Council will leave by train to attend the 1962 Senior Roundup at Button Bay State Park, Vermont.

Members of the patrol are Jane Edwards, Milann Gannaway, Diane Halley, Becky Middleton, Deas Parrish, Gayle Smith, Barbara Suomi, and Mickie Varnado. All are juniors at Neville High School.

Almost 8,500 girls and 1,500 adults will participate in this encampment July 20-29 on the shores of Lake Champlain. Girl Scouts and guides will come from every state in the union, from every U.S. territory and possession, and from all continents where the Girl Scouting program is carried on.

The theme of the roundup will be "Honor the Past — Serve the Future." Programs linked to honoring the past will demonstrate the part that Vermont and the Champlain Valley have played in U.S. history. Activities emphasizing service to the future will include youth forums, investigation of career interests, and an international friendship program.

The exchange of small tokens will provide an interesting way for girls to get acquainted more easily. These tokens are collected and made by the girls and are representative of the history, hand crafts, or natural resources of each patrol's section of the country. The patrol from the Silver Waters Council have made copper - enameled charms and ceramic alligators, and pelicans, and other things to take as their tokens.

The girls from Monroe will tour Washington, D.C, enroute to Vermont and will spend July 31 in New York City on the return trip.

Cuban Leader Denies Attempt Made On Life

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban Communist leader, Blas Roca, denied in an interview published Saturday that an attempt was made on his life Friday when his plane stopped in Bogota, Colombia.

Two Cubans who oppose Prime Minister Fidel Castro boarded the plane with a knife and iron pipe and were arrested by Colombian police Friday. They said they wanted to "punish the murderer of thousands of Cubans."

Roca returned here Friday night from a Communist party meeting in Uruguay.

The Communist newspaper Hoy quoted Roca as saying the incident was organized for publicity purposes. The newspaper printed a picture of Roca holding up a newspaper with the story and laughing.

Girl Scouts Set For Trip

Tonight a patrol of eight Senior Girl Scouts from the Silver Waters Council will leave by train to attend the 1962 Senior Roundup at Button Bay State Park, Vermont.

Members of the patrol are Jane Edwards, Milann Gannaway, Diane Halley, Becky Middleton, Deas Parrish, Gayle Smith, Barbara Suomi, and Mickie Varnado. All are juniors at Neville High School.

Almost 8,500 girls and 1,500 adults will participate in this encampment July 20-29 on the shores of Lake Champlain. Girl Scouts and guides will come from every state in the union, from every U.S. territory and possession, and from all continents where the Girl Scouting program is carried on.

The theme of the roundup will be "Honor the Past — Serve the Future." Programs linked to honoring the past will demonstrate the part that Vermont and the Champlain Valley have played in U.S. history. Activities emphasizing service to the future will include youth forums, investigation of career interests, and an international friendship program.

The exchange of small tokens will provide an interesting way for girls to get acquainted more easily. These tokens are collected and made by the girls and are representative of the history, hand crafts, or natural resources of each patrol's section of the country. The patrol from the Silver Waters Council have made copper - enameled charms and ceramic alligators, and pelicans, and other things to take as their tokens.

The girls from Monroe will tour Washington, D.C, enroute to Vermont and will spend July 31 in New York City on the return trip.

ued. Spotter planes saw the Viet Cong force retreating through dense forest, and air strikes were made up to 3 p.m., when contact was lost.

The government convoy was headed north at the time of the attack, to pick up employes of an engineering firm working at an outpost. Several civilian contractors are working on radar and radio nets along Viet Nam's frontier with Laos and Cambodia.

The ambush was similar to one on June 16 on the same road in which two U.S. officers were killed. It was at nearly the same spot at which Spec. 4 George F. Fryett Jr., Long Beach, Calif., was released by the Viet Cong June 24 after six months captivity.

The Communists have been increasing the frequency and size of ambush operations in the last two months. Out of fear, local residents seldom betray the presence of an ambush to government forces.

In addition to the ambush, the Communists carried out a successful attack against an outpost, Ba Rang, 80 miles west of Saigon. A communique said the post was destroyed and the fate of its 18 self-defense corpsmen unknown. Two armored river boats rushed to the scene.

These Communist blows overshadowed a series of air strikes reported by the government last week in which 104 Viet Cong were reported killed by strafing in a raid 350 miles north of Saigon and in other attacks farther north near the North Viet Nam border. Sixteen guerrillas also were reported killed in ground operations in the Mekong delta.

Arrests made for traffic violations include 34 for reckless driving, 24 for speeding, one on an improper brakes charge, two for red light violations, one for a stop sign violation, one for improper registration of a vehicle, 13 on no driver's license charge. The department issued tickets on the following counts: 294 for speeding, 227 for reckless driving, 13, 881 for overparking, one for improper lights, five for improper brakes, 97 for running red lights, 109 for running stop signs, 64 for no driver's license, and 212 on other violations.

A total of 759 accidents were investigated during the six months interim, involving 164 injuries and two deaths — both children.

Blast Precludes Attempt Of X15

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)— An attempt by Air Force Maj. Bob White to fly the X15 rocket ship to a new world altitude record of over 50 miles was called off Saturday because of a nuclear explosion in Nevada.

Space agency scientists said the starting point for the 282,000-foot record flight, at Delamar, Nev., would have been too close to an atmospheric nuclear weapon detonated Saturday at the atomic proving grounds.

Race-Blood Bill Killed By Senate

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)— The Senate Saturday killed a House-passed bill which would have required all human blood used in transfusions to be labelled according to the race of the donor.

The Senate also killed another racial proposal which would have required a man to be a registered voter before he could serve on a jury.

Friday a Senate committee in effect killed two measures which would have leveled stiff jail sentences or fines against "sit'in" and "kneel-in" demonstrators.

and a truck from the West Monroe fire department aided in extinguishing the blaze.

Cause of the gutting fire at the plant was still under investigation, according to firemen last night. However, it was believed to have originated in the dry kiln room. This is where the wood is dryed after it has been cut to the size desired. Steam is used to dry the wood in the dry kiln room.

According to Leehy, the only building that was saved was the boiler room. The plant is owned by C. K. Crandall, of 1801 North Fifth St., Monroe.

Several firemen suffered injuries at the scene. Driver H. P. Hadley suffered burns on the left wrist, while Capt. Fowler and Pvt. A. R. Lyles both stepped on nails. Lyles also sustained a sprained ankle.

Swap Desks

All the hustle and bustle on the second floor of the Ouachita Bank Building the other day was occasioned by the swapping of two desks in Monroe Oil and Gas District offices of the State Conservation Commission. Trading in their old desks for new ones were secretary - stenographers Mrs. Merle Garland and Linda Moreland.

Sheds Khakis

Trading in Army khakis for another year for the less formal attire of his work with youngsters at the West Monroe Boys Club is Director Kenneth Taylor. Kenneth, this weekend, wound up his annual two weeks of reserve training with Uncle Sam at Fort Chaffee, Ark. It's back to the old grind Monday though, as he takes over the reins again of the organization's big summer program, now in full swing with everything from swimming to softball for youngsters seven to 18.

East Germans Reinforce Barriers

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards reinforced the barbed wire and concrete barricade between West Berlin and East Germany Saturday and made numerous arrests along the border.

At one time West Berlin police said three East German tanks had moved up near the Red wall dividing East and West Berlin opposite the American sector but withdrew after three hours.

There was no explanation for all the increased activity. West police estimated 250 border guards were at work strengthening the 100 miles of wire and concrete surrounding West Berlin. The Communists have been trying to make this barricade as airtight as the wall of concrete that divides the East and West sectors inside the isolated city.

Police said an unarmed East German border guard had been arrested by one of his armed comrades near the Berlin wall opposite the U.S. sector, and three young Germans were arrested near the wall in another part of the city.

Race-Blood Bill Killed By Senate

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)— The Senate Saturday killed a House-passed bill which would have required all human blood used in transfusions to be labelled according to the race of the donor.

The Senate also killed another racial proposal which would have required a man to be a registered voter before he could serve on a jury.

Friday a Senate committee in effect killed two measures which would have leveled stiff jail sentences or fines against "sit'in" and "kneel-in" demonstrators.

and a truck from the West Monroe fire department aided in extinguishing the blaze.

Cause of the gutting fire at the plant was still under investigation, according to firemen last night. However, it was believed to have originated in the dry kiln room. This is where the wood is dryed after it has been cut to the size desired. Steam is used to dry the wood in the dry kiln room.

According to Leehy, the only building that was saved was the boiler room. The plant is owned by C. K. Crandall, of 1801 North Fifth St., Monroe.

Several firemen suffered injuries at the scene. Driver H. P. Hadley suffered burns on the left wrist, while Capt. Fowler and Pvt. A. R. Lyles both stepped on nails. Lyles also sustained a sprained ankle.

were invited to attend the festivities with the team members and their dates, however, no one was reported chicken hungry when they departed.

Swap Desks

All the hustle and bustle on the second floor of the Ouachita Bank Building the other day was occasioned by the swapping of two desks in Monroe Oil and Gas District offices of the State Conservation Commission. Trading in their old desks for new ones were secretary - stenographers Mrs. Merle Garland and Linda Moreland.

Sheds Khakis

Trading in Army khakis for another year for the less formal attire of his work with youngsters at the West Monroe Boys Club is Director Kenneth Taylor. Kenneth, this weekend, wound up his annual two weeks of reserve training with Uncle Sam at Fort Chaffee, Ark. It's back to the old grind Monday though, as he takes over the reins again of the organization's big summer program, now in full swing with everything from swimming to softball for youngsters seven to 18.

East Germans Reinforce Barriers

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards reinforced the barbed wire and concrete barricade between West Berlin and East Germany Saturday and made numerous arrests along the border.

At one time West Berlin police said three East German tanks had moved up near the Red wall dividing East and West Berlin opposite the American sector but withdrew after three hours.

There was no explanation for all the increased activity. West police estimated 250 border guards were at work strengthening the 100 miles of wire and concrete surrounding West Berlin. The Communists have been trying to make this barricade as airtight as the wall of concrete that divides the East and West sectors inside the isolated city.

Police said an unarmed East German border guard had been arrested by one of his armed comrades near the Berlin wall opposite the U.S. sector, and three young Germans were arrested near the wall in another part of the city.

Alabama Solons Adjourn Session

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The special session of the legislature adjourned sine die Saturday with the hesitant hope a three-judge federal court will accept its two-part reapportionment formula.

The federal panel meets at 10 a.m. Monday to decide whether a statuatory act—the first in the history of Alabama—and a constitutional amendment giving every county a fulltime senator offers "fair and equitable" reapportionment.

Gov. John Patterson praised the special session "for its courage in facing up to our problems and for its determination to work out a solution."

The two bills make few real changes in representation. Both the House and Senate would be in control of the small counties under the proposals which—if accepted by the federal court—would become effective with the 1966 elections to the legislature.

In the House under the statuatory act, some reshifting is accomplished. Jefferson County would have 12 seats instead of the present seven; Mobile six instead of three; Montgomery four, the same as now; Calhoun, Etowah, Madison and Tuscaloosa three each instead of two presently.

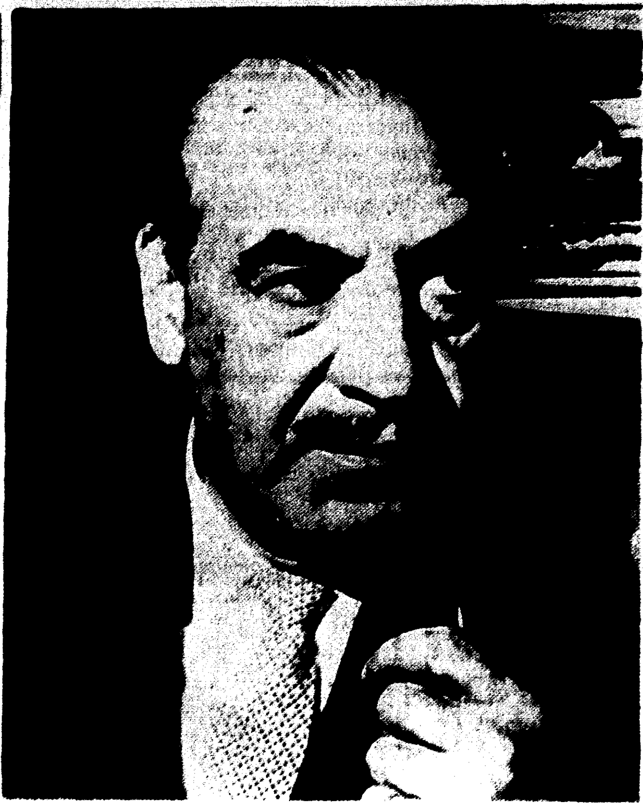
Under present apportionment, 25.1 per cent of the voters elect a majority of the Senate. Under the statuatory act, 27.6 per cent of the people can elect a majority.

The standby measure takes senatorial power from five black belt counties—Marengo, Wilcox, Dallas, Lowndes and Barbour.

It gives stronger voice to 13 counties—seven in North Alabama and six in South Alabama. Of these 13 which gain power, only three—Etowah, Baldwin and Escambia—are among the state's growing counties.

MOSCOW-HAVANA LINE

HAVANA (AP)—The Communications Ministry announced a direct radiotelephone circuit linking Havana and Moscow was inaugurated Saturday.



MAYOR ANTHONY J. Celebrezze of Cleveland Saturday was named as a surprise choice by President Kennedy for the post of Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to succeed Abraham Ribicoff, who resigned Thursday. Celebrezze took off his glasses and pondered for a moment before replying to a newsman's question at his office today after the nomination was announced. The mayor will be 52 in September and was serving an unprecedented fifth term as mayor of the nation's eighth largest city. He was born in Italy. (AP Wirephoto)

HEW Appointee Has Won Mayoralty Victory 4 Times

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) —Anthony J. Celebrezze, named Saturday by President Kennedy to be secretary of health, education and welfare, has been mayor of Cleveland longer than any other man.

"Tony, as he is known to constituents, is the first man of foreign birth to be elected to the $25,000-a-year job of heading this eighth largest city in the nation.

Until now, it had appeared he not only liked the job well enough to work at it 16 hours a day, but also to stay with it in preference to running for high state or national office or accepting a federal judge appointment he probably could have had.

And Clevelanders have liked him on the job, too.

Even though Democrats have held City Hall here since 1941, the victory margins Celebrezze has rolled up are impressive. He won a fourth term in 1959 by more than 2-1 and last fall was elected to an unprecedented fifth term by the biggest majority ever recorded in a Cleveland mayoralty contest—biggest in votes, and edge of 92,000, and biggest in percentage of votes cast, 73 per cent.

Short in stature, given to wearing dark suits with a flowing white handkerchief in the lapel pocket, and adorned by a generous dark mustache of the kind that characterized the old silent movie villain, Celbrezze is not the glamor-type politician. Nor is he the spell-binding orator type. His deliver is quiet, almost flat, unless he is aroused by his subject. Then he turns up the volume and his voice takes life. It booms.

The mayor's big assets in getting votes appear to be his sincerity and the record he has compiled. Currently he is going after a tax increase, but his conservative record is one of holding the line on taxes during his first four terms, promoting good law enforcement and keeping a multi-million-dollar municipal business clean of graft and scandal.

Twice this year the mayor has hit the headlines nationally through criticism of officials in Southern cities.

The first time involved the sending of an airliner laden with Cuban refugees from Miami to Cleveland for resettlement. Celebrezze let it be known he was not in accord with the move and that jobs available should go first to the many Clevelanders already on unemployed rolls.

More recently, he engaged in a sharp exchange with the mayor of Centreville, Ala., over the reverse freedom ride of a large Negro family for whom Southerners paid bus fare to Cleveland.

BLENHEIM PALACE PARTY

Princess Margaret Dances 'The Twist'

WOODSTOCK, England (UPI)—Princess Margaret, her hair tinted orange and swept up into a new hairdo, danced the twist—but sedately — until dawn Saturday at a glittering party in Blenheim Palace for the rich and famous of the United States and Britain.

Blenheim's biggest party in 25 years was given by the Tenth Duke of Marlborough, 68, and his eldest daughter, Lady Sarah Russell, to mark the debut of Lady Sarah's 18 - year - old daughter Serena of Lenape Farm, Berwyn, Pa., and the 22nd birthday of his youngest son, Lord Charles Spencer Churchill, a junior at Vanderbilt University.

Sir Winston Churchill, who is in Middlesex Hospital suffering from a broken left thigh and complications, was born in a Blenheim Palace cloak room 87 years ago at the height of such a ball when his mother unexpectedly got premature labor pains. The room was closed out of respect for Sir Winston.

Margaret her husband, the Earl of Snowdon traveled to Blenheim last night from Charlbury where they are spending the weekend with the Marquess and Marchioness of Blandford. The marquess called "Sonny," is the Duke's heir. The Marchioness is the former Tina Onassis, ex-wife of Greek millionaire shipowner Aristotle Onassis.

Lady Sarah is married to Edwin F. Russell, publisher of Vogue Magazine and the Harrisburg, Pa., Patriot - News. Miss Russell, who wore a white strapless lace dress, was born in Blenheirm as was Lord Charles.

STATE SESSION SUMMARY

'Good Government' Bills Rejected By Legislature

By SAM HANNA
World Staff Writer

The 1962 session of the Louisiana Legislature is history today, but lawmakers will remember it a session where so-called "good government" took a severe beating.

In summary, the Legislature accomplished:

Increased state debt by the passage of a $60-million bond issue to help cover a $73-million deficit incurred by the administration of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

Defeat of numerous "good government" bills topped by a Code of Ethics, a central listing of unclassified state employes and once again the investment of idle funds.

Probably the two major bills adopted by the Legislature were the creation of a legislative budget committee and a legislative aduditor.

Both measures are designed to give the lawmakers a better insight to state spending in an effort to assist the Legislature with budgetary matters.

But on the other hand the Legislature rejected two bills aimed at economizing — the investment of the state's idle funds and a public list of deadhead employes.

The Davis administration fought both bills, in addition to a proposed Code of Ethics by which both lawmakers and state employes would have had to lived by in the handling of public funds.

Davis, in fact, vetoed the watered-down deadhead bill Friday after the lawmakers adjourned sine die early Thursday.

Money was the big concern of the session and Davis won quick approval of a $60-million bond issue to help cover the state deficit. It was the third $60-million bond issue proposed since Davis took office two years ago.

By a shifting of funds, the $73 million deficit was covered, so the administration said, while the Legislature went about adopting a $497-million general appropriations bill, backbone of the state $787-million budget for the fiscal year which began July 1.

Davis' chief fiscal officer, James S. Reily, commissioner of administration, said the bond issue and the reduced budget, by about $15-million over the previous year, would leave the administration with a surplus at the end of the current fiscal term.

But State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell, whose predictions on state finances have been more accurate than the Davis administration's reports, says the state is heading for another deficit.

The Public Affairs Research Council made the announcement.

Most department spending was held down in the proposed budget and Supt. Shelby M. Jackson even took a licking on Davis' $1.3 million reduction in the hot lunch program.

While the state's shortage of funds was given top priority, segregation, an issue that kept the Legislature on its heels two years, took a backseat.

It was seldom mentioned while the only major legislative segregation program was the passage of bills setting up a grants-in-aid system by which a commission hopes to make direct grant to students attending private, segregated schools.

In addition, the administration, at the last minute, passed resolution reviving the old legislative watchdog committee on New Orleans schools.

Funds allocated to New Orleans schools will pass first through the committee before reaching the Orleans School Board, which is an eyewash and a mere formality.

While segregation was soft-pedaled, the Legislature ignored warnings of federal intervention to reapportion, slapping down several bills designed to rearrange the general assembly.

The Legislature went home under the threat of a lawsuit in federal court — a suit which a former state senator, J. D. DeBlieux, of Baton Rouge said he will file.

Davis, meantime, kept a tight rein on the lawmakers while organized oppostion was completely lacking.

Two Shreveport area solons, Sen. Jackson B. Davis and Sen. Johnny Rogers, offered the most vocal opposition to the governor's administration.

But during the final hours of the session 28 senators signed a declaration that in so many words upheld the Davis admnistration and downgraded what Sen. Davis and Sen. Rogers had to say.

In fact, two top state officials felt the brunt of Davis' strength.

Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion was the first to fall when the administration, early in the session, slapped through a resolution removing Gremillion from the tidelands picture, establishing a five-man legislative committee to assist Davis in dealing with the federal government.

Jackson then followed when Davis trimmed the hot lunch program, but added insult to injury by including the big money bill the parish-by-parish appro- Jackson's hands at the Legislature priations for local schools.

This kept the money out of Jacksons hands as the legislature itself allocated the funds that each local system will receive for the current year.

Jackson warned, however, that Davis' plan will cause some 42 systems to run short of cash before the year is out.

While Jackson and Gremillion were swept under by the administration, the Little Hoover Commission's program, climaxing two years of work, was riddled while the commission was killed.

Cost of conducting the 60-day session was over $1-million.

Beck Still Gets $50,000 Yearly

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Teamsters' President Dave Beck is still receiving $50,000 a year from the union's pension fund even though he is serving a five-year sentence in McNeil Island penitentiary for income tax fraud.

But prison rules forbid him from spending more than $15 a month. The remaining $49,820 must be sent to relatives or placed in a bank.

Teamsters' attorneys said Saturday the pension could not be revoked since it was "payment for past services" for the union.

Dean Rusk, Envoy Appear To Differ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public statements by Ambassador Arthur Dean and Secretary of State Dean Rusk appeared to be somewhat at odds Saturday over possible modification of U.S. requirements for policing a nuclear test-ban agreement with the Soviet Union.

The statements agree fully that recent scientific findings in the detection of underground nuclear explosions may permit a scaling down of international inspection demands. If such a reduction is agreed on by the United States and Britain, it would amount to offering new concessions to Moscow in the interest of obtaining Soviet agreement to a test-ban treaty.

In news dispatches from Geneva Saturday, however, Dean, U.S. disarmament negotiators, was quoted as saying it might be possible in the future to drop entirely a Western requirement for internationally manned control posts to be set up in the Soviet Union.

Should that prove possible, Dean was quoted, the Western powers would continue to insist on having the right to make a number of consite inspections on Soviet territory.

In talking about the new scientific findings at a news conference here Thursday, Rusk said both control posts and on-site inspections would continue to be necessary "at this stage" for policing any test-ban agreement which might be made.

The new scientific information "may greatly simplify the problem (of detection and identification of earth shocks), but it does not eliminate such arrangements so far as we can tell," Rusk declared.

Dean has just returned to Geneva from Washington for the resumption of disarmament negotiations after a month's recess of the 17-nation disarmament conference. Sessions will resume Monday.

STATE SESSION SUMMARY

'Good Government' Bills Rejected By Legislature

By SAM HANNA
World Staff Writer

The 1962 session of the Louisiana Legislature is history today, but lawmakers will remember it a session where so - called "good government" took a severe beating.

In summary, the Legislature accomplished:

Increased state debt by the passage of a $60-million bond issue to help cover a $73-million deficit incurred by the administration of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

Defeat of numerous "good government" bills topped by a Code of Ethics, a central listing of unclassified state employes and once again the investment of idle funds.

Probably the two major bills adopted by the Legislature were the creation of a legislative budget committee and a legislative aduditor.

Both measures are designed to give the lawmakers a better insight to state spending in an effort to assist the Legislature with budgetary matters.

But on the other hand the Legislature rejected two bills aimed at economizing — the investment of the state's idle funds and a public list of deadhead employes.

The Davis administration fought both bills, in addition to a proposed Code of Ethics by which both lawmakers and state employes would have had to lived by in the handling of public funds.

Davis, in fact, vetoed the watered - down deadhead bill Friday after the lawmakers adjourned sine die early Thursday.

Money was the big concern of the session and Davis won quick approval of a $60-million bond issue to help cover the state deficit. It was the third $60-million bond issue proposed since Davis took office two years ago.

By a shifting of funds, the $73 million deficit was covered, so the administration said, while the Legislature went about adopting a $497-million general appropriations bill, backbone of the state $787-million budget for the fiscal year which began July 1.

Davis' chief fiscal officer, James S. Reily, commissioner of administration, said the bond issue and the reduced budget, by about $15-million over the previous year, would leave the administration with a surplus at the end of the current fiscal term.

But State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell, whose predictions on state finances have been more accurate than the Davis administration's reports, says the state is heading for another deficit.

The Public Affairs Research Council made the announcement.

Most department spending was held down in the proposed budget and Supt. Shelby M. Jackson even took a licking on Davis' $1.3 million reduction in the hot lunch program.

While the state's shortage of funds was given top priority, segregation, an issue that kept the Legislature on its heels two years, took a backseat.

It was seldom mentioned while the only major legislative segregation program was the passage of bills setting up a grants-in-aid system by which a commission hopes to make direct grant to students attending private, segregated schools.

In addition, the administration, at the last minute, passed resolution reviving the old legislative watchdog committee on New Orleans schools.

Funds allocated to New Orleans schools will pass first through the committee before reaching the Orleans School Board, which is an eyewash and a mere formality.

While segregation was soft-pedaled, the Legislature ignored warnings of federal intervention to reapportion, slapping down several bills designed to rearrange the general assembly.

The Legislature went home under the threat of a lawsuit in federal court — a suit which a former state senator, J. D. DeBlieux, of Baton Rouge said he will file.

Davis, meantime, kept a tight rein on the lawmakers while organized oppostion was completely lacking.

Two Shreveport area solons, Sen. Jackson B. Davis and Sen. Johnny Rogers, offered the most vocal opposition to the governor's administration.

But during the final hours of the session 28 senators signed a declaration that in so many words upheld the Davis admnistration and downgraded what Sen. Davis and Sen. Rogers had to say.

In fact, two top state officials felt the brunt of Davis' strength.

Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion was the first to fall when the administration, early in the session, slapped through a resolution removing Gremillion from the tidelands picture, establishing a five - man legislative committee to assist Davis in dealing with the federal government.

Distress Call Sent Out Over Medicare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield Saturday sent former health secretary Abraham A. Ribicoff a distress call for his help to get a compromise version of President Kennedy's medicare bill through the Senate next week.

Mansfield's office made public a telegram in which the Montanan urged the recently-resigned Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to return here from Connecticut Monday and Tuesday "to assist us in connection with the health bill."

The key vote on the compromise measure, providing health care for the aged under Social Security, is set for Tuesday. The call for Ribicoff's help pointed up the Democratic leadership's concern about prospects for passage of the bipartisan compromise.

Democratic leaders were becoming more conservative in their victory claims as the time approached for the key vote on the politically-hot issue

Ribicoff is in Connecticut campaigning for the party's senatorial nomination. Mansfield said in his telegram that both he and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N. M., chief Democratic sponsor of the compromise version, "feel it imperative for the success of this important legislation that you accede to our request" to return to the capital for the vote.

He said that "your great knowledge and dedicated devotion to this program will stand us in good stead because the key vote will occur on Tuesday afternoon."

House-Senate Feud Dates Back To Early Jealousies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The prestige battle in which the Senate and House are deadlocked over the handling of money bills reflects jealousy between the two branches that dates back to the earliest days of Congress.

It is nothing new for members of the two houses to get their hackles up and to denounce their collegues across the Capitol. It has been going on since the first Congress met.

Involved in the current clash is the hoary matter of prestige. House members are tired of walking across the Capitol to the Senate side to work out differences over appropriations measures. They are annoyed about always having a senator — sometimes many years their junior in age and service—preside over these conferences.

Senators, on the other hand, are irked because the House insists on originating all spending bills. They say they are willing to divide up the honors in the conference committees in return for being able to get in their licks first on half of the appropriations measures.

Peace talks which resumed a couple of days ago will continue Monday. Disputants on both sides are talking more hopefully of some agreement which would end the deadlock at least for this year, with procedures for the future to be studied, after congress adjourns.

A psychiatrist might find some basis for the House's feeling of frustration in the fact that when the first Congress convened, the House met downstairs and the Senate above it in an ornate chamber. Thus the Senate laid claim to being the "upper house" —a phrase which makes any House member come out fighting.

During the constitutional convention it was the opinion of James Madison that "the numerous and immediate representatives of the people composing the House will decidedly predominate the government."

But it just didn't seem to work out that way.

In the first place, the senators always regarded themselves as the intellectually and socially elite. They went for pomp and circumstance in a big way.

Vice Prrsident John Adams seemed to think the Senate ought to be a short of house of lords in which members wore the title of "right honorable." He wanted the sergeant-at-arms designated as "usher of the black rod."

As its first solemn business, while the House worked away on trying to straighten out the fledgling nation's finances, the Senate voted to bestow on George Washington the title of "his highness, the President of the United States of America, and protector of their liberties."

As Adams put it, if Washington were known only as " 'President' the common people of foreign countries would despise him to all eternity."

The hard-headed House rejected any fancy title for the president.

Some hotheads argued then and there for a resolution to censure the Senate because of its presumptions of grandeur. Adams was ridiculed in the House as "His Rotundity."

RE-ELECTED LEADER

Ikeda Envisions Japanese Gains

TOKYO (AP) — Hayato Ikeda, whose re-election Saturday as Liberal-Democratic party president probably gives him at least two more years as prime minister, is a hardheaded economist with a vision.

The vision is a plan to double the national income in 10 years.

Ikeda, 62, begins his second two-year tenure of the prime ministership two weeks after a national election for members of the upper House gave him a victory widely interpreted as approval of his economic policies.

Not everyone agrees with his program, whose announcement a year ago touched off a business boom that overheated the economy.

One critic is Aiichiro Fujiyama. Before resigning on election day from his Cabinet post as director of the Economic Planning Board, Fujiyama criticized the way Ikeda is handling economic affairs. Fujiyama challenged Ikeda for the party presidency but withdrew when his defeat became inevitable. Ikeda was renamed to the top party job by a vote of 391-37.

Ikeda has not been shaken or dissuaded by Fujiyama's criticism. He maintains the quiet self-confidence that comes from a life devoted to the intricacies of economics.

As prime minister he is presiding over a prosperity he helped bring about. Finance minister in the Cabinet of Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, after Japan's surrender in World War II he devoted himself to the reconstruction of a nation broken economically by war. His contacts during this period with the United States and its economic advisers in the military occupation were frequent.

He continued to help guide the financial policies of the country as finance minister in the Cabinet of Tanzan Ishibashi, who succeeded Yoshida. Later he was minister of international trade and industry under Nobosuke Kishi, Ikeda's immediate predecessor as prime minister.

The country received Ikeda's 10-year plan with enthusiasm. Industry, with an eye to the future, began buying capital goods abroad in such volume that a crisis was created in Japan's international balance of payments.

Ikeda now is wrestling with this major obstacle to his plan and hopes to have it removed by late fall or early winter, thus answering Fujiyama's criticism. Fujiyama had objected that recovery moved too quickly, putting a strain on the economy.

Youngest child of a wine merchant in Hiroshima Prefecture, Ikeda spent a carefree youth.

Monroe fire trucks shuttled back and forth from the scene bringing water in an effort to save the plant, but said that an estimated 95 per cent of the building was destroyed. Shortly after the fire at the plant was extinguished, firemen had to return and put out a blaze in two boxcars near the plant that started from internal combustion. Wanger Talks 'Cleopatra'

ROME (AP)—Producer Walter Wanger looked back Saturday over the tumultuous five years that went into the making of the Elizabeth Taylor film "Cleopatra."

"I'd love to make another picture with her," he said.

"She is the most underrated and most misunderstood woman in the world. She's bright, intelligent, thoughtful and well-read. She has a mind of her own. I have nothing but admiration for Taylor."

Wanger, a veteran of 43 years in the rough and tumble of the film world, spoke as he relaxed in his Rome hotel. He still faces 12 more days of desert battle scenes in Egypt, starting next week. But filming in Italy was completed Saturday after 201 days on location. And Miss Taylor's work in the picture is finished. What are her plans now?

"I really don't know," said Wanger. "I don't know that she knows. I don't know that she has any plans."

Of the mammoth film spectacular itself, Wanger insisted it will be a box-office smash.

Delays, huge salaries and production expenses cost 20th Century-Fox $30 million in a gamble for financial survival. If the film flops it could mean death for the studio.

"The company needs about 45 or 50 million dollars to break even," Wanger said. "Personally, I think the picture will make $100 million. Some people think more."

Wanger acknowledged there had been bad feeling between him and the studio front office, worried about the staggering production costs.

"The directors suddenly cut off my salary June first," he commented. "I got a copy of a resolution telling me about it. My lawyers are still trying to find out what they can do about it."

Is is true that the picture will make or break the studio.

"Well," smiled Wanger, "they seemed to be doing pretty well in the break department before I came to them with the film. I resent very much their dragging 'Cleopatra' into their distress."

What about the star system, in which everything is risked on a big name actor or actress, as in the case of Miss Taylor?

"You can't kill the star system. You don't find Elizabeth Taylors, Marilyn Monroes and Marlon Brandos growing on bushes.

Wanger's words indicated he did not think publicity about Miss Taylor's private life would hurt the movie. While in Rome working on "Cleopatra," her marriage to singer Eddie Fisher went on the rocks. She and costar Richard Burton dated frequently, bringing criticism from the Vatican newspaper and a U.S. congresswoman, among others.

How much did Wanger think Miss Taylor might make out of the film?

He wouldn't venture a figure—"but she'll do all right."

During the first four months of the nine-months shooting schedule in Italy she is reported to have earned a cool million. She also enjoyed $50,000 a week overtime, plus fringe benefits. Some estimates are that with her interest in the film she may eventually get $10 million out of it.

Macmillan To Fire More

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will carry his political purge to the junior ministries within the next four or five days and end the "little austerity" policy which cost the Conservative Party much popularity, informed sources said Saturday.

He began the purge Friday night by firing six cabinet ministers and the Secretary of State for Scotland and brought one newspaper headline: "Macruthless." Newspapers revived the old monker "Mac the Knife" and several called it "the massacre of Friday the 13th."

Selwyn Lloyd, the Chancellor of the Exchequer (Treasurer), bore the brunt of the blame for the little austerity' drive which froze white collar and laborers wages. He was dumped in what some papers called "cold blooded" fashion.

Replacing him is former Colonial Secretary Reginald Maudling who is expected to reverse the belt tightening drive and to try to return the Conservatives to their "you never had it so good" theme, which won them an unprecedented third-in-a-row general election victory in 1959.

Since introduction of the little austerity program — backed fully by Macmillan—the Conservatives have dropped 14 recent by - elections for seats in parliament.

Macmillan's arch foes, Labor Party leader Joe Grimond, called for an immediate general election. But political sources said Macmillan engineered the reshuffle to give his government time to recoup its popularity before October, 1964, the deadline for calling a general election.

Labor Party M. P. Harold Wilson, the opposition foreign affairs spokesman, said Macmillan made Lloyd and the other outgoing ministers the "scapegoats." He said, "when a company is facing bankruptcy through mismanagement it is usually the chairman of the board who goes first, not the executive directors."

The sources said in recent days there had been a move to ease up on austerity but that Lloyd had opposed this. His refusal frightened some of the Conservatives and they pointed to the spectacular loss to labor of the "safe" Conservative white collar constituency of Orpington this spring.

Others to fall included Defense Minister Harold Watkinson, Education Minister Sir David Eccles, Secretary of State for Scotland John Maclay, Housing Minister Charles Hill and Political Advisers Lord Mills and Lord Kilmuir.

Chief benefactor was Richard A. Butler. He moved up from home secretary to deputy prime minister and Macmillan's political crown prince.

French Gusto Enlivens Fete Of Storming

PARIS (AP) — Frenchmen, at peace for the first time since World War II, celebrated Saturday the 173rd anniversary of the storming of the Bastille in Paris with a rousing parade, fireworks and dances.

Even a rainstorm failed to dampen the gusto for this year's celebration — France's version of the Fourth of July.

Hundreds of armored vehicles and 10,000 troops moved smartly from the Arch of Triumph and down the broad Champs Elysees as rain fell from black, ugly skies. Thousands of persons—many huddled under umbrellas — clustered several deep along the route as the parade rolled along to the wide Place de la Concorde.

President Charles de Gaulle, in his wartime brigadier general's uniform, stood at stiff attention in a reviewing stand as the crack units passed.

A government spokesman said the parade was a "new look" of France's military might following peace in the 7½-year guerrilla war in Algeria. Emphasis now, he said, is on swift, mobile armored units rather than guerrilla-type infantry.

Only memento from more glamorous days was a mounted unit of Republican Guardsmen, resplendent in plumed bronze helmets, blue coats and white riding breeches. They clattered down the avenue with a band following blaring marches.

Throughout France there were similar celebrations, as Frenchmen made the most of the anniversary of the historic day when the fall of Bastille prison sparked the revolution that toppled French monarchy.

COLIN GIBBS, 22-year-old student from Birmingham, England, lets drivers know who he is as he hitch-hikes westward across the United States. Gibbs wants to be a teacher, and since he will teach geography, decided the best way to learn of the U.S. is by "rule of thumb." (AP Wirephoto)

CLAIMS ARAB LEADERSHIP

Nasser's Power Seems On Wane

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) The man who claims for himself and his country the leadership of the Arab world, Egypt's Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, is today the most isolated ruler — at least on the governmental level — in the whole troubled area.

Through the powerful voice of Cairo Radio, Nasser can still appeal to the restless masses, but even here his strength would appear to be on the wane.

Egypt at present is not on cordial terms with a single Middle Eastern state.

To the south of Cairo lies the Sudan. It appears uneasily watchful, remembering all too clearly the Egyptian dream of total control of the Nile waters. Relations here are correct, but hardly amiable.

To the West, King Idriss of Libya has survived more than one Cairo-sponsored agitation against his rule. Observers remain convinced that Nasser's dream of controlling the potential oil wealth of Libya may lead to new disturbances.

The huge bulk of the Arabian peninsula, dominated by the feudal kingdom of Saudi Arabia, is a constant target for attacks by Cairo Radio. Cairo criticizes King Saud for his alleged dependence on Washington and for the continuing feudal nature of the Saudi state.

Similarly, the tiny state of Yemen, hinged in the southeastern tip of the peninsula, is flayed by Cairo Radio — once more for the feudalism of its ruler, the Imam. It is ironic to recall here that the Yemen once formed a part of the quickly formed — and almost as quickly killed — United Arab Federation consisting of Egypt, Syria and the Yemen.

The other member of this trio, Syria, also is at odds with Egypt today.

Nasser's continuing bitter attacks — and his abortive agitations — against British and American-backed King Hussein of Jordan are part of modern Middle East history.

Possibly what is not so well known is the steadily mounting campaign being organized by Nasser against the Shah of Iran — a campaign being carried on through an alleged underground radio station.

The tone of these broadcasts is savage. They range from calls to "kill the pig of a Shah and throw his body into the river" to urgent appeals to the Iranian army to "raise and rend the oppressor of the people into a million pieces."

There is mounting wonder in Western diplomatic circles here at the apparent Anglo-American willingness to ignore these attacks on a country which one diplomat has referred to as "the hinge of the vital Central Treaty Organization (CENTO)."

As this diplomat put it: "At a time when Nasser is seeking loans and assistance from the West it seems a little strange that we don't demand, as a quid pro quo, that he stop trying to undermine an organization — CENTO — designed specifically to keep communism out of his own part of the world."

Whether this is merely a phase or whether Nasser's power is genuinely waning remains to be seen.

French Gusto Enlivens Fete Of Storming

PARIS (AP) — Frenchmen, at peace for the first time since World War II, celebrated Saturday the 173rd anniversary of the storming of the Bastille in Paris with a rousing parade, fireworks and dances.

Even a rainstorm failed to dampen the gusto for this year's celebration — France's version of the Fourth of July.

Hundreds of armored vehicles and 10,000 troops moved smartly from the Arch of Triumph and down the broad Champs Elysees as rain fell from black, ugly skies. Thousands of persons—many huddled under umbrellas — clustered several deep along the route as the parade rolled along to the wide Place de la Concorde.

President Charles de Gaulle, in his wartime brigadier general's uniform, stood at stiff attention in a reviewing stand as the crack units passed.

A government spokesman said the parade was a "new look" of France's military might following peace in the 7½-year guerrilla war in Algeria. Emphasis now, he said, is on swift, mobile armored units rather than guerrilla-type infantry.

Only memento from more glamorous days was a mounted unit of Republican Guardsmen, resplendent in plumed bronze helmets, blue coats and white riding breeches. They clattered down the avenue with a band following blaring marches.

Throughout France there were similar celebrations, as Frenchmen made the most of the anniversary of the historic day when the fall of Bastille prison sparked the revolution that toppled French monarchy.

CLAIMS ARAB LEADERSHIP

Nasser's Power Seems On Wane

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) The man who claims for himself and his country the leadership of the Arab world, Egypt's Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, is today the most isolated ruler — at least on the governmental level — in the whole troubled area.

Through the powerful voice of Cairo Radio, Nasser can still appeal to the restless masses, but even here his strength would appear to be on the wane.

Egypt at present is not on cordial terms with a single Middle Eastern state.

To the south of Cairo lies the Sudan. It appears uneasily watchful, remembering all too clearly the Egyptian dream of total control of the Nile waters. Relations here are correct, but hardly amiable.

To the West, King Idriss of Libya has survived more than one Cairo-sponsored agitation against his rule. Observers remain convinced that Nasser's dream of controlling the potential oil wealth of Libya may lead to new disturbances.

The huge bulk of the Arabian peninsula, dominated by the feudal kingdom of Saudi Arabia, is a constant target for attacks by Cairo Radio. Cairo criticizes King Saud for his alleged dependence on Washington and for the continuing feudal nature of the Saudi state.

Similarly, the tiny state of Yemen, hinged in the southeastern tip of the peninsula, is flayed by Cairo Radio — once more for the feudalism of its ruler, the Imam. It is ironic to recall here that the Yemen once formed a part of the quickly formed — and almost as quickly killed — United Arab Federation consisting of Egypt, Syria and the Yemen.

The other member of this trio, Syria, also is at odds with Egypt today.

Nasser's continuing bitter attacks — and his abortive agitations — against British and American-backed King Hussein of Jordan are part of modern Middle East history.

Possibly what is not so well known is the steadily mounting campaign being organized by Nasser against the Shah of Iran — a campaign being carried on through an alleged underground radio station.

The tone of these broadcasts is savage. They range from calls to "kill the pig of a Shah and throw his body into the river" to urgent appeals to the Iranian army to "raise and rend the oppressor of the people into a million pieces."

There is mounting wonder in Western diplomatic circles here at the apparent Anglo-American willingness to ignore these attacks on a country which one diplomat has referred to as "the hinge of the vital Central Treaty Organization (CENTO)."

As this diplomat put it: "At a time when Nasser is seeking loans and assistance from the West it seems a little strange that we don't demand, as a quid pro quo, that he stop trying to undermine an organization — CENTO — designed specifically to keep communism out of his own part of the world."

Whether this is merely a phase or whether Nasser's power is genuinely waning remains to be seen.

TRIAL IN SECRET

U.S. Student Given Red Jail Sentence

BERLIN (AP) — Robert Mann, 19, a student from Sepulveda, Calif., was sentenced to 21 months in prison after a secret trial in Communist East Berlin.

He was accused of trying to help a refugee escape to the West but no details leaked from behind the court's closed doors.

There was hope young Mann would not have to serve more than a few months. The judge counted the six months he was jailed awaiting trial in the 21-months, for other American and foreigners sentenced in similar cases.

Vogel told a Western newsmen he would not commit himself to any date, but hoped young Mann would be free before Christmas.

Charles Mann, Robert's father, saw him sentenced and was allowed to visit him for 20 minutes afterward. The elder Mann said he had no indication whether his son would be released early, only hopes.

Informed sources said Mann was charged with trying to supply false identity papers to Uwe Sturberg, 25, an East Berliner. These sources said there were suggestions of substitution of a photograph on a passport. Sturberg sat on the bench alongside Mann at the opening of the trial Wednesday and again Saturday during the 10 minutes it took to hand down the sentence.

Informed sources said Sturberg received a suspended sentence of a year and his parents, who also were in court, longer terms, also suspended.

The judge cleared the court, "in the interests of state security," after Mann identified himself Wednesday.

JFK-Khrushchev Struggle Heads For Climax

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The diplomatic struggle between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev seems to be moving rapidly toward a climax. Some of the best informed officials here foresee a worsening of U.S. - Soviet relations and possibly a new, dangerous crisis over Berlin.

What happens at this turning point in the cold war will depend more on decisions made by Khrushchev than by Kennedy as things now stand. Perhaps the critical question from the viewpoint of official Washington is whether Khrushchev is convinced that the United States will fight if he forces a military showdown over Berlin.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has tried to get across to top Soviet officials since last fall Kennedy's determination on this point.

Rusk sees U.S. determination with respect to Berlin as the basis of Western diplomacy on this issue. His theory — like that of previous secretaries of state—has been that Khrushchev would not deliberately force a war, but might try to force acceptance of his demands if he believed he could do so without risking a major conflict.

Several objectives have guided administration strategy and tactics from January 1961 when the President was new in the White House and a kind of honeymoon of sweet talk and good will gestures existed.

Kennedy held some hope of reaching an enforceable nuclear test ban agreement with the Russians. He felt that from such a start progress might be made on other disarmament measures. He foresaw the possibility of easing off conflict in Southeast Asia. He thought it important to explore every possibility for even a very limited agreement to defuse the Berlin dispute. He favored opening up more U.S.-Soviet People-to-people contacts and the like.

There has been an increase in contacts and exchanges of views but there have also been failures which reflect not on the inadeqquacy of U.S. Cold war strategy and diplomacy but on the fact that the U.S. and Soviet governmenters continue to work at cross purposes where the stakes are high.

As Kennedy built up U.S. military strength following the Cuban invasion fiasco and the outbreak of Communist - made crises in Laos and Berlin last summer, Khrushchev hardened his stand on disarmament, rejected all international inspection for a nuclear test ban, and resumed testing nuclear weapons. While disarmament talks will continue there is no real hope here of any agreement.

There has until quite recently, however, been a real hope that some kind of Washington-Moscow understanding could be reached on Berlin. There has also been persistent hope that a reversal of the Berlin situation — moving it away from periodic crises—would lead to eventual improvement in other fields of East-West controversy, including disarmament.

In a word, Washington sees Berlin as the crux of East-West relations.

Buring the past week it has become apparent that the long efforts to find some formula for Berlin accord have in fact been going badly although both U.S. and Soviet negotiators are preserving what the State Department calls the businesslike approach.

At a Thursday meeting with Rusk, Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin once more insisted that the heart of the problem is removal of U.S., British and French forces from West Berlin. Rusk once more made clear that the United States will make no concession on this point.

This week Rusk will see Dobrynin again. Later he'll fly to Geneva to sign an East-West agreement to neutralize Laos. This is one of the few issues on which there seems to have been a meeting of minds between Moscow and Washington.

In Geneva Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko are due to have a new go-round on the Berlin problem.

But Rusk said Thursday there was no prospect of any further serious negotiation if the Russians continue to insist on withdrawal of Western forces from the city. Khrushchev made it clear in a speech Tuesday that there is no prospect for successful negotiation as far as he is concerned unless the Western powers do pull out their troops.

In summary, the long exchange of views which began last fall and even such previous talks as the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting at Vienna in June 1961 have served to refine and sharpen the issues to this single point of troops in Berlin.

Kennedy administration officials would not be surprised if Khrushchev's next move came rather soon. His choices appear to be three: 1. He can create a new crisis, perhaps by pressures on Berlin supply lines, in the belief that in the last analysis the United States will not react with force and he can gain his purpose by beginning at least to break down Western resistance.

Some critics say that Vienna is too easy going and insincere. But many musical composers, artists and writers have found inspiration in it for great works. A roving correspondent found in it the feeling of hope, beauty and dignity of man, as well as melancholy and sorrow. He also saw scenes of exquisite imperial splendor, and the workings of a mysterious bureaucracy.

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP) — Vienna is bitter sweet. It makes you laugh and cry.

Critics say it is "schlampig" — sloppy, insincere, too easy going. They don't understand.

Vienna is a philosophy, a state of mind. It is 1,700,000 people who know: Life is bitter, short and hard. Therefore, enjoy it—sweeten it with wine, women and song. Willy nilly, you're doomed to pay the piper—so let's dance.

FICKLE

A Western city at the gates of Asia, Vienna has a Slavic soul and is fickle as a Balkan gypsy.

Vienna smiles through its tears. It can be terribly gay and terribly sad. Mozart wrote his own requiem before dying tragically at 35. Schubert's music is deeply melancholic. He died at 31. Many of Vienna's great poets committed suicide.

Even Johann Strauss, the waltz king had sad moments. But he had a Viennese answer in one of his operettas.

"Do not fret, just forget, all the things you cannot get," he said. Drink the bubbly new wine of the Vienna woods today. You may not be here when the wine has aged tomorrow.

You feel hope, beauty and the dignity of man when you see Vienna's exquisite imperial splendor. Stately Schoenbrunn Palace shimmering in the sun, the formal gardens of Belvedere in ordered bloom, the ancient Hofburg Palace of the Hapsburgs and the gothic spire of St. Stephens Cathedral reaching toward the Sky.

MUSIC, LAUGHTER, SORROW, BEAUTY—

GHOST OF A CITY

These are the relics of an empire that once ruled most of Europe. Now there are ghosts, ghosts of a city once at the struggling, warring crossroads of Europe, swept by plague and sieged by invaders who enview its riches.

Hundreds of years before New York, Vienna was the world's greatest melting pot of people's German, Hungarian, Italian, Polish, Romanian, Yugoslav, Russian and even Irish.

Like New York, Vienna subdued their racial differences, their violent passions, their conflicting cultures. Out of it was born today's Viennese, held together by one common "weltanschauung."

It's a philosophy that what's important is unimportant, what's unimportant — that's what's important. Like the Viennese professor who rejected a high job in the provinces because there was no chamber music group in which he could play his cello.

Like the electrician who comes to fix your doorbell, interrupts the repairs to help your wife make a delicate Hollandaise sauce, and then goes away—the bell still unrepaired.

Or the Viennese who repeatedly discussed, in the tensions of the East—West military occupation after the last war, which of two confectioners had the legal right to make sachertorte, a chocolate cake.

"Why it's important? — because when the Russians and Americans are gone, the sachertorte will still be here," they explained. It still is and the confectioners are still squabbling.

It's a philosophy expressed in the sentimental ballads sung in the cool, green wine-gardens on the slopes of the Vienna Woods and in streets with names like Himmelpfortgasse Gate to Heaven Street and Himmelstrasse Heaven Street.

Ballads like "Oh, Heavenly Father, I Need No Paradise. Vienna is Paradise Enough For Me," or "Happiness is a Bird You Cannot Catch," or "If It's Not God's Will, Nothing Can Help."

Here at the same wooden tables, sitting on the same hard benches, are the polyglot Viennese: the businessman and the chimney sweep, the professor and the cleaning frau, the judge and the baker. Together they click glasses and sympathize with each other's problems.

CAN BE FRUSTRATING

Vienna can be frustrating and impossible. The opera is invariably sold out or there are all night queues for tickets, the milk stores and groceries have different hours, waiters appear engaged in some diversions and they ignore your wish to settle your bill in a hurry.

It is a city where "immediately" can mean eventually, sometime. Where "punctually at 5" perhaps means tomorrow at the same time.

—A city of mysterious bureaucracy, where if you obtain a package from the customs or a license to open a business it seems a sheer miracle. An official document, once obtained, has so many stamps and seals, it looks like an illuminated scroll from the 14th Century.

—A city overpopulated by officials who open their drawers—as you sit expectantly awaiting your papers—extract a knife, fork, spoon and salt shaker and chomp away on one of the innumerable snacks they have brought to work in their briefcases.

—A city whose officials admit that after centuries exposes are so contradictory that there is only one good rule of thumb: everything that is forbidden is permitted.

TIPPING INVOLVED

—A city where tipping is an involved ritual and a 100-schilling note (25 cents) will help you get red tape untangled.

The critics may be right about these fragments of the great theatre that is Vienna, but—there is the golden Vienna State Opera, the throbbing heart of the city, every night for 10 months a year. In the parterre sit new rich and the elegant remnants of a dispossessed nobility. In the fourth gallery, are students.

Nowhere else could a great city unite, as recently, in defiance of bureaucracy, to stage a hero-worshipping revolution which brought Herbert von Karajan back after he resigned from the opera in a huff.

Nowhere else would a great opera star be given a state funeral and official medical bulletins be issued on another's condition. Nowhere else would music-lovers speak of "Karajan's Ninth" instead of "Bethoven's Ninth," or a jazz band be named after the great conductor.

Nowhere else would once-acclaimed opera stars remain public idols even after they no longer can sing.

Only in Vienna.

The Great Philharmonic gives concerts at the impossible times of 3 p.m. on Saturdays and 11 a.m. on Sundays, because they have no evenings free. They are busy at nights on the side, functioning as the state opera orchestra.

Vienna is a city where poverty is no indignity — where you can buy one cigarette without embarrassment, where you can read all day in a coffeehouse for the price of a cup of coffee that goes by any of 60 names, where a glass of cheap wine costs less than a nickel.

It is a city of people dreaming of the past, accepting—but inwardly resisting — the advance of modern, industrial life. . .

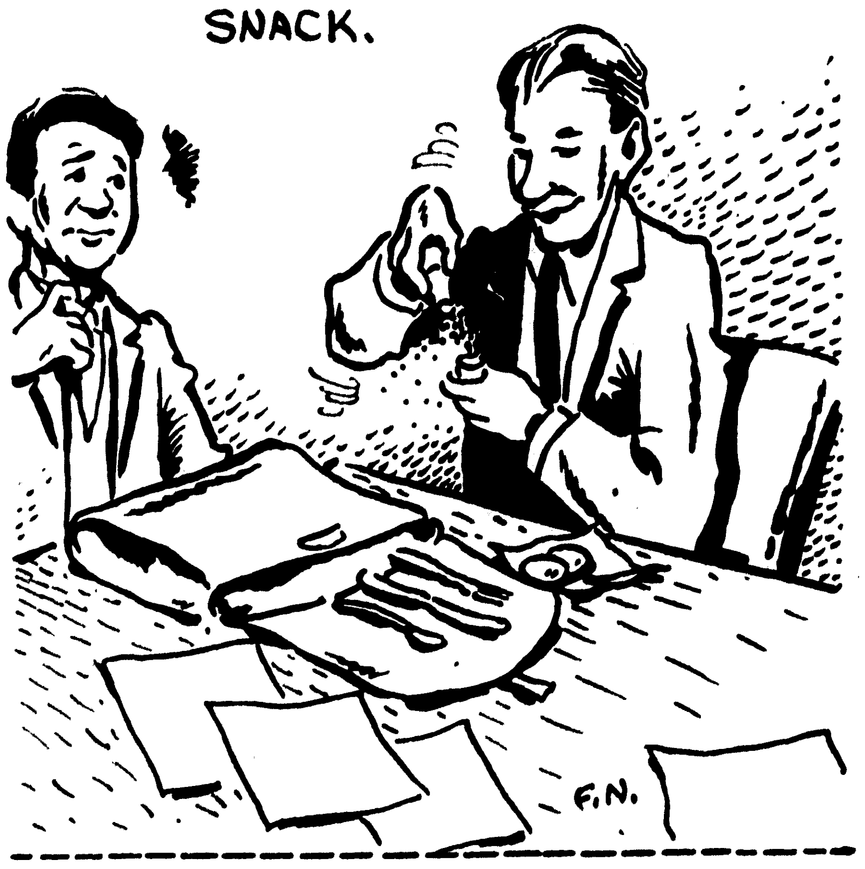
The same time-honored coffee-houses give way to Italian expresso bars, the bowler - hatted cabbies of the two - horse fiacres trot through the rush hour traffic, old pensioners struggle to master the escalators in the underpasses at busy intersections, modern architecture appears among the countless baroque palaces.

BITTER SWEET

Of this bitter-sweet magic in Vienna, the bitter is offset by the sweet . . .

The lovers kissing in the park in front of the historic chancellory where the dazzling Congress of Vienna in 1815 brought peace to Europe for 30 years, the children playing under the giant ferris wheel in the Prater Park, the cavalier policemen holding up busy traffic in midtown for the white Lippizaner horses of the Spanish riding school, the crystal pure voices of the Vienna Boys' Choir. . .

THE PUBLIC'S BUSINESS CAN WAIT WHILE THE OFFICIAL HAS A SNACK.



The ivy clinging to yellow walls, the bells of gothic churches ringing out over the snow-covered cobblestones, the glittering balls at the approach of Lent, the lilac and chestnut blossoms in spring and the dry, warm winds of summer from the Hungarian plains. . .

There are the shop assistants who never change jobs and remember your preferences when you return 20 years later, the creaky parquet flooring in old palaces turned into offices, the restaurants whose floors are so slanted with age you fear you will slide into the Danube . . .

The organ-grinder in the court-yards hidden behind busy thoroughfares, the shawled peasant women selling lavender and flowers, the cobbler at his bench listening to a Mozart violin concerto, the pensioners playing with triple-sized cards in the public parks, and the old men sleeping and waiting for death in the smart new West Station . . .

It's a philosophy that what's important is unimportant, what's unimportant — that's what's important. Like the Viennese professor who rejected a high job in the provinces because there was no chamber music group in which he could play his cello.

Like the electrician who comes to fix your doorbell, interrupts the repairs to help your wife make a delicate Hollandaise sauce, and then goes away—the bell still unrepaired.

Or the Viennese who repeatedly discussed, in the tensions of the East—West military occupation after the last war, which of two confectioners had the legal right to make sachertorte, a chocolate cake.

"Why it's important? — because when the Russians and Americans are gone, the sachertorte will still be here," they explained. It still is and the confectioners are still squabbling.

It's a philosophy expressed in the sentimental ballads sung in the cool, green wine-gardens on the slopes of the Vienna Woods and in streets with names like Himmelpfortgasse Gate to Heaven Street and Himmelstrasse Heaven Street.

Ballads like "Oh, Heavenly Father, I Need No Paradise. Vienna is Paradise Enough For Me," or "Happiness is a Bird You Cannot Catch," or "If It's Not God's Will, Nothing Can Help."

Here at the same wooden tables, sitting on the same hard benches, are the polyglot Viennese: the businessman and the chimney sweep, the professor and the cleaning frau, the judge and the baker. Together they click glasses and sympathize with each other's problems.

CAN BE FRUSTRATING

Vienna can be frustrating and impossible. The opera is invariably sold out or there are all night queues for tickets, the milk stores and groceries have different hours, waiters appear engaged in some diversions and they ignore your wish to settle your bill in a hurry.

It is a city where "immediately" can mean eventually, sometime. Where "punctually at 5" perhaps means tomorrow at the same time.

—A city of mysterious bureaucracy, where if you obtain a package from the customs or a license to open a business it seems a sheer miracle. An official document, once obtained, has so many stamps and seals, it looks like an illuminated scroll from the 14th Century.

—A city overpopulated by officials who open their drawers—as you sit expectantly awaiting your papers—extract a knife, fork, spoon and salt shaker and chomp away on one of the innumerable snacks they have brought to work in their briefcases.

—A city whose officials admit that after centuries exposes are so contradictory that there is only one good rule of thumb: everything that is forbidden is permitted.

TIPPING INVOLVED

—A city where tipping is an involved ritual and a 100-schilling note (25 cents) will help you get red tape untangled.

The critics may be right about these fragments of the great theatre that is Vienna, but—there is the golden Vienna State Opera, the throbbing heart of the city, every night for 10 months a year. In the parterre sit new rich and the elegant remnants of a dispossessed nobility. In the fourth gallery, are students.

Nowhere else could a great city unite, as recently, in defiance of bureaucracy, to stage a hero-worshipping revolution which brought Herbert von Karajan back after he resigned from the opera in a huff.

Nowhere else would a great opera star be given a state funeral and official medical bulletins be issued on another's condition. Nowhere else would music-lovers speak of "Karajan's Ninth" instead of "Bethoven's Ninth," or a jazz band be named after the great conductor.

Nowhere else would once-acclaimed opera stars remain public idols even after they no longer can sing.

Only in Vienna.

The Great Philharmonic gives concerts at the impossible times of 3 p.m. on Saturdays and 11 a.m. on Sundays, because they have no evenings free. They are busy at nights on the side, functioning as the state opera orchestra.

Vienna is a city where poverty is no indignity — where you can buy one cigarette without embarrassment, where you can read all day in a coffeehouse for the price of a cup of coffee that goes by any of 60 names, where a glass of cheap wine costs less than a nickel.

It is a city of people dreaming of the past, accepting—but inwardly resisting — the advance of modern, industrial life. . .

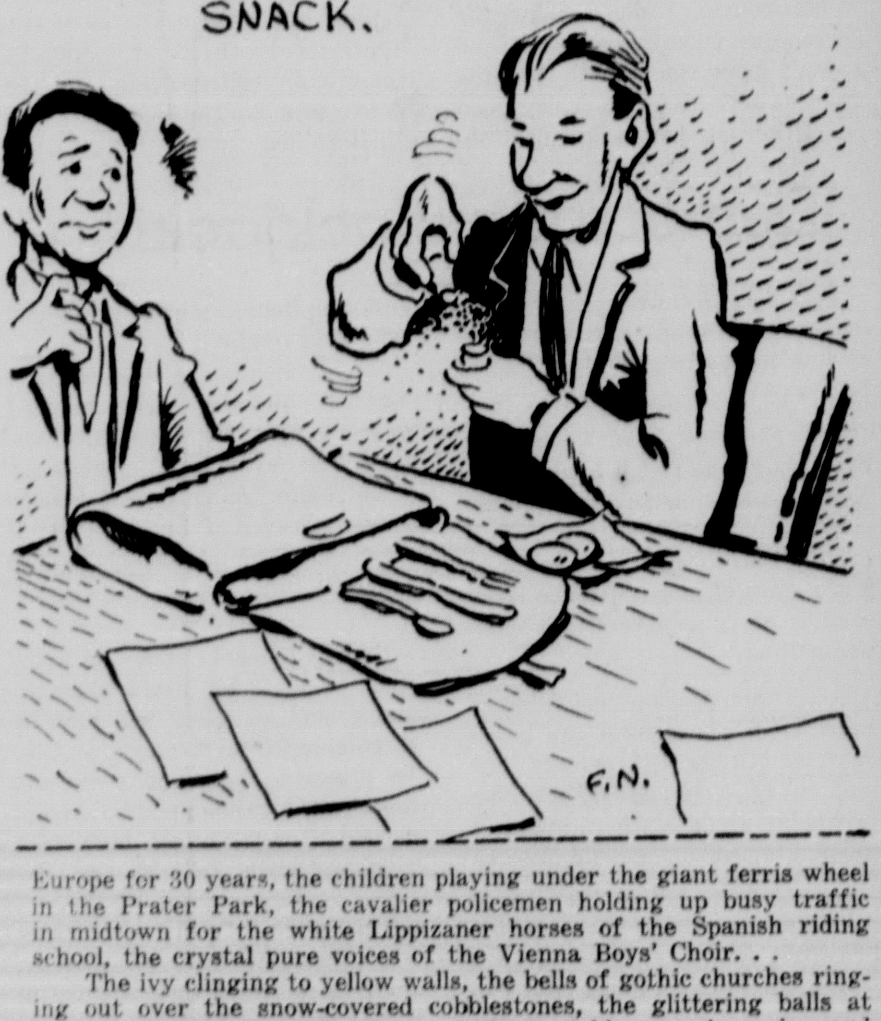
The same time-honored coffee-houses give way to Italian expresso bars, the bowler - hatted cabbies of the two - horse fiacres trot through the rush hour traffic, old pensioners struggle to master the escalators in the underpasses at busy intersections, modern architecture appears among the countless baroque palaces.

BITTER SWEET

Of this bitter-sweet magic in Vienna, the bitter is offset by the sweet . . .

The lovers kissing in the park in front of the historic chancellory where the dazzling Congress of Vienna in 1815 brought peace to Europe for 30 years, the children playing under the giant ferris wheel in the Prater Park, the cavalier policemen holding up busy traffic in midtown for the white Lippizaner horses of the Spanish riding school, the crystal pure voices of the Vienna Boys' Choir. . .

THE PUBLIC'S BUSINESS CAN WAIT WHILE THE OFFICIAL HAS A SNACK.



The ivy clinging to yellow walls, the bells of gothic churches ringing out over the snow-covered cobblestones, the glittering balls at the approach of Lent, the lilac and chestnut blossoms in spring and the dry, warm winds of summer from the Hungarian plains. . .

There are the shop assistants who never change jobs and remember your preferences when you return 20 years later, the creaky parquet flooring in old palaces turned into offices, the restaurants whose floors are so slanted with age you fear you will slide into the Danube . . .

The organ-grinder in the court-yards hidden behind busy thoroughfares, the shawled peasant women selling lavender and flowers, the cobbler at his bench listening to a Mozart violin concerto, the pensioners playing with triple-sized cards in the public parks, and the old men sleeping and waiting for death in the smart new West Station . . .

Deity And Independence

It was not by accident nor by lack of due consideration that the words, "with a firm reliance on the protection of a Divine Providence" were added to the final sentence of the United States Declaration of Independence.

Some interesting and little-known facts concerning the dispute over the insertion of these words have been revealed by Bill Kieffer in an article in a widely circulated national magazine. This year's Fourth of July marked the 186th anniversary of one of the first public arguments on the question in America.

In the early summer of 1776, Thomas Jefferson concluded the final draft of the Declaration of Independence and submitted it to the Continental Congress for approval. It was stated that Jefferson made no reference to a Divine Being and that he hoped there would be few changes in his draft but he was in for a bad time.

According to this authority, Jefferson was not an atheist but some accused him of it. His religion was said to be Diesm, the belief in a God who was the original creator and who would be the final judge but who, in the meantime, remains aloof from the affairs of men. This belief was contrary to the beliefs of most of the drafters of the Declaration of Independence.

It was stated that, therefore, Jefferson was not too much concerned with including references to God in his draft but other members of the Continental Congress were.

It was at their insistence and after much argument that the words, "with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence" were added.

Like many writers before and since his time who have written what to them seemed as superb a presentation as could be devised, Jefferson squirmed as delegates to the congress sharpened their blue pencils. In all, the more than 50 editors made a total of 86 alterations in his draft and shortened it by 25 per cent, even though they inserted, after much deliberation, the reference to God.

History does not show that any of the delegates, including Jefferson, saw this insertion as a threat to separation of church and state.

It took a United States Supreme Court that is leftist in its beliefs and that shows great leniency toward communism (which denies the existence of God) to make a decision which virtually held that any mention of God in a publicly-operated institution threatens the separation of church and state.

This is about as far-fetched as any opinion could be and is contrary to the wishes and beliefs of a large proportion of the people of the United States.

It is a belief so widely disputed that congress has introduced legislation designed to nullify its effects.

Let Uncle Do It

Three sons of an aged, deceased mother have really been converted to the socialistic idea of, "Let Uncle Sam do it."

In a "letter to the editor," these three sons, residents of New York City, made an outraged cry over the fact that they were required, in court, to pay the hospital and funeral expenses of their 75-year-old mother. They wrote:

"Last year our mother, aged 75, was hospitalized in a city hospital for seven weeks until her death. We children were subpoenaed to show our income tax forms. A bill of $1,200 was issued. We three sons had to pay $400 each. Then we had to finance the complete burial and pay for a stone. Why was it necessary that we had to pay?"

Writing in Human Events, Alice Widener said in part:

"Of course, I don't know the three sons (thank goodness!) and I don't know the mother. But the chances are she was a pretty good one. Otherwise her three sons probably wouldn't be earning enough honestly-gained income to be taxable. They would be on relief or in jail or gone to addresses unknown. When the sons were too young to take care of themselves, clearly she took good care of them. At least she must have provided food, a healthy home, decent medical care and a basic education. Otherwise, how could the three sons be able-bodied enough for self-support and mentally equipped enough to write a literate letter of protest against paying $400 each for her final illness?

"Why do I take the trouble to write about this 'one' letter. It is because the three sons' outraged cry echoes widely-held contempt for the commandment, 'Honor thy father and thy mother.' . .

In addition to that, we would say that the sons had pondered too long on the present United States government's theory of "cradle-to-the-grave" paternalism and its desire to make the taxpayers foot all the bills.

Democratic Blackjacking

President Kennedy is both an optimist and pressurist, as revealed in a story carried in the Detroit News.

The News reported a startling example of the rough hand of the Kennedy administration. It cited an attempt to get business leaders in the Detroit area to cough up large sums of money for the Democratic party congressional campaign fund.

After the beating businessmen have been taking from the president and after his avowed low opinion of them, most of them probably would rather pay out money to see his candidates defeated than to see them win.

Those promoting a "brunch" for President Kennedy when he goes to the automobile capital next October suggest a price of $1,000 a plate to be paid by some 40 business leaders attending.

Michigan's Democratic Governor John B. Swanson sparked the idea of a "brunch" for Kennedy and the man handling the arrangements for the function is president of a Democratic club, says the News. Democratic State Chairman J. J. Collins, who is in on the preparations, says the receipts would go to the Democratic congressional campaign fund.

Who among the businessmen who have had their wrists slapped so many times by the administration that even their feet hurt would enjoy going to a Kennedy "brunch," even if he could get a decent meal for a buck instead of $1,000?

Rome's famous Colosseum withstood nearly 2,000 years of earthquake and plunder, but now is threatened from motor vehicles. To preserve the stone structure, Rome has restricted traffic around it and inserted steel bars into weakened walls and columns.

Court Faces Sharp Rebuff

House Appropriations Subcommittee Prepares Retaliation For Tribunal For Its Decision On Prayer

The House Appropriations Committee is preparing a stinging rebuff to the Supreme Court in retaliation for its decision banning "official" prayers in public schools.

Using their most powerful weapon, the purse string, the legislators are planning to bar the Supreme Court from taking over the physical custody of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

These historical documents now are on daily display at the National Archives. In 1952, Congress ordered the Constitution moved there from the Library of Congress. The Declaration of Independence has been at the Archives since 1938 when the State Department gave up its custody of the document.

The Supreme Court now wants to change this manner of displaying the original Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

Under a proposal by Chief Justice Earl Warren, the Justices are seeking congressional approval and funds to move these priceless documents, as well as some lesser-known historical papers, to the Supreme Court for public display there.

The stage for the coming rebuff of the High Court was quietly set this week by a House Appropriations subcommittee, headed by Representative John Rooney, D-N.Y., when it acted on the judiciary's $2 million budget.

The Rooney subcommittee, which hasn't been reversed by the full Appropriations Committee or the House in the past 10 years, voted down Justice Warren's proposal, including his request for $17,200 to purchase eight fancy bronze display cases designed to hold the documents.

THE ARGUMENTS — This unanimous subcommittee decision came after Representative Rooney blasted Justice Warren's request, saying:

"As long as I have anything to say about the custody of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, these documents are going to stay at the Archives and under the control of Congress.

"The judicial branch has no right to these documents but even if there was a good reason for giving the Supreme Court custody, I don't think the House would stand for it after the way the Justices interpreted the Constitution in the New York prayer case."

"If the Supreme Court's request is put in this bill," warned Representative Fred Marshall, D-Minn., "it will touch off a major revolution when this measure is brought to the House floor. As things now stand, we are going to face plenty of fireworks on account of that decision. Members are mad and they are going to use this appropriation bill to let off steam. By turning down this reguest, we can sternly rebuke the Court without wrecking its budget."

"Why are they asking for eight display cases?" asked a GOP member of the subcommittee. "One should be sufficient to house both the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence."

"The Justices want to make a tourist attraction out of the Court," replied Rooney. "If we don't stop them, they plan to use those cases to display a whole collection of historic documents. The Court is a place of dignity. It shouldn't be made into a tourist attraction."

The six other subcommittee members agreed with Rooney. Supporting the Brooklyn Congressman's motion to bar the transfer of the documents and the funds for the exhibition cases were Representatives Marshall, Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., Don Magnuson, D-Wash., Frank Bow, R-O., Glenard P. Lipscomb, R-Calif., and Elford A. Cederberg, R-Mich.

Already Representative Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., chairman, who has his own jurisdictional feud going with the Senate, has assured Rooney that the subcommittee's unique censure of the Supreme Court will be endorsed by the full House Appropriations Committee when it meets next week.

The House is expected to support the full Committee's action when the Supreme Court's money bill comes to the floor later this month.

ON THE INSIDE — Chief Justice Warren and his wife will cruise the Adriatic this summer on a yacht as the guests of Mrs. Agnes Meyer, widow of the one-time publisher of the Washington Post . . . The House Appropriations Committee has voted a record $130 million to run the Federal Bureau of Investigation the coming year. That amount is an increase of $3 million over the Bureau's budget the past 12 months. With the extra money, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover plans to hire 218 additional employes, including 145 agents . . . President Kennedy took a personal hand in the State Department's efforts to ease East-West tension last week. He ordered the department to lift the travel ban on Soviet tourists in the U.S., without waiting for the Russians to agree to the same concession . . . Secretary of State Rusk is trying to improve the State Department's relations with Congress by holding a series of luncheons for congressional delegations.

SOCIAL WHIRL — There is one member of the First Lady's family whose name does not appear on White House guest lists. She is Mrs. Nina Steers, stepsister of Mrs. Kennedy, and wife of the militantly Republican candidate for Congress in Maryland's 6th district. Newton Steers is running as a vigorous opponent of the Kennedy Administration, and his wife is actively electioneering with him. The President has made no bones he doesn't care for Steers, with the result that the couple are exculded from White House affairs — although Mrs. Steers' father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, are frequent guests. . .Caroline Kennedy got a highly pertinent piece of advice from a family friend when the four-year-old entered her famous pony, Macaroni, in a junior horse show. Said the friend to Caroline "Never let your pony kick a judge. They don't like that and will be prejudiced against you." Macaroni is given to kicking, but he was on his good behavior, and was awarded a third place ribbon in a class of 20 contestants.

Iraq's bachelor Charge d'Affaires Najdat Safwat is celebrating the fourth anniversary of his country's establishment as a republic in a big way. Safwat has invited more than 1,000 guests to a garden party, and now is fervently praying for good weather. . . Two special White House tours are highlights of the 20th anniversary convention of the WAVES being held in Washington starting July 26. Also in their honor, the Marines will stage one of their famed evening parades at their historic barracks . . The youngest diplomatic couple in Washington staged their first party and it was a big success, based on the amount of champagne consumed and the gaiety of the guests. Congo Minister Mario Cardoso, 28, and his 23-year-old wife, entertained at a reception in honor of their country's second independence anniversary, and as they saying goes, "a grand time was had by all." . . A battery of native drums provided the music at the farewell party of Ghana's Amassador William Halm. The drums reverberated throughout the evening as background for the wining, dining and gossiping of some 700 guests.

WASHINGTON SHORTS

THE OL' SWIMMIN' HOLE — Attorney General and Mrs. Robert F. Kennery have been much in the news of late as a result of certain dunkings in their swimming pool at Hickory Hill, the Kennedy's estate in Virginia some three miles from Washington. At one party, Mrs. Kennedy herself, in full evening regalia, toppled into the pool. But one swimming party enjoyed by Bob and Ethel Kennedy and their seven children was tardy in breaking into the news. It occurred during Easter week when the entire family was at Camp David. The pool had not been readied for the season, but the Kennedy family was ready for a swim, none-the-less. The post officer in charge of Camp David obligingly rang up a farm close by and told the owner he had some visitors who wanted to take a dip. Would the farmer mind their using his pond, and also could they be assured of privacy so there would be "no publicity?" the post officer inquired. The farmer gave assurances that it was too early for campers, so privacy was possible. In a short while, a station wagon drove through the farm gate and stopped by the swimming hole, where all the occupants hopped out. "I took one look and knew it couldn't be anybody but the Bobby Kennedys," an on-looker related, adding: "Every one of 'em jumped in — even the baby."

AFTER YOU, DEAR ALPHONSE — Sen. Mike Monroney (D—Okla.) is not one to claim all the perquisites of office. Elevator operators in the Capitol and Senate Office Buildings are instructed to take Senators directly to their floors, without stopping to take on or let off other passengers. The Oklahoma Senator doesn't like this practice and insists on being treated like any other passenger. The other day, when he boarded a crowded elevator, the operator shot past other floors until he reached the floor Monroney had called. "You know how I feel about this sort of thing," the Senator reproved the operator. "I'm just one of the passengers. You should have stopped at every floor for the others."

The operator apparently felt some explanation was due the other passengers, for after Senator Monroney was out of ear - shot, he turned to them and said: "I hope you understand why I took him right to his floor. It wasn't just because he's a Senator. It's because I think any man who has worked all his life to come to the Senate is entitled to a few special privileges." He then closed the doors and delivered the other passengers to their floors. None of them complained about the delay.

To The Editor:

Perhaps the latest assault upon the Constitution by the nine men who run America is some sort of blessing in disguise because it has helped to awaken a few more people to what has already been done to this country by the Court and by the Congress. Up to now too many Americans were dangerously unaware of the many subtle and not so subtle steps being taken to communize us. Patriotic military men have even been punished for daring to say, with perfect justification, that it is the enemy within which we need fear more than infiltration or invasion by the well known enemy of God and Freedom.

Few people turned a hair several weeks ago when Soviet Dictator Krushchev stated in Budapest: "I am convinced that tomorrow the Red flag will fly over the United States. But we will not fly the flag. It will be the American people themselves." The American people as an apathetic whole do not know the grounds on which Krushchev based his statement, but Krushchev surely knows that if the present trend of centralized American government is not stopped, his words will be absolutely true and much sooner than we think. Red flag after subduing an apathetic majority.

How many American communities have done what a group on Nassau County, N. Y. did immediately after Krushchev's boast? Within hours they formed a "Liberty or Death Committee," dedicating themselves to displaying the flag every day, not just on national holidays. Several such committees should be forming at this moment in every community, pledging ourselves not only to flying the flag, but to studying bills in Congress, the voting records of our elected representatives, and the machinations of the United Nations and all the other one -world, socializing organizations.

Surely it is time that patriotic Americans banded together so that simultaneous mass protests from every town can rise like a mighty army every time that not only the "Nine" but also the pro-socialists in Congress wipe out another freedom. Otherwise we shall wake up one day and find that we have not a single freedom left. There is something heartening and strengthening about uniting in a cause known to be good as we all know that the American cause, which the Lord has blessed for so long, is a good cause. Who will start such a group in your community?

Against Paganism

OAK GROVE, LA.

To The Editor:

I have been a reader of your paper for a number of years and think it one of the best.

As paganism was the ruling power when Christ came to the world in person, so it is to be the same when he comes back.

Paganism, atheism, communism are all one and the same, which means human, which is sin rule and which is man substituted for God rule.

The United States is fast sliding into that hole. It is losing all of the God - given freedom we ever had.

All other countries have gone and this country is following fast.

There was a time when we could stand on our own feet — that is gone.

God bless you all.

District-Shifting

Legislatures Of Two Dozen Or More States Face This Task

The legislatures of two dozen or more States are faced with Congressional district remapping at their January session or with risking court tests on the Constitutionality of the population make-up of these districts.

This is one of the far - reaching effects of the March 26 decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Tennessee apportionment case.

Legal opinion at the time of the decision was that its application would be to the make - up of State legislatures. It has already had wide repercussions from that standpoint. Tennessee redrew its State legislative map after neglecting to do so for 60 years, but the Federal Court in Tennessee having jurisdiction has accepted the new districts only on an interim basis.

Georgia, as a result of the three man court decision, has abandoned its county unit system and is choosing party nominees by popular vote at the September 12 primary.

But it was the Wisconsin case which has attracted the most attention from a national standpoint for there a three - man Federal Court gave the legislature until 5 p.m. on July 3 to realign voting in both State legislative and Congressional Districts.

Wisconsin has a Democratic Governor and a Republican legislature. Twice — within two days —the legislature passed Congressional redistricting bills and twice the Governor vetoed them.

The Federal Court in Wisconsin then went a step further than Federal Judges in other States have gone. It appointed a special master (fact-finder) to draw up a "fair and constitutional" re - districting plan which the Court indicated it would put into effect.

Under the precedent established by the Wisconsin Court at least half the States in the Union would have to redraw their Congressional maps or have the Courts do so, under certain to be instituted citizens' suits.

Perhaps the most malapportioned State in the nation from a standpoint is Texas, where there has been rapid urban growth and a falling off in rural population. There are six adjoining Congressional districts in east, cen- and north Texas, the 1st, 3rd, 4th, 6th, 7th and 11th — represented by representatives Patman, Beckworth, Roberts, Teague, Dowdy and Poage — which have a deficiency of population in excess of 900,000 under the population average of 416,507 each of the 23 Texas Congressional districts.

Two of these Districts, the First, where Representative Wright Patman, dean of the delegation, is serving and the Fourth, represented by Representative Ray Roberts, are among the smallest in the nation. It would seem that under any such precedent as set by the Wisconsin Federal Court, two of the six districts mentioned would have to be eliminated and new districts established in more populous areas of the State.

The Fifth District (Dallas coun- ty) where Representative Bruce Alger, a Republican, is serving, is the most populous Congressional district in the nation with a population of 951,527, or more than enough for two Congressional Districts.

The 22nd, (part of Houston) represented by Representative Bob Casey, Democrat, has a population of 674,965, an excess of per cent. As a whole, in the Texas Districts as presently constituted (one Texas member will be elected at large in November) nine districts are over populated, eleven are underpopulated and two have approximately the right population.

There are many other State with a wide range of populatio in their Congressional districts They include Georgia, from 272, 154 to 823,680; Michigan from 177, 431 to 802,994; Ohio from 236,28 to 726,156; Colorado from 195,55 to 653,954; Tennessee from 223, 387 to 627,019; Arizona from 198, 236 to 663,510.

And consider South Dakot which has only two Congressiona districts. One of them has 182,84 the other 497,669, which adds u to one of them being 46.3 pe cent underpopulated and the ot er 46.3 overpopulated.

It will be a brave legislatu which will risk court redistrictin if it fails to take action. Such a prospect of inaction as the r sult of the Supreme Court deci ion in the Tennessee case, e panded by a Wisconsin Feder Court in a case there.

Otherwise, how could the three sons be able-bodied enough for self-support and mentally equipped enough to write a literate letter of protest against paying $400 each for her final illness?

"Why do I take the trouble to write about this 'one' letter. It is because the three sons' outraged cry echoes widely-held contempt for the commandment, 'Honor thy father and thy mother.' . .

In addition to that, we would say that the sons had pondered too long on the present United States government's theory of "cradle-to-the-grave" paternalism and its desire to make the taxpayers foot all the bills.

Democratic Blackjacking

President Kennedy is both an optimist and pressurist, as revealed in a story carried in the Detroit News.

The News reported a startling example of the rough hand of the Kennedy administration. It cited an attempt to get business leaders in the Detroit area to cough up large sums of money for the Democratic party congressional campaign fund.

After the beating businessmen have been taking from the president and after his avowed low opinion of them, most of them probably would rather pay out money to see his candidates defeated than to see them win.

Those promoting a "brunch" for President Kennedy when he goes to the automobile capital next October suggest a price of $1,000 a plate to be paid by some 40 business leaders attending.

Michigan's Democratic Governor John B. Swanson sparked the idea of a "brunch" for Kennedy and the man handling the arrangements for the function is president of a Democratic club, says the News. Democratic State Chairman J. J. Collins, who is in on the preparations, says the receipts would go to the Democratic congressional campaign fund.

Who among the businessmen who have had their wrists slapped so many times by the administration that even their feet hurt would enjoy going to a Kennedy "brunch," even if he could get a decent meal for a buck instead of $1,000?

Court Faces Sharp Rebuff

House Appropriations Subcommittee Prepares Retaliation For Tribunal For Its Decision On Prayer

The House Appropriations Committee is preparing a stinging rebuff to the Supreme Court in retaliation for its decision banning "official" prayers in public schools.

Using their most powerful weapon, the purse string, the legislators are planning to bar the Supreme Court from taking over the physical custody of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

These historical documents now are on daily display at the National Archives. In 1952, Congress ordered the Constitution moved there from the Library of Congress. The Declaration of Independence has been at the Archives since 1938 when the State Department gave up its custody of the document.

The Supreme Court now wants to change this manner of displaying the original Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

Under a proposal by Chief Justice Earl Warren, the Justices are seeking congressional approval and funds to move these priceless documents, as well as some lesser-known historical papers, to the Supreme Court for public display there.

The stage for the coming rebuff of the High Court was quietly set this week by a House Appropriations subcommittee, headed by Representative John Rooney, D-N.Y., when it acted on the judiciary's $2 million budget.

The Rooney subcommittee, which hasn't been reversed by the full Appropriations Committee or the House in the past 10 years, voted down Justice Warren's proposal, including his request for $17,200 to purchase eight fancy bronze display cases designed to hold the documents.

THE ARGUMENTS — This unanimous subcommittee decision came after Representative Rooney blasted Justice Warren's request, saying:

"As long as I have anything to say about the custody of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, these documents are going to stay at the Archives and under the control of Congress.

"The judicial branch has no right to these documents but even if there was a good reason for giving the Supreme Court custody, I don't think the House would stand for it after the way the Justices interpreted the Constitution in the New York prayer case."

"If the Supreme Court's request is put in this bill," warned Representative Fred Marshall, D-Minn., "it will touch off a major revolution when this measure is brought to the House floor. As things now stand, we are going to face plenty of fireworks on account of that decision. Members are mad and they are going to use this appropriation bill to let off steam. By turning down this request, we can sternly rebuke the Court without wrecking its budget."

"Why are they asking for eight display cases?" asked a GOP member of the subcommittee. "One should be sufficient to house both the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence."

"The Justices want to make a tourist attraction out of the Court," replied Rooney. "If we don't stop them, they plan to use those cases to display a whole collection of historic documents. The Court is a place of dignity. It shouldn't be made into a tourist attraction."

The six other subcommittee members agreed with Rooney. Supporting the Brooklyn Congressman's motion to bar the transfer of the documents and the funds for the exhibition cases were Representatives Marshall, Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., Don Magnuson, D-Wash., Frank Bow, R-O., Glenard P. Lipscomb, R-Calif., and Elford A. Cederberg, R-Mich.

Already Representative Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., chairman, who has his own jurisdictional feud going with the Senate, has assured Rooney that the subcommittee's unique censure of the Supreme Court will be endorsed by the full House Appropriations Committee when it meets next week.

The House is expected to support the full Committee's action when the Supreme Court's money bill comes to the floor later this month.

ON THE INSIDE — Chief Justice Warren and his wife will cruise the Adriatic this summer on a yacht as the guests of Mrs. Agnes Meyer, widow of the one-time publisher of the Washington Post . . . The House Appropriations Committee has voted a record $130 million to run the Federal Bureau of Investigation the coming year. That amount is an increase of $3 million over the Bureau's budget the past 12 months. With the extra money, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover plans to hire 218 additional employes, including 145 agents . . . President Kennedy took a personal hand in the State Department's efforts to ease East-West tension last week. He ordered the department to lift the travel ban on Soviet tourists in the U.S., without waiting for the Russians to agree to the same concession . . . Secretary of State Rusk is trying to improve the State Department's relations with Congress by holding a series of luncheons for congressional delegations.

SOCIAL WHIRL — There is one member of the First Lady's family whose name does not appear on White House guest lists. She is Mrs. Nina Steers, stepsister of Mrs. Kennedy, and wife of the militantly Republican candidate for Congress in Maryland's 6th district. Newton Steers is running as a vigorous opponent of the Kennedy Administration, and his wife is actively electioneering with him. The President has made no bones he doesn't care for Steers, with the result that the couple are exculded from White House affairs — although Mrs. Steers' father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, are frequent guests. . .Caroline Kennedy got a highly pertinent piece of advice from a family friend when the four-year-old entered her famous pony, Macaroni, in a junior horse show. Said the friend to Caroline "Never let your pony kick a judge. They don't like that and will be prejudiced against you." Macaroni is given to kicking, but he was on his good behavior, and was awarded a third place ribbon in a class of 20 contestants.

Iraq's bachelor Charge d'Affaires Najdat Safwat is celebrating the fourth anniversary of his country's establishment as a republic in a big way. Safwat has invited more than 1,000 guests to a garden party, and now is fervently praying for good weather. . . Two special White House tours are highlights of the 20th anniversary convention of the WAVES being held in Washington starting July 26. Also in their honor, the Marines will stage one of their famed evening parades at their historic barracks . . The youngest diplomatic couple in Washington staged their first party and it was a big success, based on the amount of champagne consumed and the gaiety of the guests. Congo Minister Mario Cardoso, 28, and his 23-year-old wife, entertained at a reception in honor of their country's second independence anniversary, and as they saying goes, "a grand time was had by all." . . A battery of native drums provided the music at the farewell party of Ghana's Amassador William Halm. The drums reverberated throughout the evening as background for the wining, dining and gossiping of some 700 guests.

WASHINGTON SHORTS

THE OL' SWIMMIN' HOLE — Attorney General and Mrs. Robert F. Kennery have been much in the news of late as a result of certain dunkings in their swimming pool at Hickory Hill, the Kennedy's estate in Virginia some three miles from Washington. At one party, Mrs. Kennedy herself, in full evening regalia, toppled into the pool. But one swimming party enjoyed by Bob and Ethel Kennedy and their seven children was tardy in breaking into the news. It occurred during Easter week when the entire family was at Camp David. The pool had not been readied for the season, but the Kennedy family was ready for a swim, none-the-less. The post officer in charge of Camp David obligingly rang up a farm close by and told the owner he had some visitors who wanted to take a dip. Would the farmer mind their using his pond, and also could they be assured of privacy so there would be "no publicity?" the post officer inquired. The farmer gave assurances that it was too early for campers, so privacy was possible. In a short while, a station wagon drove through the farm gate and stopped by the swimming hole, where all the occupants hopped out. "I took one look and knew it couldn't be anybody but the Bobby Kennedys," an on-looker related, adding: "Every one of 'em jumped in — even the baby."

AFTER YOU, DEAR ALPHONSE — Sen. Mike Monroney (D—Okla.) is not one to claim all the perquisites of office. Elevator operators in the Capitol and Senate Office Buildings are instructed to take Senators directly to their floors, without stopping to take on or let off other passengers. The Oklahoma Senator doesn't like this practice and insists on being treated like any other passenger. The other day, when he boarded a crowded elevator, the operator shot past other floors until he reached the floor Monroney had called. "You know how I feel about this sort of thing," the Senator reproved the operator. "I'm just one of the passengers. You should have stopped at every floor for the others."

The operator apparently felt some explanation was due the other passengers, for after Senator Monroney was out of ear - shot, he turned to them and said: "I hope you understand why I took him right to his floor. It wasn't just because he's a Senator. It's because I think any man who has worked all his life to come to the Senate is entitled to a few special privileges." He then closed the doors and delivered the other passengers to their floors. None of them complained about the delay.

ALEXANDRIA, La.

To The Editor:

Perhaps the latest assault upon the Constitution by the nine men who run America is some sort of blessing in disguise because it has helped to awaken a few more people to what has already been done to this country by the Court and by the Congress. Up to now too many Americans were dangerously unaware of the many subtle and not so subtle steps being taken to communize us. Patriotic military men have even been punished for daring to say, with perfect justification, that it is the enemy within which we need fear more than infiltration or invasion by the well known enemy of God and Freedom.

Few people turned a hair several weeks ago when Soviet Dicetator Krushchev stated in Budapest: "I am convinced that tomorrow the Red flag will fly over the United States. But we will not fly the flag. It will be the American people themselves." The American people as an apathetic whole do not know the grounds on which Krushchev based his statement, but Krushchev surely knows that if the present trend of centralized American government is not stopped, his words will be absolutely true and much sooner than we think. Red flag after subduing an apathetic majority.

How many American communities have done what a group on Nassau County, N. Y. did immediately after Krushchev's boast? Within hours they formed a "Liberty or Death Committee," dedicating themselves to displaying the flag every day, not just on national holidays. Several such committees should be forming at this moment in every community, pledging ourselves not only to flying the flag, but to studying bills in Congress, the voting records of our elected representatives, and the machinations of the United Nations and all the other one -world, socializing organizations.

Surely it is time that patriotic Americans banded together so that simultaneous mass protests from every town can rise like a mighty army every time that not only the "Nine" but also the pro-socialists in Congress wipe out another freedom. Otherwise we shall wake up one day and find that we have not a single freedom left. There is something heartening and strengthening about uniting in a cause known to be good as we all know that the American cause, which the Lord has blessed for so long, is a good cause. Who will start such a group in your community?

Against Paganism

OAK GROVE, LA.

To The Editor:

I have been a reader of your paper for a number of years and think it one of the best.

As paganism was the ruling power when Christ came to the world in person, so it is to be the same when he comes back.

Paganism, atheism, communism are all one and the same, which means human, which is sin rule and which is man substituted for God rule.

The United States is fast sliding into that hole. It is losing all of the God - given freedom we ever had.

All other countries have gone and this country is following fast.

There was a time when we could stand on our own feet — that is gone.

God bless you all.

District-Shifting

Legislatures Of Two Dozen Or More States Face This Task

The legislatures of two dozen or more States are faced with Congressional district remapping at their January session or with risking court tests on the Constitutionality of the population make-up of these districts.

This is one of the far - reaching effects of the March 26 decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Tennessee apportionment case.

Legal opinion at the time of the decision was that its application would be to the make - up of State legislatures. It has already had wide repercussions from that standpoint. Tennessee redrew its State legislative map after neglecting to do so for 60 years, but the Federal Court in Tennessee having jurisdiction has accepted the new districts only on an interim basis.

Georgia, as a result of the three man court decision, has abandoned its county unit system and is choosing party nominees by popular vote at the September 12 primary.

But it was the Wisconsin case which has attracted the most attention from a national standpoint for there a three - man Federal Court gave the legislature until 5 p.m. on July 3 to realign voting in both State legislative and Congressional Districts.

Wisconsin has a Democratic Governor and a Republican legislature. Twice — within two days —the legislature passed Congressional redistricting bills and twice the Governor vetoed them.

The Federal Court in Wisconsin then went a step further than Federal Judges in other States have gone. It appointed a special master (fact-finder) to draw up a "fair and constitutional" re - districting plan which the Court indicated it would put into effect.

Under the precedent established by the Wisconsin Court at least half the States in the Union would have to redraw their Congressional maps or have the Courts do so, under certain to be instituted citizens' suits.

Perhaps the most malapportioned State in the nation from a standpoint is Texas, where there has been rapid urban growth and a falling off in rural population. There are six adjoining Congressional districts in east, cen- and north Texas, the 1st, 3rd, 4th, 6th, 7th and 11th — represented by representatives Patman, Beckworth, Roberts, Teague, Dowdy and Poage — which have a deficiency of population in excess of 900,000 under the population average of 416,507 each of the 23 Texas Congressional districts.

Two of these Districts, the First, where Representative Wright Patman, dean of the delegation, is serving and the Fourth, represented by Representative Ray Roberts, are among the smallest in the nation. It would seem that under any such precedent as set by the Wisconsin Federal Court, two of the six districts mentioned would have to be eliminated and new districts established in more populous areas of the State.

The Fifth District (Dallas county) where Representative Bruce Alger, a Republican, is serving, is the most populous Congressional district in the nation with a population of 951,527, or more than enough for two Congressional Districts.

The 22nd, (part of Houston) represented by Representative Bob Casey, Democrat, has a population of 674,965, an excess of [illegible] per cent. As a whole, in the [illegible] Texas Districts as presently constituted (one Texas member will be elected at large in November) nine districts are over populated, eleven are underpopulated and two have approximately the right population.

There are many other States with a wide range of population in their Congressional districts. They include Georgia, from 272,154 to 823,680; Michigan from 177,431 to 802,994; Ohio from 236,288 to 726,156; Colorado from 195,551 to 653,954; Tennessee from 223,387 to 627,019; Arizona from 198,236 to 663,510.

And consider South Dakota which has only two Congressional districts. One of them has 182,845, the other 497,669, which adds up to one of them being 46.3 percent underpopulated and the other 46.3 overpopulated.

It will be a brave legislature which will risk court redistricting if it fails to take action. Such is a prospect of inaction as the result of the Supreme Court decision in the Tennessee case, expanded by a Wisconsin Federal Court in a case there.

So Called Communist Heroes

Growing Old And Worried

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) The heroes of communism are growing old and they are growing worried.

The partisans who came out of the Yugoslav forests with Marshal Tito . . . the railwaymen who were jailed with Romania's Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej . . . the Czech and Polish intellectuals who called communism the only answer . . . the Germans who fled to Russia and returned with Walter Ulbricht. . . .

What is to become of the society they created? Where is the eager, dedicated new generation that will carry on? Is the party machinery running down?

These questions are discussed in Yugoslavia, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria and East Germany.

They were a tough bunch, full of revolutionary fervor. They took power between 1945 and 1948 and they held it.

They were wartime guerrillas, printers of underground newspapers, organizers of strikes, saboteurs who harassed the Nazi armies. Today many of them sit in offices, drive official cars, make plans, run the party organizations and dictate how things shall be run. Few are younger than 40, Most are in their 60s or 70s.

ENERGETIC

They still are an energetic bunch.

They frequently have their offices in former palaces, like Tito, Gheorghiu-Dej and Czechoslovakia's Antonin Novotny. Their governments provide big cars and escorts if they care to use them.

They have trains and planes for their personal use. Gheorghiu-Dej's daughter was picked up from the Riviera in her father's train.

Tito and Gheorghiu-Dej have summer villas and hunting lodges. Hungary's Janos Kadar and Poland's Wladyslaw Gomulka live more modestly.

They eat well and at parties serve delicacies like Russian caviar and plenty of champagne. But they keep to themselves, have their select group of friends in the top level of government, frequently vacation with their immediate deputies.

"When we get together now within our party, the problem we discuss is who is going to follow us. We have to find a place in the sun for our youth," a top Yugoslav Communist said.

The old generation of heroes occupy key spots in government, party and industry. There is little room for young people.

"Also the young generation are bored by the stories of our exploits," the Yugoslav added.

"All many of the young people want is to have a good time, dance, hear Western music, wear the latest fashions," said a Hungarian. "I don't know where the new leaders are going to come from."

Possibly they will come from the new middle class of lip service Communists promoted to be factory directors, engineers and administrators. But a Western diplomat observed: "This class is not really interested in the ideology of communism. They are proud of the gains they have made as individuals. Many of them came up from the bottom.

"They said all the right things and played the party game in order to get promoted. They are not fanatics, lack the old esprit de corps and are no future leaders. In fact, they are willing to see changes in idealistic communism if that will improve their own lives."

Besides all this, bureaucracy affects the Communist party machinery everywhere.

DECISIONS

"Nobody wants to make decisions any more," a Western technician building a plant in Romania said. "There is a terrible amount of buck-passing and stealing. People do only a minimum amount of work."

There is a classic story in Czechoslovakia of a crash between a street car and a diplomat's car.

When the diplomat reported the number of the street car, police said the accident was impossible. The car had been in repair yards for weeks.

Further investigations showed that employes had repaired it and were running it themselves, keeping the proceeds.

COMMUNIST POWER SWAP

Move To Revolutionize E. Europe's Oil System

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—The first million tons of Soviet oil has moved through a new international pipeline into Czechoslovakia as part of a scheme intended to revolutionize the industry of Eastern Europe.

An interchange of electric power has begun among the Eastern European states, and in time part of this will come from the Soviet Union.

These developments promise to put new oil and power resources in the hands of the Communist States and make them increasingly dependent upon the Soviet Union.

The oil pipeline when finished will extend over 2,000 miles from Kuibyshev, east of the Volga, to a point near Brody in the Ukraine. There it will divide, one branch running into Poland and East Germany, the other into Czechoslovakia and Hungary. This latter will have secondary branching, one running from Bratislava to northwest Czechoslovakia, the other into the Budapest area.

CURIOUS TWIST

By a curious twist, the end began functioning before the beginning. The section from Brody, western Ukraine, to Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, was built first. Through it the first million tons of Soviet oil—roughly 7,300,000 barrels—were delivered.

The oil was moved to the Ukrainian end in railroad tank cars, poured into storage vats, and then began a trip by pipeline over 25 bridges, over or under 101 highways, and 15 railroad crossings. At the Carpathian Mountains the line is approximately half a mile above the level of the starting point in the Ukraine.

The Russians built the line up to Uzhgorod, a frontier crossing where nervous Soviet police have picked up several unlucky American tourists, accusing them of spying.

To this point the Czechs had built the line from Bratislava, making the joint link about 500 miles long. The oils pours into the reservoirs of Slavnafta—Slavic Oil—a refining and chemical complex in Bratislava.

The Russians are building the main stem from oil fields in the Volga-Caspian area westward to the frontiers of the Eastern European states, each of which builds its own section.

The project is supposed to be completed at the end of 1963 and then supply 15 million tons of oil annually to the Eastern European countries.

The pipeline starts with a diameter of about 40 inches, then ranges downward to 33 and 20-inch diameters in the branches.

The line into Poland is expected to feed a big oil-refining plant projected for the German side of the Oder at Shvedt.

Each branch taking off from the 2,000-mile stem will run about 800 miles.

OIL SUPPLY

While the oil will supply a vast fuel and chemical complex—securely laced to the Soviet Union—the power network will supplement supplies with high-load lines interlocking the whole area.

As early as 1960 networks tied together Czechoslovakia, Poland and East Germany. A line running from the Ukraine into Hungary is scheduled for completion this year. Lines connecting the U.S.S.R. and Czechoslovakia and connecting Romania and Bulgaria will be completed in 1965 if plans work out.

The power grid has interesting possibilities. The peak power load rolls with the sun, so that power supplies can flow eastward part of the day and gradually follow the sun westward. The peak load hits East Germany an hour after it has passed the Ukraine.

So far the electric part of the plan is only shaping up. But power sources are being developed on the Volga, on the Antara and other rivers of western and eastern Rusaia.

Soviet advances in long-range delivery of high-tension power have been studied by American engineers faced with similar problems of transferring hydroelectric power.

The power problems are by no means solved, and much more study—and expense—will be involved in getting Siberian power into the grid that feeds such cities as Budapest, Warsaw, and Prague.

And just now the Socialist states are noticeably short of investment capital.

NO THREAT SEEN

New Burma Head Is Tough Leader

By TONY ESCODA

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—With a stern warning to Communists, Gen. Ne Win is riding out the first open challenge to his four-month-old rule over Burma.

The challenge came a week ago from students at Rangoon University, many of them stirred up by Red elements. At the end of the day 16 students were dead under the gunfire of Ne Win's troops, and 42 lay wounded.

The tough military leader has served notice against attempting any movements like the student revolts which toppled Syngman Rhee in Korea and Adnan Menderes in Turkey.

The gunfire against 2,000 rioting students July 7 was the first case in Burma's modern history that such action had been taken.

Army demolition experts then blew to bits the two-story concrete building housing the university students union—a sort of shrine because it once was a center of activity by Ne Win himself in the struggle for independence from Britain.

Further, Ne Win closed all universities and colleges indefinitely to give Burma's students time to think things over.

DEATH SENTENCES

He also ordered "special crimes courts" set up wherever and whenever necessary to deal promptly with insurrection or acts threatening public safety, the economy or Burma's national culture. The courts have power to pass death sentences.

Newspapers have not commented on these stiff measures, and the public reaction is difficult to measure. But the feeling seems to be there will be no new challenges to Ne Win's rule for some time, at least not from students.

Ne Win charged that "certain political organizations" were behind the rioters, and warned that further agitation would leave him "no alternative but to meet sword with sword and spear with spear."

A spokesman said Ne Win was referring to hardline Communists in student ranks.

In recent years, he explained, the students union building had "deteriorated into a stronghold of Communist rebels for their underground work."

Under the relaxed regime of deposed Prime Minister U Nu, authorities left the union strictly alone. It got to the point, the spokesman said, that the building "had taken on the characteristics of a foreign embassy enjoying full extraterritorial rights."

More moderate Communists, who have a legal status in Burma, have hailed Ne Win's socialistic program almost as their own. But the insurgents — the so-called "White Flags" and the diehard Stalinist "Red Flags"—have split with their above-ground comrades over support of Ne Win.

INSEURGENTS

Some of the insurgents have been waging rebellion for 15 years. They have no love for the army, which has marked them as its special target in Ne Win's national security campaign. Ne Win, a strong anti-Communist who clings to neutrality in foreign relations, gave national security as his reason for overthrowing U Nu last March.

The specific role played by the insurgents in the rioting has not been pinned down. It is known that they whipped up tempers among the students when the government attempted to restrain their activities by imposing a 10 p.m. dormitory curfew. The dormitories previously were unrestricted.

When four student leaders were arrested, a howling student mob, some armed with iron bars, stoned police, besieged university officials' homes and set fires.

Troops were called in and opened fire with automatic weapons when their orders to disperse were met with jeers and brickbats.

COMMON MARKET

Poses Challenge To Australians

BY GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Britain's affair with the Common Market has been a shock to long-faithful Australia, but this country seems today to be taking the prospect as a challenge more than as a cause for remorse.

It looks as if affection for Britannia will remain high even if she does go off gallivanting with those European fellows.

Every Australian seems sure Britain will join the Common Market. The price for Britain's entry appears to be the cancellation of empire preference, perhaps by 1970.

These preferences virtually assure commonwealth countries a market for much of their surplus food. If preferences go, a great deal of the British market also will go because Britons then will be fed largely by continental Europe.

People are saying: "She just has to join . . . she'd be left out in the cold if she didn't."

Many also are saying, without explanation: "The Americans are pushing her into it."

What of Australia's meat, wheat, sugar, butter, cheese, eggs, wine, dried fruit, canned fruit and jam, fresh apples and pears?

Seek new markets, says Trade Minister John McEwen.

Many Australians think the United States should lower tariffs on wool and other products which Australia exports.

In many ways Japan is Australia's big hope, especially if the Japanese continue to use more meat and dairy products in their diet.

Japan already is Australia's No. 2 customer. In 1960 - 61 Japan bought goods worth $362 million. Britain took $519 million and the United States $162 million.

Japan spends more in Australia for wool, coal, copper, hides, pig iron, iron and steel scrap than does any other country. It is also an important buyer of meat, sugar and wheat.

Red China, too, has become an important customer for wheat. Australia sold China grain from last year's crop for $179 million on pay-as-you-earn terms. The Chinese have met the installments on the due dates.

There are guesses that Australia will grow more rapidly as a nation once it no longer has favored treatment from Britain. In any event, there is a philosophical attitude.

The Sydney Daily Mirror put it like this: "Let us not squeal too much before we are hurt. It may be, indeed, that our hurts will be slight, and that what appears today to be a grievous tangle may in a year or so become an inspiration to more vigorous effort and greater economic rewards."

Medicare Strike Revives Memories For British

By PATRICK MASSEY

LONDON (AP)—The Saskatchewan doctors' strike has revived memories of the time British doctors threatened to walk out on the state-run health scheme.

It happened in the early days of the program launched in 1948 to provide free medical care for every citizen.

British doctors recall they never contemplated anything as drastic as their Canadian colleagues' action.

The dispute here was over pay, not principle.

Doctors threatened to withdraw their services from the state-run program in 1950, but they still were prepared to carry on in private practice the way they had always done before. They got their pay raise. Ever since then the medical plan has rumbled on amid plenty of grousing and with an ever-increasing cost.

But nothing has seriously challenged its existence, and there is no question of its popularity.

This week the Saskatchewan government called for help from one of the British plant's architects.

Lord Taylor, who was a private parliamentary secretary when the scheme was shaped by Britain's postwar Laborite administration, was invited to Regina to advise the government. Taylor emphasized he was going primarily as a medical man.

The British program provided a background for Saskatchewan, but there are big differences in operation.

THE PROGRAM

The Saskatchewan doctors would continue as private practitioners but have bills paid by a central insurance fund raised by compulsory levies and taxes.

The British doctor gets a flat fee according to the number of patients on his book. The money comes in whether these patients are sick or well.

For the first 500 patients on a doctor's list he receives $2.52 per head. Above that number the figure is $4.20.

This is financed by a compulsory levy of 35 cents a week from every wage earner plus a hefty contribution from the Treasury. On this basis a patient can go to a doctor's office or a hospital and receive treatment free of charge.

About 2,000 patients are on the average doctor's book. He can expect to earn $7,000 a year plus an allowance of some $3,000 for expenses like running a car and equipping an office.

Additionally, the British doctor can take in private fee-paying patients. If he likes he can shun the health scheme altogether, but only three per cent of the 23,000 general practitioners treat private patients only.

Though low by American standards, the British pay scale compares favorably with what doctors received prior to the health scheme.

During the U.S. dispute over medical care for the aged, figures were quoted to show that one of three doctors graduating each year in Britain emigrates to private enterprise medicine abroad.

Health Minister Enoch Powell described this as nonsense.

Neither the Health Ministry nor the British Medical Association gives figures on doctors' emigration, saying that medical men are not required to notify of their departure.

Spokesmen for both argue that the British system would not be working if a third of the new doctors were regularly siphoned off. Powell says the numbers of doctors working in the scheme has increased by 10 per cent in nine years.

The Medical Association says many young doctors leave for foreign service and return home to settle down. It has not given any view on the action of Saskatchewan doctors. Privately, officials say they think most British doctors would deplore it.

The grumbles most frequently voiced by British doctors are that their waiting rooms tend to become overcrowded—often by people unduly worried about their health.

The government complains that the scheme keeps overshooting its budget. Last year's bill was 11.5 per cent more than in 1960. It ran to $2.26 billion.

Conservative administrations have watered down the free-for-all element by making patients contribute to the cost of drugs, spectacles and such things as false teeth and wigs.

But, after 14 years, there are few doubts that the scheme has come to stay in Britain. Any government which tried to dismantle the machine would be inviting political suicide.

Protecting Human Life Values

"Human life values, as reflected by current earning power, constitute an economic asset as much as tangible property. The money worth of the nation's life values exceeds by many times the aggragate total of its material wealth."

These words were written by Solomon S. Heubner, Ph. D., president, emeritus of the American College of Life Underwriters — a man who is generally regarded as the dean of university insurance professors. Professor Heubner's concept of human life values has virtually revolutionized the public's attitude toward life insurance. The main thesis, of course, is that it is just as important to treat scientifically the monetary worth of the forces of personal character, and health, and industry, and judgment, as it is to treat scientifically our material property possessions. This is particularly true, because within a majority of estates, the like value constitutes by far the larger portion. It has been estimated that nine - tenths of the average estate consists of the life value as compared with merely one-tenth for the so-called property portion. It follows logically, then that life insurance is the only means of applying scientifically to the value of life those principles of indemnification which apply without question to daily business affairs.

People will think so seriously about insuring their tangible possessions — their homes, cars, and jewelry — and yet will postpone insuring adequately the thing that makes these possessions possible — their earning power?

It is human life values that cause property to have value. If it were not for life value, there would be no property value.

World Spotlight: A Look Behind the Headlines

So Called Communist Heroes

Growing Old And Worried

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) The heroes of communism are growing old and they are growing worried.

The partisans who came out of the Yugoslav forests with Marshal Tito . . . the railwaymen who were jailed with Romania's Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej . . . the Czech and Polish intellectuals who called communism the only answer . . . the Germans who fled to Russia and returned with Walter Ulbricht. . . .

What is to become of the society they created? Where is the eager, dedicated new generation that will carry on? Is the party machinery running down?

These questions are discussed in Yugoslavia, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria and East Germany.

They were a tough bunch, full of revolutionary fervor. They took power between 1945 and 1948 and they held it.

They were wartime guerrillas, printers of underground newspapers, organizers of strikes, saboteurs who harassed the Nazi armies. Today many of them sit in offices, drive official cars, make plans, run the party organizations and dictate how things shall be run. Few are younger than 40, Most are in their 60s or 70s.

ENERGETIC

They still are an energetic bunch.

They frequently have their offices in former palaces, like Tito, Gheorghiu-Dej and Czechoslovakia's Antonin Novotny. Their governments provide big cars and escorts if they care to use them.

They have trains and planes for their personal use. Gheorghiu-Dej's daughter was picked up from the Riviera in her father's train.

Tito and Gheorghiu-Dej have summer villas and hunting lodges. Hungary's Janos Kadar and Poland's Wladyslaw Gomulka live more modestly.

They eat well and at parties serve delicacies like Russian caviar and plenty of champagne. But they keep to themselves, have their select group of friends in the top level of government, frequently vacation with their immediate deputies.

"When we get together now within our party, the problem we discuss is who is going to follow us. We have to find a place in the sun for our youth," a top Yugoslav Communist said.

The old generation of heroes occupy key spots in government, party and industry. There is little room for young people.

"Also the young generation are bored by the stories of our exploits," the Yugoslav added.

"All many of the young people want is to have a good time, dance, hear Western music, wear the latest fashions," said a Hungarian. "I don't know where the new leaders are going to come from."

Possibly they will come from the new middle class of lip service Communists promoted to be factory directors, engineers and administrators. But a Western diplomat observed: "This class is not really interested in the ideology of communism. They are proud of the gains they have made as individuals. Many of them came up from the bottom.

"They said all the right things and played the party game in order to get promoted. They are not fanatics, lack the old esprit de corps and are no future leaders. In fact, they are willing to see changes in idealistic communism if that will improve their own lives."

Besides all this, bureaucracy affects the Communist party machinery everywhere.

DECISIONS

"Nobody wants to make decisions any more," a Western technician building a plant in Romania said. "There is a terrible amount of buck-passing and stealing. People do only a minimum amount of work."

There is a classic story in Czechoslovakia of a crash between a street car and a diplomat's car.

When the diplomat reported the number of the street car, police said the accident was impossible. The car had been in repair yards for weeks.

Further investigations showed that employes had repaired it and were running it themselves, keeping the proceeds.

COMMUNIST POWER SWAP

Move To Revolutionize E. Europe's Oil System

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—The first million tons of Soviet oil has moved through a new international pipeline into Czechoslovakia as part of a scheme intended to revolutionize the industry of Eastern Europe.

An interchange of electric power has begun among the Eastern European states, and in time part of this will come from the Soviet Union.

These developments promise to put new oil and power resources in the hands of the Communist States and make them increasingly dependent upon the Soviet Union.

The oil pipeline when finished will extend over 2,000 miles from Kuibyshev, east of the Volga, to a point near Brody in the Ukraine, There it will divide, one branch running into Poland and East Germany, the other into Czechoslovakia and Hungary. This latter will have secondary branching, one running from Bratislava to northwest Czechoslovakia, the other into the Budapest area.

CURIOUS TWIST

By a curious twist, the end began functioning before the beginning. The section from Brody, western Ukraine, to Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, was built first. Through it the first million tons of Soviet oil—roughly 7,300,000 barrels—were delivered.

The oil was moved to the Ukrainian end in railroad tank cars, poured into storage vats, and then began a trip by pipeline over 25 bridges, over or under 101 highways, and 15 railroad crossings. At the Carpathian Mountains the line is approximately half a mile above the level of the starting point in the Ukraine.

The Russians built the line up to Uzhgorod, a frontier crossing where nervous Soviet police have picked up several unlucky American tourists, accusing them of spying.

To this point the Czechs had built the line from Bratislava, making the joint link about 500 miles long. The oils pours into the reservoirs of Slavnafta—Slavic Oil—a refining and chemical complex in Bratislava.

The Russians are building the main stem from oil fields in the Volga-Caspian area westward to the frontiers of the Eastern European states, each of which builds its own section.

The project is supposed to be completed at the end of 1963 and then supply 15 million tons of oil annually to the Eastern European countries.

The pipeline starts with a diameter of about 40 inches, then ranges downward to 33 and 20-inch diameters in the branches.

The line into Poland is expected to feed a big oil-refining plant projected for the German side of the Oder at Shvedt.

Each branch taking off from the 2,000-mile stem will run about 800 miles.

OIL SUPPLY

While the oil will supply a vast fuel and chemical complex—securely laced to the Soviet Union—the power network will supplement supplies with high-load lines interlocking the whole area.

As early as 1960 networks tied together Czechoslovakia, Poland and East Germany. A line running from the Ukraine into Hungary is scheduled for completion this year. Lines connecting the U.S.S.R. and Czechoslovakia and connecting Romania and Bulgaria will be completed in 1965 if plans work out.

The power grid has interesting possibilities. The peak power load rolls with the sun, so that power supplies can flow eastward part of the day and gradually follow the sun westward. The peak load hits East Germany an hour after it has passed the Ukraine.

So far the electric part of the plan is only shaping up. But power sources are being developed on the Volga, on the Antara and other rivers of western and eastern Russia.

Soviet advances in long-range delivery of high-tension power have been studied by American engineers faced with similar problems of transferring hydroelectric power.

The power problems are by no means solved, and much more study—and expense—will be involved in getting Siberian power into the grid that feeds such cities as Budapest, Warsaw, and Prague.

And just now the Socialist states are noticeably short of investment capital.

There it will divide, one branch running into Poland and East Germany and another into Czechoslovakia and Hungary. The latter will have secondary branching, one running from Bratislava to northwest Czechoslovakia, the other running southerly into the area of Budapest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

NO THREAT SEEN

New Burma Head Is Tough Leader

By TONY ESCODA

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—With a stern warning to Communists, Gen. Ne Win is riding out the first open challenge to his four-month-old rule over Burma.

The challenge came a week ago from students at Rangoon University, many of them stirred up by Red elements. At the end of the day 16 students were dead under the gunfire of Ne Win's troops, and 42 lay wounded.

The tough military leader has served notice against attempting any movements like the student revolts which toppled Syngman Rhee in Korea and Adnan Menderes in Turkey.

The gunfire against 2,000 rioting students July 7 was the first case in Burma's modern history that such action had been taken.

Army demolition experts then blew to bits the two-story concrete building housing the university students union—a sort of shrine because it once was a center of activity by Ne Win himself in the struggle for independence from Britain.

Further, Ne Win closed all universities and colleges indefinitely to give Burma's students time to think things over.

DEATH SENTENCES

He also ordered "special crimes courts" set up wherever and whenever necessary to deal promptly with insurrection or acts threatening public safety, the economy or Burma's national culture. The courts have power to pass death sentences.

Newspapers have not commented on these stiff measures, and the public reaction is difficult to measure. But the feeling seems to be there will be no new challenges to Ne Win's rule for some time, at least not from students.

Ne Win charged that "certain political organizations" were behind the rioters, and warned that further agitation would leave him "no alternative but to meet sword with sword and spear with spear."

A spokesman said Ne Win was referring to hardline Communists in student ranks.

In recent years, he explained, the students union building had "deteriorated into a stronghold of Communist rebels for their underground work."

Under the relaxed regime of deposed Prime Minister U Nu, authorities left the union strictly alone. It got to the point, the spokesman said, that the building "had taken on the characteristics of a foreign embassy enjoying full extraterritorial rights."

More moderate Communists, who have a legal status in Burma, have hailed Ne Win's socialistic program almost as their own. But the insurgents — the so-called "White Flags" and the diehard Stalinist "Red Flags"—have split with their above-ground comrades over support of Ne Win.

INSEURGENTS

Some of the insurgents have been waging rebellion for 15 years. They have no love for the army, which has marked them as its special target in Ne Win's national security campaign. Ne Win, a strong anti-Communist who clings to neutrality in foreign relations, gave national security as his reason for overthrowing U Nu last March.

The specific role played by the insurgents in the rioting has not been pinned down. It is known that they whipped up tempers among the students when the government attempted to restrain their activities by imposing a 10 p.m. dormitory curfew. The dormitories previously were unrestricted.

When four student leaders were arrested, a howling student mob, some armed with iron bars, stoned police, besieged university officials' homes and set fires.

Troops were called in and opened fire with automatic weapons when their orders to disperse were met with jeers and brickbats.

COMMON MARKET

Poses Challenge To Australians

BY GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Britain's affair with the Common Market has been a shock to long-faithful Australia, but this country seems today to be taking the prospect as a challenge more than as a cause for remorse.

It looks as if affection for Britannia will remain high even if she does go off gallivanting with those European fellows.

Every Australian seems sure Britain will join the Common Market. The price for Britain's entry appears to be the cancellation of empire preference, perhaps by 1970.

These preferences virtually assure commonwealth countries a market for much of their surplus food. If preferences go, a great deal of the British market also will go because Britons then will be fed largely by continental Europe.

People are saying: "She just has to join . . . she'd be left out in the cold if she didn't."

Many also are saying, without explanation: "The Americans are pushing her into it."

What of Australia's meat, wheat, sugar, butter, cheese, eggs, wine, dried fruit, canned fruit and jam, fresh apples and pears?

Seek new markets, says Trade Minister John McEwen.

Many Australians think the United States should lower tariffs on wool and other products which Australia exports.

In many ways Japan is Australia's big hope, especially if the Japanese continue to use more meat and dairy products in their diet.

Japan already is Australia's No. 2 customer. In 1960 - 61 Japan bought goods worth $362 million. Britain took $519 million and the United States $162 million.

Japan spends more in Australia for wool, coal, copper, hides, pig iron, iron and steel scrap than does any other country. It is also an important buyer of meat, sugar and wheat.

Red China, too, has become an important customer for wheat.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Alistair Among Most Popular

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

One of the most modern authors of adventure stories is Alistair MacLean. His first story "H.M.S. Ulysses" was based on his experiences in World War II and is considered one of the best stories that came out of that conflict. He has written several others since that time, one of which "The Guns of Navaronne" was made into a most exciting movie. Today we are able to offer to our reading public his latest book, "The Golden Rendezvous," and exciting story of adventure and suspense. The setting of this story is the Campari, a luxury liner with a most unusual passanger list, a cargo which would bear scrutiny and a young officer who stumbled into an amazing situation. There is a good love story entwined with the suspense and danger, it is a book which will appeal to men and women both, in fact to anyone who likes good writing, exciting action and beliveable characters.

A very thoughtful book is "The Legacy of Hiroshima written by Edward Teller and Allen Brown. Dr. Teller is a nuclear authority and he examines and gives a very clear picture of what has happened in the nuclear arms race since the time the first atom bomb was dropped. He looks to the future clearly and concisely. He tells how future wars will be fought and how they can be avoided through perparedness and how a lasting peace might be achieved. He makes this statement "Modern science has created many of our present dangers and even more dangers will surround us in the future. But modern science also promises the realization of many of our hopes. a very small book which can be read in a few minutes is "Democracy's Manifesto" by Chief Justice William O. Douglas. This book gives the author's opinion of the mistakes in our foreign policy. Whether you agree with him or not, it is interesting to know what he thinks and advocates.

"A Portrait of Joan" is the title of the new autobiography of Joan Crawford, written with the assistance of Jane Kesner Ardmore. It begins with her arrival in Hollywood in 1929 with an option to work for M.G.M. and goes on through her spectacular rise to a movie star and her success as a business woman, through flashbacks we learn about her early life in Kansas City and some of the people who influenced her life and career. It is a book which many people will enjoy reading and from it emerges a portrait of a warm and wonderful woman.

The Bronte family was an outstanding literary one in eighteeenth century England. Such books as "Jane Eyre" and "Wuthering Heights" are well - known. However there are others almost as good from their pens. The library has recently acquired one of these "Villette" by Charlotte Bronte. This book has long been out of print and is only available now in a paper back edition, which the library was able to purchase in a reinforced copy. This book will be eagerly read by students of English literature. A new mystery story is always welcome. "Seance" by Mark McShane is the latest one. It is a Crime Club selection and is certain to be popular.

A lovely and useful book came to the library as a gift. It was published by the U. S. Government and it consists of "Inaugural addresses of the presidents of the United States." It is useful for many purposes.

There are several new books which will aid students, especially college students One is "Ernest Hemingway, the Man and His Work" by John K. McCaffery. This is a good critique of one of the giants of the modern literary world and contains much useful information. An interesting reprint is "The Court of Virtue" by John Hall. This is a poem which was first published in 1565 and of which practically no copies were now available. Morton W. Bloomfield is the author of "Piers Plowman as a fourteenth - century Apocalypse." This is a good study of one of the early Englsih poets.

CONCERT

One test for a musicianly violinist is to play a vivaldi concerto with a small baroque ensemble and then turn around and play the Beethoven violin concerto with a full modern orchestra. Nathan Milstein has undergone the test with great honor to his musicianly qualities and great benefit to the music.

The Vivaldi recording is of four concertos in which he himself led the accompanying strings and harpsicord (Angel - 36001.) The musician and the music are one. You have no sense of separate identity nor of the antiquity of the style and the forms of the music. That is Milstein's way of somehow getting inside the music and illuminating it from within.

It is his personal way definitely because he accomplishes the same feat with the Beethoven in which he was supported by the Philharmonia Orchestra, Erich Leinsdorf conducting (Angel-35783). That requires a singular concentration upon solely musical meanings; otherwise no musician could switch musical centuries so completely without in any way betraying personal mannerisms and subjective convictions.

Another pleasing excursion into Baroque music went into the many overtures of William Boyce, one of England's most learned men of music, who died in 1779. It was made by the Lamoureux Concerts Orchestra of Paris with the English musician's musician, Anthony Lewis, conducting. He manages to prevent the antiquity of style, which is much more noticeable in Boyce than in Vivaldi, from obscuring Boyce's sturdiness, prevailing good humor and skill with tunes (L Oiseau - Lyre-60041).

POPULAR

A good honky - tonk piano can liven up the dullest of parties or bring back fond memories of days gone by.

One of these is Knuckles O'Toole, who generally is regarded as the top man in this particular field of keyboard artistry.

O'Toole began recording for Grand Award several years ago, before stereophonic sound caught the fancy of the nation's disc buyers. And most O'Toole collectors have monophonic LP's.

But now Knuckles may be heard in a truly superior method of stereophonic recording known as "Phase X." It permits O'Toole to be heard as though he were in the living room or party room (den, basement).

"The Best of Knuckles O'Toole" (Grand Award 7002 SD) consists of 15 numbers, some of them grouped into medleys. They range from "I'm Looking Over a Four-Leaf Clover" to "There Is a Tavern in the Town."

Knuckles gets excellent backing from a rhythm section, particularly from the banjo player, and a men's chorus that adds a sing-along touch to some of the tunes. And stereo enchances everyone's performance. This record is highly recommended.

Like Knuckles O'Toole, Jan August was a fine pianist who made a broad bid and then declined to be swept aside.

TRAVELING AROUND

Tahiti Is Pearl Of The Pacific

By CHARLES BERNARD

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — French Polynesia, home of the friendliest and fastest hula dancers in the world, today beckons the traveler as never before.

Only a few years ago those who managed to wander off the South Pacific's beaten path to Tahiti and penetrate forbidding French bureaucracy and red tape were limited to a few yachtsmen and other hardy souls. And most of them were men.

Today the routes to Tahiti are many and the welcome mat is out to all who will abide by a few simple rules of the land. Paramount among them is that there will be no tipping of the natives for services rendered, a tabu which in itself holds much appeal for the traveler weary of seeing the outstretched hand with the up-turned palm.

America's flag air carrier into Tahiti is South Pacific Airlines, whose founders are heirs of Stanley Dollar steamship interests. South Pacific flys from Hawaii and promotes the idea of traveling what is known as the Polynesian Triangle from Honolulu to Tahiti to Samoa and back to Hawaii. For those in a hurry and hardy it can be done in three days with time for lots of sightseeing if little sleep.

But most find Tahiti and the other islands of French Polynesia a place for a more leisurely pace and a longer stay.

The French officials administering Tahiti did not always greet the traveler with such open arms. Their fears of those who tip and who would otherwise spoil their paradise were overcome by the stark realities of economics. Until recent years phosphate mines were the economic muscle of the islands. Now, their veins are running dry and production is dropping fast. So, little by little, Tahiti has opened her gates to travelers, especially the American kind with valuable dollars.

BOOKS

Interesting

Egghead's Guide To America, by Wade Thompson(Macmillan $3.50): Thompson walks down the glass - lined streets of present-day America with a stone in either hand. His targets include just about every favored American institution except Motherhood, which presumably will be taken up in another book. The crystalline facades at which his rocks are directed include those of the FBI, the Defense Department, the House Un-American Activities Committee, the DAR and Radio City Music Hall (of which he has some first-hand experience.) "It's my purpose in this book to take the reader on a sort of demolition tour of America — to strip some of our most sacred institutions down to their BVD's and to show what can be done about them if anybody feels so inclined . . ." Thompson says. A lot of what he writes about is outrageously—and often disturbingly — funny; gut mainly this is a book worthy of serious discussion, pro or con.

Missiles

The Soviet Air Force, by Asher Lee (John Day $5.95): Probably nothing plays a more important part in Russia's external propaganda and political maneuvering than "missile rattling." Virtually every Soviet strategem, proposal and reply is accompanied by a threat - subtle or blatant — that Soviet missiles, rockets and A-bombs could wipe out any nation unwilling to accept the Kremlin's position. A vital concern of the West, therefore, is that it have a clear picture of Russia's air arsenal and delivery capabilities. Asher Lee, a noted British aviation writer, contributes toward the picture.

One By Miller

Stand Still Like the Hummingbird, by Henry Miller (New Directions $4): A new collection of Miller essays and stories on a variety of things and people. The title essay finds Miller on a jet plane 40,000 feet up, musing on the futility of all the works of man . . . "And is it not an insane world which we have come to inhabit? What valid meaning is there to any of our acts, plans, thoughts. Whatever we create only adds to our distress and confusion, our eventual annihilation . . . And this drunken mechanic, this push - button maniac, thinks to explore the outer universe. What a joke!"

On Hamilton

The Papers of Alexander Hamilton, edited by Harold C. Syrett and Jacob E. Cooke (Columbia, Vols. III and IV $12.50 each): Volume III covers the papers from 1782 to 1786, and includes Hamilton's Cash Book, published for the first time, a record of his personal accounts and law practice. Volume V publishes the papers from 1787 to May, 1788, including Hamilton's essays from The Federalist, the series which he, James Madison and John Jay wrote to explain the Constitution and urge its adoption.

Book By Mrs. Chennault Is Termed Good

Editor's note: The following is a review of a book by Mrs. Anna Chennault, widow of the late General Claire Chennault of Waterproof and Monroe, La. The couple lived here for several years after they returned to this country from China. Mrs. Chennault now lives in Washington. Both were well - known in this area).

A THOUSAND SPRINGS. By Anna Channault. Paul S. Eriksson. $5.

Maj. Gen. Claire Channault was a flier who was ahead of his time in realizing the uses of air power, but in the 1930s he was unable to convince his superiors.

So he became the "father" of the American Volunteer Group, the 14th Air Force and the CAT airline, all in China.

This book is not intended to be a biography, for it deals only incidentally with Chennault's career. Instead it is the story of a marriage — the General was 54, a Protestant and divorced. The author was 24, a Chinese and a Catholic.

Anna was a fledgling reporter assigned to cover the 14th Air Force when they met. At first their romance proceeded very quietly, but after Chennault obtained his divorce he went straight to the task of inducing Anna's parents and grandparents to give their consent to the marriage.

STEED OF OKLAHOMA

Oil-Oriented Solon Stirs Up Tax Fuss

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex (AP) — An Oklahoma congressman who has championed stricter controls on oil imports has stirred up a tax controversy.

Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., wants to trim some of the tax benefits received by major importers he blames for defeating an amendment he wanted for President Kennedy's Trade Expansion Act.

Steed already has introduced one bill aimed at the major importers. He has threatened to introduce two more.

Many oilmen, large and small, fear the bills could set off a major attack on the industry's controversial 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance.

Major and independent producers have scrapped bitterly over imports at times but, with rare exceptions, have presented a united front in defense of depletion.

Most oil trade groups are on record as opposing any change in the depletion allowance. They want no changes affecting large, small, foreign or domestic producers.

The executive committee of the General Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association adopted a special resolution on taxes June 26 in apparent anticipation of Steed's new strategy

The resolution said existing tax provisions for oil and gas production promote the public interest by making the oil and gas needed for economic progress and national security available at reasonable prices. The resolution said these tax provisions include percentage depletion and the option to write-off intangible development costs currently.

"Therefore, these provisions should be maintained without any change and without any discrimination between small and large operators or between domestic and foreign production," the resolution said.

Steed's new bill would prohibit domestic oil operators with foreign interests from claiming foreign tax credits and a depletion allowance on oil and gas produced outside the United States.

Such operators would have to make a choice between the two tax provisions.

The second phase of Steed's three-point attack would be aimed at domestic production of major importers. He has threatened to introduce a bill that would cut the 27½ per cent maximum depletion allowance to 15 per cent for any domestic producer with an annual gross income in excess of $5 million.

His third bill would require that all foreign oil being brought into the country be transported in tankers flying the United States flag.

Most oil trade groups have anticipated a major 1963 attack on depletion, but there is fear among some groups Steed's proposals could prompt opponents, particularly in the Senate, into quicker action.

Four amendments that would have reduced the maximum allowance were defeated in the Senate between 1958 and 1960.

President Kennedy said during the 1960 residential campaign an overall study was needed to determine if inequities exist, but that foreign operations possibly should be treated differently from domestic oil operations.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said recently the study of depletion allowances is under way. He indicated specific recommendations may be made by the administration later this year.

Cotton Futures Follow Mixed Trend In Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices in the domestic market continued to follow a mixed trend last week with nearer months losing ground and the most distants firming.

At the close on Friday, active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were off 70 cents to up 50 cents from the previous close.

The July 1962 delivery went off the board at 33.20 cents per pound, down $2.60 for the week, when trading expired at 12:30 Friday.

The weakening of the spot market reflected issuance and prolonged circulation of notices. The new crop sold off moderately on feeling that it was a little higher than warranted by the price support for the coming season.

Meanwhile, more distant positions moved little in the face of light demand and few offerings. Traders continued to await release of the Department of Agriculture's release on its sales for export program for next season.

Weather, Crop Report Are Big Grain Influences

CHICAGO (AP) — Weather and the government's monthly crop report were the major influences in a generally quiet grain futures market last week.

Prices on the Board of Trade ranged from firm to weak compared with a week ago, with wheat and soybeans the only gainers. Liquidation seemed to be an unending order of business elsewhere after release of the July forecast by the Department of Agriculture on crop outlook and tenders began circulating in the pits on July deliveries.

The government's estimate of corn yield was much larger than a private survey compiled only a few days earlier, but it was viewed as only mildly surprising to most speculators, who already had said the earlier prediction was too low in view of the known general excellence of crop development.

But for those traders who held any lingering doubt, the government figures speeded up selling in the feed grains and rye. Probably the most surprising part of the report was the indicated rye yield which, if realized will be the largest in more than 20 years.

The oats acreage also was shown as the smallest in many years, but traders said they were not impressed by that since the corn and grain sorghum yields would more than fill any gap in feed grain requirements.

A considerable trade volume also included evening up of commitments on July contracts.

At the end of the week, wheat was unchanged to 2⅞ cent a bushel higher, July $2.12¾-13; corn ⅞-2½ lower, July $1.09½-⅜; oats 1-1⅞ lower, July 65⅝ cents; rye 1¾-4¼ lower, July $1.25¾-26⅛; soybeans 1¼ higher to ⅛ lower, July $2.51¼-½.

MONROE OIL-GAS DISTRICT

26 Oil Locations Staked In Week

Completions were recorded last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District on a pair of gas wildcats in Union Parish and a well in the Wildsville Field of Concordia Parish, in activity marked further by staking of a total of 26 new locations.

Depth on the two Union Parish completions, both wells of the Chesley Pruet Drilling Company in section 4-19-1E on the 14-parish district map, was 11,718 feet. John C. Newsham's well in Concordia Parish, section 12-7-6E, was finalled at 5213 feet.

LaSalle Parish lead the way in new activity, based on reports yesterday through the office of District Manager Duncan S. Cook, with five locations scattered over the French Fork, South Jena, Summerville and Trout Creek Fields. Ouachita Parish accounted for three new stakings, all for gas sites in the Monroe Field.

Four new locations were recorded in Concordia Parish, three wildcats and a site in the Esperance Point Field, and in Union Parish, for a wildcat and three sites in the Monroe Field.

Rounding out the 26 location total throughout the district were new sites in Caldwell, Catahoula, Franklin, Morehouse and Tensas Parishes.

Cook reported 23 wells active over the area, with eight being found in both Tensas and LaSalle Parishes. Drilling or testing were seven rigs in Tensas' Buckhorn Field and one in the West Newlight Field. Similarly active in LaSalle were a wildcat and wells in the Tullos-Urania, Trout Creek, West Searcy, Searcy and Little Creek Fields. Other active rigs were to be found in Franklin and Cathoula Parishes.

The manager's weekly report showed 79 locations in the district with drilling underway at 46. Inactive sites rose to 115 as eight wells were plugged and abandoned.

There were no re-completions.

Stock Mart Continues Up During Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Buoyed by encouraging news from Washington, the stock market last week strung out its recovery through the third straight week.

Stocks advanced on three items from the nation's capital:

1. The Federal Reserve Board reduced the margin requirements for stock market credit to 50 per cent from 70 per cent—in effect, enabling one to buy $100 worth of stock for $50, with the rest borrowed;

2. The Senate Finance Committee voted to eliminate the proposed 20 per cent tax withholding provision on income from interest and dividends;

3. The Treasury revised depreciation rules for business, with the administration estimating this would have the effect of cutting corporate taxes by $1.5 billion the first year.

In addition, good news about some of the biggest companies boosted their stocks.

American Telephone, most widely-held issue of all, was bought heavily on news of the success of its Telstar communications satellite. International Business Machines reported record earnings for a six-month period. General Electric reported record first-half sales and a big jump in profits.

Stocks advanced substantially every day but Friday, when there was a mild, irregular decline as profits were taken. As the week ended, stock market advances had advanced in 10 of the past 12 sessions.

The ability of stock prices to respond to good news seemed to reflect a rebirth of confidence on Wall Street, brokers said. At the same time, some market technicians warned that the prolonged recovery was just about as fast as the previous decline and that it would be healthier for the list to consolidate at a less hectic pace.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week rose 14.02 to 590.19.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 4.90 to 219.80.

Volume was 23,073,400 shares, compared with 13,820,190 in the holiday-shortened week before. It compared with 25,774,760 in the full, five-day trading week ended June 30.

Government and corporate bond prices rose, with governments leading the way and corporates making the lesser gains. The picture was almost the reverse of the previous week, when governments fell sharply and corporates followed behind at a slower pace.

Volume of corporate trading on the New York Stock Exchange rose to $36.42 million from $24.8 million par value in the previous, holiday-shortened week.

Margin, Tax Shifts Seen As Boosting

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The business community has taken heart at three successive Washington developments, seeing in them the kind of psychological boosts they feel the economy needs.

The first was a reduction in margin requirements from 70 to 50 per cent on the amount that must be paid down in cash on stock purchases.

Then came action by the Senate Finance Committee on one hand killing the plan to withhold taxes on interest and dividends and on the other hand approving a 7 per cent investment credit for tax purposes. The withholding plan was strongly opposed by investor groups. The invesment credit would free more money from gross profits for plant improvements.

The third was the announcement of new tax depreciation schedules, saving an estimated $1.5 billion in taxes this year by letting companies deduct more from their taxes for equipment depreciation.

An immediate effect of each of these actions was a jump in stock market prices, giving that fluctuating business barometer its strongest appearance since the big break of late May.

Such rises reflected more the hope of things to come than the specific effects of the Washington steps, though some of the margin-cut rally was brought by the flow of money created by easier credit.

The new schedule of tax depreciation allowances will have to be studied carefully by the individual companies before they decide what it will mean to their profits and how they will change future machinery purchase plans.

The Senate committee's action on investment credit, to encourage plant modernization by hiking tax credits, will have to be passed into final law before it can have direct effects. The action killing the withholding provision removed what many considered to be a damper on investor enthusiasm.

In all, the actions engendered comments that maybe the anti-business feeling many felt reigned in Washington was not so strong after all.

On this point, Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said the new depreciation schedules show the Kennedy administration is not antibusiness.

The changes could have been done in the past," he said, "but it fell to this administration to actually do it."

Kennedy said, "By encouraging American business to replace its machinery more rapidly, we hope to make American products more cost-competitive, to step up our rate of recovery and growth and to expand job opportunities for all American workers."

Before this series of actions emanated from Washington, a Ford Motor Co. executive had told a group in Dearborn, Mich., that all the economy needs is a good dose of "confidence restorer."

Lee A. Iacocca, general manager of the company's Ford division, said the national economy is sound and should remain so unless it is damaged by "some who see major economic troubles in every wiggle of every line on the chart."

His company, meanwhile, produced its millionth car for the year in keeping with a bustling auto business that in the first six months of the year sold the second-highest total — 3,446,563 — on record.

The construction industry is doing even better. The Commerce Department estimated that it will set a record of $60.1 billion in outlays this year, six per cent higher than last year.

These two industries have been the brightest stars in a national economy spotted by more than a few clouds.

One of these, steel, showed signs of recovering from the depressing effects of the inventories built up earlier against the steel strike that never happened. A steel magazine survey of industry executives found many predicting an early pickup in production with final quarter orders to run about level with the good first quarter of 1961.

Lukens steel, however, pared its quarterly dividend to 25 cents from 40 cents.

Another troubled industry, copper, announced production cutbacks to pare supply to demand. Major labor settlements reduced the possibility of strike disruptions.

Glancing briefly elsewhere over the business scene: Treasury Undersecretary Robert V. Roosa reiterated assurances the United States does not plan to devalue the dollar . . . The Federal Reserve reported a loss of gold for the week for the first time in seven week; it was the deepest one-week decline in eight months.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Alistair Among Most Popular

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

One of the most modern authors of adventure stories is Alistair MacLean. His first story "H.M.S. Ulysses" was based on his experiences in World War II and is considered one of the best stories that came out of that conflict. He has written several others since that time, one of which "The Guns of Navaronne" was made into a most exciting movie. Today we are able to offer to our reading public his latest book, "The Golden Rendezvous," and exciting story of adventure and suspense. The setting of this story is the Campari, a luxury liner with a most unusual passanger list, a cargo which would bear scrutiny and a young officer who stumbled into an amazing situation. There is a good love story entwined with the suspense and danger, it is a book which will appeal to men and women both, in fact to anyone who likes good writing, exciting action and beliveable characters.

A very thoughtful book is "The Legacy of Hiroshima written by Edward Teller and Allen Brown. Dr. Teller is a nuclear authority and he examines and gives a very clear picture of what has happened in the nuclear arms race since the time the first atom bomb was dropped. He looks to the future clearly and concisely. He tells how future wars will be fought and how they can be avoided through perparedness and how a lasting peace might be achieved. He makes this statement "Modern science has created many of our present dangers and even more dangers will surround us in the future. But modern science also promises the realization of many of our hopes.

a very small book which can be read in a few minutes is "Democracy's Manifesto" by Chief Justice William O. Douglas. This book gives the author's opinion of the mistakes in our foreign policy. Whether you agree with him or not, it is interesting to know what he thinks and advocates.

"A Portrait of Joan" is the title of the new autobiography of Joan Crawford, written with the assistance of Jane Kesner Ardmore. It begins with her arrival in Hollywood in 1929 with an option to work for M.G.M. and goes on through her spectacular rise to a movie star and her success as a business woman, through flashbacks we learn about her early life in Kansas City and some of the people who influenced her life and career. It is a book which many people will enjoy reading and from it emerges a portrait of a warm and wonderful woman.

The Bronte family was an outstanding literary one in eighteeenth century England. Such books as "Jane Eyre" and "Wuthering Heights" are well - known. However there are others almost as good from their pens. The library has recently acquired one of these "Villette" by Charlotte Bronte. This book has long been out of print and is only available now in a paper back edition, which the library was able to purchase in a reinforced copy. This book will be eagerly read by students of English literature. A new mystery story is always welcome. "Seance" by Mark McShane is the latest one. It is a Crime Club selection and is certain to be popular.

A lovely and useful book came to the library as a gift. It was published by the U. S. Government and it consists of "Inaugural addresses of the presidents of the United States." It is useful for many purposes.

There are several new books which will aid students, especially college students One is "Ernest Hemingway, the Man and His Work" by John K. McCaffery. This is a good critique of one of the giants of the modern literary world and contains much useful information. An interesting reprint is "The Court of Virtue" by John Hall. This is a poem which was first published in 1565 and of which practically no copies were now available. Morton W. Bloomfield is the author of "Piers Plowman as a fourteenth - century Apocalypse." This is a good study of one of the early Engisih poets.

CONCERT

One test for a musicianly violinist is to play a vivaldi concerto with a small baroque ensemble and then turn around and play the Beethoven violin concerto with a full modern orchestra. Nathan Milstein has undergone the test with great honor to his musicianly qualities and great benefit to the music.

The Vivaldi recording is of four concertos in which he himself led the accompanying strings and harpsicord (Angel - 36001.) The musician and the music are one. You have no sense of separate identity nor of the antiquity of the style and the forms of the music. That is Milstein's way of somehow getting inside the music and illuminating it from within.

It is his personal way definitely because he accomplishes the same feat with the Beethoven in which he was supported by the Philharmonia Orchestra, Erich Leinsdorf conducting (Angel-35783). That requires a singular concentration upon solely musical meanings; otherwise no musician could switch musical centuries so completely without in any way betraying personal mannerisms and subjective convictions.

Another pleasing excursion into Baroque music went into the many overtures of William Boyce, one of England's most learned men of music, who died in 1779. It was made by the Lamoureux Concerts Orchestra of Paris with the English musician's musician, Anthony Lewis, conducting. He manages to prevent the antiquity of style, which is much more noticeable in Boyce than in Vivaldi, from obscuring Boyce's sturdiness, prevailing good humor and skill with tunes (L Oiseau - Lyre-60041).

POPULAR

A good honky - tonk piano can liven up the dullest of parties or bring back fond memories of days gone by.

One of these is Knuckles O'Toole, who generally is regarded as the top man in this particular field of keyboard artistry.

O'Toole began recording for Grand Award several years ago, before stereophonic sound caught the fancy of the nation's disc buyers. And most O'Toole collectors have monophonic LP's.

But now Knuckles may be heard in a truly superior method of stereophonic recording known as "Phase X." It permits O'Toole to be heard as though he were in the living room or party room (den, basement).

"The Best of Knuckles O'Toole" (Grand Award 7002 SD) consists of 15 numbers, some of them grouped into medleys. They range from "I'm Looking Over a Four-Leaf Clover" to "There Is a Tavern in the Town."

Knuckles gets excellent backing from a rhythm section, particularly from the banjo player, and a men's chorus that adds a singalong touch to some of the tunes. And stereo enchances everyone's performance. This record is highly recommended.

Like Knuckles O'Toole, Jan August was a fine pianist who made a broad bid and then declined to be swept aside.

TRAVELING AROUND

Tahiti Is Pearl Of The Pacific

By CHARLES BERNARD

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — French Polynesia, home of the friendliest and fastest hula dancers in the world, today beckons the traveler as never before.

Only a few years ago those who managed to wander off the South Pacific's beaten path to Tahiti and penetrate forbidding French bureaucracy and red tape were limited to a few yachtsmen and other hardy souls. And most of them were men.

Today the routes to Tahiti are many and the welcome mat is out to all who will abide by a few simple rules of the land. Paramount among them is that there will be no tipping of the natives for services rendered, a tabu which in itself holds much appeal for the traveler weary of seeing the outstretched hand with the up-turned palm.

America's flag air carrier into Tahiti is South Pacific Airlines, whose founders are heirs of Stanley Dollar steamship interests. South Pacific flys from Hawaii and promotes the idea of traveling what is known as the Polynesian Triangle from Honolulu to Tahiti to Samoa and back to Hawaii. For those in a hurry and hardy it can be done in three days with time for lots of sightseeing if little sleep.

But most find Tahiti and the other islands of French Polynesia a place for a more leisurely pace and a longer stay.

The French officials administering Tahiti did not always greet the traveler with such open arms. Their fears of those who tip and who would otherwise spoil their paradise were overcome by the stark realities of economics. Until recent years phosphate mines were the economic muscle of the islands. Now, their veins are running dry and production is dropping fast. So, little by little, Tahiti has opened her gates to travelers, especially the American kind with valuable dollars.

BOOKS

Interesting

Egghead's Guide To America, by Wade Thompson(Macmillan $3.50): Thompson walks down the glass - lined streets of present-day America with a stone in either hand. His targets include just about every favored American institution except Motherhood, which presumably will be taken up in another book. The crystalline facades at which his rocks are directed include those of the FBI, the Defense Department, the House Un-American Activities Committee, the DAR and Radio City Music Hall (of which he has some first-hand experience.) "It's my purpose in this book to take the reader on a sort of demolition tour of America — to strip some of our most sacred institutions down to their BVD's and to show what can be done about them if anybody feels so inclined . . ." Thompson says. A lot of what he writes about is outrageously— and often disturbingly — funny; gut mainly this is a book worthy of serious discussion, pro or con.

Missiles

The Soviet Air Force, by Asher Lee (John Day $5.95): Probably nothing plays a more important part in Russia's external propaganda and political maneuvering than "missile rattling." Virtually every Soviet strategem, proposal and reply is accompanied by a threat - subtle or blatant — that Soviet missiles, rockets and A-bombs could wipe out any nation unwilling to accept the Kremlin's position. A vital concern of the West, therefore, is that it have a clear picture of Russia's air arsenal and delivery capabilites. Asher Lee, a noted British aviation writer, contributes toward the picture.

One By Miller

Stand Still Like the Hummingbird, by Henry Miller (New Directions $4): A new collection of Miller essays and stories on a variety of things and people. The title essay finds Miller on a jet plane 40,000 feet up, musing on the futility of all the works of man . . . "And is it not an insane world which we have come to inhabit? What valid meaning is there to any of our acts, plans, thoughts. Whatever we create only adds to our distress and confusion, our eventual annihilation ...... And this drunken mechanic, this push - button maniac, thinks to explore the outer universe. What a joke!"

On Hamilton

The Papers of Alexander Hamilton, edited by Harold C. Syrett and Jacob E. Cooke (Columbia, Vols. III and IV $12.50 each): Volume III covers the papers from 1782 to 1786, and includes Hamilton's Cash Book, published for the first time, a record of his personal accounts and law practice. Volume V publishes the papers from 1787 to May, 1788, including Hamilton's essays from The Federalist, the series which he, James Madison and John Jay wrote to explain the Constitution and urge its adoption.

Book By Mrs. Chennault Is Termed Good

Editor's note: The following is a review of a book by Mrs. Anna Chennault, widow of the late General Claire Chennault of Waterproof and Monroe, La. The couple lived here for several years after they returned to this country from China. Mrs. Chennault now lives in Washington. Both were well - known in this area).

A THOUSAND SPRINGS. By Anna Channault. Paul S. Eriksson. $5.

Maj. Gen. Claire Channault was a flier who was ahead of his time in realizing the uses of air power, but in the 1930s he was unable to convince his superiors.

So he became the "father" of the American Volunteer Group, the 14th Air Force and the CAT airline, all in China.

This book is not intended to be a biography, for it deals only incidentally with Chennault's career. Instead it is the story of a marriage — the General was 54, a Protestant and divorced. The author was 24, a Chinese and a Catholic.

Anna was a fledgling reporter assigned to cover the 14th Air Force when they met. At first their romance proceeded very quietly, but after Chennault obtained his divorce he went straight to the task of inducing Anna's parents and grandparents to give their consent to the marriage.

STEED OF OKLAHOMA

Oil-Oriented Solon Stirs Up Tax Fuss

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — An Oklahoma congressman who has championed stricter controls on oil imports has stirred up a tax controversy.

Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., wants to trim some of the tax benefits received by major importers he blames for defeating an amendment he wanted for President Kennedy's Trade Expansion Act.

Steed already has introduced one bill aimed at the major importers. He has threatened to introduce two more.

Many oilmen, large and small, fear the bills could set off a major attack on the industry's controversial 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance.

Major and independent producers have scrapped bitterly over imports at times but, with rare exceptions, have presented a united front in defense of depletion.

Most oil trade groups are on record as opposing any change in the depletion allowance. They want no changes affecting large, small, foreign or domestic producers.

The executive committee of the General Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association adopted a special resolution on taxes June 26 in apparent anticipation of Steed's new strategy.

The resolution said existing tax provisions for oil and gas production promote the public interest by making the oil and gas needed for economic progress and national security available at reasonable prices. The resolution said these tax provisions include percentage depletion and the option to write-off intangible development costs currently.

"Therefore, these provisions should be maintained without any change and without any discrimination between small and large operators or between domestic and foreign production," the resolution said.

Steed's new bill would prohibit domestic oil operators with foreign interests from claiming foreign tax credits and a depletion allowance on oil and gas produced outside the United States. Such operators would have to make a choice between the two tax provisions.

The second phase of Steed's three-point attack would be aimed at domestic production of major importers. He has threatened to introduce a bill that would cut the 27½ per cent maximum depletion allowance to 15 per cent for any domestic producer with an annual gross income in excess of $5 million.

His third bill would require that all foreign oil being brought into the country be transported in tankers flying the United States flag.

Most oil trade groups have anticipated a major 1963 attack on depletion, but there is fear among some groups Steed's proposals could prompt opponents, particularly in the Senate, into quicker action.

Four amendments that would have reduced the maximum allowance were defeated in the Senate between 1958 and 1960.

President Kennedy said during the 1960 residential campaign an overall study was needed to determine if inequities exist, but that foreign operations possibly should be treated differently from domestic oil operations.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said recently the study of depletion allowances is under way. He indicated specific recommendations may be made by the administration later this year.

Cotton Futures Follow Mixed Trend In Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices in the domestic market continued to follow a mixed trend last week with nearer months losing ground and the most distants firming.

At the close on Friday, active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were off 70 cents to up 50 cents from the previous close.

The July 1962 delivery went off the board at 33.20 cents per pound, down $2.60 for the week, when trading expired at 12:30 Friday.

The weakening of the spot market reflected issuance and prolonged circulation of notices. The new crop sold off moderately on feeling that it was a little higher than warranted by the price support for the coming season.

Meanwhile, more distant positions moved little in the face of light demand and few offerings. Traders continued to await release of the Department of Agriculture's release on its sales for export program for next season.

Weather, Crop Report Are Big Grain Influences

CHICAGO (AP) — Weather and the government's monthly crop report were the major influences in a generally quiet grain futures market last week.

Prices on the Board of Trade ranged from firm to weak compared with a week ago, with wheat and soybeans the only gainers. Liquidation seemed to be an unending order of business elsewhere after release of the July forecast by the Department of Agriculture on crop outlook and tenders began circulating in the pits on July deliveries.

The government's estimate of corn yield was much larger than a private survey compiled only a few days earlier, but it was viewed as only mildiy surprising to most speculators, who already had said the earlier prediction was too low in view of the known general excellence of crop development.

But for those traders who held any lingering doubt, the government figures speeded up selling in the feed grains and rye. Probably the most surprising part of the report was the indicated rye yield which, if realized will be the largest in more than 20 years.

The oats acreage also was shown as the smallest in many years, but traders said they were not impressed by that since the corn and grain sorghum yields would more than fill any gap in feed grain requirements.

A considerable trade volume also included evening up of commitments on July contracts.

At the end of the week, wheat was unchanged to 2⅞ cent a bushel higher, July $2.12¾-13; corn ⅞-2½ lower, July $1.09½-⅜; oats 1-1⅞ lower, July 65⅝ cents; rye 1¾-4¼ lower, July $1.25¾-26¼; soybeans 1¼ higher to ⅛ lower, July $2.51¼-½.

MONROE OIL-GAS DISTRICT

26 Oil Locations Staked In Week

Completions were recorded last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District on a pair of gas wildcats in Union Parish and a well in the Wildsville Field of Concordia Parish, in activity marked further by staking of a total of 26 new locations.

Depth on the two Union Parish completions, both wells of the Chesley Pruet Drilling Company in section 4-19-1E on the 14-parish district map, was 11,718 feet. John C. Newsham's well in Concordia Parish, section 12-7-6E, was finalled at 5213 feet.

LaSalle Parish lead the way in new activity, based on reports yesterday through the office of District Manager Duncan S. Cook, with five locations scattered over the French Fork, South Jena, Summerville and Trout Creek Fields. Ouachita Parish accounted for three new stakings, all for gas sites in the Monroe Field.

Four new locations were recorded in Concordia Parish, three wildcats and a site in the Esperance Point Field, and in Union Parish, for a wildcat and three sites in the Monroe Field.

Rounding out the 26 location total throughout the district were new sites in Caldwell, Catahoula, Franklin, Morehouse and Tensas Parishes.

Cook reported 23 wells active over the area, with eight being found in both Tensas and LaSalle Parishes. Drilling or testing were seven rigs in Tensas' Buckhorn Field and one in the West Newlight Field. Similarly active in LaSalle were a wildcat and wells in the Tullos-Urania, Trout Creek, West Searcy, Searcy and Little Creek Fields. Other active rigs were to be found in Franklin and Cathoula Parishes.

The manager's weekly report showed 79 locations in the district with drilling underway at 46. Inactive sites rose to 115 as eight wells were plugged and abandoned.

There were no re-completions.

Stock Mart Continues Up During Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Buoyed by encouraging news from Washington, the stock market last week strung out its recovery through the third straight week.

Stocks advanced on three items from the nation's capital:

1. The Federal Reserve Board reduced the margin requirements for stock market credit to 50 per cent from 70 per cent—in effect, enabling one to buy $100 worth of stock for $50, with the rest borrowed;

2. The Senate Finance Committee voted to eliminate the proposed 20 per cent tax withholding provision on income from interest and dividends;

3. The Treasury revised depreciation rules for business, with the administration estimating this would have the effect of cutting corporate taxes by $1.5 billion the first year.

In addition, good news about some of the biggest companies boosted their stocks.

American Telephone, most widely-held issue of all, was bought heavily on news of the success of its Telstar communications satellite. International Business Machines reported record earnings for a six-month period. General Electric reported record first-half sales and a big jump in profits.

Stocks advanced substantially every day but Friday, when there was a mild, irregular decline as profits were taken. As the week ended, stock market advances had advanced in 10 of the past 12 sessions.

The ability of stock prices to respond to good news seemed to reflect a rebirth of confidence on Wall Street, brokers said. At the same time, some market technicians warned that the prolonged recovery was just about as fast as the previous decline and that it would be healthier for the list to consolidate at a less hectic pace.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week rose 14.02 to 590.19. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 4.90 to 219.80.

Volume was 23,073,400 shares, compared with 13,820,190 in the holiday-shortened week before. It compared with 25,774,760 in the full, five-day trading week ended June 30.

Government and corporate bond prices rose, with governments leading the way and corporates making the lesser gains. The picture was almost the reverse of the previous week, when governments fell sharply and corporates followed behind at a slower pace.

Volume of corporate trading on the New York Stock Exchange rose to $36.42 million from $24.8 million par value in the previous, holiday-shortened week.

Margin, Tax Shifts Seen As Boosting

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The business community has taken heart at three successive Washington developments, seeing in them the kind of psychological boosts they feel the economy needs.

The first was a reduction in margin requirements from 70 to 50 per cent on the amount that must be paid down in cash on stock purchases.

Then came action by the Senate Finance Committee on one hand killing the plan to withhold taxes on interest and dividends and on the other hand approving a 7 per cent investment credit for tax purposes. The withholding plan was strongly opposed by investor groups. The invesment credit would free more money from gross profits for plant improvements.

The third was the announcement of new tax depreciation schedules, saving an estimated $1.5 billion in taxes this year by letting companies deduct more from their taxes for equipment depreciation.

An immediate effect of each of these actions was a jump in stock market prices, giving that fluctuating business barometer its strongest appearance since the big break of late May.

Such rises reflected more the hope of things to come than the specific effects of the Washington steps, though some of the margin-cut rally was brought by the flow of money created by easier credit.

The new schedule of tax depreciation allowances will have to be studied carefully by the individual companies before they decide what it will mean to their profits and how they will change future machinery purehase plans.

The Senate committee's action on investment credit, to encourage plant modernization by hiking tax credits, will have to be passed into final law before it can have direct effects. The action killing the withholding provision removed what many considered to be a damper on investor enthusiasm.

In all, the actions engendered comments that maybe the antibusiness feeling many felt reigned in Washington was not so strong after all.

On this point, Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said the new depreciation schedules show the Kennedy administration is not antibusiness.

The changes could have been done in the past," he said, "but it fell to this administration to actually do it."

Kennedy said, "By encouraging American business to replace its machinery more rapidly, we hope to make American products more cost-competitive, to step up our rate of recovery and growth and to expand job opportunities for all American workers."

Before this series of actions emanated from Washington, a Ford Motor Co. executive had told a group in Dearborn, Mich., that all the economy needs is a good dose of "confidence restorer."

Lee A. Iacocca, general manager of the company's Ford division, said the national economy is sound and should remain so unless it is damaged by "some who see major economic troubles in every wiggle of every line on the chart."

His company, meanwhile, produced its millionth car for the year in keeping with a bustling auto business that in the first six months of the year sold the second-highest total — 3,446,563 — on record.

The construction industry is doing even better. The Commerce Department estimated that it will set a record of $60.1 billion in outlays this year, six per cent higher than last year.

These two industries have been the brightest stars in a national economy spotted by more than a few clouds.

One of these, steel, showed signs of recovering from the depressing effects of the inventories built up earlier against the steel strike that never happened. A steel magazine survey of industry executives found many predicting an early pickup in production with final quarter orders to run about level with the good first quarter of 1961.

Lukens steel, however, pared its quarterly dividend to 25 cents from 40 cents.

Another troubled industry, copper, announced production cutbacks to pare supply to demand. Major labor settlements reduced the possibility of strike disruptions.

Glancing briefly elsewhere over the business scene: Treasury Undersecretary Robert V. Roosa reiterated assurances the United States does not plan to devalue the dollar . . . The Federal Reserve reported a loss of gold for the week for the first time in seven week; it was the deepest one-week decline in eight months.

WOMEN'S AMATEUR GOLF

Sorenson Beats Barbara White For Western Title

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Nineteen-year-old Carol Sorenson soundly defeated Barbara Fay White 8 and 7 Saturday in 36-hole finals of the 62nd Women's Western Amateur Golf Championship at the South Bend Country Club.

Miss Sorenson, a sturdy little blonde from Janesville, Wis., shot 1-under-par golf for 29 holes to add the WWGA trophy to a collection that includes the current intercollegiate championship, the 1959 Western Junior and the 1960 National Junior.

Miss Sorenson closed out the match with a 5-foot birdie putt on the 320-yard No. 11 hole. It was her fifth bird. She missed only three greens all day.

Miss White, 22-year-old Louisiana State champion from Shreveport, hit a longer ball off the tees but failed to keep it in the fairway. She had to chip to the green on 14 holes, and with her medium putts failing to fall, she was in trouble from the start.

Miss Sorenson, who won the title as a State freshman, led from the fourth hole.

Miss Sorenson said she would pass up the Trans-Mississippi at Wichita, Kan., next week to compete in the Wisconsin state meet.

AMERICAN LEGION BASEBALL

5th District Playoff To Begin Monday

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Fifth District American Legion baseball playoffs were slated to begin Monday after a meeting of league officials here Saturday morning.

Monroe and Bastrop will play in Bastrop and Ruston will host Bernice in the first games of the best-of-three series tomorrow.

Bernice and Bastrop, who finished the season in a tie for third place, tossed a coin at Saturday's meeting with Bastrop being assigned fourth position.

Fifth District league president, James Spencer, of Farmerville pointed out last night if both series only go two games, finals will begin Friday in the park of the team highest in season standings. Should the finals begin Friday, the second game would be scheduled for Monday week and the third game would be played Tuesday, if necessary.

If either of the first round playoffs go into a third game, Spencer indicated, finals will begin Monday week, with the second game set for Wednesday and the third tilt if necessary, July 20.

After Monday's openers, Monroe will host Bastrop until the series end. Bernice will host Ruston Wednesday after opening their best-of three contests Monday then return to Ruston Thursday if a third game is required.

The Fifth District winner will go against the winner of the Lake Charles area in the North Louisiana playoffs, a double elimination affair, in Shreveport beginning July 30.

South Louisiana playoffs will be played in New Orleans beginning at the same time.

Winners of the North and South Louisiana playoffs will meet to decide the holder of the state title for the next season.

Chicago Tops Redlegs, 6-3, On Late Runs

CHICAGO (AP)—Marty Keough dropped Billy Willliams' fly for a two-base error and permitted Lou Brock to score the lead run as the Chicago Cubs broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning and went on to a 6-3 victory over the Reds Saturday.

Starter Glen Hobbie, a nine-time loser, went the route on a yield of eight hits to post his second win of the year—first since a 2-1 decision over Milwaukee May 28.

All four of the Cubs' runs in the eighth were unearned as losing pitcher Jimmy O'Toole was chased by Umpire Al Barlick after the Reds bitterly protested his "fair" call of Ron Santo's three-run homer to climax the spree. The homer, Santo's 12th, curled around the left field foul pole as it left the park and the Reds claimed without success that it was a foul fly.

Willliams and George Altman, who walked, scored ahead of Santo as the victory gave the Cubs a 2-1 edge for the series.

Catcher John Edwards singled for Cincinnati's first run in the second, and Don Blasingame's safety drove in the second in the fifth.

The Cubs matched this with catcher Dick Bertell's pinch homer in the fifth.

The Cubs pulled into a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth when Ken Hubbs, who had three straight hits scored on Ernie Banks' sacrifice fly.

Cincinnati picked up its third run in the ninth when Gordy Coleman blasted his 16th homer, his fourth in the past five games.

Fund Raising Effort Started By 'Iron Man'

BALTIMORE (AP) — Severn Hayes' of Oakland, Calif., has initiated a fund-raising campaign to bring a star football player to the Baltimore Colts.

The fellow has a "tremendous lot of talent."

Who is he? Severn Hayes, commonly self-billed as "Iron Man."

The Colts have offered to give him a tryout if he'll come to training camp at Westminster, Md., next Thursday. But he has to pay his own way. And "Iron Man" is broke.

He appealed to Baltimore fans to contribute to a traveling fund for him in a letter to the Baltimore Sun.

Here's the letter:

"My name is Severn Hayes, better known as "Iron Man Hayes." I am an ex-University of Montana student and I am just returning from the Army.

"God gave me a tremendous amount of talent, and I am appealing to you, the business men and women of Baltimore, to help me put that talent to work.

Rotz Rides Winner In 2, 2-5 Time

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Carry Back smashed into the lead midway down the home stretch Saturday and broke the track record as he captured the $109,150 Monmouth Park Handicap in a spine tingler that saw favored Kelso finish second. Beau Purple, who had upset both of them in the July 4 Suburban Handicap was third.

Expertly ridden by Johnny Rotz, the 1961 Kentucky Derby winner owned by Mrs. Katherine Price of Miami scampered under the wire in 2 minutes 2-5 seconds for the 1¼ mile trip, three lengths ahead of Mrs. Richard C. duPont's Kelso. The time eclipsed Round Vew's track mark of 2:01 1-5, set in the 1947 Monmouth Handicap.

Kelso, horse of the year in 1960 and 1961, was three-quarters of a length ahead of Hobeau Stable's Beau Purple in the field of six handicap stars.

Mrs. Q. A. S. McKean's Polylad was fourth, followed by Harbor View Farm's Garwol, and Ogden Phipps' Hiting Away. Towson was a late scratch, as his stable had looked for a muddy track which didn't materialize although there were light mid-afternoon showers.

The winner, second choice of the crowd of 32,888—largest of the season at Monmouth Park—paid $9, $3.20 and $2.80. Kelso, ridden by Willie Shoemaker and the 4-5 board favorite, paid $2.60 and $2.20. Beau Purple, 4-1 third choice, returned $2.80 to show.

Carry Back collected $70,947.50 and boosted his total to $1,085,360, only $400 behind the great Citation, now retired. Citation is the third leading money-winning horse in the world, topped by leader Round Table, and Nashua, the latter the 1956 Monmouth winner.

Carry Back, who beat Kelso in the Metropolitan Handicap May 30 at Aqueduct, but finished fourth at the same track in the Suburban, was never sharper. He kicked and squirmed in the paddock before the race, and when he got to the winner's circle he threw Rotz from the saddle as the cameras clicked.

Rotz was advised by Jack Price, trainer and husband of the winner, to keep Carry Back closer to the pace this time, and he did his job expertly.

Gene Monacelli sent Garwol to the front at the break at the head of the home stretch, but Larry Adams had Hitting Away right up alongside as they swept past the finish the first time with a mile to go.

Then Hitting Away went to the front and provided a snappy pace lacking in the Suburban. Garwol was second, Kelso third, and Carry Back trained around the first turn.

Suddenly Carry Back began to move past Polylad into fifth, and the crowd roared for the popular 4-year-old son of Saggy-Joppy.

GOODWOOD, England (AP)—Donald Campbell showed off his new Bluebird car for the first time Saturday and said h choped it would hit 500 miles per hour.

The 1-year-old daredevil, who plans to attack the land speed record once more i Australia next April or May, said "this car is capable of just about the ultimate speed possible for a wheeled vehicle—about 500 miles an hour.

"Previously all machines have have been limited by lack of power. This is not—it is only limited by the lack of grip of tires on the salt.

BRITISH GOLF EDITOR

Palmer Is Greatest In Tom Scott's Book

TROON, Scotland (AP) — Arnold Palmer returned home Saturday with his second straight British Open Golf Championship and a shower of admiration from British observers who watched him capture it with a record 276 total.

"This man Palmer is the greatest of the lot for me," said Tom Scott, editor of Britain's Golf Illustrated.

"He has this wonderful ability of hitching up his trousers just when things are beginning to look tough," Scott said. "I've seen Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Ben Hogan and Bobby Locke, but Palmer is the greatest in my book."

Scott, who has watched every British Open since 1921, was impressed with Palmer's ability to forget holes that have given him trouble. "He just goes hard for an eagle or birdie at the next one and that's where he gets in a long putt or sends an iron approach right to the pin."

Palmer, who finished six strokes ahead of runner-up Kel Nagle, whipped the biggest quality field the British Open has had in years. In the process, the Latrobe, Pa., star conquered one of Britain's toughest courses — Old Troon.

"Palmer's performance was one of the greatest in the whole field of sport," said Bob Ferrier, of the London Sunday Observer. "He kept his title on a cours [illegible]'s never liked and still doesn't like. Yet he pla[illegible] .. Old Troon like nobody else ever has played it—and like nobody else probably ever will."

Jimmy Walker, a member of Britain's Walker Cup team, called Palmer "the greatest player I have ever seen. He's better than Hogan. He's got every golf shot in the bag and what's more he plays better once he's got any pressure on him."

Palmer shot 12 birdies in the final two rounds of the tournament and shattered course and tournament records all along the way. His third round total of 67 was the lowest ever on Troon's newly-stretched out course. His 276 for the tournament was two strokes better than any British Open total since the event was first held over 72 holes 70 years ago.

CARRY BACK sets a new track record in the Monmouth Handicap with jockey John Rotz in the saddle. Kelso with Willie Shoemaker aboard was second. In third place was Beau Purple ridden by Willie Boland. Carry Back ran the $100,000 added mile and one quarter feature at Monmouth Park in 2:00.4 to set a new record for the distance. (AP Wirephoto)

Tresh Homer Clips Angels In 10th, 9-8

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The league-leading New York Yankees blew a four-run lead in the late innings but regained command on a two-run homer by Tom Tresh in the 10th and defeated the Los Angeles Angels 9-8 Saturday.

The Angels slammed five homers—a one-team record for Dodger Stadium—all of them in the last five innings.

The Yankees, who lost the first two games of the series, now lead second-place Cleveland by a full game and are 1½ games in front of the third-place Angels.

The Angels trailed 7-2 after 5½ innings. But they picked up one run in the sixth on a homer by Felix Torres, three in the eighth on homers by Lee Thomas and Earl Averill and one more in the ninth on Albie Pearson's second homer of the season.

Pinch hitter Ed Sadowski hit his first homer of the year in the Angel 10th.

The game drew 35,228 paid and ran the Angel home attendance for the season to 612,053. The Angels drew only 603,510 at home all last year.

Altogether, there were seven homers — the most in a single game at Chavez Ravine. Elston Howard hit the first one with two aboard in the Yankee third.

Marshall Bridges, who pitched the last two innings for New York, picked up his second victory in as many decisions.

Dean Chance (6-5) was the loser.

Right-hander Bill Stafford, the first of four Yankee pitchers, had to leave the game in the sixth after he tripped at first base running out a bunt. The Yankee dressing room reported later that Stafford strained a ligament in his left knee.

Whether the injury would force him to miss any pitching turn was not immediately known.

Lane Gets Up To Outpoint Hernandez

NEW YORK (AP) — Kenny Lane, pint-sized Muskegon, Mich., lightweight came off the canvas to outpoint mustachioed Carlos Hernandez in a 10-round fight at Madison Square Garden Saturday night and knock the Venezuelan right out of the title picture. Lane weighed 138, Hernandez 134½.

Hernandez, who had a seven-bout streak going, is the No. 1 contender for Carlos Ortiz' world lightweight title. The last time out, two weeks ago, he flattened Paolo Rosi in the first round.

But Saturday night he had a tough time all around. Referee Arthur Mercante warned him twice for low blows and once for hitting and holding. The exasperated Mercante filly took away the sixth for hitting and holding and the ninth for hitting below the belt.

Mercante had Lane in front 7-2-1. Judge Bill Recht gave it to Lane 8-1-1 and judge Jimmy Riccio had Lane the winner 5-3-2. The AP had Lane ahead 8-2.

Hernandez had only one really good round. That was the fourth when he lashed out with a right to the head and sent Lane reeling to the floor. Lane took a 9-count and got up with a small cut over his right eye.

Hernandez waded in trying for the kill, but Lane kept out of his way.

Right at the start, the 5-6 Lane —who had a five-inch height deficit—roared in with his left hook scoring time and again. At the final bell, Hernandez still hadn't figured out how to avoid it.

Twice in the first round, Lane staggered Hernandez. In the second round, he connected again and Hernandez had to shake the cobwebs out of his head.

After he went down, Lane decided to use more caution and he followed a pattern the rest of the way—hit and run.

Wright Gains 4-Shot Edge In Tourney

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mickey Wright mastered a rainsoaked course with a 2-over-par 72 and took a four stroke lead after 54 holes Saturday in the Milwaukee Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Teeing off in a light drizzle, the 27-year-old Miss Wright traveled the front nine cautiously and took a 37. Then she roared home as the skies cleared with a par equalling 35 for a three-round total of 212.

Mary Lena Faulk, the 36-year-old veteran from Thomasville, Fla., started the day three strokes behind Miss Wright, but slipped farther back with a 37-36—73.

The play left Miss Wright, winner of more than $9,000 on the Ladies PGA tour this year, in a commanding position for top money of $1,350 in the 72-hole test at the Tuckaway Country Club.

Judy Kimball, a sophomore on the pro circuit, posted a 37-36—73 for a three round total of 218. Joe Ann Prentice carded a 37-38—75 and fell eight strokes behind with 220.

Shireley Englehorn, 21, a former Idaho, Utah, Oregon and Pacific Northwest Open champion, soared to a 39-39—78 and a 54-hole score of 221 in dueling Miss Wright and Miss Prentice in the final threesome.

Marilynn Smith matched Miss Wright's 72, the low score in the third round, and moved into a tie with Kathy Cornelius and Miss Englehorn at 221. Miss Cornelius posted a 74.

Barbara Romack, who shared the opening round lead with Miss Wright after a par equalling 70 on the tricky 6,135-yard course, ran into trouble for the second straight day and took a 78, good for 223 and a deadlock with veteran Patty Berg. Miss Berg got a 75.

Gloria Armstrong and Sandra Haynie each carded 73s for a total of 225, while another stroke back came Kathy Whitworth, Norma Shook and Joyce Ziske Malison. Miss Whitworth scored a 74 while Miss Shook and Mrs. Malison each had a 76.

Sorenson Beats Barbara White For Western Title

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Nineteen-year-old Carol Sorenson soundly defeated Barbara Fay White 8 and 7 Saturday in 36-hole finals of the 62nd Women's Western Amateur Golf Championship at the South Bend Country Club.

Miss Sorenson, a sturdy little blonde from Janesville, Wis., shot 1-under-par golf for 29 holes to add the WWGA trophy to a collection that includes the current intercollegiate championship, the 1959 Western Junior and the 1960 National Junior.

Miss Sorenson closed out the match with a 5-foot birdie putt on the 320-yard No. 11 hole. It was her fifth bird. She missed only three greens all day.

Miss White, 22-year-old Louisiana State champion from Shreveport, hit a longer ball off the tees but failed to keep it in the fairway. She had to chip to the green on 14 holes, and with her medium putts failing to fall, she was in trouble from the start.

Miss Sorenson, who won the title as a State freshman, led from the fourth hole.

Miss Sorenson said she would pass up the Trans-Mississippi at Wichita, Kan., next week to compete in the Wisconsin state meet.

AMERICAN LEGION BASEBALL

5th District Playoff To Begin Monday

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Fifth District American Legion baseball playoffs were slated to begin Monday after a meeting of league officials here Saturday morning.

Monroe and Bastrop will play in Bastrop and Ruston will host Bernice in the first games of the best-of-three series tomorrow.

Bernice and Bastrop, who finished the season in a tie for third place, tossed a coin at Saturday's meeting with Bastrop being assigned fourth position.

Fifth District league president, James Spencer, of Farmerville pointed out last night if both series only go two games, finals will begin Friday in the park of the team highest in season standings. Should the finals begin Friday, the second game would be scheduled for Monday week and the third game would be played Tuesday, if necessary.

If either of the first round playoffs go into a third game, Spencer indicated, finals will begin Monday week, with the second game set for Wednesday and the third tilt if necessary, July 20.

After Monday's openers, Monroe will host Bastrop until the series end. Bernice will host Ruston Wednesday after opening their best-of three contests Monday then return to Ruston Thursday if a third game is required.

The Fifth District winner will go against the winner of the Lake Charles area in the North Louisiana playoffs, a double elimination affair, in Shreveport beginning July 30.

South Louisiana playoffs will be played in New Orleans beginning at the same time.

Winners of the North and South Louisiana playoffs will meet to decide the holder of the state title for the next season.

Chicago Tops Redlegs, 6-3, On Late Runs

CHICAGO (AP)—Marty Keough dropped Billy Willliams' fly for a two-base error and permitted Lou Brock to score the lead run as the Chicago Cubs broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning and went on to a 6-3 victory over the Reds Saturday.

Starter Glen Hobbie, a nine-time loser, went the route on a yield of eight hits to post his second win of the year—first since a 2-1 decision over Milwaukee May 28.

All four of the Cubs' runs in the eighth were unearned as losing pitcher Jimmy O'Toole was chased by Umpire Al Barlick after the Reds bitterly protested his "fair" call of Ron Santo's three-run homer to climax the spree. The homer, Santo's 12th, curled around the left field foul pole as it left the park and the Reds claimed without success that it was a foul fly.

Willliams and George Altman, who walked, scored ahead of Santo as the victory gave the Cubs a 2-1 edge for the series.

Catcher John Edwards singled for Cincinnati's first run in the second, and Don Blasingame's safety drove in the second in the fifth.

The Cubs matched this with catcher Dick Bertell's pinch homer in the fifth.

The Cubs pulled into a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth when Ken Hubbs, who had three straight hits scored on Ernie Banks' sacrifice fly.

Cincinnati picked up its third run in the ninth when Gordy Coleman blasted his 16th homer, his fourth in the past five games.

Rotz Rides Winner In 2, 2-5 Time

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Carry Back smashed into the lead midway down the home stretch Saturday and broke the track record as he captured the $109,150 Monmouth Park Handicap in a spine tingler that saw favored Kelso finish second. Beau Purple, who had upset both of them in the July 4 Suburban Handicap was third.

Expertly ridden by Johnny Rotz, the 1961 Kentucky Derby winner owned by Mrs. Katherine Price of Miami scampered under the wire in 2 minutes 2-5 seconds for the 1¼ mile trip, three lengths ahead of Mrs. Richard C. duPont's Kelso. The time eclipsed Round Vew's track mark of 2:01 1-5, set in the 1947 Monmouth Handicap.

Kelso, horse of the year in 1960 and 1961, was three-quarters of a length ahead of Hobeau Stable's Beau Purple in the field of six handicap stars.

Mrs. Q. A. S. McKean's Polylad was fourth, followed by Harbor View Farm's Garwol, and Ogden Phipps' Hiting Away. Towson was a late scratch, as his stable had looked for a muddy track which didn't materialize although there were light mid-afternoon showers.

The winner, second choice of the crowd of 32,888—largest of the season at Monmouth Park—paid $9, $3.20 and $2.80. Kelso, ridden by Willie Shoemaker and the 4-5 board favorite, paid $2.60 and $2.20. Beau Purple, 4-1 third choice, returned $2.80 to show.

Carry Back collected $70,947.50 and boosted his total to $1,085,360, only $400 behind the great Citation, now retired. Citation is the third leading money-winning horse in the world, topped by leader Round Table, and Nashua, the latter the 1956 Monmouth winner.

Carry Back, who beat Kelso in the Metropolitan Handicap May 30 at Aqueduct, but finished fourth at the same track in the Suburban, was never sharper. He kicked and squirmed in the paddock before the race, and when he got to the winner's circle he threw Rotz from the saddle as the cameras clicked.

Rotz was advised by Jack Price, trainer and husband of the winner, to keep Carry Back closer to the pace this time, and he did his job expertly.

Gene Monacelli sent Garwol to the front at the break at the head of the home stretch, but Larry Adams had Hitting Away right up alongside as they swept past the finish the first time with a mile to go.

Then Hitting Away went to the front and provided a snappy pace lacking in the Suburban. Garwol was second, Kelso third, and Carry Back trained around the first turn.

Suddenly Carry Back began to move past Polylad into fifth, and the crowd roared for the popular 4-year-old son of Saggy-Joppy.

Fund Raising Effort Started By 'Iron Man'

BALTIMORE (AP) — Severn Hayes of Oakland, Calif., has initiated a fund-raising campaign to bring a star football player to the Baltimore Colts.

The fellow has a "tremendous lot of talent."

Who is he? Severn Hayes, commonly self-billed as "Iron Man."

The Colts have offered to give him a tryout if he'll come to training camp at Westminster, Md., next Thursday. But he has to pay his own way. And "Iron Man" is broke.

He appealed to Baltimore fans to contribute to a traveling fund for him in a letter to the Baltimore Sun.

Here's the letter:

"My name is Severn Hayes, better known as "Iron Man Hayes." I am an ex-University of Montana student and I am just returning from the Army.

"God gave me a tremendous amount of talent, and I am appealing to you, the business men and women of Baltimore, to help me put that talent to work.

BRITISH GOLF EDITOR

Palmer Is Greatest In Tom Scott's Book

TROON, Scotland (AP) — Arnold Palmer returned home Saturday with his second straight British Open Golf Championship and a shower of admiration from British observers who watched him capture it with a record 276 total.

"This man Palmer is the greatest of the lot for me," said Tom Scott, editor of Britain's Golf Illustrated.

"He has this wonderful ability of hitching up his trousers just when things are beginning to look tough," Scott said. "I've seen Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Ben Hogan and Bobby Locke, but Palmer is the greatest in my book."

Scott, who has watched every British Open since 1921, was impressed with Palmer's ability to forget holes that have given him trouble. "He just goes hard for an eagle or birdie at the next one and that's where he gets in a long putt or sends an iron approach right to the pin."

Palmer, who finished six strokes ahead of runner-up Kel Nagle, whipped the biggest quality field the British Open has had in years. In the process, the Latrobe, Pa., star conquered one of Britain's toughest courses — Old Troon.

"Palmer's performance was one of the greatest in the whole field of sport," said Bob Ferrier, of the London Sunday Observer. "He kept his title on a cours[illegible]'s never liked and still doesn't like. Yet he pla[illegible] Old Troon like nobody else ever has played it—and like nobody else probably ever will."

Jimmy Walker, a member of Britain's Walker Cup team, called Palmer "the greatest player I have ever seen. He's better than Hogan. He's got every golf shot in the bag and what's more he plays better once he's got any pressure on him."

Palmer shot 12 birdies in the final two rounds of the tournament and shattered course and tournament records all along the way. His third round total of 67 was the lowest ever on Troon's newly-stretched out course. His 276 for the tournament was two strokes better than any British Open total since the event was first held over 72 holes 70 years ago.

CARRY BACK sets a new track record in the Monmouth Handicap with jockey John Rotz in the saddle. Kelso with Willie Shoemaker aboard was second. In third place was Beau Purple ridden by Willie Boland. Tresh Homer Clips Angels In 10th, 9-8

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The league-leading New York Yankees blew a four-run lead in the late innings but regained command on a two-run homer by Tom Tresh in the 10th and defeated the Los Angeles Ange[illegible] 9-8 Saturday.

The Angels slammed five homers—a one-team record for Dodger Stadium—all of them in the last five innings.

The Yankees, who lost the first two games of the series, now lead second-place Cleveland by a full game and are 1½ games in front of the third-place Angels.

The Angels trailed 7-2 after 5½ innings. But they picked [illegible] one run in the sixth on a hom[illegible] by Felix Torres, three in the eighth on homers by Lee Thomas and Earl Averill and one more in the ninth on Albie Pearson's second homer of the season.

Pinch hitter Ed Sadowski hit his first homer of the year in the Angel 10th.

The game drew 35,228 paid and ran the Angel home attendance for the season to 612,053. The Angels drew only 603,510 at home all last year.

Altogether, there were seven homers — the most in a single game at Chavez Ravine. Elston Howard hit the first one with two aboard in the Yankee third.

Marshall Bridges, who pitched the last two innings for New York, picked up his second victory in as many decisions.

Dean Chance (6-5) was the loser.

Right-hander Bill Stafford, the first of four Yankee pitchers, had to leave the game in the sixth after he tripped at first base running out a bunt. The Yankee dressing room reported later that Stafford strained a ligament in his left knee.

Whether the injury would force him to miss any pitching tur[illegible] was not immediately known.

Lane Gets Up To Outpoint Hernandez

NEW YORK (AP) — Kenny Lane, pint-sized Muskegon, Mich., lightweight came off the canvas to outpoint mustachioed Carlos Hernandez in a 10-round fight at Madison Square Garden Saturday night and knock the Venezuelan right out of the title picture. Lane weighed 138, Hernandez 134½.

Hernandez, who had a seven-bout streak going, is the No. 1 contender for Carlos Ortiz' world lightweight title. The last time out, two weeks ago, he flattened Paolo Rosi in the first round.

But Saturday night he had a tough time all around. Referee Arthur Mercante warned him twice for low blows and once for hitting and holding. The exasperated Mercante filly took away the sixth for hitting and holding and the ninth for hitting below the belt.

Mercante had Lane in front 7-2-1. Judge Bill Recht gave it to Lane 8-1-1 and judge Jimmy Riccio had Lane the winner 5-3-2. The AP had Lane ahead 8-2.

Hernandez had only one really good round. That was the fourth when he lashed out with a right to the head and sent Lane reeling to the floor. Lane took a 9-count and got up with a small cut over his right eye.

Hernandez waded in trying for the kill, but Lane kept out of his way.

Right at the start, the 5-6 Lane —who had a five-inch height deficit—roared in with his left hook scoring time and again. At the final bell, Hernandez still hadn't figured out how to avoid it.

Twice in the first round, Lane staggered Hernandez. In the second round, he connected again and Hernandez had to shake the cobwebs out of his head.

After he went down, Lane decided to use more caution and he followed a pattern the rest of the way—hit and run.

Wright Gains 4-Shot Edge In Tourney

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mickey Wright mastered a rainsoaked course with a 2-over-par 72 and took a four stroke lead after 54 holes Saturday in the Milwaukee Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Teeing off in a light drizzle, the 27-year-old Miss Wright traveled the front nine cautiously and took a 37. Then she roared home as the skies cleared with a par equalling 35 for a three-round total of 212.

Mary Lena Faulk, the 36-year-old veteran from Thomasville, Fla., started the day three strokes behind Miss Wright, but slipped farther back with a 37-36—73.

The play left Miss Wright, winner of more than $9,000 on the Ladies PGA tour this year, in a commanding position for top money of $1,350 in the 72-hole test at the Tuckaway Country Club.

Judy Kimball, a sophomore on the pro circuit, posted a 37-36—73 for a three round total of 218. Joe Ann Prentice carded a 37-38—75 and fell eight strokes behind with 220.

Shireley Englehorn, 21, a former Idaho, Utah, Oregon and Pacific Northwest Open champion, soared to a 39-39—78 and a 54-hole score of 221 in dueling Miss Wright and Miss Prentice in the final threesome.

Marilynn Smith matched Miss Wright's 72, the low score in the third round, and moved into a tie with Kathy Cornelius and Miss Englehorn at 221. Miss Cornelius posted a 74.

Barbara Romack, who shared the opening round lead with Miss Wright after a par equalling 70 on the tricky 6,135-yard course, ran into trouble for the second straight day and took a 78, good for 223 and a deadlock with veteran Patty Berg. Miss Berg got a 75.

Gloria Armstrong and Sandra Haynie each carded 73s for a total of 225, while another stroke back came Kathy Whitworth, Norma Shook and Joyce Ziske Malison. Miss Whitworth scored a 74 while Miss Shook and Mrs. Malison each had a 76.

Broglio Deals Braves 2nd Shutout, 2-0

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ernie Broglio dealt the Milwaukee Braves their second straight shutout Saturday as the St. Louis Cardinals took a 2-0 decision at County Stadium.

The big right-hander blanked the Braves on only six hits, striking out nine and walking three, for his fifth victory against four losses and his second straight shutout of the Braves in 11 days. Friday night, Bob Gibson of the Cards whitewashed Milwaukee 6-0 on only three hits.

Saturday's loser was Bob Shaw, now 9-7, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh, Claude Raymond finishing. St. Louis had six hits.

The Cards scored an unea[illegible]ed run off Shaw in the second. Ken Boyer reached first on Eddie Mathews' throwing error, took third on Stan Musial's single to left and scored on Curt Flood's sacrifice fly to right. Julio Gotay's first homer of the season into the left field bleachers in the fifth accounted for the other St. Louis run.

The Braves had their scoring opportunities but lacked a scoring wallop. They left eight runn[illegible] on base.

DON DEMETER, Philadelphia Phillies third baseman, is safe at third during the fourth inning of Saturday's game in Philadelphia with the San Francisco Giants. Phillies Take 6-5 Victory Over Giants In 10 Innings

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rookie Bob Wine's single scoring pinch runner Jack Davis with two out in the 10th inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 6-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

Thus the Phillies took the series by two games to one.

It was a tough loss for the Giants, who overcame a five-run deficit with a five-run rally in the seventh inning to rout Dallas Green, a lanky right-hander making his first start of the season.

From then on Jack Baldschun and Stu Miller put on a sterling battle of ace relief pitchers with Baldschun getting the decision for his fifth win of the campaign.

Miller, after three scoreless innings in relief of Mike McCormick, got involved in the 10th. Roy Sievers, who earlier hit a two-run homer, led off for the Phillies with a single. Billy Klaus ran from him and was forced at second on Clay Dalrymple's bunt.

Davis ran for Dalrymple before Don Demeter was hit on the left arm by a 3-2 pitch. Wes Covington lined out to Willie Mays but Wine, with two strikes on him, reached out and eased a shot over shortstop Ernie Bowman's head to score Davis and end the game.

Tony Gonzalez hit a two-run homer in the first inning and Sievers also accounted for a pair with his homer in the fourth. Both clouts came against Jan Marichal.

Demeter's single drove in a run in the fifth off Don Larsen.

But all of a sudden the Giants erupted against Green. Six hits, including a two-run pinch single by Orlando Cepeda, amounted to five runs and caused the overtime.

Stuart, Skinner Get Pirates Past Colts

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The slugging of Dick Stuart and Bob Skinner led Pittsburgh to a 4-2 victory over Houston Saturday. It was the Pirates' seventh straight victory over the Colts and their 12th triumph in the last 14 games.

Stuart, trying to bust out of a bad hitting slump, socked a single, double and triple, scoring two runs and driving in the one that put the Pirates ahead to stay. Skinner hit his ninth home run and doubled.

Vernon Law, continuing his pitching comeback, won his eighth game against four defeats. He allowed the colts eight hits and walked none while striking out six.

Law settled down and wasn't in much trouble after Roman Mejias gave Houston a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Mejias fired his 20th home run over the left field wall after Joe Amalfitano singled.

The Pirates tied the game on Stuart's double and two infield ground outs in the second and Skinner's homer in the third. They won it in the fifth on Skinner's double, Stuart's triple and Roberto Clemente's single.

Pros To Find PGA Course Stern Test

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa (AP)—The golf course over which the top professionals will seek the 44th PGA championship here July 19-22 is rated an "honest" course.

By "honest," is meant that Aronimink in this suburb of Philadelphia is not treacherous, yet not easy. It's the kind of course that rewards the good shots and penalizes the mistakes.

It is doubtful if the pros will cry as some did at Oakmont during last month's U.S. Open, that the golf architects have "souped up" the layout.

Some changes, of course, have been made to toughen the course for golf's top stars. Traps have been revised, the fairways narrowed by letting the rough grow. The 7,045, par 35-35—70 challenge has been made interesting not impossible.

A number of the standouts pros played the course last month in a pro-amateur tournament, including Bobby Nichols who posted a record breaking 67. Most of the pros, Nichols included, predicted a 280 would win the PGA, and they agreed the course was tailor made for long ball hitters of the Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus style.

Originally called Belmont Golf Association, Aronimink's history is traced to 1895. It is the second oldest club in the district, moving to its present site in 1926. Located on a 300-acre tract, the course was laid out by Donald Ross, leading golf designer of his day.

The changes made for the PGA were the first major alterations since 1927. Host pro, Joe Capello says the winner will have to drive well and hit good, long approach putts. He predicts birdies will come mostly on long putts rather than close ones because of the pin placements available in corners. The pros, Capello says, will have trouble making close approaches.

The toughest holes, as Capello see them, are:

The 4th, a 457-yard, par-4. The fairway slopes from the tee, blocking the green from sight. It has a slight dog-leg to the left for a long approach.

The 10th, a 449 yard par-4. This is another elevated tee with a lake on the left, trees on the right. The green is rolling and difficult to hold. Defending champion Jerry Barber, who played here on National Golf Day and shot a 77, rates this "a great hole." Gene Littler, 1961 U.S. Open champion, shot a 75 the same day.

The 12th, a par-4, 459-yarder. Again the tee is elevated with the fairway sloping downward from the tee, upward to the green. The green here also is difficult to hold. This is rated a tough par-4.

The 15th, 469-yard par-4. The longest par-4 on the course has a sidehill lie, which calls for real sharpshooting to the green. Two big shots are needed to make the green. The putting is difficult.

The longest hole on the course is the par-5, 610-yard ninth. Trees line the fairway right and left and the play is uphill to a narrow necked green. The secret of success here is two big woods and an accurate pitch.

The only other par-5 is the 541-yard 16th with a downhill fairway, dog-leg to the left, six traps and a green tough to hold. Capello says an eagle is almost impossible, birdies rare.

Russian Travel Expenses High For Association

PALO ALTO, Calif (AP)—It cost the National Amateur Athletic Union an unexpected $25,000 to $30,000 to get the Russian track team to the site of next weekend's U. S.-Soviet meet, Daniel J. Ferris, AAU secretary emeritus, said Saturday.

The agreement called for the visitors to pay their way to the meet site, Ferris said, but the Russians indicated by letter recently that they were paying only for the travel costs to New York.

To avoid international friction, the AAU paid for the transcontinental flight. The Russian team of 42 men and 17 women arrived in San Francisco Friday night.

"It was a misunderstanding of the agreement on their part," Ferris said.

Since the meet is part of the State Department exchange program, Ferris said, Washington was told about the situation.

Ferris said the AAU would talk to meet officials at Stanford in an attempt to gain reimbursement for the added expenses.

SPRINGDALE, ARK. GOLFER

Dick Sikes Cops 2nd Straight Publinx Title

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Dick Sikes tore into par Saturday and won his second straight U.S. Golf Association Public Links Golf Championship with a 2 and 1 victory over tiny but tenacious Hung Soo Ahn of Hawaii. Sikes was five under par for the 35 holes.

Sikes, a dead-serious 22-year-old from Springdale, Ark., broke Ahn's spirit when he rolled in a 35-footer from the back edge of the green for a birdie 3 on the 32nd hole. It put the champion 2-up.

Ahn, a 32-year-old draftsman making his sixth run for the title, popped his tee shot 3 feet from the pin on the short 34th, but missed the putt. On the 35th, the slender, muscular Sikes banged a long iron to the green while Ahn was short and took a 5.

Sikes became the third man in history to win more than two National Publinx and the second to win two straight.

It was a come-from-behind victory for Sikes, a University of Arkansas senior.

He came from 3-down after 10 holes of the morning round over suburban Tonawanda's 6,607-yard, par-71 course.

Then he ran down a 15-foot putt for an eagle 3 on the 506-yard 11th and an 18-footer for a deuce on the short 16th.

On the 18th, Ahn had to waste a stroke recovering from behind a tree in the rough while Sikes picked the ball clean from a trap and dropped the putt for a par 4.

Ahn, the second Hawaiian ever to reach the finals of the National Public Links, fell behind at the outset in the morning when his second shot lodged against a wire fence behind the second green. He had to pick up. But he got the hole back on the long fourth when Sikes hooked his drive out of bounds.

Ahn took the lead on the fifth when he canned a 7-foot birdie putt for a 3 and ran his edge to two holes on the 159-yard, over-the-water eighth when Sikes missed the green, then chipped too short.

On the dogleg 10th, Sikes' tee shot hit a barn and bounced back in bounds. He gave up carrying his own clubs, as he has been doing all week except for one round and sent for a caddy.

Ahn dropped another 7-footer for a birdie 3 and led 3-up.

Getting the bag off his shoulder must have helped. For Sikes knocked in his eagle 3 on the next hole.

ON GENTILE'S HOMER

Baltimore Outlasts Indians, 4-3, In 14

BALTIMORE (AP)—Jim Gentile's leadoff homer in the 14th inning, his 22nd of the season, gave the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

The game-winning blow, off relief pitcher Gary Bell, came after Oriole center fielder Jack Brandt cut down Bubba Phillips at the plate in the Cleveland half of the inning.

Philips had singled with two out off Oriole reliever Dick Hall. On a run-and-hit play, Phillips tried to score all the way from first base on a bloop single to center by Jerry Kindall.

The Orioles muffed a golden opportunity to score in the 10th inning when they loaded the bases with none out. Bell induced Jerry Adair to ground into a double play. Then after Whitey Herzog walked to load the bases again, Brandt took a third called strike.

The Indians tied the score at 3-3 in the eighth inning and chased Oriole starter Milt Pappas. Ty Cline doubled and Tito Francona singled to put runners on first and third. Chuck Essegian then hit a sacrifice fly, on which left fielder John (Boog) Powell made a diving catch.

Powell drove in the first three Oriole runs—on an infield grounder in the fourth and a two-run homer in the sixth off Cleveland starter Dick Donovan.

Willie Kirkland hit a homer in the first inning for Cleveland's first two runs.

Rain delayed the start of the game 90 minutes, and the contest was finished under the lights. The same clubs are scheduled to play a doubleheader in Cleveland Sunday.

Little League Baseball

A no-hit shutout and a pair of two-hit shutouts highlighted Little League action in Monroe Saturday night.

At Southside park Wallace hurled a no-hitter as Twin City Printers blanked The Palace, 6-0, just before Simpson spun a neat two-hitter to carry North Monroe Lions to a 2-0 triumph over Purity Ice Cream. Moncrief twirled the other two-hitter as King Finance beat Texaco, 6-0 in Northside play.

Smith, Wallace's battery mate, and Kokinos led Twin City Printers' hitting, each getting a home run and single in three trips to the plate. Denton and Hancock took the loss for The Palace.

McCarty was the Lions' top hitter, going two for three. Leath and Van were Purity's losers.

Moncrief was also King's leading hitter, rapping out two bingles in two official at-bats. Allen and LaGrange were charged with the loss for Texaco.

Dew Music outscored Greenlee B.M.A. Insurance, 9-8, in a Minor B game at Southside. Walters and Alford formed the winning combination with Marchand leading the hitters with a pair of safeties in three attempts. Jones, who led Greenlee with two for four, and Smith were the losing battery.

Jack Armstrong blanked Steel Motors, 10-0, in a Minor F contest at Northside park. Rowan and Davis were charged with the loss. Kickman led all hitters with three hits in three tries.

Green Brothers Dairy beat Moses Motor Motel, 6-3, and Spats Drug defeated R. and A Jewelers, 5-1 in other Minor League play. Stouir and Ezell were Green Brothers winning combination and Rainer and Dillingham took the loss for Moses Motel. Marsala and Schepps were Spats' workhorses and Marsala and Mikocls leading all hitters with two for three. Sancheze and Gavoli took the loss for R and A.

The Denver Broncos will open the American Football League season with a home game against the San Diego Chargers on Sept. 7.

Johnny Rotz, wo won the rich Preakness with Greek Money and the rich Metropolitan Handicap with Carry Back in May, paced Aqueduct jockeys for the second straight spring. He rode 70 winners.

Senators Clip Twins, 4-3, On Late Rally

MINNEAPOLIS-ST PAUL (AP)—Washington rallied for three runs after two were out in the eighth inning and Jim Hannan hurled two innings of shutout relief to preserve a 4-3 Senator victory over Minnesota Saturday.

Twins' starter Jim Kaat was coasting along with a four hitter and had the first two Senators out in the top of the eighth when Washington broke loose.

Singles by Ken Hamlin and Chuck Cottier and a walk to Jim King loaded the bases. Kaat worked the count to 3-1 on Harry Bright before being yanked in favor of Joe Bonikowski.

Bonikowski walked Bright to force in a run. Then Chuck Hinton delivered a line single to center, scoring two more runs. Hinton also doubled in Bright for the first Senator run in the fifth.

All of Minnesota's runs came in the first inning on Harmon Killebrew's opposite-field home run to right, his 21st of the season and fourth in as many games. It scored Bill Tuttle who had walked and Vic Power who had singled.

Bennie Daniels, who gave up only five hits before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, got the victory to break his 10-game losing streak. His only other victory was a 4-1 decision over Detroit in the season opener. Kaat (8-9) took the loss.

Baumann Pitches White Sox Over Tigers, 4 To 2

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox took over fifth place in the American League race Saturday when Frank Baumann pitched the Chicagoans to a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

It was the fifth consecutive triumph by the White Sox, the last three over the slumping Detroiters who dropped into sixth place.

The slugging of Floyd Robinson keyed the seven-hit Chicago attack against loser Jim Bunning and reliever Ron Nischwitz. Robinson smashed a two-run homer in the first inning. He contributed a double to a two-run uprising in the third, when both runs scored on a single by Charley Maxwell.

Baumann, pitching his first complete game of the season, held the Tigers to four hits, struck out five and walked two. His record is 2-3 and Bunning's 9-5.

The Tigers got only one runner on base, via a walk, in the first four innings, but Steve Boros' fourth home run opened the fifth. Two innings later, the Tigers' Boros hit a double that led to their second run, this one driven across on Chico Fernandez' single.

This was the fifth consecutive complete game by the White Sox pitching staff. The Tigers, saddled with a sudden batting slump, have managed only nine hits in the first three games of the series that ends Sunday. Juan Pizarro and Ray Herbert beat them in the first two matches.

Norm Cash of the Tigers, leading home run slugger, was struck inside the left arm by one of Baumann's pitches in the fifth inning and had to leave the game one-half inning later after shunning a pinch runner. It wasn't immediately determined whether he would be available for Sunday's finale.

A crowd of 10,367 paying customers was swelled to 36,406 by a throng of uniformed little leaguers who were guests of the White Sox management.

DICK SIKES of Springdale, Ark., holds the trophy he received after winning his second straight U. S. Golf Association Public Links Championship Saturday. With the champ is the man he defeated in the final round, Hung Soo Ahn of Honolulu. Sikes' margin over Ahn in Saturday's final match was two and one. AFTER THREE ROUNDS

Three Entries Tied In Motor City Open

DETROIT (AP)—Dave Ragan and Don Massengale caught up with Bruce Crampton Saturday and threw the par-shattered Motor City Open into a three-way tie after three rounds.

Crampton's first bogey after 52 holes of the $35,000 tournament cost him his slender second-round lead.

The three leaders entering Sunday's final 18 holes are tied at 201—12 strokes under par at the 36-35—71 Knollwood Country Club. Crampton shot a 35-35—70 while Ragan shaved one stroke off his second-round lead with a 35-34—69. Massengale cut his two-stroke deficit with a 33-35—68.

More than 40 players bettered par for the third straight day and 46 players were under par after three rounds.

"I went into a trap and then rolled by the pin on No. 17," said Crampton in explaining the bogey that cost him his outright lead. "So I spoiled my record."

The three leaders hold a three-stroke lead over Bob Goalby and Bill Casper. Goalby had a 34-33—67 while Casper shot 34-37—71.

A stroke behind them at 205 are Julius Boros, Pete Cooper, Doug Ford and Gay Brewer.

Crampton, who had rounds of 66 and 65 the first two days, picked up two birdies on short putts before losing the lead with his bogey.

Ragan also needed short putts for his two birdies and he did not have a bogey. The stocky blond from Sun City, Fla., had successive 66's before Saturday's 69.

Massengale, a young Texan without a major victory in his three years on the PGA tour, had four birdies and one bogey in his 68. His hardest birdie was on a 15-foot putt on the par 3 15th hole.

Massengale had fired a 67 and a 66 the first two days.

Ties are commonplace in the Motor City. There have been six in the previous 10 tourneys.

If the tournament still is tied after the final round, there will be a sudden death playoff.

The field for the final round was cut to the low 60 scorers and ties—those at 214 or better.

Red Sox Triumph Over Athletics By 4-2 Margin

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Boston's Arnold Earley made his first major league start a good one Saturday, beating the Kansas City Athletics 4-2.

But the big southpaw, who has been strictly a relief hurler for the Red Sox, ran out of gas in the ninth inning and had to have help from the bullpen to quell the hit-happy Kansas City crew's usual rampaging finish.

The Athletics scored twice in that last inning and had the tying runs on second and third when poor base running and an alert Boston defense completed a game-ending double play.

DON DEMETER, Philadelphia Phillies third baseman, is safe at third during the fourth inning of Saturday's game in Philadelphia with the San Francisco Giants. Phillies pitcher Dallas Green hit a double to left-center field and the throw to Giant third baseman Jim Davenport was not in time to get Demeter. TOUGH LOSS FOR S.F.

Phillies Take 6-5 Victory Over Giants In 10 Innings

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rookie Bob Wine's single scoring pinch runner Jack Davis with two out in the 10th inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 6-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

Thus the Phillies took the series by two games to one.

It was a tough loss for the Giants, who overcame a five-run deficit with a five-run rally in the seventh inning to rout Dallas Green, a lanky right-hander making his first start of the season.

From then on Jack Baldschun and Stu Miller put on a sterling battle of ace relief pitchers with Baldschun getting the decision for his fifth win of the campaign.

Miller, after three scoreless innings in relief of Mike McCormick, got involved in the 10th. Roy Sievers, who earlier hit a two-run homer, led off for the Phillies with a single. Billy Klaus ran from him and was forced at second on Clay Dalrymple's bunt.

Davis ran for Dalrymple before Don Demeter was hit on the left arm by a 3-2 pitch. Wes Covington lined out to Willie Mays but Wine, with two strikes on him, reached out and eased a shot over shortstop Ernie Bowman's head to score Davis and end the game.

Tony Gonzalez hit a two-run homer in the first inning and Sievers also accounted for a pair with his homer in the fourth. Both clouts came against Jan Marichal.

Demeter's single drove in a run in the fifth off Don Larsen.

But all of a sudden the Giants erupted against Green. Six hits, including a two-run pinch single by Orlando Cepeda, amounted to five runs and caused the overtime.

Stuart, Skinner Get Pirates Past Colts

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The slugging of Dick Stuart and Bob Skinner led Pittsburgh to a 4-2 victory over Houston Saturday. It was the Pirates' seventh straight victory over the Colts and their 12th triumph in the last 14 games.

Stuart, trying to bust out of a bad hitting slump, socked a single, double and triple, scoring two runs and driving in the one that put the Pirates ahead to stay. Skner hit his ninth home run and doubled.

Vernon Law, continuing his pitching comeback, won his eighth game against four defeats. He allowed the colts eight hits and walked none while striking out six.

Law settled down and wasn't in much trouble after Roman Mejias gave Houston a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Mejias fired his 20th home run over the left field wall after Joe Amalfitano singled.

The Pirates tied the game on Stuart's double and two infield ground outs in the second and Skinner's homer in the third. They won it in the fifth on Skinner's double, Stuart's triple and Roberto Clemente's single.

Pros To Find PGA Course Stern Test

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (AP)—The golf course over which the top professionals will seek the 44th PGA championship here July 19-22 is rated an "honest" course.

By "honest," is meant that Aronimink in this suburb of Philadelphia is not treacherous, yet not easy. It's the kind of course that rewards the good shots and penalizes the mistakes.

It is doubtful if the pros will cry as some did at Oakmont during last month's U.S. Open, that the golf architects have "souped up" the layout.

Some changes, of course, have been made to toughen the course for golf's top stars. Traps have been revised, the fairways narrowed by letting the rough grow. The 7,045, par 35-35—70 challenge has been made interesting not impossible.

A number of the standouts pros played the course last month in a pro-amateur tournament, including Bobby Nichols who posted a record breaking 67. Most of the pros, Nichols included, predicted a 280 would win the PGA, and they agreed the course was tailor made for long ball hitters of the Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus style.

Originally called Belmont Golf Association, Aronimink's history is traced to 1895. It is the second oldest club in the district, moving to its present site in 1926. Located on a 300-acre tract, the course was laid out by Donald Ross, leading golf designer of his day.

The changes made for the PGA were the first major alterations since 1927. Host pro, Joe Capello says the winner will have to drive well and hit good, long approach putts. He predicts birdies will come mostly on long putts rather than close ones because of the pin placements available in corners. The pros, Capello says, will have trouble making close approaches.

The toughest holes, as Capello see them, are:

The 4th, a 457-yard, par-4. The fairway slopes from the tee, blocking the green from sight. It has a slight dog-leg to the left for a long approach.

The 10th, a 449 yard par-4. This is another elevated tee with a lake on the left, trees on the right. The green is rolling and difficult to hold. Defending champion Jerry Barber, who played here on National Golf Day and shot a 77, rates this "a great hole." Gene Littler, 1961 U.S. Open champion, shot a 75 the same day.

The 12th, a par-4, 459-yarder. Again the tee is elevated with the fairway sloping downward from the tee, upward to the green. The green here also is difficult to hold. This is rated a tough par-4.

The 15th, 469-yard par-4. The longest par-4 on the course has a sidehill lie, which calls for real sharpshooting to the green. Two big shots are needed to make the green. The putting is difficult.

The longest hole on the course is the par-5, 610-yard ninth. Trees line the fairway right and left and the play is uphill to a narrow necked green. The secret of success here is two big woods and an accurate pitch.

The only other par-5 is the 541-yard 16th with a downhill fairway, dog-leg to the left, six traps and a green tough to hold. Capello says an eagle is almost impossible, birdies rare.

Russian Travel Expenses High For Association

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—It cost the National Amateur Athletic Union an unexpected $25,000 to $30,000 to get the Russian track team to the site of next week-end's U. S.-Soviet meet, Daniel J. Ferris, AAU secretary emeritus, said Saturday.

The agreement called for the visitors to pay their way to the meet site. Ferris said, but the Russians indicated by letter recently that they were paying only for the travel costs to New York.

To avoid international friction, the AAU paid for the transcontinental flight. The Russian team of 42 men and 17 women arrived in San Francisco Friday night.

"It was a misunderstanding of the agreement on their part," Ferris said.

Since the meet is part of the State Department exchange program, Ferris said, Washington was told about the situation.

Ferris said the AAU would talk to meet officials at Stanford in an attempt to gain reimbursement for the added expenses.

SPRINGDALE, ARK. GOLFER

Dick Sikes Cops 2nd Straight Publinx Title

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Dick Sikes tore into par Saturday and won his second straight U.S. Golf Association Public Links Golf Championship with a 2 and 1 victory over tiny but tenacious Hung Soo Ahn of Hawaii. Sikes was five under par for the 35 holes.

Sikes, a dead-serious 22-year-old from Springdale, Ark., broke Ahn's spirit when he rolled in a 35-footer from the back edge of the green for a birdie 3 on the 32nd hole. It put the champion 2-up.

Ahn, a 32-year-old draftsman making his sixth run for the title, popped his tee shot 5 feet from the pin on the short 34th, but missed the putt. On the 35th, the slender, muscular Sikes banged a long iron to the green while Ahn was short and took a 5.

Sikes became the third man in history to win more than two National Publinx and the second to win two straight.

It was a come-from-behind victory for Sikes, a University of Arkansas senior.

He came from 3-down after 10 holes of the morning round over suburban Tonawanda's 6,697-yard, par-71 course.

Then he ran down a 15-foot putt for an eagle 3 on the 506-yard 11th and an 18-footer for a deuce on the short 16th.

On the 18th, Ahn had to waste a stroke recovering from behind a tree in the rough while Sikes picked the ball clean from a trap and dropped the putt for a par 4.

Ahn, the second Hawaiian ever to reach the finals of the National Public Links, fell behind at the outset in the morning when his second shot lodged against a wire fence behind the second green. He had to pick up. But he got the hole back on the long fourth when Sikes hooked his drive out of bounds.

Ahn took the lead on the fifth when he canned a 7-foot birdie putt for a 3 and ran his edge to two holes on the 159-yard, over-the-water eighth when Sikes missed the green, then chipped too short.

On the dogleg 10th, Sikes' tee shot hit a barn and bounced back in bounds. He gave up carrying his own clubs, as he has been doing all week except for one round and sent for a caddy.

Ahn dropped another 7-footer for a birdie 3 and led 3-up.

Getting the bag off his shoulder must have helped. For Sikes knocked in his eagle 3 on the next hole.

ON GENTILE'S HOMER

Baltimore Outlasts Indians, 4-3, In 14

BALTIMORE (AP)—Jim Gentile's leadoff homer in the 14th inning, his 22nd of the season, gave the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

The game-winning blow, off relief pitcher Gary Bell, came after Oriole center fielder Jack Brandt cut down Bubba Phillips at the plate in the Cleveland half of the inning.

Phllips had singled with two out off Oriole reliever Dick Hall. On a run-and-hit play, Phillips tried to score all the way from first base on a bloop single to center by Jerry Kindall.

The Orioles muffed a golden opportunity to score in the 10th nnng when they loaded the bases with none out. Bell induced Jerry Adair to ground into a double play. Then after Whitey Herzog walked to load the bases again, Brandt took a third called strike.

The Indians tied the score at 3-3 in the eighth inning and chased Oriole starter Milt Pappas. Ty Cline doubled and Tito Francona singled to put runners on first and third. Chuck Essegian then hit a sacrifice fly, on which left fielder John (Boog) Powell made a diving catch.

Powell drove in the first three Oriole runs—on an infield grounder in the fourth and a two-run homer in the sixth off Cleveland starter Dick Donovan.

Wllie Kirkland hit a homer in the first inning for Cleveland's first two runs.

Rain delayed the start of the game 90 minutes, and the contest was finished under the lights. The same clubs are scheduled to play a doubleheader in Cleveland Sunday.

Little League Baseball

A no-hit shutout and a pair of two-hit shutouts highlighted Little League action in Monroe Saturday night.

At Southside park Wallace hurled a no-hitter as Twin City Printers blanked The Palace, 6-0, just before Simpson spun a neat two-hitter to carry North Monroe Lions to a 2-0 triumph over Purity Ice Cream. Moncrief twirled the other two-hitter as King Finance beat Texaco, 6-0 in Northside play.

Smith, Wallace's battery mate, and Kokinos led Twin City Printers' hitting, each getting a home run and single in three trips to the plate. Denton and Hancock took the loss for The Palace.

McCarty was the Lions' top hitter, going two for three. Leath and Van were Purity's losers.

Moncrief was also King's leading hitter, rapping out two bingles in two official at-bats. Allen and LaGrange were charged with the loss for Texaco.

Dew Music outscored Greenlee B.M.A. Insurance, 9-8, in a Minor B game at Southside. Walters and Alford formed the winning combination with Marchand leading the hitters with a pair of safeties in three attempts. Jones, who led Greenlee with two for four, and Smith were the losing battery.

Jack Armstrong blanked Steel Motors, 10-0, in a Minor F contest at Northside park. Rowan and Davis were charged with the loss. Kickman led all hitters with three hits in three tries.

Green Brothers Dairy beat Moses Motor Motel, 6-3, and Spats Drug defeated R. and A Jewelers, 5-1 in other Minor League play. Stouir and Ezell were Green Brothers winning combination and Rainer and Dillingham took the loss for Moses Motel. Marsala and Schepps were Spats' workhorses and Marsala and Mikocis leading all hitters with two for three. Sancheze and Gavoli took the loss for R and A.

The Denver Broncos will open the American Football League season with a home game against the San Diego Chargers on Sept. 7.

Senators Clip Twins, 4-3, On Late Rally

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP)—Washington rallied for three runs after two were out in the eighth inning and Jim Hannan hurled two innings of shutout relief to preserve a 4-3 Senator victory over Minnesota Saturday.

Twins' starter Jim Kaat was coasting along with a four hitter and had the first two Senators out in the top of the eighth when Washington broke loose.

Singles by Ken Hamlin and Chuck Cottier and a walk to Jim King loaded the bases. Kaat worked the count to 3-1 on Harry Bright before being yanked in favor of Joe Bonikowski.

Bonikowski walked Bright to force in a run.Then Chuck Hinton delivered a line single to center, scoring two more runs. Hinton also doubled in Bright for the first Senator run in the fifth.

All of Minnesota's runs came in the first inning on Harmon Killebrew's opposite-field home run to right, his 21st of the season and fourth in as many games. It scored Bill Tuttle who had walked and Vic Power who had singled.

Bennie Daniels, who gave up only five hits before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, got the victory to break his 10-game losing streak. His only other victory was a 4-1 decision over Detroit in the season opener. Kaat (8-9) took the loss.

Baumann Pitches White Sox Over Tigers, 4 To 2

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chcago White Sox took over fifth place in the American League race Saturday when Frank Baumann pitched the Chicagoans to a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

It was the fifth consecutive triumph by the White Sox, the last three over the slumping Detroiters who dropped into sixth place.

The slugging of Floyd Robinson keyed the seven-hit Chicago attack against loser Jim Bunning and reliever Ron Nischwitz. Robinson smashed a two-run homer in the first inning. He contributed a double to a two-run uprising in the third, when both runs scored on a single by Charley Maxwell.

Baumann, pitching his first complete game of the season, held the Tigers to four hits, struck out five and walked two. His record is 2-3 and Bunning's 9-5.

The Tigers got only one runner on base, via a walk, in the first four innings, but Steve Boros' fourth home run opened the fifth. Two innings later, the Tigers' Boros hit a double that led to their second run, this one driven across on Chico Fernandez' single.

Ths was the fifth consecutive complete game by the White Sox pitching staff. The Tigers, saddled with a sudden batting slump, have managed only nine hits in the first three games of the series that ends Sunday. Juan Pizarro and Ray Herbert beat them in the first two matches.

Norm Cash of the Tigers, leading home run slugger, was struck inside the left arm by one of Baumann's pitches in the fifth inning and had to leave the game one-half inning later after shunning a pinch runner. It wasn't immediately determined whether he would be available for Sunday's finale.

A crowd of 10,367 paying customers was swelled to 36,496 by a throng of uniformed little leaguers who were guests of the White Sox management.

AFTER THREE ROUNDS

Three Entries Tied In Motor City Open

DETROIT (AP)—Dave Ragan and Don Massengale caught up with Bruce Crampton Saturday and threw the par-shattered Motor City Open into a three-way tie after three rounds.

Crampton's first bogey after 52 holes of the $35,000 tournament cost him his slender second-round lead.

The three leaders entering Sunday's final 18 holes are tied at 201—12 strokes under par at the 36-35—71 Knollwood Country Club. Crampton shot a 35-35—70 while Ragan shaved one stroke off his second-round lead with a 35-34—69. Massengale cut his two-stroke deficit with a 33-35—68.

More than 40 players bettered par for the third straight day and 46 players were under par after three rounds.

"I went into a trap and then rolled by the pin on No. 17," said Crampton in explaining the bogey that cost him his outright lead. "So I spoiled my record."

The three leaders hold a three-stroke lead over Bob Goalby and Bill Casper. Goalby had a 34-33—67 while Casper shot 34-37—71.

A stroke behind them at 205 are Julius Boros, Pete Cooper, Doug Ford and Gay Brewer.

Crampton, who had rounds of 66 and 65 the first two days, picked up two birdies on short putts before losing the lead with his bogey.

Ragan also needed short putts for his two birdies and he did not have a bogey. The stocky blond from Sun City, Fla., had successive 66's before Saturday's 69.

Massengale, a young Texan without a major victory in his three years on the PGA tour, had four birdies and one bogey in his 68. His hardest birdie was on a 15-foot putt on the par 3 15th hole.

Massengale had fired a 67 and a 66 the first two days.

Ties are commonplace in the Motor City. There have been six in the previous 10 tourneys.

If the tournament still is tied after the final round, there will be a sudden death playoff.

The field for the final round was cut to the low 60 scorers and ties—those at 214 or better.

Red Sox Triumph Over Athletics By 4-2 Margin

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Boston's Arnold Earley made his first major league start a good one Saturday, beating the Kansas City Athletics 4-2.

But the big southpaw, who has been strictly a relief hurler for the Red Sox, ran out of gas in the ninth inning and had to have help from the bullpen to quell the hit-happy Kansas City crew's usual rampaging finish.

The Athletics scored twice in that last inning and had the tying runs on second and third when poor base running and an alert Boston defense completed a game-ending double play.

A Talk In The Shade

While the Monroe Legion team worked out for its final game of the regular season with Farmerville the other day, Coach Red Sims was sitting in the shade of the stadium at Bernstein Park, talking.

It was 95 degrees by the thermometer in downtown Monroe. But under the stadium it was cooler, almost cool enough to be comfortable.

Every once in a while, Red would give one of his players some instructions. He didn't give them very loudly, but loud enough to be heard.

When the practice was over he talked to a couple of the boys about one thing and then another. Then he asked them what time they had been meeting for their home games. "About six o'clock." someone said.

The subject changed to something off baseball. Some of the players left. Others hung around to talk a little more.

Red seemed pretty calm. Perhaps the coach of a team which, at that time, had won 18 of its 22 games should be pretty calm.

But you couldn't say Red was over - optimistic, not from the things he said earlier.

"Not having Neal Gunn up to par has hurt us most this year," Red said, while the practice was still going on.

It seemed strange, Sims commented, "but Neal has never been able to get in shape this year. He's had all kinds of things happen to him."

Just the other day Gunn dropped a weight on his knee. The swelling that followed hobbled him.

"Every time he starts getting back in shape, something else happens," Sims went on. "He works out for a few days, then its something new."

A year ago Gunn and lefthander Lynn Causey pitched Monroe to the state Legion championship almost single-handedly.

Reminding Red that he still had Causey, Ed Quimby, Mike Mack, Wayne Hardwick, Randy Fallin and Zeke Zarro didn't help much.

He went on to talk about how Ruston had improved in the past few games (Ruston has a six-game winning streak going).

"When their pitchers are all sharp they have as much or more depth than we do," he said. "And that Jeffcoat boy at Bernice (John Jeffcoat), he's got it when he has a good night."

From the District playoffs (between Monroe, Ruston, Bernice and Bastrop), Red went on to the state playoffs. He brought up the players from the New Orleans national championship team. It was going to be plenty tough, he added — if they got that far.

"I want you to put this in the paper," he said. "We made 58 errors during the season. We're going to have to improve to win the playoffs."

Actually, Sims didn't think Monroe would have done anything with that kind of fielding if they hadn't been hitting so well.

And the two games when Monroe didn't hit well seemed to prove it. They lost both.

No, Red was pretty calm about everything, but you couldn't say he was over-optimistic.

Injury Plagued

Wayne Noland, who was seriously injured earlier this summer, is recovering rapidly, and should be in pretty good shape by the time football practice starts at Louisiana Tech this fall.

Noland has been something of a "hard-luck kid" since he started at Tech last year.

The former ace Tallulah fullback was found to be pretty susceptible to head injuries at Tech. They fixed up a special helmet for him and that seemed to help.

But his troubles weren't over.

We saw him during practice one raw, wind - swept day last spring in Ruston. He carried the ball a couple of times, then left the scrimmage holding his elbow.

Then he got hurt again this summer.

If he can shake the injury bug and if he gets a little blocking this fall, the big boy should go.

We saw Noland only once in high school. But that was enough.

It was the bi-district game with Winnfield in Tallulah on Thanksgiving Day in 1960. Noland is a bruising boy, the type back Racer Holstead seems to come up with so often at Tallulah. He is a lot like Leonard Neumann and Chapman Lee off last year's Trojan club.

Almost all afternoon Noland plowed through the Winnfield line, with that churning, driving kind of bulldog rush that you can't stop by hitting him anyway except head-on, solidly.

Then late in the game, he found an opening on the left side of Winnfield's line. He raced through, and cut back to the right to outrun the entire Winnfield secondary on a long touchdown run.

WAYNE NOLAND

Come to think of it though, Noland got hurt in the game too. Yes, he was hurt and stayed out a little while. It was just before he made that touchdown run.

Recreation Softball

Southern Tool beat Independents 5-4 in Recreation Softball action Saturday night. Maqourik and Plaia were the winners. Leivy was the losing hurler. Roberts and Maqourik went three for three for the winners while Kelly went two for three for the losers.

Latter Day Saints topped Emmanuel, 4-2 in Church B League play. R. Rugg and Terry were the winners over McBeth and Telano. Nixon collected two homers to pace the winners.

Temple defeated Ridge Avenue, 16-6 in another Church B League game. Walker and Thurman took the win over Bass and Smith. Aulds went two for three for the losers while Walker homered for the winners and Hailey went four for four for the winning nine.

Liberty tromped New Chapel Hill, 12-1 in a Ladies League game with Futrell hurling a no-hitter and pounding out a homer for the winners. Little was the winning catcher. Milstead and Spence were the losing ladies.

First Methodist downed Fair Park 14-4 in Church B League. Abraugh and Anderson were the winners. Peterson and Bancil were the losers. Hudson went three for three for the winners including a home run. Jordan went three for three for the losers.

National Guard defeated Optimist, 10-4 in an Industrial League game. Fails and Shambola were the winners over Surratt and Gannaway. Day went three for three for the winners.

HOMER WAS UPSETTING

HUNTINGTON, N. Y. (AP) — Ray Borowicz, Huntington High School baseball coach, almost dropped a half dozen hamburgers in his back yard when Hobie Landrith of the New York Mets homered in the ninth inning against Warren Spahn of Milwaukee to give to Mets a 3-2 victory.

Borowicz normally roots for the Mets, but at that moment he was rooting for Spahn to chalk up a 2-1 victory. Borowicz and Spahn were high school teammates at Buffalo, N. Y.

Bob Shaw, pitcher traded by Kansas City to Milwaukee, is now the workhorse pitcher on the Braves staff. In the team's first 50 games he worked 85 innings in 14 appearances.

Tech Signs 6-5 Basketball Ace

RUSTON (Special) — Gene Lee, a 6-5 basketball star at University High school in Bloomington, Ill., has signed a grant-in-aid pact with Louisiana Tech, according to Tech Athletic Director Joe Aillet.

GENE LEE

Lee was all-city, all-conference and twice drew all-state honorable mention in the basketball hotbed. He averaged 22.2 points per game last season, led his conference with a 23.2 mark and the city with a 25.0 point clip.

The lanky cager hit 47 per cent of his field goal attempts in amassing 467 points for the campaign, and meshed 78 per cent of his free throw tries.

Lee was captain of both basketball and track teams at University High last year. The youth's father, W. Earl Lee, is a school principal in Bloomington.

Tech cage coach Cecil Crowley said Lee, who played center on his prep team should add scoring punch to the Bulldog front line and is also a strong rebounder. "Lee should fit right in with your young ball club. He is big, strong and exceptionally fast for his size and should be a real asset for the Bulldogs."

Only two members of last year's Tech basketball squad graduated and only one will be lost after this next campaign.

Lee is the second cager to sign with Tech. Earlier, Joey Barron of Spearsville, twice an all-stater in basketball and baseball, signed with Tech. Barron averaged 30.8 points per game and 15.1 rebounds per tilt, in addition to making all A's in the classroom for four straight years in high school.

NEW YORK (UPI) — William (Buck) Ewing, who played with Cincinnati and Troy, N. Y., before joining New York of the National League in 1883, was the first professional baseball catcher to wear a mask. Roger Bresnahan, Giants' catcher in the 1890's, invented and was the first to use shin guards.

Citation, winner of the 74th Kentucky Derby in 1948, was the eighth horse in history to win racing's triple crown — made up of the Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

BALL LANDS ON FLOOR

Odd Incident Gives Ryan Trans-Miss

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Ryan, slim, 22-year-old Tulsan who thrives on unusual happenings, used another odd incident as the gateway to a 1-up triumph over Harry Toscano Jr., of New Castle, Pa., and the championship of the 59th Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament Saturday at Old Warson Country Club.

In the morning round of the 36-hole match, Toscano, 20-year-old Houston University junior, took a 1-up lead with a 1-over-par 72. He increased that margin to 2-up after the 26th hole.

On the 27th, Ryan's second shot bounced onto a cart path beyond the green and the ball wound up on the outdoor dance floor. It was ruled an immovable obstruction that was part of the golf course and Ryan was given a free drop on the grass in front of the floor.

Ryan hit the ball four feet from the pin to get his part and halve the hole. Toscano, shaken by the incident, lost the next four holes as Ryan alertly took advantage of his good fortune.

Ryan, an Air Force lieutenant on leave who reports back next Saturday, won the 28th with a par as Toscano hit into a trap and took the 29th with a 35-foot birdie putt to get even.

He also won the 30th with a par as Toscano was in another trap and then had a conceded deuce on the next when Toscano knocked two balls into the water of the 180-yard hole.

That was all the lead he needed, even though he lost the next hole after his ball was buried in a fairway trap. They halved the final four holes with pars as Toscano three times missed by narrow margins on birdie putts of 14 to 20 feet.

Friday, Ryan used a hassle over his smoothing out spikemarks with the sole of his putter to get even with Bob Cochran of St. Louis. Then he took his putter to sink a remarkable 60-foot shot out of a sand trap on the 18th green to beat Cochran 1-up.

Ridan Cops Easy Win Of Arlington Classic In Mud

CHICAGO (AP) — Ridan, making his first start since a second place showing in the May Preakness, sped through the mud Saturday to score a seven-length victory in the $102,250 Arlington Classic.

The J.G.W. Stable's colt, unbeaten as a sensational 2-year-old in seven starts in 1961, pounded the mile in 1 minute, 38 seconds under an easy ride by Jockey Avelino Gomez.

Ethel Haffa's Mighty Fennec was second and Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage third. Ridan and Admiral's Voyage, piloted by Bill Hartack, shared the top weight at 123 pounds.

Ridan, a 4-5 favorite, returned $3.60 $3.20 and $2.60 to his backers in the crowd of 27,610. Mighty Fennec, packing 114 pounds, paid $17.40 and $7.40 while Admiral's Voyage was $3.20 to show.

The victory, Ridan's fourth in the nine starts this season, was worth $64,750, boosting his two-year earnings to $553,784.

The big bay Natalla colt splashed into the lead midway in the back stretch after Summer Savory had set the pace. From then on, Ridan eased away and never was challenged.

At the three-quarter mark, Ridan had powered four lengths into the lead with Admiral's Voyage second and Mighty Fennec third. Mighty Fennec, ridden by Robert Dever, then opened up a one-length margin over Admiral's Voyage as they entered the stretch and kept it as Ridan sprayed them with mud like a jet taking off.

Fifth place went to Times Roman, followed in order by Sharp Count, Sing Along, Gushing Wind, Good Fight and Summer Savory.

A Talk In The Shade

While the Monroe Legion team worked out for its final game of the regular season with Farmerville the other day, Coach Red Sims was sitting in the shade of the stadium at Bernstein Park, talking.

It was 95 degrees by the thermometer in downtown Monroe. But under the stadium it was cooler, almost cool enough to be comfortable.

Every once in a while, Red would give one of his players some instructions. He didn't give them very loudly, but loud enough to be heard.

When the practice was over he talked to a couple of the boys about one thing and then another. Then he asked them what time they had been meeting for their home games. "About six o'clock," someone said.

The subject changed to something off baseball. Some of the players left. Others hung around to talk a little more.

Red seemed pretty calm. Perhaps the coach of a team which, at that time, had won 18 of its 22 games should be pretty calm.

But you couldn't say Red was over - optimistic, not from the things he said earlier.

"Not having Neal Gunn up to par has hurt us most this year," Red said, while the practice was still going on.

It seemed strange, Sims commented, "but Neal has never been able to get in shape this year. He's had all kinds of things happen to him."

Just the other day Gunn dropped a weight on his knee. The swelling that followed hobbled him.

"Every time he starts getting back in shape, something else happens," Sims went on. "He works out for a few days, then its something new."

A year ago Gunn and lefthander Lynn Causey pitched Monroe to the state Legion championship almost single-handedly.

Reminding Red that he still had Causey, Ed Quimby, Mike Mack, Wayne Hardwick, Randy Fallin and Zeke Zarro didn't help much.

He went on to talk about how Ruston had improved in the past few games (Ruston has a six-game winning streak going).

"When their pitchers are all sharp they have as much or more depth than we do," he said. "And that Jeffcoat boy at Bernice (John Jeffcoat), he's got it when he has a good night."

From the District playoffs (between Monroe, Ruston, Bernice and Bastrop), Red went on to the state playoffs. He brought up the players from the New Orleans national championship team. It was going to be plenty tough, he added — if they got that far.

"I want you to put this in the paper," he said. "We made 58 errors during the season. We're going to have to improve to win the playoffs."

Actually, Sims didn't think Monroe would have done anything with that kind of fielding if they hadn't been hitting so well.

And the two games when Monroe didn't hit well seemed to prove it. They lost both.

No. Red was pretty calm about everything, but you couldn't say he was over-optimistic.

Injury Plagued

Wayne Noland, who was seriously injured earlier this summer, is recovering rapidly, and should be in pretty good shape by the time football practice starts at Louisiana Tech this fall.

Noland has been something of a "hard-luck kid" since he started at Tech last year.

The former ace Tallulah fullback was found to be pretty susceptible to head injuries at Tech.

They fixed up a special helmet for him and that seemed to help.

But his troubles weren't over.

We saw him during practice one raw, wind - swept day last spring in Ruston. He carried the ball a couple of times, then left the scrimmage holding his elbow.

Then he got hurt again this summer.

If he can shake the injury bug and if he gets a little blocking this fall, the big boy should go.

We saw Noland only once in high school. But that was enough.

It was the bi-district game with Winnfield in Tallulah on Thanksgiving Day in 1960. Noland is a bruising boy, the type back Racer Holstead seems to come up with so often at Tallulah. He is a lot like Leonard Neumann and Chapman Lee off last year's Trojan club.

Almost all afternoon Noland plowed through the Winnfield line, with that churning, driving kind of bulldog rush that you can't stop by hitting him anyway except head-on, solidly.

WAYNE NOLAND

Then late in the game, he found an opening on the left side of Winnfield's line. He raced through, and cut back to the right to outrun the entire Winnfield secondary on a long touchdown run.

Come to think of it though, Noland got hurt in the game too. Yes, he was hurt and stayed out a little while. It was just before he made that touchdown run.

Recreation Softball

Southern Tool beat Independents 5-4 in Recreation Softball action Saturday night. Maqourik and Plaia were the winners. Leivy was the losing hurler. Roberts and Maqourik went three for three for the winners while Kelly went two for three for the losers.

Latter Day Saints topped Emmanuel, 4-2 in Church B League play. R. Rugg and Terry were the winners over McBeth and Telano. Nixon collected two homers to pace the winners.

Temple defeated Ridge Avenue, 16-6 in another Church B League game. Walker and Thurman took the win over Bass and Smith. Aulds went two for three for the losers while Walker homered for the winners and Hailey went four for four for the winning nine.

Liberty tromped New Chapel Hill, 12-1 in a Ladies League game with Futrell hurling a no-hitter and pounding out a homer for the winners. Little was the winning catcher. Milstead and Spence were the losing ladies.

First Methodist downed Fair Park 14-4 in Church B League. Abraugh and Anderson were the winners. Peterson and Bancil were the losers. Hudson went three for three for the winners including a home run. Jordan went three for three for the losers.

National Guard defeated Optimist, 10-4 in an Industrial League game. Fails and Shambola were the winners over Surratt and Gannaway. Day went three for three for the winners.

HOMER WAS UPSETTING

HUNTINGTON, N. Y. (AP) — Ray Borowicz, Huntington High School baseball coach, almost dropped a half dozen hamburgers in his back yard when Hobie Landrith of the New York Mets homered in the ninth inning against Warren Spahn of Milwaukee to give to Mets a 3-2 victory.

Borowicz normally roots for the Mets, but at that moment he was rooting for Spahn to chalk up a 2-1 victory. Borowicz and Spahn were high school teammates at Buffalo, N. Y.

Bob Shaw, pitcher traded by Kansas City to Milwaukee, is now the workhorse pitcher on the Braves staff. In the team's first 50 games he worked 85 innings in 14 appearances.

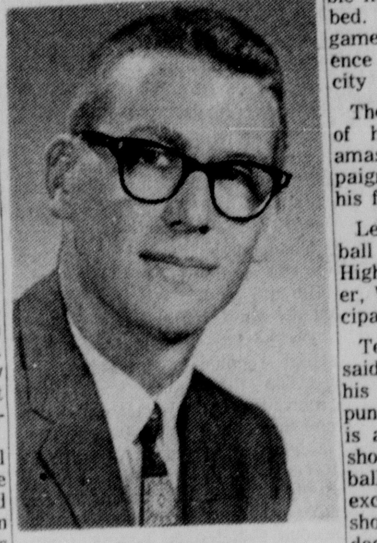
Tech Signs 6-5 Basketball Ace

RUSTON (Special) — Gene Lee, a 6-5 basketball star at University High school in Bloomington, Ill., has signed a grant-in-aid pact with Louisiana Tech, according to Tech Athletic Director Joe Aillet.



GENE LEE

Lee was all-city, all-conference and twice drew all-state honorable mention in the basketball hotbed. He averaged 22.2 points per game last season, led his conference with a 23.2 mark and the city with a 25.0 point clip.

The lanky cager hit 47 per cent of his field goal attempts in amassing 467 points for the campaign, and meshed 78 per cent of his free throw tries.

Lee was captain of both basketball and track teams at University High last year. The youth's father, W. Earl Lee, is a school principal in Bloomington.

Tech cage coach Cecil Crowley said Lee, who played center on his prep team should add scoring punch to the Bulldog front line and is also a strong rebounder. "Lee should fit right in with your young ball club. He is big, strong and exceptionally fast for his size and should be a real asset for the Bulldogs."

Only two members of last year's Tech basketball squad graduated and only one will be lost after this next campaign.

Lee is the second cager to sign with Tech. Earlier, Joey Barron of Spearsville, twice an all-stater in basketball and baseball, signed with Tech. Barron averaged 30.8 points per game and 15.1 rebounds per tilt, in addition to making all A's in the classroom for four straight years in high school.

PROTECTION

NEW YORK (UPI) — William (Buck) Ewing, who played with Cincinnati and Troy, N. Y., before joining New York of the National League in 1883, was the first professional baseball catcher to wear a mask. Roger Bresnahan, Giants' catcher in the 1890's, invented and was the first to use shin guards.

Citation, winner of the 74th Kentucky Derby in 1948, was the eighth horse in history to win racing's triple crown — made up of the Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

BOB RYAN, of Tulsa, Okla., and winner of the 59th annual Trans-Mississippi golf tournament, holds up his trophy. He defeated Harry Toscano Jr., of New Castle, Pa., one up in the finals Saturday. (AP Wirephoto)

BALL LANDS ON FLOOR

Odd Incident Gives Ryan Trans-Miss

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Ryan, slim, 22-year-old Tulsan who thrives on unusual happenings, used another odd incident as the gateway to a 1-up triumph over Harry Toscano Jr., of New Castle, Pa., and the championship of the 59th Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament Saturday at Old Warson Country Club.

In the morning round of the 36-hole match, Toscano, 20-year-old Houston University junior, took a 1-up lead with a 1-over-par 72. He increased that margin to 2-up after the 26th hole.

On the 27th, Ryan's second shot bounced onto a cart path beyond the green and the ball wound up on the outdoor dance floor. It was ruled an immovable obstruction that was part of the golf course and Ryan was given a free drop on the grass in front of the floor.

Ryan hit the ball four feet from the pin to get his part and halve the hole. Toscano, shaken by the incident, lost the next four holes as Ryan alertly took advantage of his good fortune.

Ryan, an Air Force lieutenant on leave who reports back next Saturday, won the 28th with a par as Toscano hit into a trap and took the 29th with a 35-foot birdie putt to get even.

He also won the 30th with a par as Toscano was in another trap and then had a conceded deuce on the next when Toscano knocked two balls into the water of the 180-yard hole.

That was all the lead he needed, even though he lost the next hole after his ball was buried in a fairway trap. They halved the final four holes with pars as Toscano three times missed by narrow margins on birdie putts of 14 to 20 feet.

Friday, Ryan used a hassle over his smoothing out spikemarks with the sole of his putter to get even with Bob Cochran of St. Louis. Then he took his putter to sink a remarkable 60-foot shot out of a sand trap on the 18th green to beat Cochran 1-up.

Ridan Cops Easy Win Of Arlington Classic In Mud

CHICAGO (AP) — Ridan, making his first start since a second place showing in the May Preakness, sped through the mud Saturday to score a seven-length victory in the $102,250 Arlington Classic.

The J.G.W. Stable's colt, unbeaten as a sensational 2-year-old in seven starts in 1961, pounded the mile in 1 minute, 38 seconds under an easy ride by Jockey Avelino Gomez.

Ethel Haffa's Mighty Fennec was second and Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage third. Ridan and Admiral's Voyage, piloted by Bill Hartack, shared the top weight at 123 pounds.

Ridan, a 4-5 favorite, returned $3.60 $3.20 and $2.60 to his backers in the crowd of 27,610. Mighty Fennec, packing 114 pounds, paid $17.40 and $7.40 while Admiral's Voyage was $3.20 to show.

The victory, Ridan's fourth in the nine starts this season, was worth $64,750, boosting his two-year earnings to $553,784.

The big bay Natalla colt splashed into the lead midway in the back stretch after Summer Savory had set the pace. From then on, Ridan eased away and never was challenged.

At the three-quarter mark, Ridan had powered four lengths into the lead with Admiral's Voyage second and Mighty Fennec third. Mighty Fennec, ridden by Robert Dever, then opened up a one-length margin over Admiral's Voyage as they entered the stretch and kept it as Ridan sprayed them with mud like a jet taking off.

Fifth place went to Times Roman, followed in order by Sharp Count, Sing Along, Gushing Wind, Good Fight and Summer Savory.

Hunter Safety Law

A bill to give Louisiana a new hunter safety law — sponsored by Sen. J. C. Gilbert, Sicily Island, and Rep. Lasley Downes, Rayville — was amended drastically before the Legislature finally approved it.

In fact, the only provision left in the bill is a $500 fine for persons who fail to render service to a hunter injured in the field.

In our opinion this is not much of an improvement over present laws, which cover negligent homicide and negligent injury.

Rep. Wellborn Jack, Shreveport, attacked the bill in the House when Downes and Rep. Lantz Womack, Winnsboro, attempted to gain final passage.

Jack, an attorney, pointed out that Louisiana law presently provides for negligent homicide and negligent injury.

The bill originally provided for strict restrictions in cases of hunting accidents, including a clause which would have permitted the arrest of a hunter under the influence of alcohol.

Thus, after the amendment of the bill, the Legislature made little headway toward the curtailment of the hunting accident.

Actually, as we have pointed out before, the hunting accident is a local problem, one that should be handled by local officials.

The law provides for the enforcement of reckless individuals who negligently kill or injure a fellow man.

All that is needed is the enforcement of the law.

In addition, a safety campaign conducted by sportsmans' groups would help — to make the public aware of the danger of firearms.

When the people demand the enforcement of the law in regards to the hunting accident, then the law will be enforced.

Coming Dove Season

The coming dove season has not been set, but the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission to do so within the next several days.

Unofficially, we understand there may be some changes in the dove season for hunters in the Pelican State this fall.

According to our information, the changes will be good ones and should be accepted by the public.

There still will be an opening in September.

This is a practice that has been met with opposition at various times from hunters who contend that the early opening comes at a time when most doves in this section are young birds.

At any rate, dove hunters will be able to get in more shooting this year.

Waterfowl Production

Latest word we have on the waterfowl picture in Canada comes from the U.S. Department of the Interior, which reports that the breeding population is "smaller than any year since the summer waterfowl surveys began in 1951."

The department's survey teams covered southern Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, later reporting a 37 per cent decrease in the breeding populations of these areas.

Mallard ducks are 12 per cent below 1961 and pintails are down 28 per cent.

The department said there was just enough snow runoff and rain in many of the areas to make the situation potentially more serious than last year.

However, there will be another survey this month.

For Louisiana hunters, it should be remembered that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, an agency of the interior department, is leaning toward a closed season for the Mississippi Flyway this coming winter.

It'll either be closed or cut even more drastically than last year.

Louisiana Outdoor Scene

After spending two months in Baton Rouge, it is easy to note a vast difference in the attitude of sportsmen in that area toward those of our section.

Baton Rouge is surrounded by good fishing, and although we didn't get a chance to participate, we noted that the trend toward camps on lakes is much greater in this area.

The Baton Rouge fishermen will do one of two things — he'll take a quick trip to the edge of town or he'll get many many miles to wet a hook.

In fact, those people don't think anything of driving up to Lake St. John or Lake Bruin and sometimes even Bussey to fish.

Yet the Baton Rouge area can hold its own with anybody's section of the state for fishing.

But while talking to people to hunt, we noticed that they lean heavily toward Northeast Louisiana, especially the Delta.

Most of the deer hunters come up here.

IF PRICE RIGHT

Griffith Says He Will Defend Title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Emile Griffith was firmly established as the world welterweight champion Saturday and said he was ready to meet any fighter in the world — provided the price was right.

The 23-year-old New Yorker returned to action Friday night and defeated Ralph Dupas of New Orleans by a 15-round unanimous decision.

Griffith was still under a strain, it as disclosed later, at the memory of his last bout, the one in which he defeated Benny (Kid) Paret to regain the welterweight title. He knocked out Paret in 12 rounds, and the Cuban died 10 days later.

The Paret topic came up in the dressing room interviews and Griffith was plainly upset and admitted that the tragedy was with him even during the match with Dupas.

Dupas gave Griffith an interesting evening and it appeared in the close first 10 rounds that he might even win the title. But Griffith, the stronger of the two, took the lead in the last five rounds and in the 15th had Dupas hurt and wobbly with a barrage of blows to the head.

Luis Rodriguez of Cuba, now living in Miami, Fla., was mentioned as a possible opponent for Emile's next title fight. Griffith defeated him two years ago. Dupas was ranked No. 1 in the 147-pound division and Rodriguez is now rated No. 2.

A crowd of 5,100 paid $53,610 to see the engagement in the Las Vegas Convention Center. It was revealed that Griffith fought for a guarantee of $25,000 instead of the previously announced $40,000. Co-promoters Mel Greb and Jack Doyle said the higher figure was announced on the expectation of a percentage of a higher gate. Dupas received $10,000.

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Winnsboro Red Sox closed out the Franklin - Caldwell Dixie League season with a 15-0 record here recently and landed nine team members on the district's All-Star team.

The Franklin - Caldwell All-Star team is composed of nine Red Sox players and six Winnsboro White Sox players.

Making the All - Star grade for the Red Sox were Marshall, Livingston, Green Berry Linder, Floyd Henry, John Wayne Ezell, Bert Hammons, Ronnie Stephens, Norman Underwood, Glenn Harris, and Darrell Beach.

David Shirley, Jimmy Carr, Paul Ferriss, Bobby Smith, Dannie Byrnes, and Pat Diamond round out the All-Star list.

Dixie League bi-district playoffs are slated in Tallulah beginning July 23.

Charles Harris will manage the Franklin - Caldwell All-Stars.

ACES A PAR 4

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) —Jacque Brund scored one of golf's rarest double - eagles at Hyde Park, a hole - in - one on a par 4 hole. Brund used a driver and got plenty of roll to hole to his tee shot on the 316-yard 10th.

FLOYD ROBINSON of the Chicago White Sox reaches home plate on a slide just a split-second ahead of the ball being caught by Detroit catcher Dick Brown. Robinson's foot hasn't hit the plate but he was ruled safe on the third - inning play when Charlie Maxwell hit to right field. (AP Wirephoto)

NO 'OFF SEASON'

Grid Season Never Stops At Grambling

By COLLIE J. NICHOLSON
Grambling Sports Publicist

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — A strapping figure emerges from a semi - darkened room in the Grambling College gymnasium at 5 p.m., daily carrying over-size file cards full of arrows, squares, zeroes and X's.

He is followed by five men who quietly complain about intense heat in their cinemascope sweatbox.

The five are Grambling grid aides who live, eat and sleep football 12 months a year.

They have never heard of the "off season" and contend that the seven-day work week is an absolute necessity for traveling first class in the Southwestern Athletic Conference.

For two months now, Coach Eddie Robinson and his staff have been participating in daily four-hour film sessions analyzing the '61 season and plotting grand strategy for '62.

Robinson contends that these sessions are necessary "to evaluate players, spot mistakes, recognize tendencies and trends, and plan strategy changes for the coming campaign."

It's not difficult to watch action on the screen, but Tiger fans need a code book to decipher the gibberish used in discussions.

Spouted are such terms as umbrella, square out, counter, reading-a-key, slot, looping, red dog, buttonhook, dive play, safety valve, stunting, shooting-the-gap and checkoff.

Backfield coach Tom Williams, who has participated in more than 200 evaluation sessions since joining the Grambling staff, claims that he has depressed the reverse button on the projector's remote unit so many times that he has developed calloused fingers.

Leroy Hawthorne, another disciple respected for his defensive diagrams, says football at Grambling "requires 12-months of dedication by the entire staff."

Last August a friend glanced at the calender and reminded scout Melvin Lee, who specializes in offensive strategy, that "college football starts on Sept. 1."

"Starts?" Lee snorted indignantly. "It hasn't stopped."

Films are auxiliary weapons that reveal all secrets if rerun often enough and Robinson feels that they have been a major factor in his success.

A sound and thorough craftsman, he has won 120 games, lost 52 and tied seven in 18 seasons as overseer in the local lair. His teams are noted for their explosive scoring character.

Thirteen ex-Tiger gridders have already signed professional contracts for the upcoming season.

Grambling will experience a number of drawbacks in its "commitment to excellence" this fall, but unfamiliarity with the opposition won't be one of them.

Robbie and his staff have compiled a voluminous file on every team on the 10-game schedule.

It could make them a persistent heckler for national honors.

PUGILISTIC SINGER

NEW YORK (AP) — Footwork to footlights is the story of former Golden Glove boxer Don Chastain who has a vocal role in the new Richard Rodgers' musical "no Strings."

The 26-year-old native of Oklahoma City is the son of Clyde Chastain who in 1929 fought a non - title bout against welterweight champion Jackie Fields. Don is a baritone and has been singing since the age of nine.

Cyane Comes Up With Unexpected Win At Aqueduct

NEW YORK (AP)—Cyane, a disappointment since his surprise victory in the rich Belmont Futurity last fall, came up with another unexpected triumph Saturday as he won the $84,550 Dwyer Handicap at Aqueduct in the fast time of 2:01 3-5 for 1¼ miles.

Eldon Nelson rode the son of Turn-To-Your Game from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lunger's Christiana Stable across the finish line three-quarters of a length in front of another lightly regarded horse, the Jopa Stable's Flying Johnnie. Noble Jay from the Jaclyn Stable was third in the field of nine 3-year-olds as Crimson Satan faded to fourth after heading into the final quarter-mile apparently in command of the situation.

For his first major triumph of the year after being held out of the winter and spring stakes, Cyane earned $54,957.50 and paid $20.20, $10.50 and $6. Flying Johnnie, who won his previous start on a grass course, returned $20.30 and $9.80. Noble Jay paid $3.50 to show.

Cyane had been out only five times this year and in his major stake efforts ran 12th in the Jersey Derby and third in the Leonard Richards at Delaware Park. Crimson Satan finished first in both but was disqualified out of the Jersey Derby and lost the winning share of the Richards purse several days after the race when a pain killing drug was discovered in a urine test.

Saturday, Nelson held the Christiana colt off the early pace as Saidam took the lead and held it until Crimson Satan took command coming out of the back stretch. The Satan had daylight lead with only a quarter-mile remaining but gave way as Cyane rushed up from fourth place and flying Johnnie made a belated challenge on the outside.

EVEN WITHOUT CLEVELAND

ABL Owners Say They Will Play

CHICAGO (AP) — Owners of American Basketball League franchises assured Commissioner Abe Saperstein Saturday they will operate next year even though the Cleveland entry has joined the rival National Basketball Association.

Saperstein talked by telephone from London to owners meeting in Chicago to stop rumors that the league was folding because the Cleveland entry had signed to play in the NBA next season.

Cleveland owner George Steinbrenner said the agreement with the NBA for the entry of the Cleveland Piper team will allow each ABL owner to purchase a part of the Cleveland franchise.

"I have not had any offers yet, but I'm still open," Steinbrenner said.

Allan Bloch, ABL counsel and Chicago Majors representative, said the league will operate because he believes a number of other cities will buy franchises. He said a number of groups already have put up money for teams.

"I cannot say what cities have asked for franchises because of an agreement, but when the time comes we will make a decision," Bloch said.

There still will be an opening in September.

This is a practice that has been met with opposition at various times from hunters who contend that the early opening comes at a time when most doves in this section are young birds.

At any rate, dove hunters will be able to get in more shooting this year.

Waterfowl Production

Latest word we have on the waterfowl picture in Canada comes from the U.S. Department of the Interior, which reports that the breeding population is "smaller than any year since the summer waterfowl surveys began in 1951."

The department's survey teams covered southern Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, later reporting a 37 per cent decrease in the breeding populations of these areas.

Mallard ducks are 12 per cent below 1961 and pintails are down 28 per cent.

The department said there was just enough snow runoff and rain in many of the areas to make the situation potentially more serious than last year.

However, there will be another survey this month.

For Louisiana hunters, it should be remembered that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, an agency of the interior department, is leaning toward a closed season for the Mississippi Flyway this coming winter.

It'll either be closed or cut even more drastically than last year.

Louisiana Outdoor Scene

After spending two months in Baton Rouge, it is easy to note a vast difference in the attitude of sportsmen in that area toward those of our section.

Baton Rouge is surrounded by good fishing, and although we didn't get a chance to participate, we noted that the trend toward camps on lakes is much greater in this area.

The Baton Rouge fishermen will do one of two things — he'll take a quick trip to the edge of town or he'll get many many miles to wet a hook.

In fact, those people don't think anything of driving up to Lake St. John or Lake Bruin and sometimes even Bussey to fish.

Yet the Baton Rouge area can hold its own with anybody's section of the state for fishing.

But while talking to people to hunt, we noticed that they lean heavily toward Northeast Louisiana, especially the Delta.

Most of the deer hunters come up here.

IF PRICE RIGHT

Griffith Says He Will Defend Title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Emile Griffith was firmly established as the world welterweight champion Saturday and said he was ready to meet any fighter in the world — provided the price was right.

The 23-year-old New Yorker returned to action Friday night and defeated Ralph Dupas of New Orleans by a 15-round unanimous decision.

Griffith was still under a strain, it as disclosed later, at the memory of his last bout, the one in which he defeated Benny (Kid) Paret to regain the welterweight title. He knocked out Paret in 12 rounds, and the Cuban died 10 days later.

The Paret topic came up in the dressing room interviews and Griffith was plainly upset and admitted that the tragedy was with him even during the match with Dupas.

Dupas gave Griffith an interesting evening and it appeared in the close first 10 rounds that he might even win the title. But Griffith, the stronger of the two, took the lead in the last five rounds and in the 15th had Dupas hurt and wobbly with a barrage of blows to the head.

Luis Rodriguez of Cuba, now living in Miami, Fla., was mentioned as a possible opponent for Emile's next title fight. Griffith defeated him two years ago. Dupas was ranked No. 1 in the 147-pound division and Rodriguez is now rated No. 2.

A crowd of 5,169 paid $53,610 to see the engagement in the Las Vegas Convention Center. It was revealed that Griffith fought for a guarantee of $25,000 instead of the previously announced $40,000. Co-promoters Mel Greb and Jack Doyle said the higher figure was announced on the expectation of a percentage of a higher gate. Dupas received $10,000.

Red Sox Finish Season With 15 Wins, No Losses

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Winnsboro Red Sox closed out the Franklin - Caldwell Dixie League season with a 15-0 record here recently and landed nine team members on the district's All-Star team.

Eight of the 15 Red Sox wins were by the shutout route. J. J. Stephens coached the Red Sox to the league's title.

The Franklin - Caldwell All-Star team is composed of nine Red Sox players and six Winnsboro White Sox players.

Making the All - Star grade for the Red Sox were Marshall, Livingston, Green Berry Linder, Floyd Henry, John Wayne Ezell, Bert Hammons, Ronnie Stephens, Norman Underwood, Glenn Harris, and Darrell Beach.

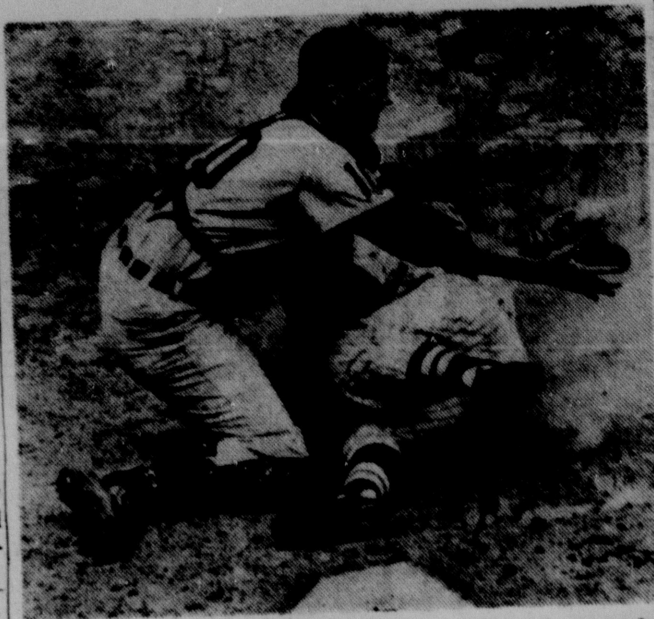
David Shirley, Jimmy Carr, Paul Ferriss, Bobby Smith, Donnie Byrnes, and Pat Diamond round out the All-Star list.

Dixie League bi-district playoffs are slated in Tallulah beginning July 23.

Charles Harris will manage the Franklin - Caldwell All-Stars.

ACES A PAR 4

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Jacque Brund scored one of golf's rarest double - eagles at Hyde Park, a hole - in - one on a par 4 hole. Brund used a driver and got plenty of roll to hole to his tee shot on the 316-yard 16th.



FLOYD ROBINSON of the Chicago White Sox reaches home plate on a slide just a split-second ahead of the ball being caught by Detroit catcher Dick Brown. Robinson's foot hasn't hit the plate but he was ruled safe on the third - inning play when Charlie Maxwell hit to right field. (AP Wirephoto)

NO 'OFF SEASON'

Grid Season Never Stops At Grambling

By COLLIE J. NICHOLSON
Grambling Sports Publicist

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — A strapping figure emerges from a semi - darkened room in the Grambling College gymnasium at 5 p.m., daily carrying over-size file cards full of arrows, squares, zeroes and X's.

He is followed by five men who quietly complain about intense heat in their cinemascope sweatbox.

The five are Grambling grid aides who live, eat and sleep football 12 months a year.

They have never heard of the "off season" and contend that the seven-day work week is an absolute necessity for traveling first class in the Southwestern Athletic Conference.

For two months now, Coach Eddie Robinson and his staff have been participating in daily four-hour film sessions analyzing the '61 season and plotting grand strategy for '62.

Robinson contends that these sessions are necessary "to evaluate players, spot mistakes, recognize tendencies and trends, and plan strategy changes for the coming campaign."

It's not difficult to watch action on the screen, but Tiger fans need a code book to decipher the gibberish used in discussions.

Spouted are such terms as umbrella, square out, counter, reading-a-key, slot, looping, red dog, buttonhook, dive play, safety valve, stunting, shooting-the-gap and checkoff.

Backfield coach Tom Williams, who has participated in more than 200 evaluation sessions since joining the Grambling staff, claims that he has depressed the reverse button on the projector's remote unit so many times that he has developed calloused fingers.

Leroy Hawthorne, another disciple respected for his defensive diagrams, says football at Grambling "requires 12-months of dedication by the entire staff."

Last August a friend glanced at the calender and reminded scout Melvin Lee, who specializes in offensive strategy, that "college football starts on Sept. 1."

"Starts?" Lee snorted indignantly. "It hasn't stopped."

Films are auxiliary weapons that reveal all secrets if rerun often enough and Robinson feels that they have been a major factor in his success.

A sound and thorough craftsman, he has won 128 games, lost 52 and tied seven in 18 seasons as overseer in the local lair. His teams are noted for their explosive scoring character.

Thirteen ex-Tiger gridders have already signed professional contracts for the upcoming season.

Grambling will experience a number of drawbacks in its "commitment to excellence" this fall, but unfamiliarity with the opposition won't be one of them.

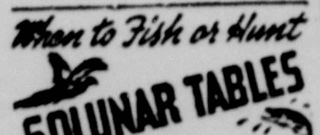
Robbie and his staff have compiled a voluminous file on every team on the 10-game schedule.

It could make them a persistent heckler for national honors.

PUGILISTIC SINGER

NEW YORK (AP) — Footwork to footlights is the story of former Golden Glove boxer Don Chastain who has a vocal role in the new Richard Rodgers' musical "no Strings."

The 26-year-old native of Oklahoma City is the son of Clyde Chastain who in 1929 fought a non - title bout against welterweight champion Jackie Fields. Don is a baritone and has been singing since the age of nine.



The schedule or Solunar Periods, printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting on good cover during these times if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

Begin these times as shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods first listed for morning and afternoon, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Cyane Comes Up With Unexpected Win At Aqueduct

NEW YORK (AP)—Cyane, a disappointment since his surprise victory in the rich Belmont Futurity last fall, came up with another unexpected triumph Saturday as he won the $84,550 Dwyer Handicap at Aqueduct in the fast time of 2:01 3-5 for 1½ miles.

Eldon Nelson rode the son of Turn-To-Your Game from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lunger's Christiana Stable across the finish line three-quarters of a length in front of another lightly regarded horse, the Jopa Stable's Flying Johnnie. Noble Jay from the Jaclyn Stable was third in the field of nine 3-year-olds as Crimson Satan faded to fourth after heading into the final quarter-mile apparently in command of the situation.

For his first major triumph of the year after being held out of the winter and spring stakes, Cyane earned $54,957.50 and paid $20.20, $10.50 and $6. Flying Johnnie, who won his previous start on a grass course, returned $20.30 and $9.80. Noble Jay paid $3.50 to show.

Cyane had been out only five times this year and in his major stake efforts ran 12th in the Jersey Derby and third in the Leonard Richards at Delaware Park. Crimson Satan finished first in both but was disqualified out of the Jersey Derby and lost the winning share of the Richards purse several days after the race when a pain killing drug was discovered in a urine test.

Saturday, Nelson held the Christiana colt off the early pace as Saidam took the lead and held it until Crimson Satan took command coming out of the back stretch. The Satan had daylight lead with only a quarter-mile remaining but gave way as Cyane rushed up from fourth place and flying Johnnie made a belated challenge on the outside.

ABL Owners Say They Will Play

CHICAGO (AP) — Owners of American Basketball League franchises assured Commissioner Abe Saperstein Saturday they will operate next year even though the Cleveland entry has joined the rival National Basketball Association.

Saperstein talked by telephone from London to owners meeting in Chicago to stop rumors that the league was folding because the Cleveland entry had signed to play in the NBA next season.

Cleveland owner George Steinbrenner said the agreement with the NBA for the entry of the Cleveland Piper team will allow each ABL owner to purchase a part of the Cleveland franchise.

"I have not had any offers yet, but I'm still open," Steinbrenner said.

Allan Bloch, ABL counsel and Chicago Majors representative, said the league will operate because he believes a number of other cities will buy franchises. He said a number of groups already have put up money for teams.

"I cannot say what cities have asked for franchises because of an agreement, but when the time comes we will make a decision," Bloch said.

Circus atmosphere is expected to prevail through out the playhouse for the four-day run of the play, which opens Friday evening at 7 p.m. Matinees are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at 2:30, with another evening performance planned Monday, again at 7:30.

With all this talk of visiting grandparents, we are reminded of LoVerne Brown's lines entitled "From Grandmother:"

My gifts to my grandchild
　Are few and spare,
A rocking horse
　And a rocking chair,
A handful of songs
　That her mother knew,
And stories about
　How her mother grew.
"Once, on the farm,
　When the weather was cold,
We sawed big logs
　That you mother rolled."
Earnestly staring,
　Linda sees
A towhead mother
　With skinned-up knees
"She braided the horse's
　Mane and tail —
Kept pet green frogs
　In a shiny pail."
Linda, through such a
　Telescope,
Looks back with wonder,
　A head with hope.

Use Daring To Pick-Up Room Color

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: Our new living room (16 by 19 feet) will require floor to ceiling draw draperies at each wall end. Walls and rug are beige. A Danish walnut sofa is coffee color and a love seat is platinum. Throw pillows are red-purple to blue-purple. Tall lamp has an amethyst glass base. What color should draperies be? Must they go from wall-to-wall? Appreciate suggestions for modern rocker and arm chair.

A: Select a soft, pale beige for the draperies and it would be better if they extend across the wall. The modern rocker could have upholstery in a narrow stripe — modern textured fabric — in the red-violet to blue violet range. To be a little daring, the arm chair could be an amethyst color or, to be conservative, repeat the platinum.

Q: My young daughter's bedroom has light aquamarine walls, furniture is maple, braided rug is aquamarine, pink and brown. What color would you suggest for dust ruffle, bedspread and draperies?

A: For the draperies, I would suggest, a small scale floral provincial print with a pale aquamarine ground and the design in white, pinks and green. Use print for dust ruffle as well. Spread could be a quilted cotton in plain aquamarine. Have white lamps.

Q: My living room needs coordinating. It is 17 by 18 feet, has green walls, ivory woodwork. Draperies are a small printed cotton, white ground with red, green and brown. Rug is light green, couch is cherry red velveteen, lounge is green, a chair and footstool are gold, have milk glass lamps. An old fashioned chair is maroon color. What shall I change?

A: White walls and woodwork would be stylish for your room. Couch in red (of print) cotton, old-fashioned chair in the print if you can still find it. Chair and footstool in green (of print). Have white and bright red accessories.

Q: I should so much like to brighten my small bathroom. Walls are yellow, oatmeal and brown tile, floor is oatmeal and brown tile. Fixtures are blue. What colors should I have for the shower curtains, draperies and towels?

A: Since room is small, I would advise oatmeal color for the shower curtains and yellow for the window curtains and the towels. For accessories, select a vivid blue color that blends with the fixtures. Accessories could be attractively shaped bottles and trays. If you have some place for small green plants, perhaps, ferns, this would also add a pleasing decorative note.

AUGUST 25 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Bonnie Dale Corder and Douglas Barton Stedman, whose engagement is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bonner Corder of this city. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Green Stedman, also of Monroe. The wedding will be performed by Dr. James T. Horton at 5 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Monroe.

Emerald Is Big Green For Fall

The big green for fall is emerald green, clear and glowing as the stone itself. Of course, the only jewelry to set off this color is the emerald.

So there's a big trend on to emerald-colored stones in costume jewelry. Real emeralds are something else again. Far more expensive than diamonds, they can cost as much as $5,000 per carat, and a carat isn't as big as all that.

Emeralds are much rarer than diamonds, one reason for their higher price. This fall, even wealthy women, who own many thousands of dollars worth of diamonds, will wear synthetic emeralds at a mere $1,000 for a fine necklace.

The fashion for Indian inspired clothes, such as rajah-shaped coats and dresses, emphasizes the large jeweled piece worn at bosom or neckline. Although emeralds aren't found in India.

Linda Morris Becomes Bride Of Mr. Deacon

The wedding of Miss Linda Louise Morris and George Sturges Deacon III was solemnized June 26 at 10:30 a.m. in St. Edward's Catholic Church at Tallulah. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harrell Morris, Tallulah and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. George Sturges Deacon Jr., of Bossier City.

The Rev. Thomas Connors officiated at the double ring ceremony in a setting of white gladioli, majestic daisies and cathedral tapers. Acolytes were Claude DeMoss and Louis Tonore. Mrs. J. M. Gilfoil presented nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Sam Scurria Jr., who sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

The bride, escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and peau de soie designed with sculptured bodice, round neck embellished with scalloped lace and sleeves tapering to points over the hands. The skirt of peau de soie was enhanced by an overskirt of lace in pannier effect which extended to a chapel train. Her brief veil was attached to a coronet of lilies of the valley and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and stephanotis centered with a white orchid. Her only jewelry was a locket that belonged to her great, great grandmother.

Miss Margaret DeMoss, maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow silk organza. Her headdress was a coronet of yellow daisies and satin and she carried a bouquet of yellow daisies. Bridesmaids, Miss Mary Jane King and Miss Ginny Williamson, wore identical gowns of yellow organza with bouquets and headdresses of white daisies.

Donald Baker attended the bridegroom as best man and groomsmen - ushers were Larry L. Davis, Richard Berlitz and Charles Ladd Abraham.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Morris entertained with a reception at the Tallulah Country Club, which was profusely decorated with white gladioli, majestic daisies and greenery. Room Divider Creates Interest

In modern homes, you can achieve the effect of two rooms from one by using an open shelf room divider. It can be used to separate living and dining areas, or to provide a foyer area near the entrance door.

Filled with growing green plants these dividers give the effect of a wall. They not only permit ample air circulation but are pretty to look at from either side.

Emerald Is Big Green For Fall

The big green for fall is emerald green, clear and glowing as the stone itself. Of course, the only jewelry to set off this color is the emerald.

So there's a big trend on to emerald-colored stones in costume jewelry. Real emeralds are something else again. Far more expensive than diamonds, they can cost as much as $5,000 per carat, and a carat isn't as big as all that.

Emeralds are much rarer than diamonds, one reason for their higher price. This fall, even wealthy women, who own many thousands of dollars worth of diamonds, will wear synthetic emeralds at a mere $1,000 for a fine necklace.

The fashion for Indian inspired clothes, such as rajah-shaped coats and dresses, emphasizes the large jeweled piece worn at bosom or neckline. Although emeralds aren't found in India.

Linda Morris Becomes Bride Of Mr. Deacon

The wedding of Miss Linda Louise Morris and George Sturges Deacon III was solemnized June 26 at 10:30 a.m. in St. Edward's Catholic Church at Tallulah. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harrell Morris, Tallulah and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. George Sturges Deacon Jr., of Bossier City.

The Rev. Thomas Connors officiated at the double ring ceremony in a setting of white gladioli, majestic daisies and cathedral tapers. Acolytes were Claude DeMoss and Louis Tonore. Mrs. J. M. Gilfoil presented nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Sam Scurria Jr., who sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

The bride, escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and peau de soie designed with sculptured bodice, round neck embellished with scalloped lace and sleeves tapering to points over the hands. The skirt of peau de soie was enhanced by an overskirt of lace in pannier effect which extended to a chapel train. Her brief veil was attached to a coronet of lilies of the valley and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and stephanotis centered with a white orchid. Her only jewelry was a locket that belonged to her great, great grandmother.

Miss Margaret DeMoss, maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow silk organza. Her headdress was a coronet of yellow daisies and satin and she carried a bouquet of yellow daisies. Bridesmaids, Miss Mary Jane King and Miss Ginny Williamson, wore identical gowns of yellow organza with bouquets and headdresses of white daisies.

Donald Baker attended the bridegroom as best man and groomsmen - ushers were Larry L. Davis, Richard Berlitz and Charles Ladd Abraham.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Morris entertained with a reception at the Tallulah Country Club, which was profusely decorated with white gladioli, majestic daisies and greenery. Cook's Hint

Note to new cooks: dip that cutter in flour before cutting out biscuits with it. Lift the cutter from the dough, don't twist it.

Tips Given For Costume At Wedding

By FLORENCE De SANTIS

Q. I am wearing a pale pink embroidered linen sheath for my brother's August wedding, with deeper pink chiffon sash. I will wear white shoes. What color should bag, gloves, hat and necklace be?

A. The hat should either match the shade of the chiffon, or be in pinks of different shades which would blend with those of the dress. Necklace can either be in pink or white. Since shoes are white, gloves should be also. The bag should be plain, perhaps an envelope clutch, in white or pink which matches the pale pink of the sheath itself.

Q. I am going to the West Indies in late July. Do I take Bermuda shorts? Dresses? A coat? How much will I need for two weeks?

A. Since the West Indies are hot in summer, take three sheer dresses in synthetices, summer separates which can be both sportswear and day wear. By all means Bermudas. Best coat would be a silk water-repellent, which could be a light evening wrap. But you can forget the coat in favor of sheer stoles or little extra jackets, if you like. Seersucker sportswear and separates are good, too.

As for quantity, besides three dresses, four pairs of shorts, two easy skirts, four tops to go with both, three swim suits, two chiffon shorts dresses for evening, would be the nucleus of your wardrobe.

Q. We are a couple in our early fifties going to San Francisco the first two weeks of September, by train. What kind of clothes will we need?

A. Unlike Los Angeles, San Francisco is a city where city dressing is as much a mode as in New York. Its climate is cool and damp, so take with you what you would wear at home in April. That is, lightweight suits, jacket dress costumes, a rain-shine topcoat, light knits, would all be good choices. Hats and gloves are worn. For sightseeing, take walking shoes; plain pumps for dress. If dining out, take simple short formals.

Your husband can use conservative sportswear for sightseeing, but will want business suit and white shirts for restaurants, etc.

Q: I need suggestions for my mother of the groom dress at the September wedding of my son. The bride's mother is waiting for my choice of color before purchasing hers. How do I color match accessories? What fabrics are suitable for September?

A. The bride's mother is being very nice to you, as she is the one who is traditionally allowed to choose her color first. In any case, you may choose whatever color suits you: beige, pink, blue, green. Fabrics choices include lace, peau de soie, silk, slubbed silk, paper taffeta, tissue crepe. For accessories, shoes should either match or be in a deeper tone of the costume color. Gloves should be white, bag blend with shoes. Hat may be in contrast color to costume, it may be white, it may match costume.

MISS BUNNY SAMANTHEA JOHNSTON

Dame Fashion Goes In All Directions For Autumn

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dame Fashion — typically female — goes off in dozens of directions for autumn.

Trend-setting designers who dictate the dame's course nationwide will display major silhouettes during the New York Couture Group's press week which opened Sunday.

The smorgasbord of stitchery, served to the nation's fashion press corps gathered in New York, hopefully includes at least one design fetching enough to make the typical female put it on her "buy" list.

Designers, ears tuned to the cash register's ring, figure to please the gamut of female body types — ranging from the perfect to the less than perfect.

In its watch-for roundup, a preview of the collections, the New York Couture Group reported that anatomy more than architectural shape ruled designers' thinking for fall and winter.

Said another way: There's little in collections to cramp girl-watchers in their pursuit of happiness. Out is the silhouette that encases a female in a figure-concealing cocoon, a capsule or a free form shape that looks like no shape.

What's in: Emphasis on natural lines of the body. Designs clinging to the body's curves are the rule rather than the exception.

In reports of collections, watch for:

—The skinned-down look, destined for the woman with perfect figure who's anxious to accentuate the obvious.

—The muffled, bloused or wrapped look, booked for rave notices from females itching to disguise slightly either perfection or slight figure imperfections.

—The natural outline with bias cut, wide sleeves and full skirt, a silhouette soft and ample as a classic Greek costume or a friar's habit. The cut tends to make most every female look fashion perfect.

—The widened shoulder and the square back that give jackets a man-tailored look.

—Period costume echoes of the Directoire (1795-1800) in high-wrapped necks, foppish cutaways with velvet collars, high-waisted, long sleeved and narrow dresses, high-shaped coats and "outrageous" hats — plus capes both short and long.

—The Byzantine inspired creations with richly embroidered and jeweled borders.

—Fur bordered coats, jackets and dresses, romantic muffs, cassocks jackets.

—A full course of fashion inspired by Mrs John F Kennedy's travels to India and Mexico. The trip to India touched off tunic fever in the nation's garment district. This was inspired by the first lady while she visited him.

—Skirts ranging from slim and gathered to the panelled, pleated, yoked, gored, bordered, flared, draped, circular.

—Waistlines with wanderlust included. The natural, the hiked, the dropped and some that are upped fore and downed aft.

Note to new cooks: dip that cutter in flour before cutting out biscuits with it. Lift the cutter from the dough, don't twist it.

Tips Given For Costume At Wedding

By FLORENCE De SANTIS

Q. I am wearing a pale pink embroidered linen sheath for my brother's August wedding, with deeper pink chiffon sash. I will wear white shoes. What color should bag, gloves, hat and necklace be?

A: The hat should either match the shade of the chiffon, or be in pinks of different shades which would blend with those of the dress. Necklace can either be in pink or white. Since shoes are white, gloves should be also. The bag should be plain, perhaps an envelope clutch, in white or pink which matches the pale pink of the sheath itself.

Q: I am going to the West Indies in late July. Do I take Bermuda shorts? Dresses? A coat? How much will I need for two weeks?

A: Since the West Indies are hot in summer, take three sheer dresses in synthetices, summer separates which can be both sportswear and day wear. By all means Bermudas. Best coat would be a silk water-repellent, which could be a light evening wrap. But you can forget the coat in favor of sheer stoles or little extra jackets, if you like. Seersucker sportswear and separates are good, too.

As for quantity, besides three dresses, four pairs of shorts, two easy skirts, four tops to go with both, three swim suits, two chiffon shorts dresses for evening, would be the nucleus of your wardrobe.

Q: We are a couple in our early fifties going to San Francisco the first two weeks of September, by train. What kind of clothes will we need?

A: Unlike Los Angeles, San Francisco is a city where city dressing is as much a mode as in New York. Its climate is cool and damp, so take with you what you would wear at home in April. That is, lightweight suits, jacket dress costumes, a rain-shine topcoat, light knits, would all be good choices. Hats and gloves are worn. For sightseeing, take walking shoes; plain pumps for dress. If dining out, take simple short formals.

Your husband can use conservative sportswear for sightseeing, but will want business suit and white shirts for restaurants, etc.

Q: I need suggestions for my mother of the groom dress at the September wedding of my son. The bride's mother is waiting for my choice of color before purchasing hers. How do I color match accessories? What fabrics are suitable for September?

A: The bride's mother is being very nice to you, as she is the one who is traditionally allowed to choose her color first. In any case, you may choose whatever color suits you: beige, pink, blue, green. Fabrics choices include lace, peau de soie, silk, slubbed silk, paper taffeta, tissue crepe. For accessories, shoes should either match or be in a deeper tone of the costume color. Gloves should be white, bag blend with shoes. Hat may be in contrast color to costume, it may be white, it may match costume.

Dame Fashion Goes In All Directions For Autumn

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dame Fashion — typically female — goes off in dozens of directions for autumn.

Trend-setting designers who dictate the dame's course nationwide will display major silhouettes during the New York Couture Group's press week which opened Sunday.

The smorgasbord of stitchery, served to the nation's fashion press corps gathered in New York, hopefully includes at least one design fetching enough to make the typical female put it on her "buy" list.

Designers, ears tuned to the cash register's ring, figure to please the gamut of female body types — ranging from the perfect to the less than perfect.

In its watch-for roundup, a preview of the collections, the New York Couture Group reported that anatomy more than architectural shape ruled designers' thinking for fall and winter.

Said another way: There's little in collections to cramp girl-watchers in their pursuit of happiness. Out is the silhouette that encases a female in a figure-concealing cocoon, a capsule or a free form shape that looks like no shape.

What's in: Emphasis on natural lines of the body. Designs clinging to the body's curves are the rule rather than the exception.

In reports of collections, watch for:

—The skinned-down look, destined for the woman with perfect figure who's anxious to accentuate the obvious.

—The muffled, bloused or wrapped look, booked for rave notices from females itching to disguise slightly either perfection or slight figure imperfections.

—The natural outline with bias cut, wide sleeves and full skirt, a silhouette soft and ample as a classic Greek costume or a friar's habit. The cut tends to make most every female look fashion perfect.

—The widened shoulder and the square back that give jackets a man-tailored look.

—Period costume echoes of the Directoire (1795-1800) in high-wrapped necks, foppish cutaways with velvet collars, high-waisted, long sleeved and narrow dresses, high-shaped coats and "outrageous" hats — plus capes both short and long.

—The Byzantine inspired creations with richly embroidered and jeweled borders.

—Fur-bordered coats, jackets and dresses, romantic muffs, cassocks jackets.

—A full course of fashion inspired by Mrs. John F. Kennedy's travels to India and Mexico. The trip to India touched off tunic fever in the nation's garment district. This was inspired by the first lady while she visited him.

—Skirts ranging from slim and gathered to the panelled, pleated, yoked, gored, bordered, flared, draped, circular.

—Waistlines with wanderlust. Included The natural, the hiked, the dropped and some that are upped fore and downed aft.

MRS. SHIELDS COLLINS BRAY

Bray-Brooks Vows Read In Candlelight Setting

The wedding of Miss Patricia Dawn Brooks, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Aubrey L. Brooks of Sicily Island, and Shields Collins Bray, son of Mrs. A. G. Bray and the late Mr Bray of Tallulah, solemnized at Pine Hill Baptist church, Sicily Island on July 3 at 6 p.m. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev Paul F. Brooks.

Pedestal baskets of white gladioli, potted palms and myriad cathedral tapers formed a setting for the exchange of vows. Miss Betty Bray of Monroe and Miss Dottee Bray of Tallulah, wearing aqua organza and wrist corsages of aqua carnations, lighted the candles. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. J. E. Courtney, and Billy Windham.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of silk organza over magnolia taffeta designed with sculptured bodice, portrait neckline and brief sleeves. Appliqued medallions of imported Swiss lace embellished the gown, which swept to a chapel train. Her short circular veil was attached to pearlized orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bouquet of feathered chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid. She wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Miss Lucy McDaniel of Bogalusa, maid of honor, wore a gown of aqua organza over taffeta with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. A demi crown held her short circular veil of illusion and she carried a crescent of yellow daisies. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendant, and carrying white daisies were Miss Jane Vernon Sevier, of Tallulah, Miss Elaine Guinn, Pineville and Miss Nan Brooks, sister of the bride.

Nat Bray of Clinton, Tenn., served his brother as best man and groomsmen were Billy Bray of Monroe, Collins Thomas of Tallulah, Nat Thomas of Alexandria, brother and cousins of the groom. Ushers were Craig Brooks and Arthur Bray.

Mrs. Brooks chose for her daughter's wedding a seafoam green crepe model, flowered hat and white accessories. Mrs Bray, mother of the groom, wore muted blue with white accessories. Both had corsages of chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home economics department of Sicily Island high school. Alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Stuart Moberley and Mrs. Collins Thomas of Tallulah and Mrs. Paul Brooks of Mangham. The wedding cake was served by Mrs. Dorothy Bray of Tallulah and Mrs. Billy Bray of Monroe and presiding at the bride's book was Mrs. Don Warren of Elizabeth, La.

When the couple left for a trip to the Gulf Coast the bride was wearing a champagne suit of raw silk with flowered hat and matching accessories. The couple will be at home in Tallulah.

Mrs. Bray is a graduate of Louisiana College, is presently attending Mississippi College, Clinton, Miss., and is on the faculty of Tallulah high school. Mr. Bray attended Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe and Louisiana State University and is assistant cashier at the Tallulah State Bank and Trust Co.

Diet Habits Important In Summer

When temperatures climb into the 90's and when the very air your breathe feels like a blanket of soggy cotton — then is the time to keep a weather eye on family diet habits. The warning comes from Dr. Robert S. Goodhart, author of several books on nutrition and president and director of a major scientific research foundation.

"Most people tend to eat less in hot weather," Dr. Goodhart points out. "They forget that, whatever the weather, the body is still working full time and it still needs a consistent fuel supply." He gave these hot weather diet tips in a recent interview.

1. Are hot foods more nutritious than cold? . . . By no means. Such things as vegetables and fruit salads, cold meats, enriched bread — all provide important amounts of essential nutrients.

2. When "it's too hot to eat," why not just have a snack and let it go at that? . . . This is all right, but only provided that the snacks you eat during the day add up to a well balanced diet. It is safer to stay on a regular meal schedule; if you don't, your "heat" exhaustion may be agravated by insufficient nutritious fuel to keep you going.

3. Will plenty of fresh air and sunlight provide all the vitamins you need? . . . Not a chance. The only vitamin your body absorbs from sunlight is Vitamin D. You still need your full daily requirement of vitamins, minerals and other nutrients.

4. What's the best time of day to have one's biggest meal? . . . Probably evening, when the outside temperatures are lower. Don't forget that eating itself generates some body heat. Large meals might well be avoided. Divide the day's food into 3 to 4 equal, relatively light meals.

5. Any other safeguards for a healthy summer diet? . . . Don't forget that increased exercise and increased perspiration deplete your salt supply; get enough salt, generally this canbe assured by the liberal use of the shaker at meal time.

If common sense tells you you're short - changing yourself on good, nutritious food in sufficient quantities, a supplementary vitamin preparation can increase your supply of these essential nutrients.

Finally, adds Dr. Goodhart, sensible hot weather diets and eating habits will contribute to the whole family's enjoyment of the good old summertime — at the same time they literally "take the heat off" the cook!

Prevent Curdle

Homemade sauces and gravies are likely to curdle or separate after a stay in the freezer; commercial products get around this by using special thickening agents and stabilizers.

Combine Flavor

A bottle of maple flavoring sometimes stays a long while on a kitchen shelf without its being used! Ever add a little of it to a brown-sugar syrup to serve with pancakes?

Excitement Reigns In Fall Fashions

Geoffret Beene, for Teal Traina, has been making fashion excitement for some seasons now. His fall collection paid about equal attention to the casually bloused silhouette, the spare fitted look and the Mata Hari dramatic look.

In his bloused group there was a notable two - piece black chiffon for evening, scattered with glitter, the bodice with batwing sleeves, the skirt a shinny shaft. He liked top width generally in his bloused clothes, as in a pumpkin two - piece tweed, the batwing top widely belted in and reaching below the hips, the skirt plain and straight. A one-piece dress with the same batwing top was collarless, had a fly front, was more narrowly belted for soft blousing.

In his spared group the lean pull - over starred, very long, semi - fitted and often with a V-middy neckline. In the Mata Hari group coat dresses slithered over the figure, had neck-muffling Talleyrand collars. There were coat - tunics which zipped in back, had seams to mark their sinuous fit, the highest collars softly muffling the throat. Some were seven - eighths length in tweed to show a sliver of black skirt.

Miss Calcote graduated from Meadville high school and Copiah Lincoln Junior College, where she was elected Homecoming Queen, Campus favorite, and College Beauty. She plans to enter Mississippi College this fall and continue her studies as a music education major.

Mr. Hunter is a graduate of Rayville high school, Copiah-Lincoln Junior College and is continuing his work as a ministerial student at Mississippi College. Upon graduation from there he plans to enter the Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas.

Sanders-Lowe Vows Read In Home Ceremony

In a double ring ceremony at the home of her parents on Sunday, July 1, Miss Patsy Ann Lowe became the bride of Billy Ray Sanders. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lowe of Tallulah and Mr. Sanders is the son of Rosie Sanders of Bastrop and the late Mr. Sanders.

Rev. Oster R. Daniels, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Tallulah, officiated at the double ring vows at 3 p.m. in a setting of white carnations and candles.

The bride wore a white embroidered dress with white veiled hat and carried a bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by Miss Marguerite Carney who wore pink and carried white carnations, and Susan Ann Sanders as flower girl, who wore an orchid frock.

Charles Sanders served his brother as best man.

A reception followed the ceremony. The bride's mother was wearing a beige dress and the mother of the bridegroom was attired in navy. Both had corsages of pink flowers. Miss Maxine Sanders presided at the punch service and Mrs. A. L. Girod served the wedding cake. Presiding at the guest book were Miss Linda Kay Elledge and Miss Jenny Lou Revell.

After a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark. the couple will reside in Bastrop where Mr. Sanders is employed.

Single Good Accessory Can Stretch Budget

One way to stretch a limited clothes budget is to buy a single expensive accessory, use it as a fashion signature.

Take a black cashmere cardigan sweater, hip length, costing about $35. During cool spring days, it can be worn with a beige pleated skirt, a pink sleeveless overblouse, making a suit look. Or, completely buttoned up, with a pin on the shoulder, as a blouse itself with the skirt.

Come the warmer days, and it goes on the shoulders, over a day dress of almost any color, as a summer sweater-jacket. If the dress has a scoop neck, add neckline jeweling, and there is a cocktail costume.

As for evening, a black cashmere sweater is a smarter evening jacket than fur, looks great over orange or pink organza, white or green chiffon.

Next fall will see it going on in the same combinations, but over fall fabrics: tweed, silk surah, velveteen, crepe, satin. One great accessory like this, used with fashion know-how, can make a small wardrobe into a matter of choice, not necessity.

What good is a pass on Okinawa?

Now, it means GI's can relax at the new USO, opened this year on Okinawa at the request of the Department of Defense.

Think what this USO means to a kid, thousands of miles from home! But this is just one USO—there are 2,750,000 GI's today, running the hazard of homesickness. USO brings the vital warmth they need in a cold war . . . the atmosphere of home, so needed by these very young Americans in far-off lands. Over half are under 25—away from home for the first time.

Today, as never before, more USO's are needed. It takes money. Your money. Remember he mustn't wonder—even for a minute . . .

Superstition Interwoven Among Fashion Designers

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Superstition is interwoven with the whole warp and woof of the fashion industry.

There is one New York dress manufacturer whose good luck symbol is a sweater worn at every collection opening now for 25 years. Another has worn a silk jacket so long he can't remember how old it is. Still another designer considers 13 the luckiest number of all. Horse shoes hang over many a doorway in work entrances to show rooms, designers carry gold thimbles and manufacturers have framed the first clothing order the way many a storekeeper frames the first $1 his firm collected.

Let's look in detail at some of the superstitions, as New York manufaoturers and designers complete the showings this week of their fall and winter collections of apparel for women.

A sweater owned by Harvey Berin is a legend on Seventh Avenue, center of New York's garment industry. As his staff recalls, it's been around at least a quarter of a century.

It's a sleeveless, button down the front type currently in faded tan, has been re-woven, patched and re-patched. One member of Berin's staff said the manufacturer wouldn't trust the sweater to cleaners—one of his seamstresses takes it home occasionally and washes it. But it's always on Berin at the opening of each new collection.

Max Pruzan, partner with Monte Sano & Pruzan, owns an ancient silk jacket he considers good luck at an opening. His associate, Vincent Monte Sano, said that occasionally one of the seamstresses, just as a gag, sews up the sleeves. It gets a lot of laughs and puts everyone in a good humor instead of down with a case of nerves on opening day.

Just to assure the success of a collection even more, Monte Sano & Pruzan's chief designer, French-born Jacques Tiffeau, always wears a fresh sprig of lilies of the valley on his lapel on opening day. Frenchmen consider this flower good luck.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy's designer Oleg Cassini also is superstitious about what he wears opening day—"I feel a compulsion to wear a navy blue suit with an off-white shirt," he said.

Lily Dache considers 13 so lucky that there is a huge 13 on her charm bracelet and she always selects the 13th of the month for an opening.

To French-born Pauline Trigere the turtle is a symbol of good luck because one meandered across her path the day she found exactly what she'd been shopping for in a country home—an old New England salt box. That was nine years ago, and since there always have been turtle designs on scarves, blouses, coat linings or some other part of a collection.

Miss Trigere also has a superstition about the day the first dress of a new collection is to be cut. It has to be Friday.

TO WED AUGUST 17 are Miss Linda Stevens and Jesse Malone Schaeffer, whose engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Stevens of Lake Jackson, Texas. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Helen W. Schaeffer of West Monroe and C. R. Schaeffer of Houston, Texas and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Willis of West Monroe.

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Vernetta Earl to Bunny DeeLee McMurray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest D. McMurray of Winnsboro, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Earl, Winnsboro. The wedding will be an event of August 19 at 3 p.m. in Temple Baptist Church of Winnsboro with Rev. Joe Mongle officiating.

Fake Furs Make Big Splash In Fall Fashions

In the upcoming furry season, when every dress, suit or coat is to have at least a touch of fur, the man-made furs come into their own, often combined with real furs.

Imitation furs have improved immensely to the point that certain ones, like fake otter, Persian and beaver, can scarcely be told from the genuine article.

Silhouettes in fake furs are often casual, the full sashed coat being a favorite. Some combine two fake furs, as in skirt and collar of fake beaver with bodice of fake otter, the two tones of brown echoing fall's liking for browns.

A sashed wrap coat of fake otter may carry a real Norwegian fox collar. Even mink is used to collar a fake Persian coat, with front belt which passes under the coat's back.

Since fake fur coats cost no more than good cloth coats, these man-made luxuries ought to be popular in a fur-conscious fall.

Quick Salad

Quick pear salad: arrange drained canned (firm-type) pears on lettuce or other greens; fill pear cavities with crumbled blue cheese and top with sour cream.

MISS MARGARET ANN McGOUGH'S engagement to Clarence Robert Ziegler of New Orleans, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. McGough of Bastrop. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ziegler, New Orleans. The ceremony will take place August 11 in the First Assembly of God in Bastrop. Miss McGough is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College and was employed by St. Bernard Parish school board this year. Mr. Ziegler is attending Southeastern Louisiana State College in Hamond.

APPROACHING marriage of Miss Cheryl Chauncey and Benny Lowery is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Chauncey of West Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Lowery of Calhoun. The wedding is planned for August 3 at 7 p.m. in the home of the brid'e parents with Rev. Frank Smith of West Monroe, officiating. The couple plans to reside in West Monroe.

Next Fall's Fashions Are An Education

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Yesterday keeping up with fashion required little more than knowing how to hitch a belt higher or lower, or measuring a hemline an arbitrary number of inches from the floor.

But styles for next fall call for a good education in current events, history, geography —and considering the prices — economics. And it won't hurt to be a fan of old, old movies, either.

This was evident to fashion writers attending the New York Coutre Group's semi annual press week July 8-14.

Current events have inspired missile shapes by designer Ceil Chapman, and Laotian Sihns by Oleg Cassini.

However geography also could be credited with the sihn gown, as well as other versions of the sari scattered through out the fall collections.

MORE EAST

Indeed, the travels of Cassini's most famous customer, Jacqueline Kennedy, has made all designers geographic in inspiration.

Also from the East is Donald Brook's novelty dress, the panung, with a shirt that wraps between the legs at knee length so that it looks more like a pair of pantaloons than a shirt.

The Nehru coat, or the ackhan as the Indians call it, is the most significant influence. With many couturiers it is not only a coat, it's subtle shape is duplicated as a tunic jacket, and again as a spare, often sleeveless dress that merely skims over the body.

Mexico, the next place on the First Lady's itinerary also gets a head start from Cassini on what is likely to be next year's geographical influence. In his collection sombrero hats top charro (meaning cowboy) dresses heavily embroidered with self fabric like the trim on Mexican cowboy costumes.

RUSSIA, TOO

Russia is in the picture, too. Fur bordered tunic suits in bulky wools are worn with boots and furry cossack caps emphasizing their geographical origin.

Looks described as "Mata Hari," "Muffled" and "Little Boy" originate from Hollywood spy pictures of the 1930's.

The Mata Hari includes the trench coat, bulky and roomy, or a sweeping cape type coat, or a tweedy, long jacketed suit. With these are generous scarves that sweep over the face, hiding all but lash-fringed, flirty eyes.

The scarf is also a part of the muffled look, as are those tall, tall fur collars on many heavy tweed suits.

The little boy look is crisply tailored, with back-belted, or low belted coats or jackets, notched lapels, and very slim or sharply pleated skirts.

Other notes fashion writers are bound to make about the fall collections to be previewed include:

SILHOUETTES: The shift, either without any shape at all, or slightly modeled to the body, is beginning to outnumber belted sheaths.

Jacques Tiffeau, and others still prefer a high bosomed waistline.

With her well known draping technique, Ceil Chapman creates a fluid look that ignores the waistline. Her missile silhouette is flat, front and back, flares out at the sides like a rocket.

COLLARS — Mink ones are on everything. Fabric collars are exaggerated in size.

SLEEVES — Except with the most stubborn designers, they are in most dresses this winter. The dolman cut is a favorite. Balloon sleeves are also making a play for prominence.

SKIRTS — Voluminously gathered, or the many pleated skirts popular last year have been tapered down to a few tucks, and a minimum of folds.

TRIM — Every animal in the kingdon, but mink and persian lamb especially, run up, down, and around nearly half the garments in the market.

FABRIC — Bulky, tweedy, and fuzzy ones are daytime favorites, often combined with unexpected materials such as satin or velvet. For evening the materials are three dimensional — either the matelasse (quilted) materials, beaded, cut velvet, or gold and silver embroidered.

Big Fall Dress Is Fitted Shift

After three days of fall clothes showings, it's plain that THE dress is the fitted shift. This is a perfectly plain tube, cut with sinuous perfection to follow the figure in an unbroken line from bust to hemline.

The waist, in other words, starts right under the bosom. Sometimes the shape is accented by vertical princess seaming. The skirt is never tight, may often actually flare at the hemline.

The bust to neck section is often a seamed yoke, and whatever decoration the dress has appears here. A band collar, a tucked yoke, back buttons, cross-over band treatments, a scarfed or furred neckline, are a few of the detailings.

The fitted shift is a beautiful figure-maker, and ought to satisfy all the women who are dieting these days.

Superstition Interwoven Among Fashion Designers

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Superstition is interwoven with the whole warp and woof of the fashion industry.

There is one New York dress manufacturer whose good luck symbol is a sweater worn at every collection opening now for 25 years. Another has worn a silk jacket so long he can't remember how old it is. Still another designer considers 13 the luckiest number of all. Horse shoes hang over many a doorway in work entrances to show rooms, designers carry gold thimbles and manufacturers have framed the first clothing order the way many a storekeeper frames the first $1 his firm collected.

Let's look in detail at some of the superstitions, as New York manufaoturers and designers complete the showings this week of their fall and winter collections of apparel for women.

A sweater owned by Harvey Berin is a legend on Seventh Avenue, center of New York's garment industry. As his staff recalls, it's been around at least a quarter of a century.

It's a sleevless, button down the front type currently in faded tan, has been re-woven, patched and re-patched. One member of Berin's staff said the manufacturer wouldn't trust the sweater to cleaners—one of his seamstresses takes it home occasionally and washes it. But it's always on Berin at the opening of each new collection.

Max Pruzan, partner with Monte Sano & Pruzan, owns an ancient silk jacket he considers good luck at an opening. His associate, Vincent Monte Sano, said that occasionally one of the seamstresses, just as a gag, sews up the sleeves. It gets a lot of laughs and puts everyone in a good humor instead of down with a case of nerves on opening day.

Just to assure the success of a collection even more, Monte Sano & Pruzan's chief designer, French-born Jacques Tiffeau, always wears a fresh sprig of lilies of the valley on his lapel on opening day. Frenchmen consider this flower good luck.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy's designer Oleg Cassini also is superstitious about what he wears opening day—"I feel a compulsion to wear a navy blue suit with an off-white shirt," he said.

Lily Dache considers 13 so lucky that there is a huge 13 on her charm bracelet and she always selects the 13th of the month for an opening.

To French-born Pauline Trigere the turtle is a symbol of good luck because one meandered across her path the day she found exactly what she'd been shopping for in a country home—an old New England salt box. That was nine years ago, and since there always have been turtle designs on scarves, blouses, coat linings or some other part of a collection.

Miss Trigere also has a superstition about the day the first dress of a new collection is to be cut. It has to be Friday.

TO WED AUGUST 17 are Miss Linda Stevens and Jesse Malone Schaeffer, whose engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Stevens of Lake Jackson, Texas. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Helen W. Schaeffer of West Monroe and C. R. Schaeffer of Houston, Texas and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Willis of West Monroe.

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Vernetta Earl to Bunny DeeLee McMurray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest D. McMurray of Winnsboro, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Earl, Winnsboro. The wedding will be an event of August 19 at 3 p.m. in Temple Baptist Church of Winnsboro with Rev. Joe Mongle officiating.

Fake Furs Make Big Splash In Fall Fashions

In the upcoming furry season, when every dress, suit or coat is to have at least a touch of fur, the man - made furs come into their own, often combined with real furs.

Imitation furs have improved immensely to the point that certain ones, like fake otter, Persian and beaver, can scarcely be told from the genuine article.

Silhouettes in fake furs are often casual, the full sashed coat being a favorite. Some combine two fake furs, as in skirt and collar of fake beaver with bodice of fake otter, the two tones of brown echoing fall's liking for browns.

A sashed wrap coat of fake otter may carry a real Norwegian fox collar. Even mink is used to collar a fake Persian coat, with front belt which passes under the coat's back.

Since fake fur coats cost no more than good cloth coats, these man-made luxuries ought to be popular in a fur-conscious fall.

Quick Salad

Quick pear salad: arrange drained canned (firm-type) pears on lettuce or other greens; fill pear cavities with crumbled blue cheese and top with sour cream.

MISS MARGARET ANN McGOUGH'S engagement to Clarence Robert Ziegler of New Orleans, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. McGough of Bastrop. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ziegler, New Orleans. The ceremony will take place August 11 in the First Assembly of God in Bastrop. Miss McGough is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College and was employed by St. Bernard Parish school board this year. Mr. Ziegler is attending Southeastern Louisiana State College in Hamond.

APPROACHING marriage of Miss Cheryl Chauncey and Benny Lowery is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Chauncey of West Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Lowery of Calhoun. The wedding is planned for August 3 at 7 p.m. in the home of the brid'e parents with Rev. Frank Smith of West Monroe, officiating. The couple plans to reside in West Monroe.

Next Fall's Fashions Are An Education

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Yesterday keeping up with fashion required little more than knowing how to hitch a belt higher or lower, or measuring a hemline an arbitrary number of inches from the floor.

But styles for next fall call for a good education in current events, history, geography —and considering the prices — economics. And it won't hurt to be a fan of old, old movies, either.

This was evident to fashion writers attending the New York Coutre Group's semi annual press week July 8-14.

Current events have inspired missile shapes by designer Ceil Chapman, and Laotian Sihns by Oleg Cassini.

However geography also could be credited with the sihn gown, as well as other versions of the sari scattered through out the fall collections.

MORE EAST

Indeed, the travels of Cassini's most famous customer, Jacqueline Kennedy, has made all designers geographic in inspiration.

Also from the East is Donald Brook's novelty dress, the panung, with a shirt that wraps between the legs at knee length so that it looks more like a pair of pantaloons than a shirt.

The Nehru coat, or the ackhan as the Indians call it, is the most significant influence. With many couturiers it is not only a coat, it's subtle shape is duplicated as a tunic jacket, and again as a spare, often sleeveless dress that merely skims over the body.

Mexico, the next place on the First Lady's itinerary also gets a head start from Cassini on what is likely to be next year's geographical influence. In his collection sombrero hats top charro (meaning cowboy) dresses heavily embroidered with self fabric like the trim on Mexican cowboy costumes.

RUSSIA, TOO

Russia is in the picture, too. Fur bordered tunic suits in bulky wools are worn with boots and furry cossack caps emphasizing their geographical origin.

Looks described as "Mata Hari," "Muffled" and "Little Boy" originate from Hollywood spy pictures of the 1930's.

The Mata Hari includes the trench coat, bulky and roomy, or a sweeping cape type coat, or a tweedy, long jacketed suit. With these are generous scarves that sweep over the face, hiding all but lash-fringed, flirty eyes.

The scarf is also a part of the muffled look, as are those tall, tall fur collars on many heavy tweed suits.

The little boy look is crisply tailored, with back-belted, or low belted coats or jackets, notched lapels, and very slim or sharply pleated skirts.

Other notes fashion writers are bound to make about the fall collections to be previewed include:

SILHOUETTES: The shift, either without any shape at all, or slightly modeled to the body, is beginning to outnumber belted sheaths.

Jacques Tiffeau, and others still prefer a high bosomed waistline.

With her well known draping technique, Ceil Chapman creates a fluid look that ignores the waistline. Her missile silhouette is flat, front and back, flares out at the sides like a rocket.

COLLARS — Mink ones are on everything. Fabric collars are exaggerated in size.

SLEEVES — Except with the most stubborn designers, they are in most dresses this winter. The dolman cut is a favorite. Balloon sleeves are also making a play for prominence.

SKIRTS — Voluminously gathered, or the many pleated skirts popular last year have been tapered down to a few tucks, and a minimum of folds.

TRIM — Every animal in the kingdon, but mink and persian lamb especially, run up, down, and around nearly half the garments in the market.

FABRIC — Bulky, tweedy, and fuzzy ones are daytime favorites, often combined with unexpected materials such as satin or velvet. For evening the materials are three dimensional — either the matelasse (quilted) materials, beaded, cut velvet, or gold and silver embroidered.

The saucer - eyed performer is to appear in "The King's Mare," a play adapted by Anita Loos from a French script by Jeane Canolle. Miss Channing will portray Anne of Cleves, fourth wife of Henry VIII in the costume show.

The production is on the agenda of Fred Coe and Arthur Cantor for presentation in January 1963.

'El Cid' Will Be Presented Here Soon

One of the great film spectacles, "El Cid," starring Charlton Heston and Sophia Loren, will soon open here.

The Samuel Bronston production telling the romantic and turbulent story of Spain's 11th Century warrior-hero, El Cid, has been set for a special engagement at the Jim theatre beginning Wednesday.

WELL RATED

"El Cid," a motion picture epic in Super Technirama Technicolor, was included in countless "10 Best Motion Picture of the Year" lists selected by metropolitan newspapers and top national magazines.

The film opens here after scoring as a sensational hit in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Dallas and many other cities where it played as a roadshow attraction.

Heston portrays the warrior-hero, whose name is derived from the Arabic "Seid," meaning lord or leader. Miss Loren is cast as Chimene, whose romance with the warrior knew burning passion, then turned to almost fatal hate, and eventually was changed again into a strong love.

Among locations used were sites known to El Cid as he united Christian and Moor and defeated the Islamic hordes that crossed the Mediterranean and would have driven hard into the heart of Europe.

"El Cid," a Samuel Bronston Production in association with Dear Film Productions, was directed by Anthony Mann and is being distributed in the Western Hemisphere by Allied Artists.

Implications In Teaching Of Reading

By DAVID NYDICK
United Press International

The teaching of reading has many implications for school and home. Some parents are confused by the many theories, criticisms, and comparisons of the subject.

Obviously, reading is the most important academic area since it is basic to all knowledge. Based upon this fact, schools concentrate on reading during the primary grades. An emphasis on learning to read is needed before a student can make extensive advances in most other areas.

Comparisons with Russian or European methods actually have few implications for us in that our language is quite different. An analysis of English will show a need for mastery of a variety of skills. A pure phonics approach is as inadequate as a total sight approach. We must be prepared to teach reading by many methods.

In addition to the irregularity of our language, we have the irregularity of learning. Readiness is constantly referred to when reading is discussed. A child's readiness to read depends upon his physical development (eyes, ears), motivation, experiences, and emotional adjustment. Naturally, the combination of these items cannot be expected to develop at the same speed in each individual.

The broad area covered by the actual learning of reading means that much more than mechanical teaching is necessary. Of course, there are many intricacies of teaching for which much training and experience is needed. This does not mean that good common sense and understanding, on the part of parents, will not aid the situation.

In the pre-school years, the parent can create an atmosphere and plan experiences which will lead to readiness. Listening and discrimination through hearing and seeing are important. How can these skills be developed? Most children enjoy hearing adults read. They develop interest as they listen and participate. How? Inject questions such as: And what do you think will happen next? Motivate the stories with expression and interest.

Along with the development of skills, your child should also develop motivation. As he has more exciting experiences with books he will want to delve further. Relate actual events and desires to books. Your reading and his should be shared.

Create an atmosphere of respect toward books and the child's reading time. Give him a section of a bookshelf for his own books. Don't interrupt him when he is reading. Provide a quiet place where he can get lost in the world of books.

Above all, do not create a feeling of pressure. Avoid comparing his accomplishments with classmates or other members of the family.

Beatrice Lillie Will Play Two Musical Roles

NEW YORK (AP) — For her next Broadway workout, Beatrice Lillie will play two roles in the musical, "Captain Isabelle."

A play within a play, the show is to display Miss Lillie as a sea captain of 1870 and as her own great - aunt.

Franklin Lacey, collaborator with Meredith Wilson on the book for "The Music Man," has composed the score, lyrics and dialogue.

Miss Lillie has been absent from Broadway since 1958, when she succeeded Greer Garson in "Auntie Mame."

Drama Student Award Winner

NEW HAVEN, Conn (AP) — Errol Hill, a Yale drama student, is the first winner of a new Theatre Guild Foundation prize for a play about life in the West Indies.

The $500 grant went to Hill for "Man Better Man," which concerns a group of Trinidad natives. A guild fellowship was also awarded to Robert E. Shelton of Springfield, Ill.

Yorke Booking Director For Theater Group

NEW YORK (AP) — The new booking director for the 17 Broadway and six cross-country theaters operated by the Shubert chain is Jack Yorke, a veteran of 37 years in show business.

Yorke succeeds the late Jack Small in the executive post. Prior to joining the Shubert organization in 1956, he had been connected with the production activities of Cheryl Crawford, Vinton Freedley and the Theatre Guild.

FUN FOR ACTOR

Psychiatry Fails, Film Succeeds

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It took a movie to accomplish what a year of psychiatry and several thousand pep talks couldn't do—make Paul Lynde enjoy performing.

Lynde is that vastly funny young man with the foot-long smile and selling manner who has brightened Perry Como's television show during the past season. He is here now to re-create his Broadway role as the harried father of a swooning teen-ager in "Bye Bye Birdie."

"This is the greatest thing that has happened to me," he remarked as he lounged outside the movie stage. "For the first time in my career, I am enjoying my work."

SOUNDS ODD

That sounds odd coming from a guy who has convulsed audiences in night clubs, Broadway show and television specials. But he documents:

"I have never gotten over being terrified in front of an audience. Oh, I know most performers get the jitters before they go on. My reaction is more like nervous collapse.

"I realized that this wasn't quite right; I should have been enjoying myself a bit more. So I went on the couch for a year to see if that would help. It did help a little. I was able to convince myself that they weren't entirely unfriendly out there. But I'm still scared to death.

"Until now. Doing this picture is the first time I have performed with any degree of calm. I guess it's because there is no audience, because you can do it over again if it wasn't right the first time."

It makes you wonder: How does a guy get in the funny business if he feels that way.

'SIMPLE'

"Simple," he explained. "It all started back at Northwestern University. I got into a freshman drama class, and each of us had to do a reading from 'Cyrano de Bergerac.'

"I did my scene and I thought it was pretty good. But my first assignment was to play the oafish football player in 'The Male Animal.' I asked the teacher how come, and she said, 'Didn't you know? Your reading of 'Cyrano' was so hilarious this was the obvious role for you.' I haven't had a chance to do anything serious since."

He's enjoying his therapy and may well be a confirmed Californian when the film is finished. He may or may not return to Como—"I have set my price so high that I'll be a little surprised if they ask me."

FILM HOPES

Paul would be delighted to stick around and do more films—"No reason why Jack Lemmon and Tony Randall should have all of those roles."

CHARLTON HESTON portrays the Spanish warrior-hero El Cid, which opens Wednesday at the Jim Theatre. Also starring in the production are Sophia Loren, Raf Vallone and Genevieve Page. The picture was named one of the top 10 of the year.

'El Cid' Will Be Presented Here Soon

One of the great film spectacles, "El Cid," starring Charlton Heston and Sophia Loren, will soon open here.

The Samuel Bronston production telling the romantic and turbulent story of Spain's 11th Century warrior-hero, El Cid, has been set for a special engagement at the Jim theatre beginning Wednesday.

WELL RATED

"El Cid," a motion picture epic in Super Technirama Technicolor, was included in countless "10 Best Motion Picture of the Year" lists selected by metropolitan newspapers and top national magazines.

The film opens here after scoring as a sensational hit in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Dallas and many other cities where it played as a roadshow attraction.

Heston portrays the warrior-hero, whose name is derived from the Arabic "Seid," meaning lord or leader. Miss Loren is cast as Chimene, whose romance with the warrior knew burning passion, then turned to almost fatal hate, and eventually was changed again into a strong love.

Among locations used were sites known to El Cid as he united Christian and Moor and defeated the Islamic hordes that crossed the Mediterranean and would have driven hard into the heart of Europe.

"El Cid," a Samuel Bronston Production in association with Dear Film Productions, was directed by Anthony Mann and is being distributed in the Western Hemisphere by Allied Artists.

FUN FOR ACTOR

Psychiatry Fails, Film Succeeds

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It took a movie to accomplish what a year of psychiatry and several thousand pep talks couldn't do—make Paul Lynde enjoy performing.

Lynde is that vastly funny young man with the foot-long smile and selling manner who has brightened Perry Como's television show during the past season. He is here now to re-create his Broadway role as the harried father of a swooning teen-ager in "Bye Bye Birdie."

"This is the greatest thing that has happened to me," he remarked as he lounged outside the movie stage. "For the first time in my career, I am enjoying my work."

SOUNDS ODD

That sounds odd coming from a guy who has convulsed audiences in night clubs, Broadway show and television specials. But he documents:

"I have never gotten over being terrified in front of an audience. Oh, I know most performers get the jitters before they go on. My reaction is more like nervous collapse.

"I realized that this wasn't quite right; I should have been enjoying myself a bit more. So I went on the couch for a year to see if that would help. It did help a little. I was able to convince myself that they weren't entirely unfriendly out there. But I'm still scared to death.

"Until now. Doing this picture is the first time I have performed with any degree of calm. I guess it's because there is no audience, because you can do it over again if it wasn't right the first time."

It makes you wonder: How does a guy get in the funny business if he feels that way.

'SIMPLE'

"Simple," he explained. "It all started back at Northwestern University. I got into a freshman drama class, and each of us had to do a reading from 'Cyrano de Bergerac.'

"I did my scene and I thought it was pretty good. But my first assignment was to play the oafish football player in 'The Male Animal.' I asked the teacher how come, and she said, 'Didn't you know? Your reading of 'Cyrano' was so hilarious this was the obvious role for you.' I haven't had a chance to do anything serious since."

He's enjoying his therapy and may well be a confirmed Californian when the film is finished. He may or may not return to Como—"I have set my price so high that I'll be a little surprised if they ask me."

FILM HOPES

Paul would be delighted to stick around and do more films—"No reason why Jack Lemmon and Tony Randall should have all of those roles."

Crosby, Hope Old Team At Making Films

"Road to Hong Kong" now showing at the Paramount Theatre, is Crosby's 60th film, Hope's 42nd. Crosby's include "Going My Way" which won him an Academy Award in 1944, "The Country Girl" which brought him a Best Actor Nomination in 1954, and other box office hits too numerous to mention. Hope's memorable films include "The Paleface," "Thanks for the Memory," "Sorrowful Jones," "My Favorite Blonde" and, recently, "The Facts of Life" for Panama and Frank.

'THE TEAM'

While both have won fame in other fields — Crosby in radio, phonograph recording and private business; Hope in personal appearances and television — they are known to two generations as "The Team," and the team means the famous 'Road' films.

The producer-director team of Norman Panama and Melvin Frank, too, have been in show business for more than 25 years.

They first got together in 1933, and have turned out many a film hit since, most of them comedies.

'CARNIVAL' TO LONDON

NEW YORK (AP)— London's West End is to inspect Broadway's hit musical "Carnival" this summer.

David Merrick, the local sponsor is staging the presentation in collaboration with H. M. Tennant Ltd. Casting has not been announced.

Implications In Teaching Of Reading

By DAVID NYDICK
United Press International

The teaching of reading has many implications for school and home. Some parents are confused by the many theories, criticisms, and comparisons of the subject.

Obviously, reading is the most important academic area since it is basic to all knowledge. Based upon this fact, schools concentrate on reading during the primary grades. An emphasis on learning to read is needed before a student can make extensive advances in most other areas.

Comparisons with Russian or European methods actually have few implications for us in that our language is quite different. An analysis of English will show a need for mastery of a variety of skills. A pure phonics approach is as inadequate as a total sight approach. We must be prepared to teach reading by many methods.

In addition to the irregularity of our language, we have the irregularity of learning. Readiness is constantly referred to when reading is discussed. A child's readiness to read depends upon his physical development (eyes, ears), motivation, experiences, and emotional adjustment. Naturally, the combination of these items cannot be expected to develop at the same speed in each individual.

The broad area covered by the actual learning of reading means that much more than mechanical teaching is necessary. Of course, there are many intricacies of teaching for which much training and experience is needed. This does not mean that good common sense and understanding, on the part of parents, will not aid the situation.

In the pre-school years, the parent can create an atmosphere and plan experiences which will lead to readiness. Listening and discrimination through hearing and seeing are important. How can these skills be developed? Most children enjoy hearing adults read. They develop interest as they listen and participate. How? Inject questions such as: And what do you think will happen next? Motivate the stories with expression and interest.

Along with the development of skills, your child should also develop motivation. As he has more exciting experiences with books he will want to delve further. Relate actual events and desires to books. Your reading and his should be shared.

Create an atmosphere of respect toward books and the child's reading time. Give him a section of a bookshelf for his own books. Don't interrupt him when he is reading. Provide a quiet place where he can get lost in the world of books.

Above all, do not create a feeling of pressure. Avoid comparing his accomplishments with classmates or other members of the family.

Beatrice Lillie Will Play Two Musical Roles

NEW YORK (AP) — For her next Broadway workout, Beatrice Lillie will play two roles in the musical, "Captain Isabelle."

A play within a play, the show is to display Miss Lillie as a sea captain of 1870 and as her own great - aunt.

Franklin Lacey, collaborator with Meredith Wilson on the book for "The Music Man," has composed the score, lyrics and dialogue.

Miss Lillie has been absent from Broadway since 1958, when she succeeded Greer Garson in "Auntie Mame."

Yorke Booking Director For Theater Group

NEW YORK (AP) — The new booking director for the 17 Broadway and six cross-country theaters operated by the Shubert chain is Jack Yorke, a veteran of 37 years in show business.

Yorke succeeds the late Jack Small in the executive post. Prior to joining the Shubert organization in 1956, he had been connected with the production activities of Cheryl Crawford, Vinton Freedley and the Theatre Guild.

Drama Student Award Winner

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Errol Hill, a Yale drama student, is the first winner of a new Theatre Guild Foundation prize for a play about life in the West Indies.

The $500 grant went to Hill for "Man Better Man," which concerns a group of Trinidad natives. A guild fellowship was also awarded to Robert E. Shelton of Springfield, Ill.

Church Plans World Work Camp Setup

Church of God youth from 20 countries will participate next summer in a world work camp in the mountains of Lebanon, constructing a complex of buildings for use by young people of that nation.

Alan Egly, executive director of the sponsoring International Youth Fellowship of the Church of God, said the director will be named soon.

SMALLER SCALE

A world youth work camp, of smaller scale, is underway this month in Alberta, Canada, involving young men and women of eight nations. They will build a multipurpose building for use by Canadian church campers.

Plans for the Lebanese project have been completed in conferences here between Farris Hajjar and Rev. Fuoad Melki, of the Church of God in Beruit, with Egly and Dr. T. Franklin Miller, executive secretary of the national Board of Christian Education of the movement.

Scientific Fun On Vacation Is Suggested

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mix some scientific fun with the vacation when you take the youngsters down to the sea—or river, lake or pond.

Fishing teaches something. So does beachcombing. There's even something fascinating to be learned if all you can do is capture a bit of water, jar it and take it back home for a look-see under a play microscope.

Just consider the interests at the seashore, if variety's your child's spice of life.

Nearly every mile of the nation's 54,000 miles of tidal shoreline is a place of potential interest—where nature's great show goes on 'round the clock.

Where the land meets the sea, another world begins.

For information about how a child can pry into this never-ending drama of the sea and its life, we consulted with researchers at the Gilbert Hall of Science.

Surprisingly, it was found that equipment needed for young beachcombers is minimal: a pail, a few glass jars, a trowel, a spading fork, a kitchen knife and a magnifying glass.

A portable microscope, if powerful enough, will enable children to study small forms of sea life while they cavort in a few drops of seawater.

Inexpensive pocket-sized books on shore life and water creatures will help to identify what's found.

"Observation," reported the Gilbert scientists, "is the key to science and enjoying the new finds. Details of form and movement cannot be seen, however, unless your child watches carefully."

A sandy beach supports a different variety of plant and animal life than does a rocky beach or a mud flat. All are worthy of the youngster's attention. Wading out a bit, especially at low tide, helps to turn up other specimens.

Among things to look for are:

—Seaweed. There are more than 18,000 different kinds, each with different characteristics.

—Starfish, abundant on both Atlantic and Pacific coasts, wash up on the beach or are found in shallow tidal pools. Many youngsters like to dry starfish in the sun to preserve. Examination reveals why starfish is a major enemy of shellfish. Most are spiny and have tiny pincers amid the spines and with from 5 to 10 arms. Wrapped around a clam, these feet with many small sunction tubes force the clam open.

TO EXPLAIN BELIEF

Plays, Paintings Used In Church

NEW YORK (AP) — A young Presbyterian minister, who calls his belief "Christian Agnosticism" is using plays and abstract paintings in his work.

The Rev. William B. Glenesk of the Spencer Memorial Church in Brooklyn says "I am sure that God exists but I can't prove it—that's the agnostic element."

"To believe in God's existence is a matter of faith, but within the framework of this faith, there is this doubt as to the whereabouts of God," he added.

In an effort to re-affirm his own faith and that of his parishioners and in an attempt to discover more about God's manifestations in the world, Rev. Glenesk believes in experimentation.

EXPLORATORY

"It is an exploratory type of faith; faith grows with exposure. This is an old Greek idea, that is, to begin with things you don't know," he adds.

Because the Rev. Mr. Glenesk does not subscribe to a division between secular and religious activities but believes that everything is under God, he feels free to draw upon the greatest works of art and literature.

He has discussed modern and classic plays, the dance, and art in his sermons as examples of God's spirit at work.

"Hamlet" was used to explore the problems of personal freedom and pride; "King Lear," self discovery; "Death of a Salesman," self deception; "The Tenth Man," supernatural elements in the universe; and "Gideon," war between men.

MEDIUMS

After the sermons, there are seminars which at times include the Broadway actors who played leading parts. One of Glenesk's reasons for using literature is that "God speaks as strongly through the great poets and artists of today as through the prophets of yesterday."

He reports that his congregation, which numbers about 200 persons, has shown great interest in his new approach and that about 100 attend the Sunday services, of which an average 50 stay on for the seminars.

His views first became widely known last June 30 when he appeared on an early morning radio program and espoused "Christian agnosticism." Since then, he says, he has received about 100 calls, most of them favorable, but some bitterly critical.

The Rev. Mr. Glenesk does not believe his ideas are widely divergent with most of Christianity, except for his belief that God does not directly intervene in the lives of individuals aside from the laws he has set in motion for all mankind.

NEW SERIES

Today, he is starting a new series of sermon parables on "The Meaning of Man in Modern Art." He said he will bring paintings and some sculpture into church done by William Zorach on the subtopic "The taste for life." Zorach's style is in between cubism and representationalism.

William Bell Glenesk, 35, was born and raised in Toronto, Cana- Mrs. William Glenesk still live.

He is a graduate of the University of Toronto and studied at the Toronto's Royal Conservatory of Music. He took a masters degree in ethics and literature at Columbia University where he studied under the noted theologian Paul Tiflich. He says that he follows Tillich's ideas of "romantic existentialism."

He came to the Brooklyn church five years ago. In the meantime, he studied acting under actresses Eva Le Gallienne and Uta Hagen, and modern dance under Ruth St. Denis.

Church Plans World Work Camp Setup

Church of God youth from 20 countries will participate next summer in a world work camp in the mountains of Lebanon, constructing a complex of buildings for use by young people of that nation.

Alan Egly, executive director of the sponsoring International Youth Fellowship of the Church of God, said the director will be named soon.

SMALLER SCALE

A world youth work camp, of smaller scale, is underway this month in Alberta, Canada, involving young men and women of eight nations. They will build a multipurpose building for use by Canadian church campers.

Plans for the Lebanese project have been completed in conferences here between Farris Hajjar and Rev. Fuoad Melki, of the Church of God in Beruit, with Egly and Dr. T. Franklin Miller, executive secretary of the national Board of Christian Education of the movement.

Scientific Fun On Vacation Is Suggested

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mix some scientific fun with the vacation when you take the youngsters down to the sea—or river, lake or pond.

Fishing teaches something. So does beachcombing. There's even something fascinating to be learned if all you can do is capture a bit of water, jar it and take it back home for a look-see under a play microscope.

Just consider the interests at the seashore, if variety's your child's spice of life.

Nearly every mile of the nation's 54,000 miles of tidal shoreline is a place of potential interest—where nature's great show goes on 'round the clock.

Where the land meets the sea, another world begins.

For information about how a child can pry into this never-ending drama of the sea and its life, we consulted with researchers at the Gilbert Hall of Science.

Surprisingly, it was found that equipment needed for young beachcombers is minimal: a pail, a few glass jars, a trowel, a spading fork, a kitchen knife and a magnifying glass.

A portable microscope, if powerful enough, will enable children to study small forms of sea life while they cavort in a few drops of seawater.

Inexpensive pocket-sized books on shore life and water creatures will help to identify what's found.

"Observation," reported the Gilbert scientists, "is the key to science and enjoying the new finds. Details of form and movement cannot be seen, however, unless your child watches carefully."

A sandy beach supports a different variety of plant and animal life than does a rocky beach or a mud flat. All are worthy of the youngster's attention. Wading out a bit, especially at low tide, helps to turn up other specimens.

Among things to look for are:

—Seaweed. There are more than 18,000 different kinds, each with different characteristics.

—Starfish, abundant on both Atlantic and Pacific coasts, wash up on the beach or are found in shallow tidal pools. Many youngsters like to dry starfish in the sun to preserve. Examination reveals why starfish is a majorenemy of shellfish. Most are spiny and have tiny pincers amid the spines and with from 5 to 10 arms. Wrapped around a clam, these feet with many small suction tubes force the clam open.

TO EXPLAIN BELIEF

Plays, Paintings Used In Church

NEW YORK (AP) — A young Presbyterian minister, who calls his belief "Christian Agnosticism" is using plays and abstract paintings in his work.

The Rev. William B. Glenesk of the Spencer Memorial Church in Brooklyn says "I am sure that God exists but I can't prove it—that's the agnostic element."

"To believe in God's existence is a matter of faith, but within the framework of this faith, there is this doubt as to the whereabouts of God," he added.

In an effort to re-affirm his own faith and that of his parishoners and in an attempt to discover more about God's manifestations in the world, Rev. Glenesk believes in experimentation.

EXPLORATORY

"It is an exploratory type of faith; faith grows with exposure. This is an old Greek idea, that is, to begin with things you don't know," he adds.

Because the Rev. Mr. Glenesk does not subscribe to a division between secular and religious activities but believes that everything is under God, he feels free to draw upon the greatest works of art and literature.

He has discussed modern and classic plays, the dance, and art in his sermons as examples of God's spirit at work.

"Hamlet" was used to explore the problems of personal freedom and pride; "King Lear," self discovery; "Death of a Salesman," self deception; "The Tenth Man," supernatural elements in the universe; and "Gideon," war between men.

MEDIUMS

After the sermons, there are seminars which at times include the Broadway actors who played leading parts. One of Glenesk's reasons for using literature is that "God speaks as strongly through the great poets and artists of today as through the prophets of yesterday."

He reports that his congregation, which numbers about 200 persons, has shown great interest in his new approach and that about 100 attend the Sunday services, of which an average 50 stay on for the seminars.

His views first became widely known last June 30 when he appeared on an early morning radio program and espoused "Christian agnosticism." Since then, he says, he has received about 100 calls, most of them favorable, but some bitterly critical.

The Rev. Mr. Glenesk does not believe his ideas are widely divergent with most of Christianity, except for his belief that God does not directly intervene in the lives of individuals aside from the laws he has set in motion for all mankind.

NEW SERIES

Today, he is starting a new series of sermon parables on "The Meaning of Man in Modern Art." He said he will bring paintings and some sculpture into church done by William Zorach on the subtopic "The taste for life." Zorach's style is in between cubism and representationalism.

William Bell Glenesk, 35, was born and raised in Toronto, Canada, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Glenesk still live.

He is a graduate of the University of Toronto and studied at the Toronto's Royal Conservatory of Music. He took a masters degree in ethics and literature at Columbia University where he studied under the noted theologian Paul Tillich. He says that he follows Tillich's ideas of "romantic existentialism."

He came to the Brooklyn church five years ago. In the meantime, he studied acting under actresses Eva Le Gallienne and Uta Hagen, and modern dance under Ruth St. Denis.

First Session Of New Church Group Is Held

The first meeting of the new Lutheran Church in Monroe-West Monroe, was held last Wednesday at the First Presbyterian Church in Monroe.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Five Designs Are Displayed

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

We can always depend on a beautiful flower show for our T.V. and Garden Center when Dr. John Wright brings us his monthly program on making and analyzing flower arrangements.

Dr. Wright, horticulture professor at Louisiana Tech, Ruston brought flowers from his own garden and made five outstanding arrangements which he analysed on the T.V. program last Wednesday. He used the red canna leaves, glads, celosia, and tritoma in these arrangements.

The tritoma (Kniphofia) sometimes called torch lily or poker-plant is quite unusual in form and color. The red brillance of color gave it the suitable name of torch lily or red hot poker.

Other colors are orange, yellow, and lime green. The ones from Dr. Wright's garden are yellow tipped with orange.

CONDITIONING

To condition this plant for arranging immerse the stems, but not the blossoms. To obtain cunning curves in the stems, immerse the stalks horizontally, turning the flower to the light, thus, inducing the stem to bend at any desired point. This flowering head on the stalks will rise to a height of four or five feet and take a prominent place in the garden.

Dr. Wright used the tritoma for the line material of his first arrangement. The gold into orange color blended perfectly with the container which was a new modern orange color trimmed in gold. For the focal interest he used deep yellow glads and orange glads placed in vertical rows within the main line of tritoma. For a filler, matching perfectly into the color scheme, he used the golden privet to the right side of the design. Quite lovely, and an eye - catcher.

CANNA FOLIAGE

In a low olive green bowl Dr. Wright used reddish - brown canna foliage for the line. These were placed in a tiered fashion. Deep red celosia was placed in a massed vertical line to form the secondary line and accent the focal, Dazzling white glads were placed last within the line on the right following the line of the canna leaves and massed near the base of the design. Dr. Wright demonstrated how to cut down a canna leaf when a smaller leaf is desired. This is good to know about — since often we desire smaller leaves in our arrangement to give proper balance. Cutting one is so simple to do when we know how to do it.

Another arrangement made by Dr. Wright featured light rose colored glads, massed to form the focal area. The dark brown compote container was a perfect color for this shade of rose in the glads and celosia. This particular shade of rose is quite elegant and could be used on formal tables with other fine materials such as roses an lilies. It is wonderful for the tea table or formal dinner.

CONTAINER

A small black footed container was used to hold the vertical line of deep rose celosia. One canna leaf (red) was used midway in this line to form a background for a mass of orange glad blossoms with their buds. This made a striking combination of color and would be quite attractive for the "welcome" arrangement on the hall table.

Castor bean foliage on a single stalk was used in an unusual manner by Dr. Wright who placed it in a needle point holder cup that had been placed to one side in a low rectangle woven reed tray. It resembled a tree. A long and down the "trunk" of this tree he placed the brilliant red glad buds. The open blossoms of the red glads along with white glads to continue the line of the design forming a triangle. White phlox were used to the left side of the red glads as a filler. By removing the second cup to the right the design was still lovely as a vertical Dr. Wright did this to demonstrate the two lines in this design. It was quite clever and very attractive. The umbrella effect of the tree suggested shade and coolness for a hot summer arrangement.

I know all of us have been admiring the beautiful fancy - leafed caladiums in the yards at present. Seems that they are lovlier this summer than ever before. Dr. Wright tells us that the caladiums (caladium bicolor) which we grow for the bright varigated foliage come in many patterns of green, white, pink and red. They grow well in fertile, well drained soil with an acid ph. Caladiums are referred to as shade loving plants. By "shade" is meant either filtered light or two or three hours of sun per day — preferably morning sun. Many people plant a wild mixture of colors and types, but, for best landscape effects, masses of one variety should be used.

TUBERS

Tubers are planted in the spring after the soil is warm or they may be started in clay or peat type pots and transplanted later. They should be well fed and watered during the growing season. Dr. Wright says that he removes the blossom stalks as they develop so that the plant food goes into the development of the showy leaves. When individual leaves become damaged, or discolor from age, they should be removed.

Caladiums add much color to a garden over a longer period of time than most flowering plants and are very valuable for this reason. The leaves may be removed freely for use as cut materials for the house or flower show.

In the fall the tubers should be taken up and stored at 60 degrees F. Before storing allow them to dry for a few days until the soil shakes off easily. An open shelf would serve as a good place for storing, or set in layers of (dry) vermiculite in a carton or they may be stored in mesh bags or old nylon stockings and hung in a place where the temperature is all right. Some of the commonly named varieties are: Candidium—white leaves with green veins; Edith Mead — white leaves, red ribs, green edges; Itacapus — rust -red bordered green and white with red dots; Keystone — green leaves, pink ribs and spots; Macahyba—moss green, mottled with lilac; Sorocaba — silver - pink and white with green ribs; Thomas Tomlinson — crimson with green edges.

Our next program will be given by the Dixieland Daylily Society. We are in for a big treat because Mrs. R. C. Pittard, a member of this society and well known for her daylilies, will be our guest.

'GROWING CLOSENESS'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — On becoming Roman Catholic bishop of Kansas City-St. Joseph, Mo., recently, the Most Rev. Charles H. Helmsing received a note from the Protestant Episcopal Bishop of West Missouri, the Rt. Rev. Edward R. Welles, saying in part:

"You cathedral and mine, both built in the last century, are separated by only one city block. During the 12 years of my episcopate some of the buildings between have been torn down so that the two cathedrals seem closer than they were. I pray that this may be but an omen of the growing closeness of us all . . ."

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Add Blues To Colors

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

In many yards and gardens throughout the south in early summer, fine specimens of blue lavender vitex and the really blue hydrangeas can be seen.

No one seems to realize what beautiful color combinations these "blue" shrubs make when some of thé orange flowered shrubs and perennials are planted near them. Blue-and-yellow and blue-and-orange combinations are not easy to come by in the south because we lack delphiniums and some other blue perennials. We can, however, use what we do have to produce some beautiful effects.

POMEGRANATES

Pomegranates bloom with vitex. So does the common orange day lily. Since vitex blooms for well over a month, most of the earlier and mid-season daylilies will bloom with it. The combination of deep blue violet vitex and yellows or oranges is truly delightful and certainly a relief from the fiery reds and oranges of this time of the year.

Of course, vitex is beautiful,too, in contrast to the pink and the red crape myrtles. It even looks good next to the old-fashioned purple crape myrtles.

Pink and blue hydrangeas are magnificent in sun or shade. They are especially useful in shady places, however, because so few shrubs will flower profusely in shade. Where it is not densely shaded, daylilies are accomodating enough to bloom right with the hydrangeas. Like vitex, blue hydrangeas have a long season of bloom and so flower right with many of the daylilies. Yellow or orange daylilies planted with blue hydrangeas produce a color combination that is very satisfying.

EASILY MANAGED

Vitex, hydrangeas, daylilies and pomegranates are all easily transplanted and easily managed plants. It is strange indeed that we see all of these component parts of a beautiful color scheme often growing right in the same front yard, but so far apart from each other that no color effect is obtained at all. It is certainly easy to move a few clumps of orange or yellow daylilies to your vitex or hydrangeas. Once you have made this combination, you will never be without it.

Daylilies can be used to make striking color combinations with the common and easy-to-grow salvia farinacea and also with agapanthuses of all kinds. The blue - violet agapanthuses from South Africa are beginning to appear all over the south since Mr. Giridlian of Oakhurst Gardens at Arcadia, California began to develop these superb perennials some years ago and offer them in his catalogue. Since anything blue that will grow in southern gardens interests your columnist, experiments with agapanthuses were started about 15 years ago, and the results are reported to you in columns from time to time.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Most amateurs envy professional news photographers and wish that they, too, could be present at public events to meet and photograph well - known celebrities and newsworthy activities.

Recently I had the opportunity to participate in such an event and discovered anew that a press photographer's lot is a never-ceasing job of constant alertness, complete mastery of one or more cameras, agility and endurance.

The occasion was a trip to Mason City, Iowa, the scene of a big event for a small town. A double-barreled celebration was taking place: the town's annual High School Marching Band Competition and the world premiere of a new movie, "The Music Man," by Meredith Willson, a local boy who had made good.

The two - day festival brought out Iowa's top dignitaries, Gov. and Mrs. Norman Erbe and Sens. Bourke Hickenlooper and Jack Miller. The principal stars of the film, Robert Preston and Shirley Jones, and many other celebrities were also present to pay tribute to Meredith Willson and to his home town, locale of the stage and film story.

I juggled three different cameras in an attempt to photograph the main activities in 35 mm color slides, in 2¼x2¼ black-and-white and in Kodacolor prints. It was a good way, I discovered, in shifting from camera to camera while they hung around my neck, to strangle oneself with twisted neckstraps!

ALERTNESS VITAL

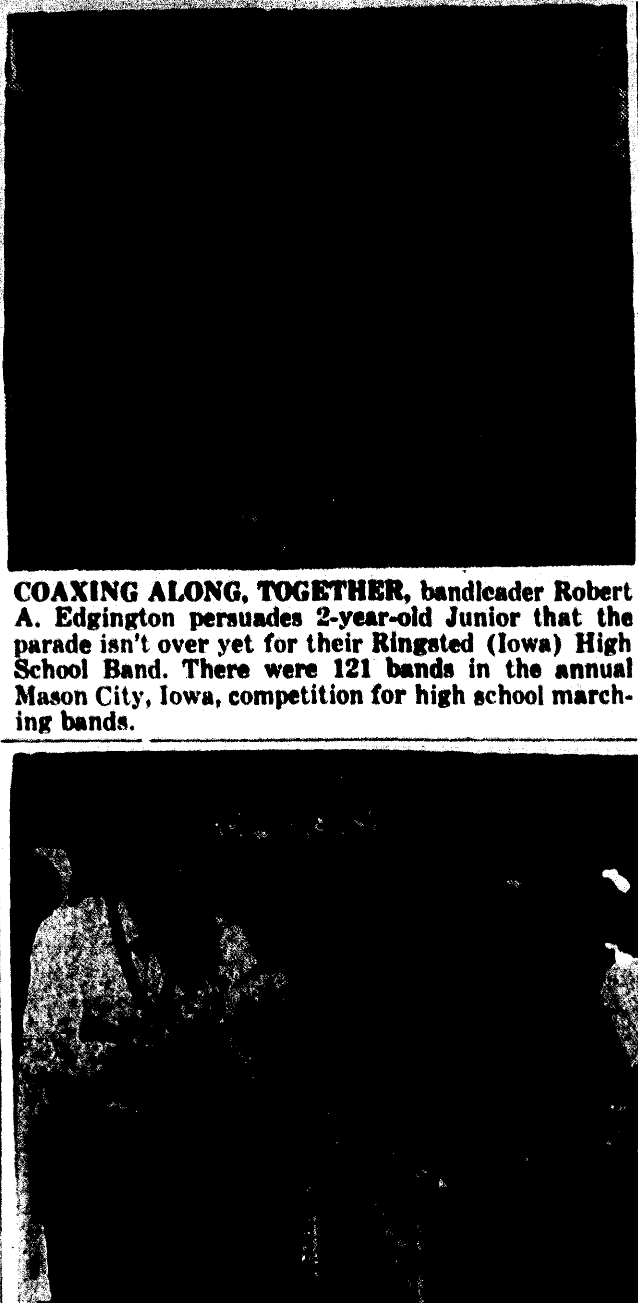
Alertness is vital because things happen so fast that one must keep alert or a picture opportunity may be lost forever. Or, worse luck, it may show up in a competitor's publication.

Complete mastery of the cameras and knowledge of photographic techniques is essential because there is no time to worry about what to do. There is only the urgency of picturing what is happening at that instant and the necessity of preparing for the next picture if it should take place the following instant.

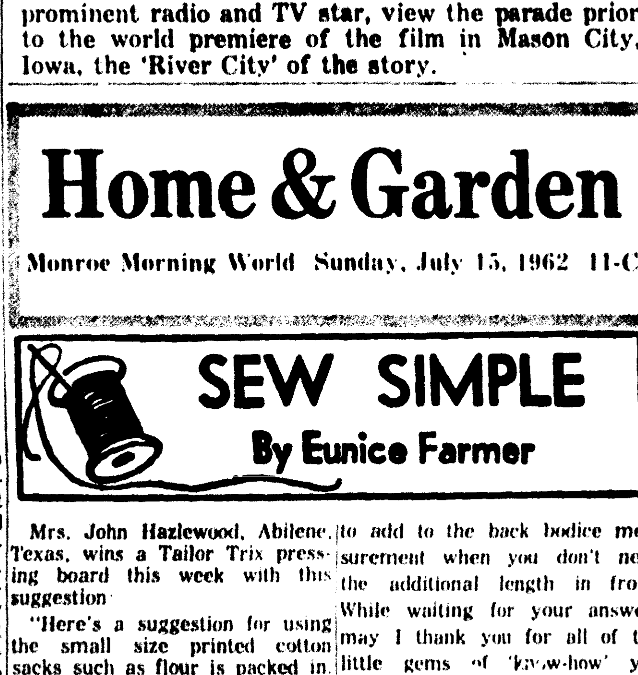
Agility and endurance are necessary because news events are rarely static. The press photographer is on the go, must anticipate action and be there at its peak and then go on to another angle. He may carry several cameras and accessories and may have to run, climb or hurdle objects while hanging on to the equipment.

At the same time, the press photographer must contend with constant foe: Time! News is a perishable, competitive commodity. A press cameraman must get his pictures processed, printed and in the hands of his home office while the subject is still news.

Something all amateur photographers should remember if they come across a newsworthy event first: contact the nearest newspaper or Associated Press office immediately and make arrangements for fastest delivery of undeveloped negatives.



COAXING ALONG, TOGETHER, bandleader Robert A. Edgington persuades 2-year-old Junior that the parade isn't over yet for their Ringsted (Iowa) High School Band. There were 121 bands in the annual Mason City, Iowa, competition for high school marching bands.



CELEBRITIES, Robert Preston and Shirley Jones, stars of "The Music Man," and Arthur Godfrey, prominent radio and TV star, view the parade prior to the world premiere of the film in Mason City, Iowa, the 'River City' of the story.

Potted Plants Popularity Is On Increase

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) —For the homeowner who is dismayed to find that acquisition of a house does not necessarialy confer membership in the green thumb fraternity "portable gardening" may prove a lifesaver.

Sales of potted plants have climbed more than 100 per cent in the past 10 years of expanding home construction and one important reason is the adaptability of both foliage and flowering plants for indoor and outdoor decoration, according to the Clay Post Manufacturers Association, whose members make more than 150 million porous clay flower pots annually.

DOUBLE DUTY

The clay flower pot producers emphasize that house plants can perform this double decorative duty and provide portable beauty the year round, if you care for them properly and use them wisely to enhance terraces, patios and outdoor landscapes, as well as to beautify interiors.

The mid-summer flower border, difficult for the best of gardeners, can have the professional touch with potted blooms from your local grower.

CHANGE OF SETTING

Plants which spend their winters indoors—where, incidentally, they not only beautify, but help to alleviate "dry heat" punishment to humans and home furnishings alike — generally can spend the summer outdoors.

They can summer over right in their pots, if they are the porous red clay containers which permit proper exchange of air and moisture and permit the plant to breathe.

Sun-loving plants like cacti and geraniums and the shade-loving ones such as begonias, fuchsias, ferns, patience plants and foliage plants should be grouped together, with the latter placed where they will receive filtered shade, under a tree, or near a fence or wall.

Several clay potted geraniums can be planted in a large flower box, victorian urn or terrace planter, as well as in a flower bed or along its borders. If these locations are shady, use fushsias instead.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Mrs. John Hazlewood, Abilene, Texas, wins a Tailor Trix pressing board this week with this suggestion:

"Here's a suggestion for using the small size printed cotton sacks such as flour is packed in. When a number of these squares are sewn together, they can be made into very cute 'hobo' pajamas for children. My children and their friends are delighted with them."

"Dear Eunice Farmer

"When making muslin ruffled curtains, which way do I cut the material, lengthwise or crosswise, so the ruffles will fall the nicest?"

MRS. F.J.

Dear Mrs. F.J

You must cut your material from selvage to selvage, instead of using one strip the length of the selvage. If you are making the curtains from sheets, you would still cut your strips from side to side, instead of using the length of the sheet. Your fabric will gather easier and hang much nicer when cut this way. The same rule holds true when cutting fabric for a gathered skirt. The exception would be a border print, which would have to be cut the opposite way.

MENDING TIP

A "tip" for busy housewives and mothers from a Sew Simple fan:

"Always keep some mending near the telephone, along with your box of sewing supplies. It is surprising how much can be accomplished while you are having a telephone conversation during the day. It is a little easier to work with both hands free if you have a 'rest' for your phone."

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

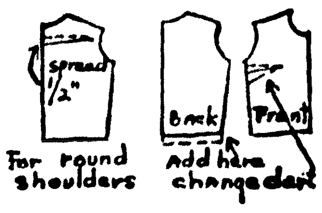
"You promised to tell us how to add to the back bodice measurement when you don't need the additional length in front. While waiting for your answer, may I thank you for all of the little gems of 'know-how' you have passed along to us."

Mrs. G.W.F.

LONGER DART

Dear Mrs. G.W.F.:

There are two major reasons why the bodice back would be longer than the front. One would be poor posture, which would require one kind of adjustment. The other reason would be a figure that is not very large in the bust. You would lengthen the bodice back the required amount, then in order to make the side seams come out even, make the underarm dart a little SMALLER. This will drop the side front seam down the needed amount.



YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY:

Cotton ottoman. A heavy corded fabric with larger and rounder ribs than faille. It is woven with horizontal or diagonal ribs. Ottoman is used today for costume suits and coats. It can be laundered like any other cotton fabric.

Please send your questions to Sew Simple, in care of this paper. Your letters cannot be answered personally. However those of the most general interest will be answered in the column. If your question is not answered in time for your current garment, you can use it for the next.

If you'd like answers to the 20 most frequently asked questions, send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them to Eunice Farmer, in care of Monroe Morning World.

Stamp News

In an attempt to let its voice be known to other nations of the world, Ghana has issued a new set of stamps entitled "World without the Bomb." The stamp issuance coincides with a meeting in Accra, captial of Ghana, in which various countries — from Africa, Asia and Latin America — will be represented.

One stamp will feature an allegorical design showing five hands representing five continents at peace. Another stamp depicts an atom bomb blast in the form of a death skull. The third stamp is highlighted by a Peace Dove. All are multicolored.

The U. S. Post Office Department has announced that the new edition of the popular publication "Postage Stamps of the U. S. 1847-1961" will be available Aug. 1.

The new edition, priced at $1.25, embraces all U.S. issues from 1847 through the 4 cent Nursing commemorative stamp placed on sale Dec. 28, 1961. In addition to the illustrations and descriptions, there are tables showing designers, engravers, first - day sites and dates.

All mail orders for this booklet should be addressed to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C., and should be accompanied by a money order or check.

Iran has issued two new stamps of identical design to commemorate the 15th anniversary of UNESCO. The stamps show the UNESCO emblem on a background formed by the Iranian national colors of green, white and red. The values are 2 Rials for international postage. Also appearing on the stamp is an inscription "15th Anniversary of UNESCO Foundation."

The Australian Postal Administration reports that two new stamps have been issued for Norfolk Island. The stamps — 6 pence and 1 shilling — portray fish of Norfolk Island waters. The 6 pence will depict the fish unknown locally as "Tweed Trousers." The 1 shilling stamp features a fish known as "Po'ov." The stamps will become part of the definitive series replacing similar denominations in the 1947 design.

Rail Station Revamped To House Autos

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) —The automobile business, troublesome for the nation's railroads for nearly half a century, is moving into a railroad station here in a manner that may even revolutionize itself.

Workmen are busy transforming the former New York Central railroad station into a huge automobile service shopping center where the one-stop shopper can have any type of service performed on his car, regardless of make. He can get anything from a windshield wiper to a paint job to an insurance policy.

White-jacketed attendants will give automobiles a push - button physical examination in this "Mayo clinic of the automobile business," reports Anthony Bersani, a Syracuse real estate man who originated the idea.

Bersani expects his 1.5 milllion midtown car center to be open for business by the first of the year.

If it succeeds, and gets national acceptance, it could virtually revolutionize automobile servicing. Its effect might be profound on automotive merchandising, as well since many car agencies depend on service department revenue for their financial well-being.

Bersani purchased the station, vacant since the New York Central moved its passenger terminal to East Syracuse a few months ago, and is converting it into a complex of individual service, maintenance and repair shops.

Architects' plans call for remodeling the barnlike terminal building to contain a high-speed automatic car laundry, office space and automobile showrooms.

Mulch Plants This Month

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you have not mulched your plants, better do so before hot dry August arrives. Mulch will save watering and if summer weather runs true, the month of August will be dry.

There are ever so many mulches that you, Mrs. Gardener, may use pine straw, oak leaves, peat moss, or sawdust. Use at least three inches of mulch in flower beds. Mulch not only conserves moisture, but discourages weeds and grass.

This is the month to make azaleas and camellia cuttings. Use current season's growth three to six inches long. Remove all leaves except two or three at the tip end. Set in beds or rows in partial shade, or even in fruit jars. Keep well watered, but not soaking wet.

AIR LAYERING.

Another method used to propagate camellias and azaleas is the air layering. A portion of the branch or stem in air layering is girdled and kept covered by moist moss until roots form.

Check your azaleas and camellias for red spider. To control, dust frequently with sulphur. If the leaves become somewhat yellowish and sticky in color, this is a fairly good reason for suspecting this pest of doing the dirty work. Dusting sulphur will somewhat lessen petal blight of azaleas during the summer.

HOME GARDEN WEEK

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are planning to attend Home and Garden Week on LSU campus the week of August 19-23, you will be interested in the latest information which I received regarding the Home Economic section. Rita Ford, from a pattern company in New York, will tell about "The Selection of Pattern and Fabric for a Flattering Effect." Emphasis will be given on important points to consider in choosing the correct line, color and textures for a pleasing look. Garments will be shown to illustrate current fabric and fashion trends, effect of line, color and texture.

Mamie Hardy, Home Economist from National Cotton Council, Memphis, Tennessee, will give information on the, "New Performance Cotton."

If you are interested in the newer developments in fabrics and other materials, used in clothing and house furnishings, you will want to hear Beth Peterson, Home Economics from Wilmington, Delaware. The title of her program, "New Directions in Clothing and House Furnishings."

Jim Lucas of Zuland, Michigan, will discuss House Furnishings and your Environment".

These are just some of the topics you will learn about in attending Home and Garden Week. This event is open to all homemakers and you will be housed in one of the doritories on LSU campus, free of charge. Meals can be bought in one of the cafeterias on the campus.

I will inform you more about Home and Garden Week later, so make your plans now to attend August 19-23.

ICE CREAM

Ice cream will keep its fresh quality in the home freezer if stored at a uniform temperature of zero degree F or below and if it is protected from melting in transferring it from the store to the home freezer. Ice cream that sells in ordinary waxed cardboard cartons will keep its quality longer in home freezers if the carton is given an overwrap of heavy foil. Best storage conditions were found in the lower level of freezer cabinets.

POLISHING FURNITURE

Here's some good advice to you, Mrs. Homemaker, in polishing your furniture. The best advice is to get the instructions for caring of furniture when you make the purchase of the furniture. Much of present day furniture never needs wax. The finish includes ingredients that make it possible to wipe the surface with a damp cloth. Polishing furniture every few weeks doesn't help. Twice a year should be enough. Wood experts warn that some easy to dry polish forms a permanent film almost impossible to remove on the orginial finish.

In cleaning furniture our Home Management Specialist, Mrs. Celia Hissong, advises starting with warm soap and water and a soft cloth. Follow with clear water. Dry then, apply a good paste wax and polish. Oiled walnut finishes are generally cleaned with boiled linseed oil.

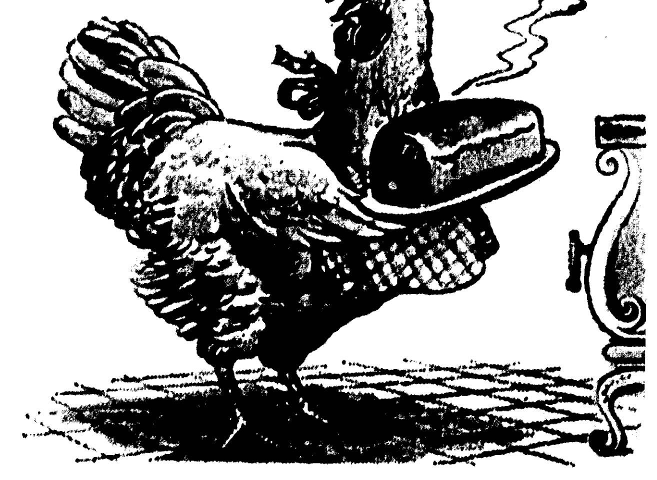
Who will eat my bread?



Remember the Little Red Hen who asked for help in planting, harvesting, and grinding her wheat? No one would help so she did the work herself. But when she asked "Who will eat my bread? . . . they were all willing to assist.

Louisiana people find food for thought in this familiar nursery tale. Back when our rural community had no electricity poles had to be set and the lines strung to pierce the darkness. No one was willing to do the work so rural people formed electric cooperatives and built their own electric systems. But now that the hard work has been done would you deny these democratic institutions the fruits of their labors?

We feel that the locally owned, Louisiana Electric Cooperatives should harvest the fields they have been cultivating for two decades. The Electric Cooperatives of Louisiana brought a new way of life to our rural community. . . . . . . They should continue to serve the areas they helped to develop.

When individual leaves become damaged, or discolor from age, they should be removed.

Caladiums add much color to a garden over a longer period of time than most flowering plants and are very valuable for this reason. The leaves may be removed freely for use as cut materials for the house or flower show.

In the fall the tubers should be taken up and stored at 60 degrees F. Before storing allow them to dry for a few days until the soil shakes off easily. An open shelf would serve as a good place for storing, or set in layers of (dry) vermiculite in a carton or they may be stored in mesh bags or old nylon stockings and hung in a place where the temperature is all right. Some of the commonly named varieties are: Candidium—white leaves with green veins; Edith Mead — white leaves, red ribs, green edges; Itacapus — rust -red bordered green and white with red dots; Keystone — green leaves, pink ribs and spots; Macahyba—moss green, mottled with lilac; Sorocaba — silver - pink and white with green ribs; Thomas Tomlinson — crimson with green edges.

Our next program will be given by the Dixieland Daylily Society. We are in for a big treat because Mrs. R. C. Pittard, a member of this society and well known for her daylilies, will be our guest.

'GROWING CLOSENESS'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — On becoming Roman Catholic bishop of Kansas City-St. Joseph, Mo., recently, the Most Rev. Charles H. Helmsing received a note from the Protestant Episcopal Bishop of West Missouri, the Rt. Rev. Edward R. Welles, saying in part:

"You cathedral and mine, both built in the last century, are separated by only one city block. During the 12 years of my episcopate some of the buildings between have been torn down so that the two cathedrals seem closer than they were. I pray that this may be but an omen of the growing closeness of us all . . ."

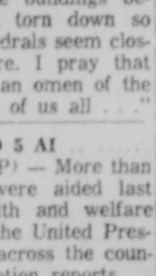
SOUTHERN GARDENER

Add Blues To Colors



By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

In many yards and gardens throughout the south in early summer, fine specimens of blue lavender vitex and the really blue hydrangeas can be seen.

No one seems to realize what beautiful color combinations these "blue" shrubs make when some of the orange flowered shrubs and perennials are planted near them. Blue-and-yellow and blue-and-orange combinations are not easy to come by in the south because we lack delphiniums and some other blue perennials. We can, however, use what we do have to produce some beautiful effects.

POMEGRANATES

Pomegranates bloom with vitex. So does the common orange day lily. Since vitex blooms for well over a month, most of the earlier and mid-season daylilies will bloom with it. The combination of deep blue violet vitex and yellows or oranges is truly delightful and certainly a relief from the fiery reds and oranges of this time of the year.

Of course, vitex is beautiful, too, in contrast to the pink and the red crape myrtles. It even looks good next to the old-fashioned purple crape myrtles.

Pink and blue hydrangeas are magnificent in sun or shade. They are especially useful in shady places, however, because so few shrubs will flower profusely in shade. Where it is not densely shaded, daylilies are accomodating enough to bloom right with the hydrangeas. Like vitex, blue hydrangeas have a long season of bloom and so flower right with many of the daylilies. Yellow or orange daylilies planted with blue hydrangeas produce a color combination that is very satisfying.

EASILY MANAGED

Vitex, hydrangeas, daylilies and pomegranates are all easily transplanted and easily managed plants. It is strange indeed that we see all of these component parts of a beautiful color scheme often growing right in the same front yard, but so far apart from each other that no color effect is obtained at all. It is certainly easy to move a few clumps of orange or yellow daylilies to your vitex or hydrangeas. Once you have made this combination, you will never be without it.

Daylilies can be used to make striking color combinations with the common and easy-to-grow salvia farinacea and also with agapanthuses of all kinds. The blue - violet agapanthuses from South Africa are beginning to appear all over the south since Mr. Giridlian of Oakhurst Gardens at Arcadia, California began to develop these superb perennials some years ago and offer them in his catalogue. Since anything blue that will grow in southern gardens interests your columnist, experiments with agapanthuses were started about 15 years ago, and the results are reported to you in columns from time to time.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Most amateurs envy professional news photographers and wish that they, too, could be present at public events to meet and photograph well - known celebrities and newsworthy activities.

Recently I had the opportunity to participate in such an event and discovered anew that a press photographer's lot is a never-ceasing job of constant alertness, complete mastery of one or more cameras, agility and endurance.

The occasion was a trip to Mason City, Iowa, the scene of a big event for a small town. A double-barreled celebration was taking place: the town's annual High School Marching Band Competition and the world premiere of a new movie, "The Music Man," by Meredith Willson, a local boy who had made good.

The two - day festival brought out Iowa's top dignitaries, Gov. and Mrs. Norman Erbe and Sens. Bourke Hickenlooper and Jack Miller. The principal stars of the film, Robert Preston and Shirley Jones, and many other celebrities were also present to pay tribute to Meredith Willson and to his home town, locale of the stage and film story.

I juggled three different cameras in an attempt to photograph the main activities in 35 mm color slides, in 2¼x2¼ black-and-white and in Kodacolor prints. It was a good way, I discovered, in shifting from camera to camera while they hung around my neck, to strangle oneself with twisted neckstraps!

ALERTNESS VITAL

Alertness is vital because things happen so fast that one must keep alert or a picture opportunity may be lost forever. Or, worse luck, it may show up in a competitor's publication.

Complete mastery of the cameras and knowledge of photographic techniques is essential because there is no time to worry about what to do. There is only the urgency of picturing what is happening at that instant and the necessity of preparing for the next picture if it should take place the following instant.

Agility and endurance are necessary because news events are rarely static. The press photographer is on the go, must anticipate action and be there at its peak and then go on to another angle. He may carry several cameras and accessories and may have to run, climb or hurdle objects while hanging on to the equipment.

At the same time, the press photographer must contend with constant foe: Time! News is a perishable, competitive commodity. A press cameraman must get his pictures processed, printed and in the hands of his home office while the subject is still news.

Something all amateur photographers should remember if they come across a newsworthy event first: contact the nearest newspaper or Associated Press office immediately and make arrangements for fastest delivery of undeveloped negatives.

Potted Plants Popularity Is On Increase

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) —For the homeowner who is dismayed to find that acquisition of a house does not necessarialy confer membership in the green thumb fraternity "portable gardening" may prove a lifesaver.

Sales of potted plants have climbed more than 100 per cent in the past 10 years of expanding home construction and one important reason is the adaptability of both foliage and flowering plants for indoor and outdoor decoration, according to the Clay Post Manufacturers Association, whose members make more than 150 million porous clay flower pots annually.

DOUBLE DUTY

The clay flower pot producers emphasize that house plants can perform this double decorative duty and provide portable beauty the year round, if you care for them properly and use them wisely to enhance terraces, patios and outdoor landscapes, as well as to beautify interiors.

The mid-summer flower border, difficult for the best of gardeners, can have the professional touch with potted blooms from your local grower.

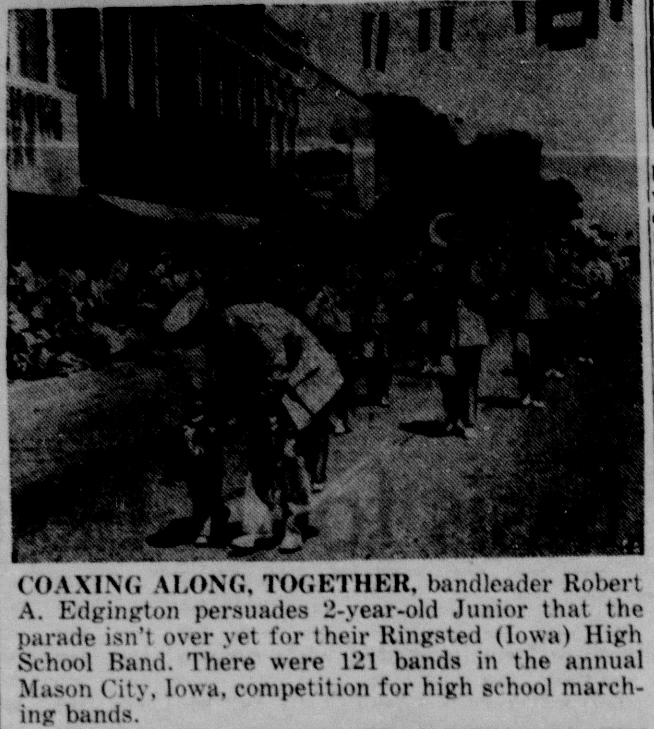
CHANGE OF SETTING

Plants which spend their winters indoors—where, incidentally, they not only beautify, but help to alleviate "dry heat" punishment to humans and home furnishings alike — generally can spend the summer outdoors.

They can summer over right in their pots, if they are the porous red clay containers which permit proper exchange of air and moisture and permit the plant to breathe.

Sun-loving plants like cacti and geraniums and the shade-loving ones such as begonias, fuchsias, ferns, patience plants and foliage plants should be grouped together, with the latter placed where they will receive filtered shade, under a tree, or near a fence or wall.

Several clay potted geraniums can be planted in a large flower box, victorian urn or terrace planter, as well as in a flower bed or along its borders. If these locations are shady, use fushsias instead.



COAXING ALONG, TOGETHER, bandleader Robert A. Edgington persuades 2-year-old Junior that the parade isn't over yet for their Ringsted (Iowa) High School Band. There were 121 bands in the annual Mason City, Iowa, competition for high school marching bands.

CELEBRITIES, Robert Preston and Shirley Jones, stars of "The Music Man," and Arthur Godfrey, prominent radio and TV star, view the parade prior to the world premiere of the film in Mason City, Iowa, the 'River City' of the story.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Mrs. John Hazlewood, Abilene, Texas, wins a Tailor Trix pressing board this week with this suggestion:

"Here's a suggestion for using the small size printed cotton sacks such as flour is packed in. When a number of these squares are sewn together, they can be made into very cute 'hobo' pajamas for children. My children and their friends are delighted with them."

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"When making muslin ruffled curtains, which way do I cut the material, lengthwise or crosswise, so the ruffles will fall the nicest?"

MRS. F.J.

Dear Mrs. F.J.:

You must cut your material from selvage to selvage, instead of using one strip the length of the selvage. If you are making the curtains from sheets, you would still cut your strips from side to side, instead of using the length of the sheet. Your fabric will gather easier and hang much nicer when cut this way. The same rule holds true when cutting fabric for a gathered skirt. The exception would be a border print, which would have to be cut the opposite way.

MENDING TIP

A "tip" for busy housewives and mothers from a Sew Simple fan:

"Always keep some mending near the telephone, along with your box of sewing supplies. It is surprising how much can be accomplished while you are having a telephone conversation during the day. It is a little easier to work with both hands free if you have a 'rest' for your phone."

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

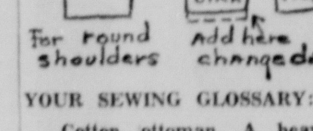
"You promised to tell us how to add to the back bodice measurement when you don't need the additional length in front. While waiting for your answer, may I thank you for all of the little gems of 'know-how' you have passed along to us."

Mrs. G.W.F.

LONGER DART

Dear Mrs. G.W.F.:

There are two major reasons why the bodice back would be longer than the front. One would be poor posture, which would require one kind of adjustment. The other reason would be a figure that is not very large in the bust. You would lengthen the bodice back the required amount, then in order to make the side seams come out even, make the underarm dart a little SMALLER. This will drop the side front seam down the needed amount.



YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY:

Cotton ottoman. A heavy corded fabric with larger and rounder ribs than faille. It is woven with horizontal or diagonal ribs. Ottoman is used today for costume suits and coats. It can be laundered like any other cotton fabric.

Please send your questions to Sew Simple, in care of this paper. Your letters cannot be answered personally. However those of the most general interest will be answered in the column. If your question is not answered in time for your current garment, you can use it for the next.

If you'd like answers to the 20 most frequently asked questions, send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them to Eunice Farmer, in care of Monroe Morning World.

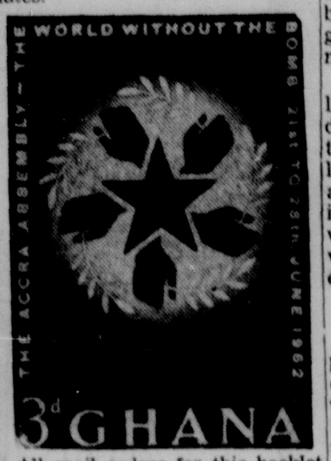
Stamp News

In an attempt to let its voice be known to other nations of the world, Ghana has issued a new set of stamps entitled "World without the Bomb." The stamp issuance coincides with a meeting in Accra, captial of Ghana, in which various countries — from Africa, Asia and Latin America — will be represented.

One stamp will feature an allegorical design showing five hands representing five continents at peace. Another stamp depicts an atom bomb blast in the form of a death skull. The third stamp is highlighted by a Peace Dove. All are multicolored.

The U. S. Post Office Department has announced that the new edition of the popular publication "Postage Stamps of the U. S. 1847-1961" will be available Aug. 1.

The new edition, priced at $1.25, embraces all U.S. issues from 1847 through the 4 cent Nursing commemorative stamp placed on sale Dec. 28, 1961. In addition to the illustrations and descriptions, there are tables showing designers, engravers, first - day sites and dates.



All mail orders for this booklet should be addressed to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C., and should be accompanied by a money order or check.

Iran has issued two new stamps of identical design to commemorate the 15th anniversary of UNESCO. The stamps show the UNESCO emblem on a background formed by the Iranian national colors of green, white and red. The values are 2 Rials for international postage. Also appearing on the stamp is an inscription "15th Anniversary of UNESCO Foundation."

The Australian Postal Administration reports that two new stamps have been issued for Norfolk Island. The stamps — 6 pence and 1 shilling — portray fish of Norfolk Island waters. The 6 pence will depict the fish unknown locally as "Tweed Trousers." The 1 shilling stamp features a fish known as "Po'ov." The stamps will become part of the definitive series replacing similar denominations in the 1947 design.

Rail Station Revamped To House Autos

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) —The automobile business, troublesome for the nation's railroads for nearly half a century, is moving into a railroad station here in a manner that may even revolutionize itself.

Workmen are busy transforming the former New York Central railroad station into a huge automobile service shopping center where the one-stop shopper can have any type of service performed on his car, regardless of make. He can get anything from a windshield wiper to a paint job to an insurance policy.

White-jacketed attendants will give automobiles a push - button physical examination in this "Mayo clinic of the automobile business," reports Anthony Bersani, a Syracuse real estate man who originated the idea.

Bersani expects his 1.5 million midtown car center to be open for business by the first of the year.

If it succeeds, and gets national acceptance, it could virtually revolutionize automobile servicing. Its effect might be profound on automotive merchandising, as well since many car agencies depend on service department revenue for their financial well-being.

Bersani purchased the station, vacant since the New York Central moved its passenger terminal to East Syracuse a few months ago, and is converting it into a complex of individual service, maintenance and repair shops.

Architects' plans call for remodeling the barnlike terminal building to contain a high-speed automatic car laundry, office space and automobile showrooms.

Mulch Plants This Month

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you have not mulched your plants, better do so before hot dry August arrives. Mulch will save watering and if summer weather runs true, the month of August will be dry.

There are ever so many mulches that you, Mrs. Gardener, may use pine straw, oak leaves, peat moss, or sawdust. Use at least three inches of mulch in flower beds. Mulch not only conserves moisture, but discourages weeds and grass.

This is the month to make azaleas and camellia cuttings. Use current season's growth three to six inches long. Remove all leaves except two or three at the tip end. Set in beds or rows in partial shade, or even in fruit jars. Keep well watered, but not soaking wet.

AIR LAYERING.

Another method used to propagate camellias and azaleas is the air layering. A portion of the branch or stem in air layering is girdled and kept covered by moist moss until roots form.

Check your azaleas and camellias for red spider. To control, dust frequently with sulphur. If the leaves become somewhat yellowish and sticky in color, this is a fairly good reason for suspecting this pest of doing the dirty work. Dusting sulphur will somewhat lessen petal blight of azaleas during the summer.

HOME GARDEN WEEK

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are planning to attend Home and Garden Week on LSU campus the week of August 19-23, you will be interested in the latest information which I received regarding the Home Economic section. Rita Ford, from a pattern company in New York, will tell about "The Selection of Pattern and Fabric for a Flattering Effect." Emphasis will be given on important points to consider in choosing the correct line, color and textures for a becoming effect. Garments will be shown to illustrate current fabric and fashion trends, effect of line, color and texture.

Mamie Hardy, Home Economist from National Cotton Council, Memphis, Tennessee, will give information on the, "New Performance Cotton."

If you are interested in the newer developments in fabrics and other materials, used in clothing and house furnishings, you will want to hear Beth Peterson, Home Economics from Wilmington, Delaware. The title of her program, "New Directions in Clothing and House Furnishings."

Jim Lucas of Zuland, Michigan, will discuss House Furnishings and your Environment".

These are just some of the topics you will learn about in attending Home and Garden Week. This event is open to all homemakers and you will be housed in one of the doritories on LSU campus, free of charge. Meals can be bought in one of the cafeterias on the campus.

I will inform you more about Home and Garden Week later, so make your plans now to attend August 19-23.

ICE CREAM

Ice cream will keep its fresh quality in the home freezer if stored at a uniform temperature of zero degree F or below and if it is protected from melting in transferring it from the store to the home freezer. Ice cream that sells in ordinary waxed cardboard cartons will keep its quality longer in home freezers if the carton is given an overwrap of heavy foil. Best storage conditions were found in the lower level of freezer cabinets.

POLISHING FURNITURE

Here's some good advice to you, Mrs. Homemaker, in polishing your furniture. The best advice is to get the instructions for caring of furniture when you make the purchase of the furniture. Much of present day furniture never needs wax. The finish includes ingredients that make it possible to wipe the surface with a damp cloth. Polishing furniture every few weeks doesn't help. Twice a year should be enough. Wood experts warn that some easy to dry polish forms a permanent film almost impossible to remove on the orginial finish.

In cleaning furniture our Home Management Specialist, Mrs. Celia Hissong, advises starting with warm soap and water and a soft cloth. Follow with clear water. Dry then, apply a good paste wax and polish. Oiled walnut finishes are generally cleaned with boiled linseed oil.

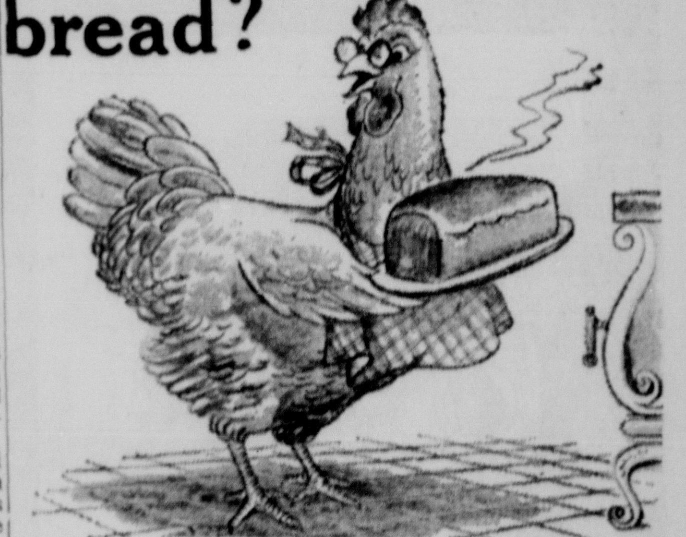
Who will eat my bread?



Remember the Little Red Hen who asked for help in planting, harvesting, and grinding her wheat? No one would help so she did the work herself. But when she asked "Who will eat my bread? . . . they were all willing to assist.

Louisiana people find food for thought in this familiar nursery tale. Back when our rural community had no electricity, poles had to be set and the lines strung to pierce the darkness. No one was willing to do the work so rural people formed electric cooperatives and built their own electric systems. But now that the hard work has been done would you deny these democratic institutions the fruits of their labors?

We feel that the locally owned, Louisiana Electric Cooperatives should harvest the fields they have been cultivating for two decades. The Electric Cooperatives of Louisiana brought a new way of life to our rural community. . . . . . They should continue to serve the areas they helped to develop.

UNEXPECTED DIVIDEND

FBI Tours Help To Nab Fugitives

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A pretty young nurse on her honeymoon stared hard at a black-and-white photograph for several minutes before declaring firmly: "That's the man."

Her words led to the arrest and conviction of one of the FBI's "10 most wanted"—a sex killer now serving a double life term for the rape-murder of a St. Paul, Minn., social worker.

The bride, Mrs. Harold L. Carlson of St. Paul, proved to be an unexpected dividend from the FBI's 25-year-old program for guiding tourists through its exhibit room, laboratory and firing range.

She was one of hundreds of persons who toured the FBI last Oct. 13 and were routinely shown the mug shots of the 10 leading federal fugitives.

To her surprise—and the FBI's delight—she spotted a neighbor's familiar face. It was that of Hugh Bion Morse, wanted for assault to commit murder in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Carlson informed special agents that he was living under an assumed name in a St. Paul rooming house. Morse, arrested a few hours later when word of his hideout was flashed to Minnesota, bragged about committing several murders.

That long distance identification was one of the most dramatic episodes since the FBI began taking visitors on tours in 1937.

An estimated 6 million persons have completed the tour since then. The 425,000 who visited FBI headquarters last year added up to a record high. Officials estimate that 50,000 visitors showed up in the two weeks before and after Easter.

They got to see FBI technicians at work in the world's leading crime detection laboratory and FBI sharpshooters blast silhouette targets with sub-machine guns and .38 revolvers. Vivid exhibits recall the gangsters of the 1930's, the Rosenberg spy case, the Brinks' robbery and the 1955 dynamiting of an airliner over Colorado by John Gilbert Graham.

A selected group of about 90 young men in clerical jobs with the FBI, who hope to be agents some day, conduct the tours. They give prepared remarks at each stop and answer questions.

William H. Stapleton, who supervises the tour, said it is becoming one of the most popular attractions in Washington. About 50 to 60 per cent of the visitors are grammar, high school or college students on trips to the capital city.

Youngsters under 10 years old get the biggest kick out of the firing demonstration by weapons instructors from the FBI academy at Quantico, Va.

"We try to give them empty shell casings as mementoes, and a shot-up target is a real prize," Stapleton said.

A typical family of four from Bay Village, Ohio, recently took the FBI tour and came away describing it as "wonderful."

John S. McGuire, a paint salesman for the Glidden Co., brought his wife Marilyn and two children, Timothy, 6, and Colleen, 5, to the Justice Department.

"Where's the electric chair?" asked Colleen.

Timothy was excited about the weapons display but glum over the fact that he did not get a souvenir shell casing. The elder McGuires said they were far more interested than they expected to be.

HOLLYWOOD WOES GROW

Dynamic Movie Producer Jerry Wald Is Dead At 49

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jerry Wald — the prototype of the dynamic, idea-sparking movie producer — is dead, at 49, adding to the colossal woes of one of Hollywood's biggest and most troubled studios.

A heart attack killed Wald Friday night at his home. He had had two previous attacks in the past two days. His death, nevertheless, struck the film capital with shock and surprise.

At 20th Century-Fox there was open consternation. Wald was the studio's most prolific producer, sometimes turning out half the company's annual product. Many of his films were big moneymakers.

The studio, smarting over the multi-million-dollar failure of the abortive Marilyn Monroe film, "Something's Got to Give," and its $30-million investment in Elizabeth Taylor's "Cleopatra," will have a hard time finding someone able to match Wald's tremendous output.

Said Spyros Skouras, president of 20th Century: "His passing leaves a void in the 20th Century-Fox production ranks which will be almost impossible to fill."

Wald's 63 movies included "Johnny Belinda," "Humoresque," "Mildred Pierce," and "Peyton Place." He had one film ready for release, Hemingway's "Adventures of a Young Man," and another, "A Woman in July," starring Joanne Woodward, in production.

Wald was a columnist for the New York Graphic when studio owner Jack L. Warner brought him to Hollywood, as a writer, in 1936.

He soon showed a voracity for work which quickly catapulted him into the production side of moviemaking.

His story conferences were famous on the studio lots. He wasn't the desk-pounding, authoritative, whip-cracking type. He showed ideas, bouncing them off his writers and directors with machine-gun swiftness, acting out parts and dictating snatches of dialogue to always-nearby secretaries. He could sell his ideas, even unpopular ones, by sheer force of personality.

Once his films were under way he dogged every step of their production, visiting the sets daily, starting work at 6:30 in the morning, often laboring until far into the evening hours.

In his leisure time—what there was of it—he read omnivorously, often finding ideas for plots or scenes which he would save for years, filing them away in extensive filing cabinets.

When death came his wife, Constance, and son, Andrew, 15, were at his side. Another son, Robert, 18, was in Tahiti.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday in the Church of the Recessional, Forest Lawn. Clifford Odets will write the eulogy. Raymond Massey will read it. Scores of Hollywood's top names are expected to attend.

Four Persons Injured Here In Accidents

Traffic accidents kept local law enforcement agencies busy Saturday when a total of three accidents occurred involving four injuries.

A 74-year-old Monroe man suffered cuts and abrasions when he apparently walked into a Missouri Pacific train around 7:25 p.m. Saturday at the MOP and Apple Street crossing.

Monroe police identified him as George W. Bell of 1603 Ninth St. They said Bell could not hear nor see very well, and apparently was wandering down the railroad track when the incident occurred.

He was struck by a train engineered by G. H. Curry, of Route Two, Pineville. The train was headed south on the tracks. No charges were made in the incident.

Later in the day, a six-months old baby, Sherry Dianne Wood, of 501 North Fifth St., West Monroe, suffered bruises when the car in which she was riding was involved in a crash at Louisville Avenue near the AL and M railroad tracks.

The baby was a passenger in a car driven by her aunt, Brenda Diane Wood, 15, of the same West Monroe address. Miss Wood was traveling east on Louisville and ran into the rear of a vehicle driven east by William L. Wills, 43, of 104 Curve Dr., Monroe. He was stopped, waiting for traffic.

Officers ticketed Miss Wood, who suffered a laceration of the lip, with following too close in traffic.

Around 6:20 p.m., state troopers investigated a three-car collision on U. S. Highway 80 just outside West Monroe that left two injured.

Richard Green, 15, Route Four, Box 154-D, West Monroe, and a passenger in his car, Phillip Miller, Route four, Box 405, West Monroe, were both rushed to St. Francis hospital by Kilpatrick ambulance for treatment.

Young Miller, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Miller, suffered numerous lacerations and bruises on the face and head when he crashed into the windshield of the car.

Green suffered bruises. According to state troopers, Green was traveling west on U. S. Highway 80 behind a car driven by Earl D. Powell, 109 Fairlane Dr., West Monroe. Powell was stopped in the traffic lane, giving a signal for a left hand turn, according to witnesses.

Green smashed into the rear of Powell's car, knocking it into the path of an oncoming vehicle operated by 72-year-old William L. Jones, 300 Erin St., Monroe. Jones was traveling east on the highway, and Powell's car struck the left front portion of Jones' vehicle, then skidded off the highway.

Meanwhile, Monroe police were investigating a burglary of a store room that netted the thief or thieves a quantity of sporting goods. Carl Kinney, 1801 Emerson St., reported to police that his store room door had been forced and the following items taken: a 32-caliber automatic pistol, two fishing rods, one reel, two dip nets, two boat paddles and other minor fishing gear.

Kinney explained the incident happened sometime during the past week while he and his family were away on vacation.

Parish Youths To Attend 4-H Short Course

A delegation of 26 4-H Club boys and girls will represent Ouachita Parish at the annual 4-H Short Course on the Louisiana State University campus at Baton Rouge, Monday, July 16th through Wednesday, July 18th, according to Donna M. Moore, Associate Home Demonstration Agent, and J. Floyd Kent, Associate County Agent.

The Ouachita Parish club members will join approximately 1,800 othes from throughout the state in Short Course contests and other activities. The purpose of the contests, according to the agents, is to permit the 4-H boys and girls to demonstrate what they have learned from their 4-H projects during the past year. At stake will be trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago this fall and other valuable award.

UNEXPECTED DIVIDEND

FBI Tours Help To Nab Fugitives

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A pretty young nurse on her honeymoon stared hard at a black-and-white photograph for several minutes before declaring firmly: "That's the man."

Her words led to the arrest and conviction of one of the FBI's "10 most wanted"—a sex killer now serving a double life term for the rape-murder of a St. Paul, Minn., social worker.

The bride, Mrs. Harold L. Carlson of St. Paul, proved to be an unexpected dividend from the FBI's 25-year-old program for guiding tourists through its exhibit room, laboratory and firing range.

She was one of hundreds of persons who toured the FBI last Oct. 13 and were routinely shown the mug shots of the 10 leading federal fugitives.

To her surprise—and the FBI's delight—she spotted a neighbor's familiar face. It was that of Hugh Bion Morse, wanted for assault to commit murder in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Carlson informed special agents that he was living under an assumed name in a St. Paul rooming house. Morse, arrested a few hours later when word of his hideout was flashed to Minnesota, bragged about committing several murders.

That long distance identification was one of the most dramatic episodes since the FBI began taking visitors on tours in 1937.

An estimated 6 million persons have completed the tour since then. The 425,000 who visited FBI headquarters last year added up to a record high. Officials estimate that 50,000 visitors showed up in the two weeks before and after Easter.

They got to see FBI technicians at work in the world's leading crime detection laboratory and FBI sharpshooters blast silhouette targets with sub-machine guns and .38 revolvers. Vivid exhibits recall the gangsters of the 1930's, the Rosenberg spy case, the Brinks' robbery and the 1955 dynamiting of an airliner over Colorado by John Gilbert Graham.

A selected group of about 90 young men in clerical jobs with the FBI, who hope to be agents some day, conduct the tours. They give prepared remarks at each stop and answer questions.

William H. Stapleton, who supervises the tour, said it is becoming one of the most popular attractions in Washington. About 50 to 60 per cent of the visitors are grammar, high school or college students on trips to the capital city.

Youngsters under 10 years old get the biggest kick out of the firing demonstration by weapons instructors from the FBI academy at Quantico, Va.

"We try to give them empty shell casings as mementoes, and a shot-up target is a real prize," Stapleton said.

A typical family of four from Bay Village, Ohio, recently took the FBI tour and came away describing it as "wonderful."

John S. McGuire, a paint salesman for the Glidden Co., brought his wife Marilyn and two children, Timothy, 6, and Colleen, 5, to the Justice Department.

"Where's the electric chair?" asked Colleen.

Timothy was excited about the weapons display but glum over the fact that he did not get a souvenir shell casing. The elder McGuires said they were far more interested than they expected to be.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jerry Wald — the prototype of the dynamic, idea-sparking movie producer — is dead, at 49, adding to the colossal woes of one of Hollywood's biggest and most troubled studios.

A heart attack killed Wald Friday night at his home. He had had two previous attacks in the past two days. His death, nevertheless, struck the film capital with shock and surprise.

At 20th Century-Fox there was open consternation. Wald was the studio's most prolific producer, sometimes turning out half the company's annual product. Many of his films were big moneymakers.

The studio, smarting over the multi-million-dollar failure of the abortive Marilyn Monroe film, "Something's Got to Give," and its $30-million investment in Elizabeth Taylor's "Cleopatra," will have a hard time finding someone able to match Wald's tremendous output.

Said Spyros Skouras, president of 20th Century: "His passing leaves a void in the 20th Century-Fox production ranks which will be almost impossible to fill."

Wald's 63 movies included "Johnny Belinda," "Humoresque," "Mildred Pierce," and "Peyton Place." He had one film ready for release, Hemingway's "Adventures of a Young Man," and another, "A Woman in July," starring Joanne Woodward, in production.

Wald was a columnist for the New York Graphic when studio owner Jack L. Warner brought him to Hollywood, as a writer, in 1935.

He soon showed a voracity for work which quickly catapulted him into the production side of moviemaking.

His story conferences were famous on the studio lots. He wasn't the desk-pounding, authoritative, whip-cracking type. He showed ideas, bouncing them off his writers and directors with machine-gun swiftness, acting out parts and dictating snatches of dialogue to always-nearby secretaries. He could sell his ideas, even unpopular ones, by sheer force of personality.

Once his films were under way he dogged every step of their production, visiting the sets daily, starting work at 6:30 in the morning, often laboring until far into the evening hours.

In his leisure time—what there was of it—he read omnivorously, often finding ideas for plots or scenes which he would save for years, filing them away in extensive filing cabinets.

When death came his wife, Constance, and son, Andrew, 15, were at his side. Another son, Robert, 18, was in Tahiti.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday in the Church of the Recessional, Forest Lawn. Clifford Odets will write the eulogy. Raymond Massey will read it. Scores of Hollywood's top names are expected to attend.

Four Persons Injured Here In Accidents

Traffic accidents kept local law enforcement agencies busy Saturday when a total of three accidents occurred involving four injuries.

A 74-year-old Monroe man suffered cuts and abrasions when he apparently walked into a Missouri Pacific train around 7:25 p.m. Saturday at the MOP and Apple Street crossing.

Monroe police identified him as George W. Bell of 1603 Ninth St. They said Bell could not hear nor see very well, and apparently was wandering down the railroad track when the incident occurred.

He was struck by a train engineered by G. H. Curry, of Route Two, Pineville. The train was headed south on the tracks. No charges were made in the incident.

Later in the day, a six-months old baby, Sherry Dianne Wood, of 501 North Fifth St., West Monroe, suffered bruises when the car in which she was riding was involved in a crash at Louisville Avenue near the AL and M railroad tracks.

The baby was a passenger in a car driven by her aunt, Brenda Diane Wood, 15, of the same West Monroe address. Miss Wood was traveling east on Louisville and ran into the rear of a vehicle driven east by William L. Wills, 43, of 104 Curve Dr., Monroe. He was stopped, waiting for traffic.

Officers ticketed Miss Wood, who suffered a laceration of the lip, with following too close in traffic.

Around 6:20 p.m., state troopers investigated a three-car collision on U. S. Highway 80 just outside West Monroe that left two injured.

Richard Green, 15, Route Four, Box 154-D, West Monroe, and a passenger in his car, Phillip Miller, Route four, Box 405, West Monroe, were both rushed to St. Francis hospital by Kilpatrick ambulance for treatment.

Young Miller, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Miller, suffered numerous lacerations and bruises on the face and head when he crashed into the windshield of the car.

Green suffered bruises. According to state troopers, Green was traveling west on U. S. Highway 80 behind a car driven by Earl D. Powell, 109 Fairlane Dr., West Monroe. Powell was stopped in the traffic lane, giving a signal for a left hand turn, according to witnesses.

Green smashed into the rear of Powell's car, knocking it into the path of an oncoming vehicle operated by 72-year-old William L. Jones, 300 Erin St., Monroe. Jones was traveling east on the highway, and Powell's car struck the left front portion of Jones' vehicle, then skidded off the highway.

Meanwhile, Monroe police were investigating a burglary of a store room that netted the thief or thieves a quantity of sporting goods. Carl Kinney, 1801 Emerson St., reported to police that his store room door had been forced and the following items taken: a 32-caliber automatic pistol, two fishing rods, one reel, two dip nets, two boat paddles and other minor fishing gear.

Kinney explained the incident happened sometime during the past week while he and his family were away on vacation.

SNUB IS OVER

PARIS (AP) — Maurice Dejean, French ambassador to Moscow, will return to his post shortly, thus ending a diplomatic snub connected with Algeria, informants said. Dejean was recalled to Paris when Moscow extended recognition to the Algerian nationalist regime in exile while the Algerian conflict still was going on.

80 Executives Slated To Attend LSU Program

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Eighty business executives from Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi will attend the second annual Mid-South Executive Development program at Louisiana State University July 22-Aug. 4.

About half will return to the LSU campus for their second two-week session. Others will be enrolling for the first time.

The program covers a total training period of six weeks, presented in two-week sessions for three successive summers.

The program is geared to subject matter considered critical to the decision-making responsibility of the manager.

Emphasis is placed on such problem areas as human relations, policy formulation and administration, functioning of the economic system (including the specific matters of growth and stabilization), labor relations, oral and written communications, psychology, and tax planning.

Jointly sponsored by the LSU College of Business Administration and the General Extension Division, the executive program was begun in 1961 after several years of planning and development.

It was organized to fill a recurring need for advanced executive training in this area of the nation. No comparable training is provided in the five state areas of Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama.

Adams Well Is Completed By Company

JACKSON, Mss. (AP) — J C. Trahan Drilling Contractor, Inc., has completed an Adams County wildcat, the Winston No. 1, sec. 46-8n-2w, as the discovery well of the Pine Mount Field.

The well was completed from a sand in the Wilcox formation at 5,772-73 feet. It flowed 81 barrels of 40 gravity oil per day.

In Franklin County, Lyle Cashion Xo. has abandoned a wildcat, the Temple No. 1, sec. 2-6n-4e, after unsuccessful attempts to repair parted production casing.

Operators were preparing to test the commercial worth of a lower Tuscaloosa oil sand logged at 10,522-34 feet and had run casing to 11,000 feet when it stuck and parted at 1,400 feet.

Cashion has moved the drilling rig 100 feet east and began drilling on the Temple No. 2, sec. 2-6n-4e.

Chismor Co. continued to test a Wayne County Wildcat, the Wausau No. 1, sec. 28-8n-9w, with little information being released. A report indicated that a sand at 11,184-98 feet tested 324 barrels of oil per day. A second zone at 10,908-30 feet reported tested at 336 barrels per day.

The well is 15 miles west of Waynesboro and four miles north of the Thompson Creek oil field.

In Pike County, Meyer and Meyer were testing the Fernwood Industries-Busby Unit No. 1, sec. 21-4n-8e, on pump. Reports indicated 200 barrels of oil per day were pumped from perforations at 10,714-18 feet.

Orleans Man Dies In Crash; Five Injured

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A 47-year-old New Orleans man, taking his family to New Mexico for a vacation, was killed Saturday and five other persons injured in a two-car collision 20 miles south of Shreveport.

The dead man was identified as Nicholas DiMaggio. He was dead on arrival at a Shreveport sanitarium.

Hs wife Shirley and her sister, Mrs. James Puig, were termed in serious condition at the Schumpert Sanitarium. The dead man's brother, Anthony DiMaggio and his wife Yvonne, were not considered seriously injured.

State police filed a negligent complaint against the driver of the other car, H. S. Morgan, 54, of Coushatta, La. Morgan said he was blinded by the lights of the oncoming DiMaggio car and crossed over the highway's center line, striking the DiMaggio car almost headon.

Morgan's car tumbled down an embankment and came to rest in a ditch. He escaped with cuts and bruises.

Churchill Gets British Cabinet Shakeup News

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill studied in his hospital bed Saturday news of Britain's latest political shakeup. His wife said his views on it are secret.

Lady Churchill spent an hour with Churchill in the private room at Middlesex Hospital where the 87-year-old former prime minister's broken thigh is knitting. "I think he is looking better," she said.

Asked if Churchill had heard of Friday's big Cabinet reshuffle, Lady Churchill replied "Yes he has. He has read all the papers."

Asked what he thought about the changes, Lady Churchill replied, "I think that is confidential, don't you?"

Doctors reported Sir Winston spent a comfortable night.

When his personal physician, Lord Moran, left the hospital at noon he told newsmen, "All is well, this is just the usual routine visit."

Republicans' Unity Sought By Goldwater

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., appealed to a Conservative rally Saturday to support Republican nominees, whatever their philosophy.

"Forget your personal disagreements and work for the Republican candidate," he said.

Goldwater, chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee, addressed a luncheon session of a political action conference sponsored by Human Events, a conservative Washington news letter.

He said the GOP could win control of the House next Nov. 6 and that if it did every House committee would be under the chairmanship of a conservative Republican. But he said he wanted to see the house composed of a majority of Republicans and "I don't care what their philosophy is."

If Conservatives disagree with the beliefs of some GOP nominees, he added, they can try to persuade them to change after the elections.

A questioner in the audience asked about Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N. Y., in the liberal wing of the GOP. Goldwater replied that he would vote for Javits as the Republican nominee, even though he disagrees with him, and that he had given the same answer when asked if he would vote for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Republicans' Unity Sought By Goldwater

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., appealed to a Conservative rally Saturday to support Republican nominees, whatever their philosophy.

"Forget your personal disagreements and work for the Republican candidate," he said.

Goldwater, chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee, addressed a luncheon session of a political action conference sponsored by Human Events, a conservative Washington news letter.

He said the GOP could win control of the House next Nov. 6 and that if it did every House committee would be under the chairmanship of a conservative Republican. But he said he wanted to see the house composed of a majority of Republicans and "I don't care what their philosophy is."

If Conservatives disagree with the beliefs of some GOP nominees, he added, they can try to persuade them to change after the elections.

A questioner in the audience asked about Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N. Y., in the liberal wing of the GOP. Goldwater replied that he would vote for Javits as the Republican nominee, even though he disagrees with him, and that he had given the same answer when asked if he would vote for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Argentina Awaits 'Czar'

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina's economic czar leaves for Washington next week on a mission that could decide the fate of President Jose Maria Guido's regime.

Alvaro Alsogaray, minister of economy, hopes to get U.S. government and private financial backing for his austerity-tinged program. Should he return empty handed, he fears, the government may fall to another military coup.

Itself a product of a military coup that overthrew President Arturo Frondizi last March, Guido's government decreed Friday night the end of its own life. It announced elections for a new consitutional administration will be held next May or June.

Bolstered by this political plan, Alsogaray will fly to Washington Wednesday for talks with U.S. government and private sources on his program to pull Argentina out of the worst economic crisis in recent years.

The major stumbling block, Alsogaray believes, will be encountered with authorities of the Alliance for Progress. He wants the alliance to underwrite major public works projects already under way.

The minister fears the alliance will want a whole new program of projects. But he feels he needs U.S. help at once to drain off some of the enormous commitments that plunge the government's budget deeper and deeper into the red.

If the alliance would finance part of these projects that help curtail unemployment, Alsogaray could use current government revenue to pay off mounting public debts.

The government is two months behind in meeting the payroll for many public employes. Employes retaliate with walkout and slowdown strikes that harass government-run enterprises.

Should Communists and followers of ex-President Juan D. Peron try to make capital of popular unrest, the military might step in again.

Alsogaray has outlined his course of action to key U.S. business executives whose companies have millions of dollars invested in Argentina. The government owes these companies millions of dollars because it cannot pay for services rendered.

But with their cooperation, and a boost from the administration of President Kennedy, Alsogaray has told the business executives he can achieve economic stability in Argentina by the end of August. If he fails, Alsogaray has warned these investors, he will have to quit, and the whole house may come tumbling down.

COMPANIES MERGE

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Skaggs Leasing Co. of Salt Lake City, Utah, has merged with Personal Property Leasing Co. of Hollywood. Theodore C. McClurg, president of the Hollywood firm which takes over the Utah company upon completion of legal formalities, said the agreement called for exchange of one share of Personal Property Leasing for 3½ shares of Skaggs' common stock

Mayor Hits Government On Disorder

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—The mayor of this racially troubled city accused a Justice Department attorney Saturday of aiding and abetting Negroes "in fomenting disorder."

Mayor Asa D. Kelley Jr., said at a news conference that federal attorney Gordon A. Martin Jr., "is collaborating and conspiring with the leaders of the Albany Movement and the outside agitators."

In a telegram to U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the mayor said Martin, supposedly assigned to study the racial problem, "is planning strategy to violate city ordinances and seeking to disrupt the peace."

"I strongly urge you to order Mr. Martin and all others under your jurisdiction who may be advocating the violation of our laws to leave Albany instantly," Kelley wired Kennedy.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Nicholas DeB Katzenbach telephoned Kelley and said Martin denied the accusations.

Kelley quoted Katzenbach as promising to use his influence to get Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Rev. Ralph Abernathy and the Rev. Wyatt T. Walker out of Albany.

"He said he would be happy to see them leave because he realized the tense situation," Kelley said.

Kelley told the federal official that arrangements could be made in keeping with the city policy for refund of cash bonds to Negroes arrested last December.

During the conversation, the mayor told Katzenbach that he had received reliable information that Martin had encouraged Negroes to attend mass meetings, arranged for their transportation and conferred in an advisory capacity with one of the Negro attorneys.

Kelley said, "One officer wanted to arrest him as an imposter because he hadn't officially made know his presence here."

The mayor's charge was made as this southern Georgia city braced itself for possible renewed demonstrations by Negroes under the rallying influence of King

Goldwater, Case Ask Tax Slashes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Republican senators of often opposing viewpoints called Saturday for tax reductions to lift the economy.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who lists himself as a liberal, said "I think a tax cut ought to be made and ought to be made now."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a spokesman for party conservatives, plugged for a much larger depreciation allowance than the Kennedy administration has granted to modernize plants. Goldwater said this is needed to "bring our economy up to the rate of growth which it must maintain if we are to successfully compete in the world market."

The administration gave business a $1.5-billion tax cut earlier in the week by liberalizing allowances for depreciation of machinery and equipment. But President Kennedy has deferred until later any decision on a corporate and individual income tax cut.

Case said on a taped television program he thinks the Republicans should take up as a campaign cry former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's contention that the Kennedy administration is floundering.

"We heard during the 1960 presidential campaign great cries and calls for leadership," Case said. "I don't think that the people feel, and I think they are right, that that kind of leadership that they had expected as a result of the election has been forthcoming.

"We are not in good shape as far as the domestic economy goes, the unemployment rate is alarmingly high, long-term unemployment continues in a stubborn, persistent way. The economy has not lifted itself to the levels that it can operate on, and leadership here is required.

"Just for example, as one specific, the President has discussed, but he hasn't made up his mind about a tax cut. Now I think a tax cut ought to be made and ought to be made now. And that the rates should be adjusted so that the tax structure doesn't continue to act as a brake upon our economy, as it has in the past."

Goldwater, filling in for Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., in a weekly report to constituents, said he thinks the economic situation rests on whether Kennedy is determined "to see to it that American business can compete with foreign markets and can grow internally."

What is needed, Goldwater said, is a depreciation allowance that will spur the replacement of about $100 billion in obsolete factory machinery.

Discussing the House-approved foreign trade bill, Goldwater said he thinks the concept of the European Common Market is good.

Argentina Awaits 'Czar'

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina's economic czar leaves for Washington next week on a mission that could decide the fate of President Jose Maria Guido's regime.

Alvaro Alsogaray, minister of economy, hopes to get U.S. government and private financial backing for his austerity-tinged program. Should he return empty handed, he fears, the government may fall to another military coup.

Itself a product of a military coup that overthrew President Arturo Frondizi last March, Guido's government decreed Friday night the end of its own life. It announced elections for a new consitutional administration will be held next May or June.

Bolstered by this political plan, Alsogaray will fly to Washington Wednesday for talks with U.S. government and private sources on his program to pull Argentina out of the worst economic crisis in recent years.

The major stumbling block, Alsogaray believes, will be encountered with authorities of the Alliance for Progress. He wants the alliance to underwrite major public works projects already under way.

The minister fears the alliance will want a whole new program of projects. But he feels he needs U.S. help at once to drain off some of the enormous commitments that plunge the government's budget deeper and deeper into the red.

If the alliance would finance part of these projects that help curtail unemployment, Alsogaray could use current government revenue to pay off mounting public debts.

The government is two months behind in meeting the payroll for many public employes. Employes retaliate with walkout and slowdown strikes that harass government-run enterprises.

Should Communists and followers of ex-President Juan D. Peron try to make capital of popular unrest, the military might step in again.

Alsogaray has outlined his course of action to key U.S. business executives whose companies have millions of dollars invested in Argentina. The government owes these companies millions of dollars because it cannot pay for services rendered.

But with their cooperation, and a boost from the administration of President Kennedy, Alsogaray has told the business executives he can achieve economic stability in Argentina by the end of August. If he fails, Alsogaray has warned these investors, he will have to quit, and the whole house may come tumbling down.

COMPANIES MERGE

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Skaggs Leasing Co. of Salt Lake City, Utah, has merged with Personal Property Leasing Co. of Hollywood. Theodore C. McClurg, president of the Hollywood firm which takes over the Utah company upon completion of legal formalities, said the agreement called for exchange of one share of Personal Property Leasing for 3½ shares of Skaggs' common stock.

Mayor Hits Government On Disorder

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—The mayor of this racially troubled city accused a Justice Department attorney Saturday of aiding and abetting Negroes "in fomenting disorder."

Mayor Asa D. Kelley Jr., said at a news conference that federal attorney Gordon A. Martin Jr., "is collaborating and conspiring with the leaders of the Albany Movement and the outside agitators."

In a telegram to U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the mayor said Martin, supposedly assigned to study the racial problem, "is planning strategy to violate city ordinances and seeking to disrupt the peace."

"I strongly urge you to order Mr. Martin and all others under your jurisdiction who may be advocating the violation of our laws to leave Albany instantly," Kelley wired Kennedy.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach telephoned Kelley and said Martin denied the accusations.

Kelley quoted Katzenbach as promising to use his influence to get Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Rev. Ralph Abernathy and the Rev. Wyatt T. Walker out of Albany.

"He said he would be happy to see them leave because he realized the tense situation," Kelley said.

Kelley told the federal official that arrangements could be made in keeping with the city policy for refund of cash bonds to Negroes arrested last December.

During the conversation, the mayor told Katzenbach that he had received reliable information that Martin had encouraged Negroes to attend mass meetings, arranged for their transportation and conferred in an advisory capacity with one of the Negro attorneys.

Kelley said, "One officer wanted to arrest him as an imposter because he hadn't officially made know his presence here."

The mayor's charge was made as this southern Georgia city braced itself for possible renewed demonstrations by Negroes under the rallying influence of King.

Goldwater, Case Ask Tax Slashes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Republican senators of often opposing viewpoints called Saturday for tax reductions to lift the economy.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who lists himself as a liberal, said "I think a tax cut ought to be made and ought to be made now."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a spokesman for party conservatives, plugged for a much larger depreciation allowance than the Kennedy administration has granted to modernize plants. Goldwater said this is needed to "bring our economy up to the rate of growth which it must maintain if we are to successfully compete in the world market."

The administration gave business a $1.5-billion tax cut earlier in the week by liberalizing allowances for depreciation of machinery and equipment. But President Kennedy has deferred until later any decision on a corporate and individual income tax cut.

Case said on a taped television program he thinks the Republicans should take up as a campaign cry former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's contention that the Kennedy administration is floundering.

"We heard during the 1960 presidential campaign great cries and calls for leadership," Case said. "I don't think that the people feel, and I think they are right, that that kind of leadership that they had expected as a result of the election has been forthcoming.

"We are not in good shape as far as the domestic economy goes, the unemployment rate is alarmingly high, long-term unemployment continues in a stubborn, persistent way. The economy has not lifted itself to the levels that it can operate on, and leadership here is required.

"Just for example, as one specific, the President has discussed, but he hasn't made up his mind about a tax cut. Now I think a tax cut ought to be made and ought to be made now. And that the rates should be adjusted so that the tax structure doesn't continue to act as a brake upon our economy, as it has in the past."

Goldwater, filling in for Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., in a weekly report to constituents, said he thinks the economic situation rests on whether Kennedy is determined "to see to it that American business can compete with foreign markets and can grow internally."

What is needed, Goldwater said, is a depreciation allowance that will spur the replacement of about $100 billion in obsolete factory machinery.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

All women wear slips. But sometimes the tops wear out first. There is no need to discard the slip. I cut the worn part off and make a hem at the waistline, then thread elastic through and have a new half-slip.

Whole slips are so beautiful, but usually expensive, so this is quite a saving in my budget.

Also, Heloise, for those who have older slips which are longer than today's styles . . . they are the best kind to cut in half because you can get two garments out of one!

Naturally, as short as today's dresses are, the waistline can be cut lower down on the garment. SAVE that upper half to wear with thin blouses and under sweaters. Just use your pinking shears to cut the waist, and no hemming is necessary as it will not ravel.

By making your own camisole from an old slip . . . you will have no telltale line that will show through your skirts or slacks when it is cut with pinking shears. And they can be tinted different colors with the new packaged dyes we use today. You needn't use an entire package of dye for these small garments. A small portion will suffice.

I found how to use these old slips when I cleaned out my dresser drawer and found six slips that I was saving for the day when dresses would get longer.

It dawned on me . . . why should I wait . . . dresses seem to be getting shorter and shorter. I couldn't bear to throw them away, so I cut them in two and now I not only have clean dresser drawers, but new slips too.

These camisoles are great for working girls who wear skirts that are already lined. There is no need to wear two slips: just wear the upper half.

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's the way to get rid of silverfish that is recommended by the United States Testing Bureau. And it works!

Use a small cheese glass with one-half inch of flour in the bottom. Put a strip of adhesive tape up the outside and over the top for a half inch. The fish will crawl up the outside on the tape and drop inside the glass and will not be able to get out. These traps set in several spots in the house will help very much.

—Bonnie Chance

DEAR HELOISE:

My husband smokes a pipe. Invariably he puts the pipe in his shirt pocket and this causes tobacco stains, which I have found nearly impossible to remove.

The most fascinating workable solution is to use plain dime store rubbing alcohol. And by golly, it works!

—Tobacco Wife

DEAR HELOISE:

For the "spring" in the rear of our knitted suits: wring out a large, heavy bath towel in warm water and lay your suit skirt over it; put another heavy bath towel (dry) on top of the skirt, and in the morning the skirt will have no "spring."

The steam from the warm towel is just enough to shrink the stretched threads.

A nice way to do this is to use your ironing board which has been covered with waxed paper. Prevents the board from absorbing any dampness.

—Mrs. Robert Williams

DEAR HELOISE:

Husband got a pair of old suspenders? They make wonderful fasteners for baby's crib sheet and blankets.

Put the suspender itself under the mattress and bring the clasps to the edge of the bed to hold the covers. They can be easily removed when dressing or changing baby or the bed.

—Mother Suspender

DEAR HELOISE:

After I wallpaper a room, I write on a wall (behind a picture) the amount of wallpaper and border it took to do the job. Also the date.

Next time the room needs papering . . . I know exactly how much to purchase.

—Reader

DEAR HELOISE:

I would like to tell you a proven method of removing ink from carpets. This method will not leave a ring.

Apply dry salt immediately. As the salt becomes discolored, brush it off and apply fresh salt. Continue until the ink spot has disappeared. Then sponge the spot with fresh milk. Wipe off and repeat spongings until the spot has disappeared. Remove any milk oils with cleaning fluid.

Sprinkle with cornmeal and leave overnight. Sweep off in the morning.

—Kathleen Brownlee

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who are unfortunate enough to get paper stuck to the surface of a piece of furniture: did you know that you could put some vegetable oil on the stuck paper, leave it awhile, and it would come right off without damaging the furniture?

It will!

—Sissy Landers

DEAR HELOISE:

Nothing disgusts me more than to buy a pretty candlewick bedspread and have it look like a pile of knots after it's washed.

I found that I could hang it across the line in a hard wind with the tufties (this is the knotty side) together. All the little knots will rub together and as they buff against each other, they will fluff themselves!

I also learned that I could put the spread on the floor and sweep it with a broom after it dried, and this would fluff the knots up even more.

—Mrs. J. Hendrix

NO CHARGE!

For those who can't afford toys for their tots . . . give them soft kitchen gadgets to play with. Plastic measuring cups, spoons, squeeze bottles, funnels, etc.

A child loves colors and doesn't care if the gadgets are inexpensive—not at this age anyway.
